But Navy Search Fails to Turn Up Any 'Evidence'

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—A U.S. Navy boarding party scrambled aboard a Russian fishing trawler in the North Atlantic Thursday to check whether the vessel had damaged this country's multi-million dollar transAtlantic cable network.

The captain of the U.S. ship, the destroyer Roy O. Hale, reported later that his men found no evidence the vessel was bent on anything "other than fishing." But his report left open the question of whether the ship had damaged the cables by accident.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, U.S. Atlantic Fleet commander noted in this connection that the Soviet trawler, the 1,670-ton Novorossisk, had been operating in the vicinity of the damaged cables.

Other Navy officials said the question of accidental damage would be determined only after the destroyer captain's full report reaches Washington. If culpable negligence were found, the U.S. could ask Russia to punish the Soviet crew.

Adm. Wright said the U.S. boarding party found the master of the Soviet vessel to be "friendly and cooperative."

The trawler was about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland, when the boarding occurred.

A defense spokesman, supplementing Wright's statement, said there were 54 men and women on the Soviet ship. He said one spoke English but that conversations between the U.S. sailors and the Russian crew were conducted in French.

The operation was carried out under an 1884 treaty to which Czarist Russia was a party and which has been recognized by the Soviet Union as recently as 1926.

Adm. Wright said the destroyer's skipper, Lt. Cmdr. E. J. Korte, reported that the boarding party found the Soviet vessel was equipped for deepsea fishing and that all its papers were in order.

The unusual action was ordered after the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Western Union reported that breaks had occurred in five cables along the course in which the Soviet ship has been operating.

All the breaks were within a 50-mile area at the edge of the continental shelf, about 195 miles east of Newfoundland, in about 1,000 feet of water, the companies said.

The department said the first report of damage to the cables was received last Saturday. By Wednesday four other reports had been received of additional cables being damaged or put out of service.

Offhand, there appeared to be no military advantage that would result from wilful breaking of the cables in peacetime. They carry commercial messages for the large part.

Hottest February

Tourist Crush Crowds Nixon Out of Villa

By GENE MILLER and JOHN MORTON

Herald Staff Writers

Richard Milhous Nixon, like thousands of other Gold Coast tourists, learned Thursday that wise travelers make reservations in advance.

The swank Key Biscayne Hotel had no room for the vice president of the U.S. when he arrived unexpectedly. So the hotel converted a second floor conference-dining room to a bedroom suite for Nixon and his 10-year-old daughter, Julie.

Moral: South Florida's do-or-die season, enjoying the hottest February in history, is finally paying off.

AIRLINES

UNEMPLOYMENT

Some top hotels have no vacant rooms. The beach is packed. Restaurant lines are long. Drive-it-yourself rental cars are hard to find.

Thus, Nixon's emergency lodgings in a hotel which usually has a villa waiting for the vice president whenever he's here.

Nixon and Julie who is recovering from an eye infection, came unannounced, leaving Mrs. Nixon and daughter Patricia behind.

Only a year ago goosebumped South Florida hotelmen were crying frozen tears.

But if this February stays warm just two more days, the month will go down as the warmest on record.

Specifically:

Average Temp.	74.5	60

And with the sun, Miami Beach's fears of a 1958-like bankruptcy rash have bleached.

Hotel business is up strong, airlines are hauling in more customers, and the car rental business is going great.

Not everyone, of course, has banished all thoughts of the poorhouse forever. But the key indicators show the 1959 season is generally far ahead of 1958 and within shouting distance of the lush 1957 days.

One clothier came up with a neat left-handed comment.

"More people are here than ever before. But the weather's too nice for shopping."

A Herald reporter telephoned 16 hotels and motels and asked for accommodations for two for Saturday through Tuesday.

Four — the Eden Roc, Fontainebleau, Diplomat and Deauville — politely said no soap, we're full.

The Americana, Carillon, Montmarte, Delano, Driftwood, Golden Gate, Dunes, Castaways, Thunderbird, Tangiers, Saxony and the Delano said they could oblige.

"The pressure is off temporarily," said Delano Owner John Goldberg. "We didn't have a room to sell last week and we probably won't again next week.

Meter 'Poacher' Fined $5

John Druce, 47, of 1730 NW 92nd St., parked at a Miami meter which had eight minutes remaining on its dial. He walked away without putting in a nickel.

Then, he said Thursday, a mounted policeman hailed him and wrote out a $5 traffic ticket. He paid the fine.

What Druce did was what other Miamians do every day — use free time left on a parking meter.

The fine print in the city's traffic ordinances says you can't sneak in for free meter time. But it's not often enforced.

Traffic fines bureau officials said no more than 10 "free parking" tickets have been written in the last two years.

The free-park "crime" is covered in the phrase which makes it illegal to "stop, stand on or park" until a coin has been deposited.

Former Legislator Convicted

E. B. Jones Guilty Of Bribery Offer

BARTOW — (AP) — A criminal court jury Thursday night convicted former state legislator E. B. (Shorty) Jones of attempting to bribe Sheriff Hagan Parrish to permit a bolita syndicate to operate in Polk County.

JONES

The six-man jury reached its verdict after deliberating one hour and 20 minutes.

The stocky, wavy haired defendant wept and embraced his wife when the verdict was announced. His 13-year-old son broke into uncontrollable sobs and had to be helped from the court room.

Jones, after receiving the verdict, said he had nothing to say.

Defense Attorney Ellis Rubin asked for a poll of the jury. This was done and the verdict was affirmed.

Rubin then served notice he would seek a new trial. Judge Roy Amidon gave the attorney until March 9 to file formal papers. He set March 16 for a hearing on the motion. The judge deferred sentencing.

The jury received the case after three days of testimony. It deliberated 20 minutes, then returned to the courtroom and asked that portions of the testimony be read from the record.

This testimony concerned statements by Attorney J. Hardin Petersen Jr., about a meeting Jones had with Parrish and Petersen in Bartow, March 22, 1957.

Ths six jurors then returned to continue deliberating. They reached their verdict an hour later.

The defendant could receive up to five years in prison.

Jones denied from the witness stand that he offered the sheriff a bribe.

Army Fires Big Jupiter

CAPE CANAVERAL — (AP) — A powerful Jupiter missile, the key rocket in the upcoming Army moon probe and two other major U.S. space ventures, thundered aloft early today on the start of a full-range test flight.

It was the 14th launching of the 60-foot missile which plays a triple role as a war weapon, moon rocket and a probable early test vehicle for the man-in-space program called project Mercury.

The fiery Jupiter performance was a preview of the pioneer moon lauching expected this weekend. The five-stage Juno II vehicle for the space trip stood poised in an adjacent army tower several hundred yards away.

As far as was known, Friday's Jupiter launching was not as spectacular as the Dec. 13 shot which carried a monkey named Gordo on a blazing, 1,500-mile space flight only to become lost later in ocean depths.

The military announced there was nothing alive aboard this rocket.

The latest Jupiter waited out a six and one-half hour heavy downpour at the cape before flashing aloft at 12:49 A.M.

Dulles Huddles With Aides On Mounting Berlin Crisis

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT

The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — A rising sense of danger of war over Berlin was accented Thursday by a conference of top State Department officials at Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' bedside.

Dulles called Acting Secretary Christian Herter, Assistant Secretary Livingston Merchant and Deputy Undersecretary Robert Murphy to Walter Reed Hospital for an hour's talk.

Officially, the State Department issued no details of their conference. But privately officials left no doubt that the secretary and others in the department were now frankly and grimly studying the possibility that the Berlin crisis might lead to war.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev's violent denunciation of the Western proposals for a four-power foreign ministers conference was the immediate cause of their concern.

"Clearly, this is a test of nerves," a high-ranking State Department official said Thursday night. "We hope, in fact we believe, that the Russians will turn aside before they reach the brink of war over access to Berlin. We dare not ourselves shrink back."

Other officials gave this description of the Western position:

1—We are following two parallel lines, an attempt to avoid any miscalculation by the Russians as to the West's will to fight for its rights in Berlin, and an attempt to find a basis for negotiations.

2—The Western dilemma is that the mutual Western and Soviet effort to prevent "miscalculation" could entrench both sides so deeply in public positions that negotiation would be impossible.

3—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Moscow appears to have helped impress the Russians with Western determination to stand fast in Berlin. But he has failed to uncover any area for negotiation.

Macmillan and Khrushchev wound up their talks in Moscow Thursday in an atmosphere of bitter chill. The British visitor warned Khrushchev of grave danger if anyone interferes with the Western powers' rights in Berlin.

"But Khrushchev is not budging an inch," a British spokesman said, and "Macmillan is not budging an inch either. Make of that what you will."

Before flying to Kiev for a visit to the Ukraine, Macmillan told Khrushchev that interference in Berlin "would lead to a dangerous situation," the spokesman said.

A Western attempt to find a way out of its dilemma will be led by the "working group" of U.S., British, French and West German officials who will meet in Paris March 9. Earlier this month they met in Washington to draft the Western rejection of the Soviet Union's proposal for a 27-nation peace conference with the two Germanys.

According to diplomatic informants, the working group will consider French and British suggestions for a formal joint statement by the Western Big Three on their position in Berlin.

At this point State Department officials minimize the value of such a statement. They consider that President Eisenhower's news conference statement this week should leave the Russians in no doubt. The British Foreign Office had urged that the President speak forcefully as a means

Cuba Asks Extradition Of Eight

HAVANA — (AP) — Cuba formally asked the Dominican Republic Thursday to arrest eight high officials of the ousted Fulgencio Batista regime now in exile in that Caribbean country.

Cuba demanded their extradition on charges of robbery and misuse of public funds.

Cuba has already requested — thus far in vain — the extradition of Batista, who also is in exile in the Dominican Republic.

A note from Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte to Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican ambassador to Cuba, said the fully documented charges to supplement the request would be forthcoming in 60 days, as required under an extradition agreement between the two countries.

Ten ex-Batista soldiers were excuted Thursday, bringing to 343 the unofficial total shot by revolutionary firing squads after conviction on war crimes charges.

They were executed at Matanzas, Holguin and Pinar del Rio.

Carnation Vs. Rose

Senate's Debaters Battle Over Flowers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate debated Thursday whether the carnation or the rose should be designated as the national flower.

Sen. Gordon Allott (R., Colo.) said that while the rose is beautiful and looks good in a vase, the carnation can be worn by men because of "its ruggedness, its fertility, its virility, its courage."

Sen. Keneth B. Keating (R., N.Y.), a champion of the rose, retorted that "any flower looks better on a woman than in any other surroundings."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican floor leader, put in a calming word:

"English history records the war of the roses between the House of York and the House of Lancaster. I hope, after this long interlude, the war of the roses will not be resumed."

Medical History of a Child Ignored by Parents

Life Too Painful, Boy Became a Machine

CHICAGO — (AP) — Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed at night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran through the day and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "bam." The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancied machinery idle or broken down:

"For long periods of time . . . he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation . . . We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his "calamity could befall a child in any time and culture but our own."

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents. He gave this account:

The parents didn't mistreat Joey but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or non-eating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was nine years old. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Joey reverted to a partially human stage — but as an infant. He made drawings showing himself inside an auto with a group he named the Carr family. He was still inclosed, but was with others and could move around. Still later he pictured himself driving the car.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Miami Friends Ask the Question

Did Abner Longie Zwillman Hang Self as Only Way Out?

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

Did Abner (Longie) Zwillman hang himself in his 20-room West Orange, N. J., mansion to keep from appearing before the Senate racket probe?

Miamians who heard that he had committed suicide Thursday recalled his many trips here in the late 1940s, believe that is the answer. The Senate group now is going into coin-machine rackets and protection. Zwillman headed a company handling cigaret vending machines.

One of his partners recently was questioned about Zwillman before the Senate group.

Zwillman was a familiar figure around Miami Beach for a time, but Daniel P. Sullivan, operating director of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami, doesn't believe he actually "operated here." His friends included Jack Friedlander, once credited with being the "Mr. Big" of Dade County gambling. Friedlander now has migrated to Havana gambling.

He was also a buddy of Nicky Delmore, who put a lot of his racket money in a big real estate enterprise at Fort Pierce, until The Herald identified him to his new neighbors there. Then he moved out.

Abner Zwillman
. . . he was depressed

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmen in New Jersey the 54-year-old prohibition era figure had been depressed since a Senate Rackets Committee began delving into the coin-machine industry.

Zwillman owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., which handled cigaret machines.

His wife, Mary, whose finishing school background contrasted with Zwillman's early life in Newark's slums, found the body in a basement storage room at their fashionable home.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide. He said Zwillman used a plastic-covered clothesline.

The rope was attached to a beam eight feet from the floor. Zwillman's knees were slightly buckled and his toes almost touched the floor.

Although linked with the rackets by various law enforcement agencies and officials for years, Zwillman served only a single prison sentence — six months for assault and battery in 1928.

Only last week a grand jury indicted several persons in connection with alleged bribing of jurors on the deadlocked panel that tried Zwillman for income tax evasion in 1956. He was accused of evading the payment of $38,911 in income taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Steinbach said Zwillman's moodiness took a particularly serious turn when Jerry Catena of South Orange, a partner in the Runyon Vending Machine Co., was called before the McClellan Committee recently and was asked a series of questions about Zwillman.

After the Catena appearance, Steinbach said, the normally gregarious Zwillman wouldn't talk to anyone for long periods. The stepson also said there had been indications Zwillman was ready to sell out his cigaret vending company.

Zwillman was particularly unhappy, Steinbach said, about any embarrassment publicity would cause his wife and daughter, Lynn.

This boarding conceivable could stir up serious new trouble with Russia.

Experts said the most frequent cause of damage to cables in the area is from the boards used by trawlers to keep their nets open as they are dragged along the bottom to scoop up fish.

The Defense Department did not say who actually ordered the boarding, taken under a treaty known as "the convention for the protection of submarine cables of 1884."

Answer Cleveland Charges

Speed Trap Denied By Georgia Officials

LUDOWICI, Ga. — (UPI) — Officials of Ludowici and Long County hotly denied Thursday allegations of a Cleveland Auto Club that speed traps, including a quick-changing traffic light, are operated in their areas.

Ludowici City Attorney Ralph L. Dawson, called charges by Harold T. Cantlin, manager of the Cleveland club "untrue."

Long County Sheriff W. M. Jones admitted that "we occasionally do operate speed devices" but added that not many tourists have been arrested in his county on speed charges.

The verbal tiff was touched off when the Cleveland Auto Club announced adoption of a "shun Eastern Georgia" policy because of the increasing number of arrests of Florida-bound motorists in speed traps.

Cantlin said some 12,000 members who ask each year for routings to Florida will be sent via a bypass route. The new route was not announced for fear that deputy sheriffs will learn of it and shift their speed trap activities.

He said members are warned of the "high enforcement area" in the 50-mile section of U. S. Route 301 from Sylvania, Ga., south to the Florida line at Folkston, Ga.

Strike Closes Ohio Papers

COLUMBUS, Ohio — (UPI) — Pressmen went on strike Thursday night against three Columbus newspapers.

Robert W. Erwin, business manager of the morning Ohio State Journal, acting as spokesman for the three newspapers, said members of the Columbus Web Pressmen's Union walked out at The Columbus Dispatch, The Columbus Citizen, and Ohio State Journal, forcing them to suspend operations.

"Negotiations for a new contract were broken off Wednesday evening by the union scale committee when it abruptly rejected every offer the publishers had made during the contract meetings which began last Dec. 10," Irwin said.

Hawaiian Bill Gains And Stalls

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee pushed Hawaiian statehood a giant step forward Thursday, but a nearly-identical proposal before a House committee marked time in a quagmire of words.

The Senate territories subcommittee approved a bill to make Hawaii the 50th state. Subcommittee Chairman Henry L. Jackson (D., Wash.), said he hopes the full Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee will approve it Tuesday.

The Senate bill was modeled after legislation given its first hearing by the traditionally anti-statehood House Rules Committee Thursday. The House bill, already cleared by the Interior and Insular Committee, got nowhere in the rules group.

Jackson said the Senate bill was made to jibe with the House version purposely to speed its chances of passage. Statehood supporters are aiming at approval of their bills before the congressional Easter recess next month.

The signal that statehood would get a thorough going-over by the House rules group came when Chairman Howard W. Smith (D., Va.), announced he has "grave doubts" about the proposal and wants to be "fully informed" on the subject.

There followed two hours of discussion about nearly every subject except the bill itself.

However, statehood supporters were given a chance to reply to charges that a new state of Hawaii would be dominated by Communists. Smith called further hearings for Tuesday.

'You Can't Spank Me, So--Boo!'

ALBANY, N.Y. — (AP) — Teachers are subjected to heckling, catcalls and boos — even in an all-girl school — because the pupils are immune from spankings in school, a 16-year-old girl reports.

Susan Stalcup, a junior at Julia Richman High School, in New York City, says that is the situation in her school. Despite objections of some adults, she wants teachers given the right to use corporal punishment.

She testified at a state legislative hearing.

New York state law authorizes teachers to use moderate force in disciplining pupils, but local school boards may restrict that privilege. A New York City regulation bars all corporal punishment. A bill before the Legislature would forbid localities to make such rules.

of backing up Macmillan in Moscow.

In other developments Thursday a handful of senators, speaking in an almost empty Senate chamber, expressed alarm and concern over the Berlin crisis.

Five Democrats and one Republican gave their views on what should be done to meet a situation they agreed was filled with the possibility of war and destruction for all mankind.

A scattering of tourists and a few reporters listened.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D., Conn.) touched off the discussion with a charge that if war broke out over Berlin, it would be the result of a "deliberate calculated strategem of Red agression."

He said this country should embark on an urgent 90-day program to prepare the American people, the economy and the national defenses for a possible outbreak of war.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, agreed that Soviet policies were "wrong and unwise," but cautioned against "getting into a habit of thought that there can never be changes in the Soviet regime."

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.) renewed his earlier appeals that the U.N. be brought into the Berlin crisis and said that East and West Germans should get together and try to unify the "municipal services" of that city.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) applauded Dodd's assertion that the U.S. should not abandon its position of moral principle in Berlin.

Sen. Gale McGee, another Wyoming Democrat, said the position of the U.S. was "fundamentally right and strong," and added that this country should "always stand ready to capitalize on any opening offered by change in Russia, when it occurs."

Sen. Thruson B. Morton (R., Ky.) said Dodd's speech would "help prevent miscalculation" by the Russians as to the "will, intent and determination of the people and government of this country."

But the thing to remember is that occupancy is running 70, 80 and 90 per cent — at top prices.

Sixty tickets, it seems, disappeared and turned up at scalper's prices at a nearby motel.

Up-to-the-week figures from some airlines show this February has already flown past its well-cooled counterpart last year.

Reported Delta: In-bound passengers in February, 1958, 11,832. In-bound this year with four days uncounted, 12,145.

Reported Pan American: February, 1958, 24,988. Twenty days this February showed 20,000.

National said its in-bound load was up 12 per cent.

Eastern estimates business is up "10 per cent or so" this month and figures to boost its 180 in-and-out flights a day to 200 this March.

Northeast Airline claimed its flying-in trade was up a hefty 54 per cent over last February.

The car renters came up with the most glowing words.

Examples:

Olin's: "We've had nothing available for two weeks. We are 53 per cent over last year."

Crouch: "Nothing since last Saturday. We are accepting only on a pot-luck basis."

Hertz: "Nothing whatsoever on a day-to-day basis for the last two weeks."

Tolls on the Sunshine State Parkway were $392,768 in January from $364,436 a year ago. Florida Turnpike Authority Chairman Thomas B. Manuel said, "We're doing even better in February."

While visitors played, a record number of Dade Countians were working the first month of this year. Some 302,000 were on the employment rolls compared with 297,650 last year and 289,250 in 1957. There were 23,000 unemployed this year compared with 16,900 in 1958 and 11,700 in 1957.

At the Beach, any skilled hotel worker can get a job, one employment agency reported. Unemployment among other levels of the beach economy is "practically nil," according to Joe Staton, partner in Miami Beach Employment Service.

Phone Tied, 2 Children Die in Fire

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. — (AP) — Two children perished in a trailer fire Thursday while their aunt tried to summon aid on a party telephone line which she said was tied up by another user.

Chief Donald Ryan, of the Middletown Fire Department, identified the youngsters as Tina Marie Hensel, three, and Walter M. Hensel.

Ryan said the youngsters died when an oil stove exploded in the family trailer.

The youngsters' aunt, Mrs. Robert Porterfield, who lives nearby, attempted to rescue the children. She brought the baby outside, where he succumbed to burns.

Ryan said Mrs. Porterfield told him she attempted to call firemen after making her rescue attempt, but that someone on the party line refused to yield the circuit despite her pleas.

Mrs. Hensel had left the trailer temporarily and returned to find it in flames. She was taken to a hospital for treatment of shock.

DEARBORN, Mich. — (AP) — The Teamsters Union has made its first move in the Detroit area in a drive to organize millions of the nation's municipal workers.

The union's target is the suburban city of Dearborn. Teamsters Local 299 announced it would demand bargaining rights for 300 employes of the city.

Police and firemen are not among the workers the Teamsters are trying to organize. The union is restricting its drive to Dearborn's public works and sanitation departments employes.

Local 299 is Teamsters President James R. Hoffa's home local.

National Summary

Most of the northeast retained a dry weather pattern today and high pressure over northern Georgia ended the rains temporarily over portions of the southeast. But a low pressure circulation off the Carolina Coast maintained a few patches of rain from South Carolina to the southern Virginia coast. Temperatures: mid 30s under sunny skies over much of New England ranging to the mid 80s in Florida.

Sunny skies stretched from the central Appalachians into the central plains with temperatures warming into the 50s before mid day. But moisture spreading inland from the western Gulf of Mexico contributed rains over much of Texas with quarter inch hail accompanying a thunderstorm over midland Texas. Rain and snow fell over portions of Illinois and southern Michigan with snow over parts of Wisconsin and northern Michigan.

Most of the southwest remained sunny. Rain lingered over Washington state. A cold front across the northern Rockies and trailing westward into Oregon marked the advance of Pacific air spreading a few patches of snow across the Rockies with rain and snow reaching the Dakotas.

Lenten Prayer for Today

Assailed by Doubt, Luther Asked: 'Fill, My Lord, This Empty Vessel'

By JIM BISHOP

Go With God

Faith is a loan. Giving it is the only thing that man can do for God, as opposed to all of the things which God can do for man. Some men do not have the faith to give. These are the truly poor of the earth. They want to believe, but they cannot.

The men who split the atom had not seen it, but they had faith that it was there. No one has seen electrical current run along a wire, but we have faith that it does because we have seen an incandescent bulb light at the end of the wire. Faith in God is a gift of grace. It cannot be bought, bartered, or begged.

You will go far to find more moving words than Peter Marshall's: "Father, I have lost the feeling of Thy presence. Yet deep in my heart I know that it is not because Thou didst leave me, but because I have wandered from Thee."

Martin Luther, the great religious reformer, was assailed by doubt and, in his fear, he murmured to God:

Behold, Lord, an empty vessel that needs to be filled. My Lord, fill it. I am weak in the faith; strengthen Thou me. I am cold in love; warm me and make me fervent that my love may go out to my neighbor. I do not have a strong and firm faith; at times I doubt and am unable to trust Thee altogether. O Lord, help me. Strengthen my faith and trust in Thee. In Thee I have sealed the treasures of all I have. I am poor; Thou art rich and didst come to be merciful to the poor. I am a sinner; Thou art upright. With me there is an abundance of sin; in Thee is the fullness of righteousness. Therefore, I will remain with Thee of whom I can receive, but to whom I may not give. Amen.

—MARTIN LUTHER

65 Soon, But--

Retire? Not Meany

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — (AP) — George Meany has informed fellow AFL-CIO chiefs, it was learned, that although he will soon become 65 years of age he has no intention of retiring as federation president.

Meany let this drop at the closing session of the AFL-CIO Executive Council's winter meeting. Meany will become 65 next August just ahead of the federation's scheduled San Francisco convention in September when officers come up for election.

It is permissible but not mandatory for top AFL-CIO officers to retire on reaching age 65.

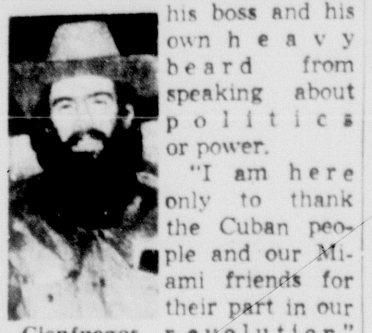
Cuban Army Staff Chief Gets Royal Greeting Here

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

The new Cuban army's chief-of-staff, Maj. Camilio Cienfuegos, paid a goodwill visit to Miami Thursday, muzzled by his boss and his own heavy beard from speaking about politics or power.



Cienfuegos

"I am here only to thank the Cuban people and our Miami friends for their part in our revolution," Cienfuegos said.

"I can say nothing about politics, our relations with your wonderful country or what I plan to do with the armed forces of Cuba," he added.

The "no comment" orders came from Fidel Castro, Ceinfuegos' boss since the two, with 10 other men, survived the first rebel landing in Oriente Province two years ago.

Quiet and unassuming as compared with the fiery Castro, Cienfuegos keeps a tight rein on his own men and expects all Cubans to have the discipline of his troops.

When two girls from the crowd of 100 to 150 persons meeting him at the airport grabbed his arms and danced alongside, Cienfuegos turned to one and in a low voice said, "Don't make fools of yourselves."

Thursday night the chief-of-staff addressed a rally at Circulo Cubana, a Cuban club. He and his party spent the night at the Colonial Hotel and are to leave for Havana sometime today.

Police were summoned on two occasions Thursday night to control Cuban demonstrators who noisely greeted Cienfuegos at Miami International Airport, and later at the Colonial Hotel.

Police also were dispatched to check on a five-block impromptu parade on West Flagler St. from 22nd to 17th Aves.

Miami is the third city the goodwill tour has visited. It received a rousing welcome in the Latin colonies of New York and Washington. A similar "team" of rebels is touring Central and South American countries.

Young Demo Meeting Set

The Young Democratic Club's Fourth District convention opens at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the DiLido Hotel, Miami Beach.

The Dade County legislative delegation, Reps. W. C. (Cliff) Herrell, George Hollahan and Dave Eldredge and Sen. Joe Eaton, plus Monroe County's Rep. Bernie Papy, will outline legislative goals for the upcoming Legislature.

Sen. Verle Pope, longtime legislator from St. Augustine, will address the group during the afternoon session. Pope, whose name is mentioned in discussions of future gubernatorial races, was formerly Senate floor leader.

Circuit Judge Robert L. Floyd will moderate a panel discussion on proposed legislative action, followed by a question and answer period.

Stephen P. Ross, vice president of the Dade Young Democratic group, is convention chairman.

Pope Portrait Bid Is Refused

MILWAUKEE —(AP)— A Milwaukee painter, who terms the portrait he made 30 years ago of the present Pope John "a masterpiece of perfect workmanship," announced he had turned down a firm bid of $250,000 for the work.

Congress Has A Bad Case of Nepotism

Payroll In The Family

PUBLIC OPINION, we think, has been deeply stirred by fresh disclosures of nepotism in Congress.

Half a dozen congressmen have their wives on their office payrolls at salaries from $4,000 to $13,000 a year.

Another, to whom we referred yesterday, hired his school-going son at $11,800 a year.

But this is only a part of the iceberg—the one that shows. With $40,000 in office expenses to disburse, some members of Congress have other relatives on the payroll; it's hard to expose this aspect of nepotism when the family names don't match.

And, possibly, there's more to come.

The House Administration Committee has approved a bill enabling each member of Congress to hire an additional staff assistant at $14,162 a year. Although the bill prohibits dual office-holding, it is silent on the relatives racket.

NO ONE begrudges an able legislator all the administrative help he needs to do an effective job in a highly complex system of government. The average congressman is heartily hag-ridden by many of his constituents demanding favors and services. His mail would break the back of any single postman. His calls can jam the switchboard. In effect the able congressman is the busiest of business executives — at the business of government.

But a hiring hall for wives and relations should not be one of his responsibilities.

There, the public wants the line drawn.

And it seems to us that Congress itself drew that line only last year when it adopted a Federal Code of Ethics proposed by Florida's Rep. Charles E. Bennett.

Point 5 of this code provides that a congressman will > Never discriminate unfairly by the dispensing of special favors or privileges to anyone, whether for remuneration or not; and never accept, for himself or his family, favors or benefits under circumstance which might be construed by reasonable persons as influencing the performance of his governmental duties.

This is aimed at so-called "influence peddling," but the language is broad enough to embrace nepotism. Surely the hiring of a wife or relative who is no more than a hanger-on down at the office is a "favor" and a "benefit" which offends the public conscience.

True enough, nepotism is an ancient avocation of politicians, and some congressmen have been guilty of it repeatedly over the years.

But precedent does not protect the practitioner for a pursuit that is patently amoral and unethical.

Dust off the Code of Ethics, gentlemen, and read it responsively before voting to pad the payroll once again!

Footnote

For Pen Pals

THE telephone rang.

The voice said: "I'm a small manufacturer. I don't like some things going on in Washington — for instance, the do-nothing attitude about Hoffa.

"Write my congressman? Yes. But I think I'm like a lot of other people. We hesitate to write because we don't know where to send a letter."

It's simple. Any congressman may be reached merely by addressing your letter to House Office Building, Washington, D.C. Or any senator: Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.

If you voted, you know your congressman's name. The four from South Florida are:

Rep. Dante B. Fascell
Rep. Paul G. Rogers
Rep. James Andrew Haley
Rep. A. Sydney Herlong Jr.

The two senators are:

Sen. Spessard L. Holland
Sen. George A. Smathers

A Land Swap Rounds It Out

THE PARTNERSHIP which created the Everglades National Park at the tip of Florida made another good deal this week.

One partner is the people of this state, through their Legislature and state officials. The other is the federal government, through Congress and the National Park Service.

They exchanged deeds in Tallahassee Wednesday to consummate a land swap rounding out the park's final boundaries. Seventy thousand acres of state-owned mangrove coast near the town of Everglades were put into the park. Taken out and returned to the state were 52,500 acres of mainland.

In addition, the park was given 30,000 acres donated by the Collier family.

With that settled, development of the park for fullest enjoyment by Floridians and the nation should go forward rapidly.

EVEN as it stands, the park drew 443,-263 visitors last year. The number will pass the half-million mark this year, and keep on growing. Much remains to be done for these pilgrims to the only subtropical area in the national park system.

For example, the park's most beautiful natural land area is inaccessible now except by boat. This is Cape Sable, with its palm-fringed beaches of sand and shell, its wealth of birds and other wildlife.

An old road running the 10 miles from Flamingo to Cape Sable could be improved at small cost, opening a prime attraction to motorists.

By other modest investments the park service could do much to let the public see more wonders of the Everglades.

FLORIDA'S people have a double stake in the development of their national park. They contributed $2 million cash and a vast acreage of state-owned land and water to the park. Every visitor drawn to it is an asset to the state's No. 1 industry, tourism.

The Everglades National Park is unlike any other in the world. All who come to Florida to see it are entitled to a far better view than they can get now.

It's Our Story, So Let's Tell It

AN AIRLINE executive has given the businessmen of Florida's Gold Coast something to chew over. As he put it to all of us, it's simply this:

We might as well face the fact that the bright flow of tourist dollars that has nourished and sustained us all these years will not continue of its own accord. We've got to go after them against increasingly tough competition.

The warning was sounded by W. L. Morrisette Jr., vice president of Eastern Air Lines, to a group including Metro and city officials, business and civic leaders. This area has about a billion dollars invested in tourism and must attract some two million persons — twice the permanent population — here every year to keep ahead of the sheriff.

But — and it's a big but — the Miami area is in a world-wide struggle for the tourist dollar. In New York, which supplies us with about 40 per cent of our business, 31 nations maintain high-powered tourist commissions to push their own wares. Eight of them sell the Caribbean and Latin-American area which is our direct competitor.

Mr. Morrisette proposed a united front by governments, trade organizations, hotel-motel and other tourist-oriented groups to tell the area story — with an initial budget of $250,000. We have plenty to sell, he said, and have nothing to fear if we set about making our pitch.

If we don't, we may wake up some morning and find the tourist has departed for other climes — and we won't be able to blame the weather.

Indoctrination In Understanding

THREE HIGH-RANKING Miami police officials are in Puerto Rico this week on an unusual mission. They are studying at first hand the manners, morals and customs of the Commonwealth within the United States. The unusual reason is that Metropolitan Dade County is the sixth largest Puerto Rican "city," having more citizens of Puerto Rican birth than any but the five largest municipalities on the island.

Greater Miami has 30,000 of these island-born Americans among the 85,000 persons of Latin extraction who call this home. It brings about difficulties because of differences in language and background. There have been complaints of overcrowding in slum areas, exploitation, inept handling of police cases and bad conditions in migrant labor camps.

The Puerto Rican government itself called the "seminar" for police officials of American cities having large numbers of migrants. Miami rated high and its delegation includes Assistant Police Chief J. A. Youell, Inspector Paul Denham, head of the traffic division, and Patrol Captain Oren Caudell.

THE INDOCTRINATION of the Miamians is certain to result in better relations with the Puerto Rican colony. As Dr. Clarence Senior, chief of the Commonwealth's migration service pointed out, the islanders are peace-loving and industrious at home and tend to get in trouble in the United States only because of unfamiliarity with the customs of a highly-industrialized society.

We are as much concerned about this as the Puerto Rican government. The Dade County Council on Community Relations recently presented a six-point program to get a better deal for the newcomers, including strong state legislation to improve health and working conditions. We should go about implementing these proposals.

The very fact that the problem exists here in such magnitude emphasizes our strong Latin-American ties. The way in which the problem is resolved will be watched by all our neighbors to the South.

The Feminine Touch For Rio

IT IS NOW official that the United States will be represented in a key Western Hemispheric diplomatic post by a woman.

As envoy to Brazil, Mrs. Clare Booth Luce will have an assignment calling for high diplomatic skill. That country is plagued with the common Latin American ailment — inflation — to a serious degree. This is complicated by feelings ruffled over criticism — in some North American financial circles that Brazil has failed to take the stringent steps necessary for economic housekeeping.

Mrs. Luce proved during her service as ambassador to Italy, that she has ability and charm. A little feminine tact may be just the thing needed by the United States in the most populous South American nation. It's good to know Mrs. Luce will soon be flying down to Rio.

Voice Of The People

Well Men Didn't Do So Well

Editor The Herald: In John Knight's "Editor's Notebook" he quoted Joseph Alsop's answer to the question of Western leaders' regard for the illness of John Foster Dulles as a major tragedy today, although Alsop appears to give fitting reply to Knight's objections to Mr. Dulles' policies as "inflexible" and "didactic."

However, Knight continued criticism of Secretary Dulles by quotations from Britain's Lord Clement Attlee and The Manchester Guardian that "no incapacitated man should lead a government."

Responsibility for the sad state of American foreign policy rests mainly upon the errors of his two predecessors in office. General Marshall, hailed by his chief as "greatest living American," was so unrealistic that he demanded the Chinese Nationalist government admit Communists, with usual result. Dean Acheson decreed that the U.S. "let Chiang Kai-shek fall, but not appear to have been pushed," . . . "waiting for the dust to settle" while our ally was driven to the sea and a disastrous police action occurred in Korea.

Both these men were in full physical and mental power. Up to now, has Mr. Dulles failed to measure fully to the vigor of his two predecessors? Is there any indication that Mr. Dulles will not be the first to insist upon his own replacement if he is unable longer to carry the heavy responsibilities of his office?

In the same connection, where does the quoted Manchester Guardian find evidence that "his appointment (Herter's) would continue the reign of sick men which has debilitated American foreign policy over the past several years?"

A presently sick man, but one aware of the Communist menace and courageous in dealing with it, has already done much to repair the mistakes of his two eminently healthy predecessors. Let him continue as long as he is able.

What Will Be Future Look?

Editor The Herald: When it's added up, what will we look like? They want to change the Stephen Foster songs. They want to take children's books out of the library.

Now, at a writers' workshop, we are told that fiction writing is dwindling out of the magazines; it's mostly non-fiction.

Professions are falling behind to make room for scientists.

When it's all added up, what will we look like?

Lease Stadium To Oklahoma

Editor The Herald: Re: Jim Burns column about the latest bit in the Oklahoma vs. Orange Bowl Committee hassle.

It could be that $182,000 is just pocket change to them. Maybe we should lease the Bowl to the Sooners, let them invite their own opponent, and let them take a chance on the profit.

Maybe Bowl games are entering the first phase of their waning days, anyway. Why not invite eight teams, letting each pair play one quarter of the game?

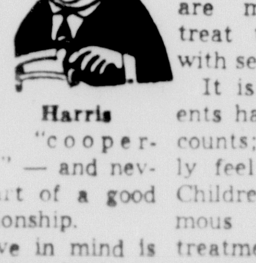
Basic Trust: A Child's Need

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

IN ALL THE lengthy, heated (and generally futile) discussions I have ever heard about child-rearing, there is one phrase that rarely gets mentioned — although I think it is perhaps the most essential.



Harris

Parents and educators and child guidance experts can go on for days threshing around such weighty topics as "discipline," "permissiveness," "cooperation," "authority" — and never reach the heart of a good parent-child relationship.

The term I have in mind is "basic trust." If the child has basic trust, the different strategies and techniques of child-rearing don't matter very much; they are just superficial items of style and temperament.

All the children I have seen who were "difficult" — to use the broadest possible term that covers a multitude of problems — lacked a basic trust, first in their parents, and secondly, in the world at large.

They are, at bottom, fearful and resentful. They feel that something has been denied them (without knowing what), and that something will be taken away from them (again, without knowing what). They are miserable whether you treat them with kindness or with severity.

It is not so much how parents handle their children that counts; it is how they genuinely feel toward their children. Children can stand an enormous amount of improper treatment, so long as they can sense good vibrations from their parents; and no amount of "correct technique" can help if the parents' unconscious feelings are unstable or inconsistent.

This is why I am impatient and more than a little contemptuous toward those books and courses that aim at teaching the "skills" of child-rearing. The true skills cannot be taught, for the child does not respond to what he hears on the rational level, but only to what he grasps on the emotional level.

* * *

A WOMAN who unconsciously rejects her femininity, who resents motherhood, or who tries to get those satisfactions from her children that she should be getting from her husband—such a woman could take 20 years of "child psychology" and be no better a parent. Maybe worse.

It is not child psychology we need so much, as adult psychology. We subject the child to an intense scrutiny when in most cases it is the parents who need an X-ray into the secret places of their hearts. When a child lacks basic trust, why should he listen to an alien voice?

Attacks On Metro Are In The Cards

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

"WHO," ASKED MY VISITOR, "is going to speak for the people when the Legislature convenes in April?"

He continued: "I know that our senator and representatives are expected to do so, and I am sure they will try.

"But Tallahassee, in the case of Dade County, is 500 miles away. You would be surprised how far that is and how remote Dade County becomes after a few days in the hurly-burly of a legislative session.

Pennekamp

"Interests seeking special favors have gauged the situation accurately.

"So they will be represented by lobbyists who keep their eyes and their efforts on one thing—what they are up there to accomplish.

* * *

"THEY'RE ADROIT, too," he added.

"They have a faculty, for instance, of impressing legislators with their slogan:

" 'We are helpful folk. We do work for the members which they won't and can't have the time to do — research work and such. Legislation would be hampered, less intelligent except for the voluntary fact-finding we do.'

"All of which has a considerable element of truth. The exception is that (1) when conscientiously done it places the legislators under obligation to the lobbyist and (2) when it involves the lobbyist's interest, the emphasis on the facts may not be objectively applied."

* * *

MY VISITOR was particularly concerned with what might happen to Home Rule in Dade County.

He was aware that it was set up by constitutional amendment in a state-wide vote, and so may be preserved against the invasion of statutes designed to wreck it.

"But," he continued, "that doesn't stand in the way of a sustained effort to knock it out. Each effort means litigation, which in turn brings further delay and the always present danger of something coming unstuck."

* * *

HE CALLED attention to the recent meeting of the Florida League of Municipalities in Jacksonville where opposition to Metro as approved for Dade County was outspoken.

"No more of that," was the theme.

The Dade County League of Municipalities under the banner of which the continuing fight against Metro is carried on is a sympathetic ally of the Florida League.

In Jacksonville the state organization's legislative committee was instructed to revive, revise, and push for approval of a state law providing home rule for cities.

Which comes close to the Metro amendment which the Dade County League sponsored several months ago and which the voters turned abruptly down.

Its purpose was to safeguard the prerogatives of the 26 municipalities in the county against Metro's inroads.

Other indices:

One proposal would, if an extra gasoline tax is assessed, return that portion collected in a city to that city.

Minimum housing standards "shall not impair or diminish any powers which municipalities now may have under existing laws."

As he was leaving my visitor concluded: "Dade County residents need a lobbyist in Tallahassee at this session, just to help keep the balance, about as badly as anything I can think of."

Khrushchev Dealing From Stacked Deck

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE DO NOT as yet know what caused Mr. Khrushchev to interrupt his confidential talks with Mr. Macmillan to make a public speech. But if the report is correct that what he said about Germany and European security had been written out in advance, then his speech was a calculated diplomatic move—presumably to let the world know that he is not discussing with Mr. Macmillan any serious change in the Soviet position.

Lippmann

The way Mr. Macmillan has been treated in Moscow is not a good sign. For it is extraordinary that Mr. Khrushchev did not wait until he had finished his talks with Mr. Macmillan. Why he did not wait, he alone knows. It may have been that he did not dare to let the impression grow that he was on the way to a negotiated compromise.

* * *

THIS MIGHT be due to opposition within the Kremlin, it might be due to opposition within the Communist orbit. Or, Mr. Khrushchev's calculated breach of the confidential talks with Mr. Macmillan may be due to an over-weening confidence that he is dealing from a position of superior strength.

We do not know. But Mr. Macmillan is bound to do his best to find out.

In the meantime, it is only prudent to assume that Mr. Khrushchev believes that he is in the superior position, and to ask ourselves what we can do about it.

* * *

MY OWN VIEW, is that there is in the Soviet attitude a mixture of anxiety and confidence. The ruling oligarchy is, I think, deeply anxious about the position in Eastern Germany and in Eastern Europe, once the West German army is completed and armed with nuclear weapons.

It is not because they think that West Germany can or will attack the Soviet Union. It is because they fear that an armed Western Germany will have a magnetic attraction for the underlying rebellion and resistance in Eastern Europe. The Kremlin is, therefore, under great pressure to arrive at some kind of modus vivendi in the two Germanys within the two years that remain before the West Germans are fully armed.

Along with this anxiety there is at the same time great confidence, perhaps over-confidence, that in dealing with the German question the Soviet Union now holds the stronger cards. The Soviets' hand is strong because they have the diplomatic initiative. They can create situations where — if it came to force — the onus of firing the first shot will be on the West and the actual occasion for firing will not be good enough to rally the West for a world war.

* * *

BECAUSE they have this initiative, they can exercise pressure. Unless they overplay their hand, deliver a real ultimatum and use military force to blockade Berlin, there is much reason to believe that the West will feel impelled to look further for a more negotiable position on the two Germanys, on the two Berlins, and on security arrangements in Central Europe.

The weakness of the West is that it has clung too long to its old formula for Germany and because of that it has lost the initiative. Every time the West reappraises and revises in some measure the old formula, it seems to be retreating. Thus any new idea becomes appeasement.

* * *

TO SEIZE the initiative would be to test the Soviet proposals by asking searching questions as to how in practice they would carry out their proposals. Thus for example Mr. K. says that German reunification is a problem not for the four Allies but for the two Germanys. Does he mean this? Is he willing to let the two Germanys deal with each other and is he willing to abide by the results?

If Dr. Adenauer could become willing to make a move of this kind, it would in some measure reverse the field and restore the initiative to the West.

THE PRESIDENT SAID:

U.S. Must Stay Alert For Any Negotiations

Because of interest in the issues, The Herald offers questions and answers at President Eisenhowers press conference Wednesday.

I have one short announcement this morning. When I was at Acapulco, with President Lopez Mateos, I invited him to come to the United States sometime at his convenience.

He has accepted, to come sometime in the spring; although details of dates and so on are not yet determined.

* * *

Doubts of Summit?

Q. (Marvin L. Arrowsmith, AP). Do you believe that is is worthwhile trying to negotiate with the Russians when Khrushchev informally rejects the idea of a Foreign Ministers' conference on Germany, apparently without any advance notice to Macmillan at the very time he is in Moscow for talks on such matters?

And does this development raise doubts in your mind as to whether an eventual Summit meeting would accomplish anything?

THE PRESIDENT: We have at this minute exactly the same questions to answer that we have been trying to get good answers for for a long time—even prior to the time of my coming to this Office.

Now, the obviously palpably intransigent attitude of Mr. Khrushchev is, of course, not only — it has not only been well known, but it seems really to be emphasized. And at the moment when the logical purpose of Mr. Macmillan's visit was to try to create an atmosphere in which negotiations would be possible, this development is not one that, certainly, you could call hopeful.

But, as I say, we have got to be ready, alert to opportunities to negotiate when there is any real promise of success, just as we are going to be strong, and are strong and alert in making certain that others cannot take advantage of us or divide us by any kind of threat.

* * *

Non-Aggression Pact

Q. (Merriman Smith, UPI). In this same vein there have been talks or reports from Moscow recently, talks of non-aggression pacts between Russia and certain other nations.

Do you have any reason to believe, sir, that a non-aggression pact with Soviet Russia today, without some element of control or inspection would have any more durability, validity, or value than agreements reached with Soviet Russia at Yalta, Potsdam and Geneva?

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Dulles and I have always taken this position with respect to non-aggression pacts: Everybody that is signatory to the United Nations agreement has already signed those pacts and therefore we see no need for them.

Now, on the other hand, I do not suppose we would have any great objection if there were in fact what you refer to as possibilities, practical possibilities for achieving confidence on each side that these treaties or this special treaty, rather than the general treaty, would be effectively carried out. And until you do have that kind of confidence coming out of some practical self-enforcing feature of the treaty, why then it would seem to me that they would have very little value.

* * *

Make Any Difference?

Q. (Rod MacLeish, Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.). Sir, Khrushchev seems to be trying to get a Summit conference instead of a Foreign Ministers' conference. Does this parliamentary or procedural difference change make any difference to us?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I would say this: All of you people are quite well acquainted with the constitutional difficulties that a President incurs when he goes abroad for one of these long conferences. But on top of that, there is this very great psychological reason: When the people of the United —the people of the world understand there is going to be a head of government, a head of state or a head of government Summit conference, they expect something to come out of it, and a feeling of pessimism and, in a way, hopelessness, I think would be increased if you entered such a meeting and then nothing really came out of it, as did not come—I mean, as it did, indeed, was the case at Geneva.

Now, I think it would be a very grave mistake to go to a national — I mean to a Summit conference — unless there was some kind of preparation so that you could know, the world could recognize the progress made.

* * *

Nuclear Suspension

Q. (Peter Lisagor, Miami Herald-Chicago Daily News). The Geneva talks on suspending nuclear tests have been dragging now for several months with the Russians seeming to insist upon a veto of the control system. Does the Administration see any prospects of an agreement on that issue?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, frankly, I would say that hopes are not as strong as they were in the past.

* * *

Talk to Macmillan

Q. (William H. Lawrence, New York Times). Have you made any arrangements, sir, for direct consultations with Mr. Macmillan after he has concluded his talks in Moscow?

THE PRESIDENT: No, I haven't made any definite arrangements.

* * *

Strategy in Berlin

Q. (James B. Reston, New York Times). Mr. President, would you discuss with us, sir, the strategy in Central Europe of how we defend our rights in Berlin?

THE PRESIDENT: I can say this only, this is a matter that has been under discussion and agreement, and the agreements under the several allies involved. It has been, of course, a part of the NATO discussions and decisions. I believe that the plans that they have made have never been published. So, I couldn't talk about any details. But I can say this: that so far as I know, and I am quite — so far as any bit of information has ever come to me, all of these countries stand with us in the absolute necessity of being firm and defending those rights.

I can't say anything about any definite features of a plan.

* * *

Invoking Treaty

Q. (James B. Reston). Is it proper to infer from that, sir, that you would believe if we were stopped from going into Berlin that the treaty, the NATO treaty would be invoked at that point?

THE PRESIDENT: I didn't say—no, I don't know that. I said this: I believe here only last week or maybe it was two weeks ago that so far as we were concerned, any act of actual war would ever have to be—that would have to be started, committed by someone else.

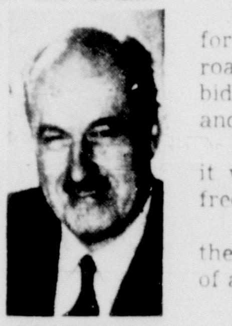
Mamie's Traveling Economy May Come to Ike for Roost

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Last year when Mrs. Eisenhower went to Elizabeth Arden's Arizona slimming ranch, the President made headlines by taking a 2,945-mile detour in the Columbine to drop his wife, her sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore, and Mrs. Ellis Slater, wife of the Seagrams distillery executive, at Phoenix.



PEARSON

This year with talk of budget balancing in the air, Ike was careful to send Mamie by train.

However, if you examine carefully the small army of secretaries, aides, bodyguards and signalmen who also went to Arizona, plus various preparations, the taxpayers will find that the reducing trip of the popular first lady will cost them several thousand.

"Operation Mamie" was commanded by Col. Robert Schultz, Ike's military aide, who deployed squads of White House functionaries, secret servicemen and local police to protect the likable lady from her admiring public.

Over two dozen men, counting those along the way, were mobilized for Mamie's personal guard.

During her two-day stopover in San Antonio, a private line to the White House was installed in her $60-a-day hotel suite, and an Army sergeant was dispatched all the way from Washington to man the switchboard.

The same convenient telephone service was provided for her in Phoenix.

* * *

THE RAILROADS got around the law, which requires them to charge 16 fares, by claiming the private cars were headed in Mamie's direction anyway.

A Southern Railway vice president, Fred Smith, "just happened" to be traveling by private car to New Orleans.

There by strange coincidence a Southern Pacific executive also "happened" to be waiting in another private car going to Phoenix.

By another strange coincidence, he "happened" to have business in San Antonio for the two days that Mamie wanted to stay there en route.

Naturally, favors of this kind usually call for reciprocal favors, which was why the railroad act was passed in the first place forbidding free transportation to congressmen and public officials.

At one time the railroad lobby got what it wanted out of Washington by handling out free passes.

And by accepting the railroads' hospitality, the first lady may find herself in the middle of a future railroad strike.

For, while she was crossing the country, the railroads called for a presidential commission to study railroad problems — a calculated maneuver to bring Ike into the threatening labor dispute.

The railroad brotherhoods were quick to note that the overtures to Ike came while Mamie was traveling in private pullman cars largely at the railroads' expense.

* * *

IKE'S ECONOMY edict for budget balancing did not apply to his goodwill trip to Mexico.

Significantly, the President ordered the government's per diem expense allowance raised from $9 to $23 a day just for the period when the White House staff was to stay in the swank hotels of Acapulco.

On Feb. 11 an order went out from Budget Director Maurice Stans "changing the maximum per diem rate for Acapulco, Mexico, from $9 to $23. This amendment shall be effective until Feb. 22, 1959, after which date the rate of $9 shall apply again."

The White House party left Acapulco to return to Washington on Feb. 21.

Almost every government official who travels must of necessity spend more than the $9 allotted for government travel. They wish they got the same special allowance Ike gave his staff at Acapulco.

Enormous Operation

School Problem: Low Teacher Pay

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE ENROLLMENT in the public schools of the United States for 1958-59 is 34,641,627 which is a large population for any purpose.

To teach the children 1,395,940 teachers will be employed, some of whom will be adequately educated for the job; others of whom will be employed without regard to education and training.

Sokolsky

The average salaries will be low, about $4,935 a year, which is less than the average for a truck driver.

The cost of maintaining this system will be about $14,000,000,000, all paid out of taxes.

(Ignore the hours of work as specious.)

This is an enormous operation and requires expert handling both on the educational and business side. Usually the educational control is delegated to a superintendent of schools who is assisted by district superintendents.

These men are generally trained in school administration and may or may not be inspired persons.

The school boards are either elected or appointed, are generally political and sometimes are of real service, but often involve themselves in the perquisites of building sites, building contracts, various forms of insurance and all sorts of other unnecessary increases in cost to the public.

* * *

THE SCHOOL BOARD as it is sometimes called, is a valuable institution when it represents parent's and taxpayers' control over the pedantry and dogmatism of the educator and when it stands between the public and grafting officials who regard schools as another source of private revenue.

When the school board fails to do that, it becomes not only useless but another governmental waste.

The number of school boards has been decreasing in the United States and where they disappear, policy is fixed by the hired help, the superintendents and their assistants of whom in the 1958-59 period there will be 13,429 in the United States.

All superintendents are professionals who are usually expected to hold college degrees up to the Ph.D.

Each school is headed by a principal who is expected to have been trained in school administration. These persons are of course, not of uniform ability or dedication.

* * *

UNFORTUNATELY, because the pay is low, teachers are hard to get and hard to keep. This leads to the employment of substitutes and temporary teachers who are not expected to be adequately educated and trained.

As respect for the teacher, from grade one to the senior year of college, is an important concomitant of education, this psychological factor may not be disregarded.

Teachers, then, to whom a job is a job and teaching a tiresome and irksome one, can do great and lasting harm to the children whom they teach.

Unfortunately, top graduates of colleges, both male and female, are so desired by private industry and even by government bureaus, that they do not consider teaching at all.

A beginner in many engineering and scientific fields can start at $10,000 a year in private industry.

Such a person usually does not go in for teaching, except in colleges and universities where his reputation as a consultant will be enhanced.

The problem that is faced then is to make teaching jobs more attractive and to cut all graft out of school systems so that there is more money for teachers.

A school system that turns out graduates who cannot calculate and cannot write their mother tongue is a failure by any measurement.

Foreign Policy Bugs Ring World for U.S.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—While Secretary of State Dulles fights cancer—and the world awaits the outcome—American problems in foreign policy ring the earth.

Dulles is able to read newspapers and magazines and, while it is no doubt comforting to him, it probably also strikes him as ironic that after all the criticism he has drawn in his six years in office, he is now being lavishly praised.

The praise ranges from mild to excessive, including the suggestion that he is indispensable.

Looked at coldly the word "indispensable" is a little less than realistic when applied to any man, even a secretary of state.

If tomorrow Dulles decided he no longer could do his job and resigned, some one would have to take his place.

And no matter how valuable a secretary has been, this country has long been accustomed to acquiring a new secretary every time a new administration takes office.

True, Dulles has so completely dominated and handled American foreign policy that no one could now just step in and take over without some hitches, strains and delays until he could master what a secretary of state needs to know.

Most of the talk so far about whether or not Dulles will continue in office, or have to retire, seems to be a conversation piece.

It may be some weeks before either Dulles or his doctors can know whether he will be able to resume his job fulltime, part-time, or not at all.

* * *

MEANWHILE, HERE ARE some of the problems that need continuing attention:

FIRST AND FOREMOST: What to do about the Russian demand that the Allies get their troops out of West Berlin and leave it a "free" city. Unless handled right, the West's whole position in Germany could crumble.

The West is bracing itself for a showdown on Berlin, perhaps around May 27. As late as this week Premier Khrushchev was being tough and unyielding, despite Allied proposals for a foreign ministers conference to talk about it.

* * *

IN THE BACKGROUND, always, is the continuing problem of how to cope with Red China's growing strength and its inevitable influence on all Asia where the United States has built up alliances which have hardly been tested yet.

America's relations with its friend, the Philippines, have deteriorated and need fixing.

Then there's the task of trying to help India, with its bursting population and extremely low living standards, to improve its economic conditions.

* * *

MOVING WEST A BIT, there is the still unsolved problem of trying to get along with President Nasser of Egypt and keep him out of the clasp of communism.

In Iraq, which had been closely tied in with the United States until a revolution destroyed both King Faisal and his regime, the Communists, and through them Russia, have steadily gained influence.

At this moment there seems a genuine puzzlement over Iraq: Whether or not it may go Communist. If it does, Russia will have gained its first indisputable foothold in the Middle East.

Such an event would call for a complete rearrangement in the thinking of the Arabs and the West. To say it would cause a convulsion in the area seems mild.

* * *

AND RIGHT NEXT DOOR is another American friend, still friendly: Iran. The task here is how to keep it friendly and help it resist Russian threats and pressure.

Behind the upcoming crisis on Berlin, of course, is the old problem for the United States and its allies of how, in a way satisfactory to them, West and East Germany can be unified.

Khrushchev brushed the Western Allies aside, saying the question of reunification couldn't even be discussed by the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

He said it's a question for the "two German states themselves."

All these enormous burdens, awaiting solution, are on the shoulders of Dulles who is 71 years old and is fighting for his life against cancer.

Poe Didn't But Gen. Lee Did

By Herald Wire Services

EDGAR ALLAN POE never borrowed a book from the West Point library while he was at the military academy.

Robert E. Lee borrowed more from the library as a cadet than any other before or since.

Lt. Gen. Gar Davidson, superintendent of the academy, recalled these bits of West Point lore at an Overseas Press Club dinner in New York.

Davidson said it has never been clear whether the poet Poe was dismissed because he

Composer Blasts 'Poisonous' Music

WILLIAM SCHUMAN, American Composer, criticized "this poison, the cheap and tawdry music with which we are being inundated daily."

"In the dentist's office, on the beach, in the hotel, in the restroom, everywhere (are) the incessant sounds of canned music," he told delegates to the Music Teachers National Association convention in Kansas City.

Schuman, president of New York's Juilliard School of Music, said "music education in the U.S. must supply an antidote. . ."

Gal He Married Was 'Too Young'

AFTER 40 YEARS of working for one company, Antonas Waitkunas, of Detroit, retired in June of 1954. He testified that his wife then issued an edict: "No work, no eat."

Waitkunas, 74, said he turned his $150-a-month pension check over to his wife, Josephine, who cashed it and gave him $10 a month. She also cut him to one meal a day and made him move into the basement of their home, he added.

"She rented my room," Waitkunas said. "I could hear her up there, entertaining a boy friend, having lunch and beer, while I was only getting one meal a day."

Circuit Judge Miles N. Culehan granted Waitkunas a divorce, commenting: "You shouldn't have married such a young girl."

Mrs. Waitkunas is 64.

SEN. HUBERT HUMPHREY (D., Minn.) has proposed that the U.S. establish a $4,800,000 "white mercy fleet" of hospital, food and cargo ships to aid foreign peoples when disaster strikes.

HUMPHREY

"We should utilize some of the non-combatant ships that we have presently in mothballs, unused, and convert them into hospital ships, and cargo ships that could be rigged up to carry food and supplies," he said in Washington.

He Charges Coercion

A man who married a girl by proxy in Italy 21 years ago has filed suit in Miami for divorce, charging coercion.

Andrea Burdi filed the suit against Mrs. Laura Burdi of Brooklyn, N.Y., whom he married by proxy from New York while she was in Bari, Italy, in January, 1938.

Burdi said in his suit that he left her in Brooklyn and she confronted him with a non-support suit sent to Dade County.

He alleges he married her because she threatened to harm his three children who were with their grandmother in Bitello, Italy.

Burdi claims Italian law would prohibit such a marriage because she was the sister of his deceased wife.

House Committee Acts

Airport Bill Cut, Then Is Approved

WASHINGTON —(UPI)— The House Commerce Committee Thursday approved a drastically-reduced 297 million dollar airport aid bill designed to undercut Republican charges of wasteful spending.

The bill still would authorize 97 million dollars more federal aid to states and localities than President Eisenhower sought. But it actually would provide less money than Eisenhower asked for the first quarter of the four-year program.

The measure also was amended to make sure none of the funds would go for what the President described as fancy passenger terminals and cocktail lounges.

It was far below the 465 million dollar aid program approved by the Senate earlier this month. The committee had to cut away 140 million dollars from the original House bill to reach its total.

The reductions came in two phases. The committee lopped off 72 million dollars last week and another 68 million Thursday before clearing the bill for House action.

Chairman Oren Harris (D., Ark.) told newsmen he expected House Democratic leaders to support the boiled-down bill. But he conceded that Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D., Okla.), sponsor of the Senate version, probably will be "unhappy."

The measure must go before the House Rules Committee, where economy-minded members of both parties hold sway, before final House action.

The rules committee also still must clear a multi-million dollar Democratic housing bill approved by the House Banking Committee Wednesday.

Republicans called the housing measure a worse "budget-buster" than the original airport measures. They claimed it would cost the government four billion dollars more than the $1,600,000,000 program recommended by the President.

The Commerce Committee's final airport bill would authorize the government to spend 63 million dollars a year for the next four years.

States and communities seeking the aid would have to match each federal dollar with one of their own.

The bill also carried a 45 million dollar discretionary fund to be used as needed during the last three years of the program.

Soviets and Allies Begin Stockpiling

VIENNA —(AP)— The Soviet Union and its allies are stockpiling medicines and strategic raw materials with the Berlin crisis and probably others in view, an Austrian newspaper said Thursday.

"The Russians and their satellites are doing the same thing they did before they started the Korean war in 1950," wrote Werner Scharndorff, a specialist on Eastern bloc affairs in a survey for the Salzburger Nachrichten.

"New Soviet adventurous schemes can be scented behind the surprisingly large Eastern stockpiling purchases in world markets in recent months. There is a great similarity between these and the major Soviet purchases of antibiotics, rubber, copper and fuel before the start of the Korean war."

Scharndorff said the Soviets spent foreign exchange freely for big orders of rubber in Indonesia, Singapore and elsewhere.

"These extraordinarily large purchases can be connected with the stiff Soviet attitude about Berlin and their consistent preparations for a new Middle Eastern crisis," he said. "They expose the hard facts the Soviet rulers seek to mask with their peace councils and youth festivals."

H-Plant Explosion In Britain Kills 2

ALDERMASTON, England —(AP)— A violent explosion rocked Britain's big H-bomb factory here Thursday, killing two men and injuring another.

Airplanes were warned to avoid the region 45 miles west of London. But they resumed flights when officials said the blast was caused by conventional explosives and there was no radioactive danger. Traffic was permitted on nearby roads.

It was the sixth incident at the nuclear weapons research base in the past four years. Britain's Atomic Energy Authority set up a board of inquiry.

Last Tuesday two employes of the U.S. Atomic Laboratory at Los Alamos, N.M., were killed in an explosion of radioactive material.

A British Atomic Energy Authority spokesman said no radioactive materials were involved or disturbed in the Aldermaston blast.

He would not identify the explosives more precisely. But he said some are used at the atomic weapons factory and research establishment, housed in a dozen brick buildings and huts scattered over a 200-acre area enclosed by a high fence.

The men killed were Laboratory Workers Terence Bishop, 29, and James Walter Mallin, 45, employes of the Atomic Energy Authority for more than five years. The injured man suffered fractures of several ribs. He is Leslie Blake, 31, an assistant foreman.

The explosion occurred as boxes of explosives were being unloaded near a building. The building caught fire, but flames were extinguished quickly.

On Latin Dictatorships

Cuba to U.S.: Revise Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP)— Cuba's new U.N. delegate said the U.S. should review its policy of dealing with Latin American dictatorships.

Ambassador Manuel Bisbe told U.N. correspondents the people of Cuba had been hurt by the arms embargo imposed by the U.S. during the recent revolution. He suggested that the U.S. government might more appropriately help democratic movements overthrow dictatorships.

In response to questions at a luncheon, the U.N. spokesman for Fidel Castro's government explained that he was not advocating U.S. armed intervention in Latin American affairs. But he said there are measures short of this by which the dictatorships could be fought.

Bisbe mentioned collective intervention as one possibility.

He declared that the ousted regime of Fulgencio Batista should never have been recognized by the U.S. He also accused the U.S. of shipping rockets to Batista after the date of the embargo.

The Castro government, he said, is prepared to fight against the remaining dictatorships in Latin America. He said that fortunately there are only three of these now, but he did not name them.

Italian Horse 50 Years Old

BRESCIA, Italy —(AP)— An old Italian war horse named Topolino celebrated his 50th birthday, equal to an age of 150 years for a man.

His owners say there is no question about his age. They have official records showing Topolino was drafted into the Italian Army 47 years ago when he was three. He hauled ammunition for the artillery in Libya in World War I.

Special Charge for Jet Flights, Too

Transatlantic Air Fares Hiked 2 Pct.

PARIS —(AP)— The International Air Transport Association Thursday boosted all transatlantic fares two per cent and added a special charge on jet flights.

The action added $30 to the cost of a round-trip economy or tourist transatlantic jet flight. For the first-class passenger the increase amounts to $40.

The increases were demanded by many lines which do not yet have jets in transatlantic service and were losing business steadily on their propeller-driven craft.

The new rates go into effect April 1 subject to the approval of the governments involved.

The new rate on first-class fares will be $440 one-way from New York to London. The additional charge for "de luxe" will be $60 — an increase of $10 — and jet travel will be $20 more.

Economy one-way flights New York to London will be $257, with $15 extra for a jet. Pan American and British Overseas Airways Corp. — now flying jets across the Atlantic — opposed the hikes.

Their Motto: 'Stay Ancient'

MADRID — (UPI) — Spain again has fought off an encroachment of the modern world.

A city official announced "there will be no parking meters in Madrid."

Godfrey Denies Slap at Murrow

NEW YORK —(AP)— Arthur Godfrey, slated to replace Edward R. Murrow on the CBS-TV "Person to Person" show, says he wants "interesting, attractive people" on it.

But he denies that he cast aspersions on some guests who appeared on the program with Murrow.

Newsweek Magazine had quoted Godfrey as saying:

"Certain guests who appeared on his (Murrow's) show would never be on mine. I don't want any phonies or any social climbers. Phooey!"

Godfrey said in a statement Thursday: "I wish to state for the record that I never made the statement attributed to me."

Commenting on this, Newsweek said it is standing by its story.

Godfrey said that, in reply to questions, he did say that "I had no criticism of 'Person to Person,' that I couldn't have because I had not seen it for some time, that the show is well thought of and enjoys a high rating and that I have a great respect for Ed Murrow and his associates."

Continuing, Godfrey said: "Asked for examples of the people I would like to invite, I said they should be interesting, attractive people — the kind who are my guests on my other shows."

Godfrey is scheduled to take over the show July 1, when Murrow starts a year's leave of absence.

Brazil Names Woman Envoy

RIO DE JANEIRO —(AP)— Brazil is not only getting a woman ambassador, she is sending out one of her own.

President Juscelino Kubitschek has approved the nomination of Odete de Carvalho E. Souza, a career diplomat, as envoy to Israel.

Court Upholds Annexing Land

The Florida Supreme Court has upheld the right of the City of North Miami Beach to annex a 3½ acre tract of land northwest of Greynolds Park.

Bernard Volkery, an owner of the property zoned for acreage residential use, had petitioned to be included in the city limits.

The tract was annexed on June 11, 1957, during the 60 days before the Metro charter, approved by voters May 20, 1957, went into effect.

Honor Policeman Held in Fatal Assault

NEW YORK—(UPI)—A 26-year-old honor policeman and a 22-year-old companion were arrested for the rape-slaying of a 60-year-old grandmother who resisted their drunken advances.

A police department spokesman said Brooklyn Patrolman Francis J. Rogers admitted that he helped beat the woman unconscious Sunday night after he and Thomas Murtha, a truckdriver's helper, pulled the screaming grandmother of nine into their car. Rogers said Murtha raped the woman but he did not.

Rogers was charged with homicide and Murtha with homicide and rape.

The widow was found unconscious in a parking lot Monday and died two hours later in a hospital. Authorities had searched in vain for her assailants until an unidentified patrolman supplied information that threw suspicion on Rogers, holder of a citation for meritorious duty.

Widow Gives Up Her Home

ELIZABETH, N. J. —(AP)— A widow agreed to turn over the deed of the home she used most of her life savings to buy to two children who were injured in her backyard.

Mrs. Peggy Packard, 49, who earns $60 a week on a factory job, agreed in Superior Court that she would give the $6,000 equity in her home to Joanne White, six, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. White and John Krug, five, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Krug.

The children were injured June 12 when a 26-foot clothes pole fell on them while they were playing in Mrs. Packard's yard.

Peggy suffered a fractured skull and some brain damage in the accident. John suffered fractures of both legs. Both are in good health today, except that John walks with a slight limp, their attorney said.

Mrs. Packard, who bought the house for $18,900 a year before the accident, had no liability insurance. She purchased the home with most of her life savings and money from her husband's estate.

'Dumb' Trick Didn't Fool FBI

DETROIT —(UPI)— Cara Woods Jr., 22, was arrested by the FBI because he was just too smart.

Authorities said Woods got a 4-F draft rating last summer when he scored only two points out of a possible 100 in the armed forces general education test.

FBI agents got suspicious about how anybody could be so dumb. They checked Woods' high school record and found he had made 15 A's and five B's in 20 courses and had an A average in mathematics at Wayne University.

The agents charged Woods with hindering and interfering with the Selective Service Act.

Curfew Rings A Little Later

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. —(AP)— Now anyone may stay out as late as 11 o'clock on Friday and Saturday nights in Chillicothe (population 8,964) without explaining to the gendarmes.

The rest of the week, however, everyone still must be off the streets at 10 p.m. Exceptions: Those persons of good repute and those who can explain their presence to the satisfaction of policemen.

If you're 16 years old, or younger, the 10 and 11 p.m. deadlines are relaxed only if (1) your parents are with you and (2) if you have been sent on an errand by your parents.

The city council recently amended the 50-year-old curfew ordinance to provide the 11 p.m. deadline. Juvenile Officer Lloyd Cleveland recommended it. He said it would allow people to get home from movies and athletic events without violating the law.

Even in Utopia Taxes Are High

CHICAGO — (AP) — Everything, it appears, was not so hunky-dory in Utopia, a small community west of Chicago.

A group of Utopia residents and property owners appeared in Du Page County Court at Wheaton and told Judge William L. Guild that they were unhappy over the tax situation and wanted to secede.

Judge Guild granted the request. He disconnected an area of 492 acres, roughly half the area of Utopia and containing 27 homes and 99 residents, which now reverts to unincorporated territory. Still left in Utopia are 266 homes with 1,071 residents.

Cub Pack Really Took the Cake

FAIRFAX, Va. —(AP)— Cub Scout Pack 187 held its annual banquet at the Fairfax Methodist Church, and the center piece was a stunner.

The den mothers decided to splurge a little and ordered a special cake from a bakery for $8.50.

Somewhere along the line the decimal point got misplaced and they got an $85 cake—a three-foot-high replica in pastry of the Washington monument. It weighed 85 pounds.

Bakery Owner Lucas Gallegos philosophically absorbed the difference in price. "The Scouts wanted a nice cake—something with a picture on it, within their means," he said. "They acquired a feat of art which has never been achieved before. We are happy for them to have it."

'Ladies' Picket With Egg-Splats

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. —(AP)— Police broke up an egg-splattering, purse-swinging fight between women strikers and workers leaving the Texson, Inc., garment plant.

One hundred members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union struck Monday for higher wages and fringe benefits.

Police earlier in the day halted a minor altercation. A striker declared at the time, "we may get rough before this is over."

It took a dozen officers to break up the second melee.

Patrolman Manuel Garza said the women "swung purses, threw eggs, cursed, kicked, pulled hair, scratched and clawed."

The firm's president, Harold Franzel, was hit by an egg.

Belia Martinez, 29, was treated at a hospital for minor head cuts.

Six women were released on bond after being booked at the city jail for disturbing the peace and inciting a riot.

Horoscope: A Good Day

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Friday, February 27, 1959

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) This could be one of your nicest and most successful days, since you have few inhibitions and persons of influence will be impressed with your ideas and ability to express yourself. Bring out those lofty aims. GROW materially.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Today you are fortunate in having an influential person give you the benefit of his experiences that will help you to get ahead a great deal faster. Keep advice given secret.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Co-operating with comrades and associates now revelas the right ways and means by which you can operate in the future with far more success. Be helpful to others in your own way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A day to impress persons in many different spheres of your life with your great capabilities and talents, your ability to do perfect work. Then they will cooperate with you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Are you using all the education and wisdom you have acquired to fullest and best advantage? Begin now to think along the most constructive lines and act upon them.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A day to get down to practical matters instead of continuing to wander in the world of dreams and fantasy. Look into such matters as basic security, bonds, real estate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Associates hold the key to your reaching greater harmony with pals and persons with whom you have dealings of all sorts. Listen to advice and then go about putting sure methods into full operation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) This is the day you can make those changes in surroundings that will add much to physical well-being and spiritual satisfaction. Use your fine touch for the artistic.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A day for deep enjoyment and fun. Be affectionate with others and show them your true devotion and loyalty. Also, be helpful wherever it is vitally needed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Good day to ferret out whatever it is that is making things go badly for you in both personal and commercial life. Weed out the inefficient and supplant with the good. FOR YOUR COPY of Carroll Righter's individual 16-page Forecast for March send your birth date and 50c in coin (no stamps) to Carroll Righter Forecast, Miami Herald, Box 1895, Grand Central Sta., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try a new tack today. Instead of analyzing and angling secretly to an illogical degree go to the persons from whom you wish advice or favors and express yourself simply and deliberately.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make it a point to bring before the right people the fine abilities and talents you possess and they will quickly do their utmost to further your ambitions and back you.

Robbery Hearing Is Postponed

Three gunmen, charged with the armed robbery of a plush Di Lido Island home Feb. 3, remained free on $5,000 bond Thursday after their attorney obtained a three-week extension on a preliminary hearing.

Miami Beach Justice of the Peace Malvin Englander set March 18 as the date he would hear the case against former Chicago Hoodlum Dave Yaras, 4410 Adams Ave., Benny Husick, 945 W. 48th St., Apt. 8, both of Miami Beach, and Abe (Red) Katz, 795 NE 155th Ter.

Englander said the trio's attorney, Harvey St. Jean, and Benny Cohen, lawyer for the robbed couple, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Vasquez, 727 E. Di Lido Dr., "got together and agreed" to the hearing's postponement.

State Attorney Richard Gerstein ordered the hearing to clarify "several confusing aspects" of the robbery.

Warning to Gallery Too Late

Acid Thrower Sears Rubens Painting

MUNICH, Germany —(AP)— A Rubens painting was badly damaged Thursday by an acid-throwing man who sent a reporter a letter warning he was about to strike in the famed Alte Pinakothek Gallery.

The reporter called police and the gallery, but it was too late. Rubens' great "Descent to Hell of the Damned Ones" already was seared with acid.

Experts, looking sadly at the 17th century Flemish master's painting, said they doubt if the work can be restored.

No one saw the acid thrower.

The letter writer identified himself as "Walter Menzl, Free Philosophical Institute." It said in part:

"This letter is written by the one who will destroy within the next hour in the Alte Pinakothek "The Four Apostles" by Albrecht Duerer but I am not insane.

"This is the explosive eruption of a mind who chose this breakthrough to get through at all after all other ways were in vain."

Police said there was no explanation on why the writer chose to destroy the Rubens painting, instead of the less valuable Duerer he originally had picked as a target.

Pinakothek officials said they were unable to make an exact estimate of the value of the painting because a Rubens of this size — almost 10 by 7 feet — has not been traded for decades. But they said they are certain it was worth several hundred thousand dollars.

3 New 'Cities' Providing 50,000 Homes in Works

By Herald Wire Services

Three new "cities" totaling 50,000 homes were announced Thursday for Florida's East Coast.

Two of the multimillion-dollar developments will be in mushrooming Brevard County to meet housing needs of the Cape Canaveral missile base, and the third is a 4,000-home project planned by All-State Properties Inc., of New York, near Fort Lauderdale.

The Mackle brothers of Miami revealed one of the largest real estate deals in Florida history in announcing purchase of 48,000 acres fronting on Indian River three miles south of Melbourne. The property, running 13 miles westward to the St. Johns River, cost in excess of $18,250,000 the Mackles said.

At the same time, Magnuson Properties of Miami said it will develop 4,000 acres north of Eau Gallie into a 16,000-home community to be called Palm Shores. About 400 feet of the property fronts on Lake Washington and will be developed for recreational use, Magnuson announced.

All-State President Herbert Sadkin said his firm bought its Broward County site, formerly known as the McArthur Dairy Farm, for $4,500,000. It includes more than 6,500 feet of commercial frontage on the north side of Sunrise Blvd., east and west of the Sunshine State Parkway.

All-State, active in residential construction on Long Island, N.Y., and Louisville, Ky., said construction will start within 60 days on model homes in the $10,000-to-$15,000 brack-

Class I Milk Prices OKd

FORT LAUDERDALE — Farmers will continue to receive $7 for each 100 pounds of Class I milk delivered to distributors in Southeastern Florida through June 1960, the milk marketing administrator's office announced Thursday.

The same price has prevailed since the marketing order became effective in September 1957. Class I milk is fluid whole milk.

The Independent Dairy Farmers Association, whose members produce about 95 per cent of the milk for this area, has approved a continuance of the price and other features of the order.

Collins Asks For Less Talk

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday called for less public talk about the emotion-packed integration problem, but two key legislators immediately took sharp issue with him.

House Speaker-designate Thomas D. Beasley said "the time has come for restraint in urging integration," and that he proposed to continue speaking out on the subject.

And Sen. W. Randolph Hodges of Cedar Key said people of the South should not talk recklessly, but "should talk loud enough of their disapproval of interra- their disapproval in integration so they finally will be heard in Washington."

Gov. Collins, following his own advice, declined comment on the legislative manifesto pledging a last-ditch fight to save integrated schools and states rights.

Cypress Creek Area Warned

POMPANO BEACH—Health Department nurses and sanitation workers went house to house in the Cypress Creek area Thursday warning residents to boil their drinking water. The warning followed an outbreak of four cases of infectious hepatitis, a lingering illness which usually results from contaminated drinking water.

County Health Director Dr. Paul W. Hughes said some wells in the area apparently had become contaminated from septic tanks.

Reorganization Gets Backing

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday gave his "unqualified backing" to a top-to-bottom reorganization of the State Department of Agriculture, except for the proposed transfer of milk controls to this agency.

And Collins said he would go along with this transfer and abolition of the independent State Milk Commission if the Legislature would at the same time repeal the law giving the state power to set retail milk prices.

Garbage Truck Kills Woman

FORT LAUDERDALE — A 56-year-old woman was crushed to death Thursday when a garbage truck backed over her.

Investigators said Mrs. John Bloom, 3121 SW 24th Ave., apparently was walking to a neighbor's home.

The accident occurred at about 4:20 p.m. approximately 50 yards south of the victim's home.

Keeping Peace Americans' Big Worry

Gallup Poll

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute
Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. — Keeping the peace of the world continues to be the top worry of Americans these days, but two pressing domestic problems — the high cost of living and the school integration struggle — also are major concerns, judging by a nationwide survey conducted by the Gallup Poll.

Named by almost four out of every 10 persons questioned, or 38 per cent, maintaining the peace and related foreign policy problems overshadow all other public worries at the present time.

But the proportion of the public who name the high cost of living as the country's greatest concern has doubled since a survey five months ago, from eight per cent in October to 17 per cent today.

One adult in every 10 cites the crisis over public school integration in the South as the country's Number One problem, about the same proportion that named it in October.

Unemployment, which was named by 11 per cent in October, has shown a slight decline with 9 per cent naming it the country's top worry in the latest survey.

Adults interviewed in the survey were first asked a question which, over the last two decades, has faithfully reflected the hopes and fears of the American people:

"What do you think is the most important problem facing this country today?"

Here is the way their replies add up today, compared with last October:

	TODAY Pct.	Oct. 1958 Pct.
Keeping the peace	38	42
High cost of living	17	8
Integration struggle	10	9
Unemployment	9	11
National defense	2	2
"Space" problems	2	1
Labor, union problems	2	1
Education problems	2	1
Others	11	17
No opinion	7	8

* * *

The survey finds that U. S. voters today place greater confidence in the ability of the Democratic party to solve the nation's most important problem than they do in the Republican party.

But GOP leaders may take comfort in the fact that the Democratic margin in this respect is not as great today as it was five months ago

To measure the political implications of today's survey, all voters who named a specific problem in answer to the first question were asked:

"Which political party do you think can do a better job of handling the problem you have just mentioned — the Republican Party or the Democratic Party?"

Eliminating those persons in this group who did not make a choice between the two major parties, the vote goes this way today:

Party Confidence Barometer (February, 1959)

Democratic party can handle best	57%
Republican party can handle best	43

About two out of five adults (40 per cent) saw no difference between the two parties in this respect or had no opinion.

As of last October, 62 per cent of voters who made a choice said the Democratic party was best able to handle the problem they named, compared to 38 per cent who said the Republican party was.

At the time of the 1956 presidential election, the Republican party had a comfortable lead on the "party confidence" barometer. The vote just before the Eisenhower-Nixon landslide among those who saw a difference between the parties was:

1956

Republican Party can handle best	55%
Democratic Party can handle best	45

Archbishop Is Alarmed

LONDON — (UPI) — Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, considers outbreaks of anti-Semitism in West Germany a "warning bell" for the world.

He said "there is not only a problem of anti-Semitism but of anti-Christianity to be dealt with." He spoke after the annual meeting of the council of Christians and Jews in London heard a report about the formation of Nazi organizations in West Germany.

New Marriage Pledge Offered

Love, Honor, Obey--The Reds

BIELFIELD, Germany —(AP) — Communist East Germany wants to replace the "love, honor and obey" in the marriage ceremony with a joint pledge by the bridal couple "to maintain Socialist (Communist) achievements."

Evangelische Welt, official organ of the German Protestant Church, said the Red regime is suggesting newlyweds exchange this vow:

"We pledge to maintain Socialist achievements and increase the state power of workers and peasants.

"We promise we will respect each other, will help care for and help each other, will help each other's professional and cultural development, will take our decisions jointly and will be indissolubly true to each other."

The paper said the formula had been adopted by the town council in Stalinstadt, an East German industrial tow, and that it could be regarded as a model for other towns in the Communist zone.

Earth-to-Moon In 210 Minutes?

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris added he is positive the next 10 years will produce something other than the present chemical propulsion used in space exploration. He spoke at Duke University engineering school.

Death Candy Sent To Retarded Boy; Two Are Jailed

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — Charges of attempting to kill a retarded six-year-old boy with poisoned candy have been filed against a California couple.

Phoenix officers were to go to Los Angeles to pick up Mrs. Edna F. Howard, 36, and James L. Will, 38, her former husband, both of Pasadena.

They are charged with attempting to poison with intent to kill Michael Howard, son of the woman by an earlier marriage. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years to life.

A generous superintendent of the Valley of the Sun School for Handicapped Children uncovered the poisoned candy when she disregarded instructions to see that it went only to Michael.

As Mrs. Bernice Kussell, superintendent of the school, broke up the candy for distribution among all the children, she discovered two capsules later found to contain lethal dog worm medicine.

The discovery led to the arrest of the couple in Los Angeles.

The candy was mailed to the school. It arrived after wired instructions were received to give it only to the boy.

Phoenix police said Michael has been adopted by Mrs. Howard's present husband, George.

Los Angeles officers said the child's natural father is believed to be Edward Weishaupt, Mrs. Howard's first husband. Will was her second husband.

Sgt. Claude Everley of the Los Angeles sheriff's homicide detail said the boy and his mother receive $125 a month from a $25,000 estate. He is retarded both mentally and physically.

Sgt. Everley quoted Mrs. Howard as saying while she was being questioned: "I don't know why I did it."

Will denied knowledge of the candy being poisoned, although he acknowledged that he mailed the package. He said he did so because Mrs. Howard could not write.

Iowa Democrat Cuts $161 Off Wife's $13,000 Pay

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Freshman Rep. Leonard G. Wolf (D., Iowa) said Thursday he has cut his wife's congressional salary. But the reduction wa sonly $161.57 a year and Wolf said it is not related to the furor over lawmakers hiring relatives.

The congressman also said he took the action Feb. 1 — before a series of news stories turned the spotlight of publicity on the congressional payroll. Therefore, Wolf said, the move did not "result from any so-called public pressure."

"I have talked recently with my campaign managers in each of the 12 counties in my district," he said, "and none of them recommended the removal of my wife from the staff or a reduction in pay."

However, Wolf said, he had reshuffled his office payroll with the result that his 29-year-old wife, Marilyn, would be cut from $13,244.62 to $13,083.05 a year. The mother of three children, she runs Wolf's Capitol office.

Wolf was the second congressman in as many days to announce a reduction in the pay of a relative on the government payroll. Another Iowa freshman, Rep. Steven A. Carter, also a Democrat, said Wednesday he would cut about in half the $11,872 salary paid his 19-year-old son.

In a related development, House leaders slapped a "reform" label on a bill to give members more and better-paid office help. One leader said this might help keep the bill from being pigeonholed because of public reaction to the nepotism disclosures.

"If the cold doesn't worry you, it's the leak. Lucky, at least, the floor's 'Beacon Waxed.' Nothing seems to harm 'Beacon Wax's long gleam."

Electra's Altimeter Error Cited

CHICAGO — (UPI) — Altimeters in the cockpit of an ill-fated American Airlines Electra plane showed the craft at an altitude of 500 feet when it plunged into the East River at New York City Feb. 2, The Chicago Tribune said.

The copyrighted story by Wayne Thomis said the accounts of two surviving crewmen, made independently, agreed the altimeters showed 500 feet just before the crash.

The accident, which occurred on a foggy, rainy night, killed 65 persons.

The Tribune said the reports were by the plane's first officer, Frank Hlavacek, and its flight engineer, Warren Cook.

It quoted Hlavacek as saying he was calling out the indicated altitudes as the plane approached La Guardia Field and had gotten down to 500 feet.

"I had hardly gotten the last words out when we hit," Hlavacek was quoted.

The Tribune said Cook told Civil Aeronautics Board investigators that Hlavacek had "just said 'five hundred feet' when we hit."

Tests of the altimeters recovered from the Electra showed both functioned normally until about 1,000 feet above ground where they stuck or lagged, The Tribune said.

Although this was not considered conclusive evidence, the newspaper said, it tended to corroborate the two crewmen.

Churches Have Not Been Guiltless, Council Says

End Housing Bias, Protestants Urged

HARTFORD, Conn. —(UPI) — The National Council of Churches unanimously adopted a resolution Thursday pledging its 38 million U.S. Protestant members to "work vigorously" to wipe out discrimination in housing because of race or religion.

The resolution, adopted by the council's 250-member General Board, urged churches to "sign and make public covenants which commit them to open occupancy housing in their neighborhoods" and to write Congress in support of more public housing "as one means of providing more housing on an open occupancy basis for low-income groups regardless of race, national origin or religion."

The resolution said it was the concern of churches to "face and deal with the problem of racial segregation in housing," that they had not been "guiltless in prolonging discriminatory practices, often through evasion and indifference."

To ignore the issue, it said, would be to ignore "the imperatives of the Christian gospel."

Churches were urged to "work through moral suasion; social action and support for enactment of laws to achieve the right of every person to acquire housing" which permits adequate health and well-being standards for all "on the basis of personal preference and financial ability without regard to race."

The council called upon the entire membership to give strongest support toward this goal and commended churches and church councils for what they have done "to achieve housing markets free of racial discrimination."

The General Board, concluding its two-day session, also urged Congress to repeal the loyalty oath provision of the National Defense Education Act as a requirement of students seeking financial assistance.

"The requirement of an affidavit denying disloyalty carries the clear implication that this trust no longer exists," said a pronouncement of the board.

The council voted in favor of extending the federal and state minimum - wage laws to all economic groups not now covered "as a means of assuring a standard necessary for the maintenance of health and decency for family living today."

Cancer Unit Fights Over Spending

A fight between two factions has created internal discord in the nationally-respected Cancer Institute at Miami. Director J. Ernest Ayre has threatened to quit and the Dade County Grand Jury has been asked to investigate. This is the second of a series discussing the issues involved.

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

What happens to special grants of money made to the Cancer Institute at Miami?

JUANITA

The two men seeking a shakeup at the internationally famous testing and research center said Thursday some of it goes to non-research projects of Director J. Ernest Ayre, for activities outside the Institute.

Ayre said this is true, and that the people who made the grants knew how the money was going to be spent and approved it.

Asking the questions were W. L. Philbrick, former vice president of the Institute, and Robert Hanley, who works for Philbrick. Hanley still is on the Board of Directors though 30 of its 49 members have asked him to resign.

Specifically, Philbrick has asked for a complete report on how the $171,831 received from philanthropist J. M. Rand over the past six years has been spent.

Available records, he reported, reveal that $13,500 of it has gone to projects outside the Institute in which Ayre is interested.

Included was $1,500 spent in 1953 to organize the Southern Society for Cancer Cytology, a non-profit group since merged with the Ayre-founded Pan American Cancer Cytology Society.

A $1,000 grant is shown on the books as going to the "New York Society of Science" in 1955. Ayre said it went to the New York Academy of Science, for a conference on cytology, the new method of mass testing for cancer.

And in 1957, added Ayre, Rand made a special grant of $2,500 for the Pan American Cancer Cytology Conference, another Ayre project.

Hanley, in a report prepared this week for the Grand Jury, expresses most concern over $21,550 spent two years ago on the Pan American Congress, which met here.

Ayre said the only expense to the Institute itself was $3,864 including the $2,500 special Rand grant for printing proceedings of the Congress. The rest of the bill was paid by federal health agencies, whose auditors checked all expenses.

Hanley has asked that the Board of Directors be allowed to study all grants to the Institute to see that the money is going where the donor intended.

"Some of these grants," said Hanley, "are claimed by Ayre t obeepneexdseeasshblea5 cc to be expendable as he sees fit, as personal monies."

Ayre angrily denied the charge.

"I always consider all research grant money as sacred," he said. "I never use it for anything that might be considered personal."

When he gets a check, said Ayre, he turns it over to the Institute's financial officer, who earmarks it for the purpose intended and deposits it in the bank.

"When the money is spent," added Ayre, "it is scrutinized by both the Institute and the donor."

How far the Institute should go in auditing its accounts is one of the several points of dispute between the Philbrick-Hanley faction and Ayre and other board members. The two dissenters want a certified audit going back to the Institute's beginning in 1945.

Institute President Leonard G. Egert and his many supporters say such an audit would be expensive and unnecessary.

And Dr. Homer L. Pearson, honorary chairman of the Institute's Medical Advisory Board, said that Philbrick and Hanley are misdirecting their blasts when they criticize Ayre for incomplete accounting.

"Adequate auditing of the Institute books is not under the jurisdiction of Dr. Ayre," said Pearson. "It is a function of the Board of Directors."

Pearson, chairman of the Judiciary Council of the American Medical Association and past president of both the Florida and Dade County Medical Associations, is one of Ayre's strongest supporters.

Ayre pointed out that he does not personally handle any money coming in or going out of the Institute.

"I do not sign checks," he said. "That is a job for board members."

The director also said there is no necessity for him to use grant money for personal expenses because he has an adequate budget of his own. He receives $4,000 a year for expenses in addition to his $25,000 a year salary. And added to that will be $6,000 which the Board has agreed to pay Ayre for discontinuing private practice.

The director said he would not insist on payment of the additional $6,000. But the Board majority has indicated it will be voted to him anyway.

Ayre's original contract, drawn in 1951, provided he be paid on the basis of the number of cytology tests made at the Institute. But it was later amended to give him a fixed salary.

Hanley pointed out that a special committee of the Board of Directors found the Institute in urgent need of a business administrator after a special study last summer.

None has been appointed, he added.

Ayre said Wednesday he and the board still are looking for a good man for the job, but one is hard to find.

Photographer On Probation

A Miami photographer has been found guilty in Miami Municipal Court of giving false information to a police officer at an accident scene.

Daniel R. Stubbs, 22, of 2012 SW 24th St. was placed on two months' probation by Municipal Judge Mitchell Goldman for allegedly telling Miami Police Officer Jake Devlin that he was an employe of The Herald. Stubbs, a free-lance cameraman, was taking pictures at the scene of an accident at SW Eighth St. and 39th Ave. on Feb. 6 when arrested.

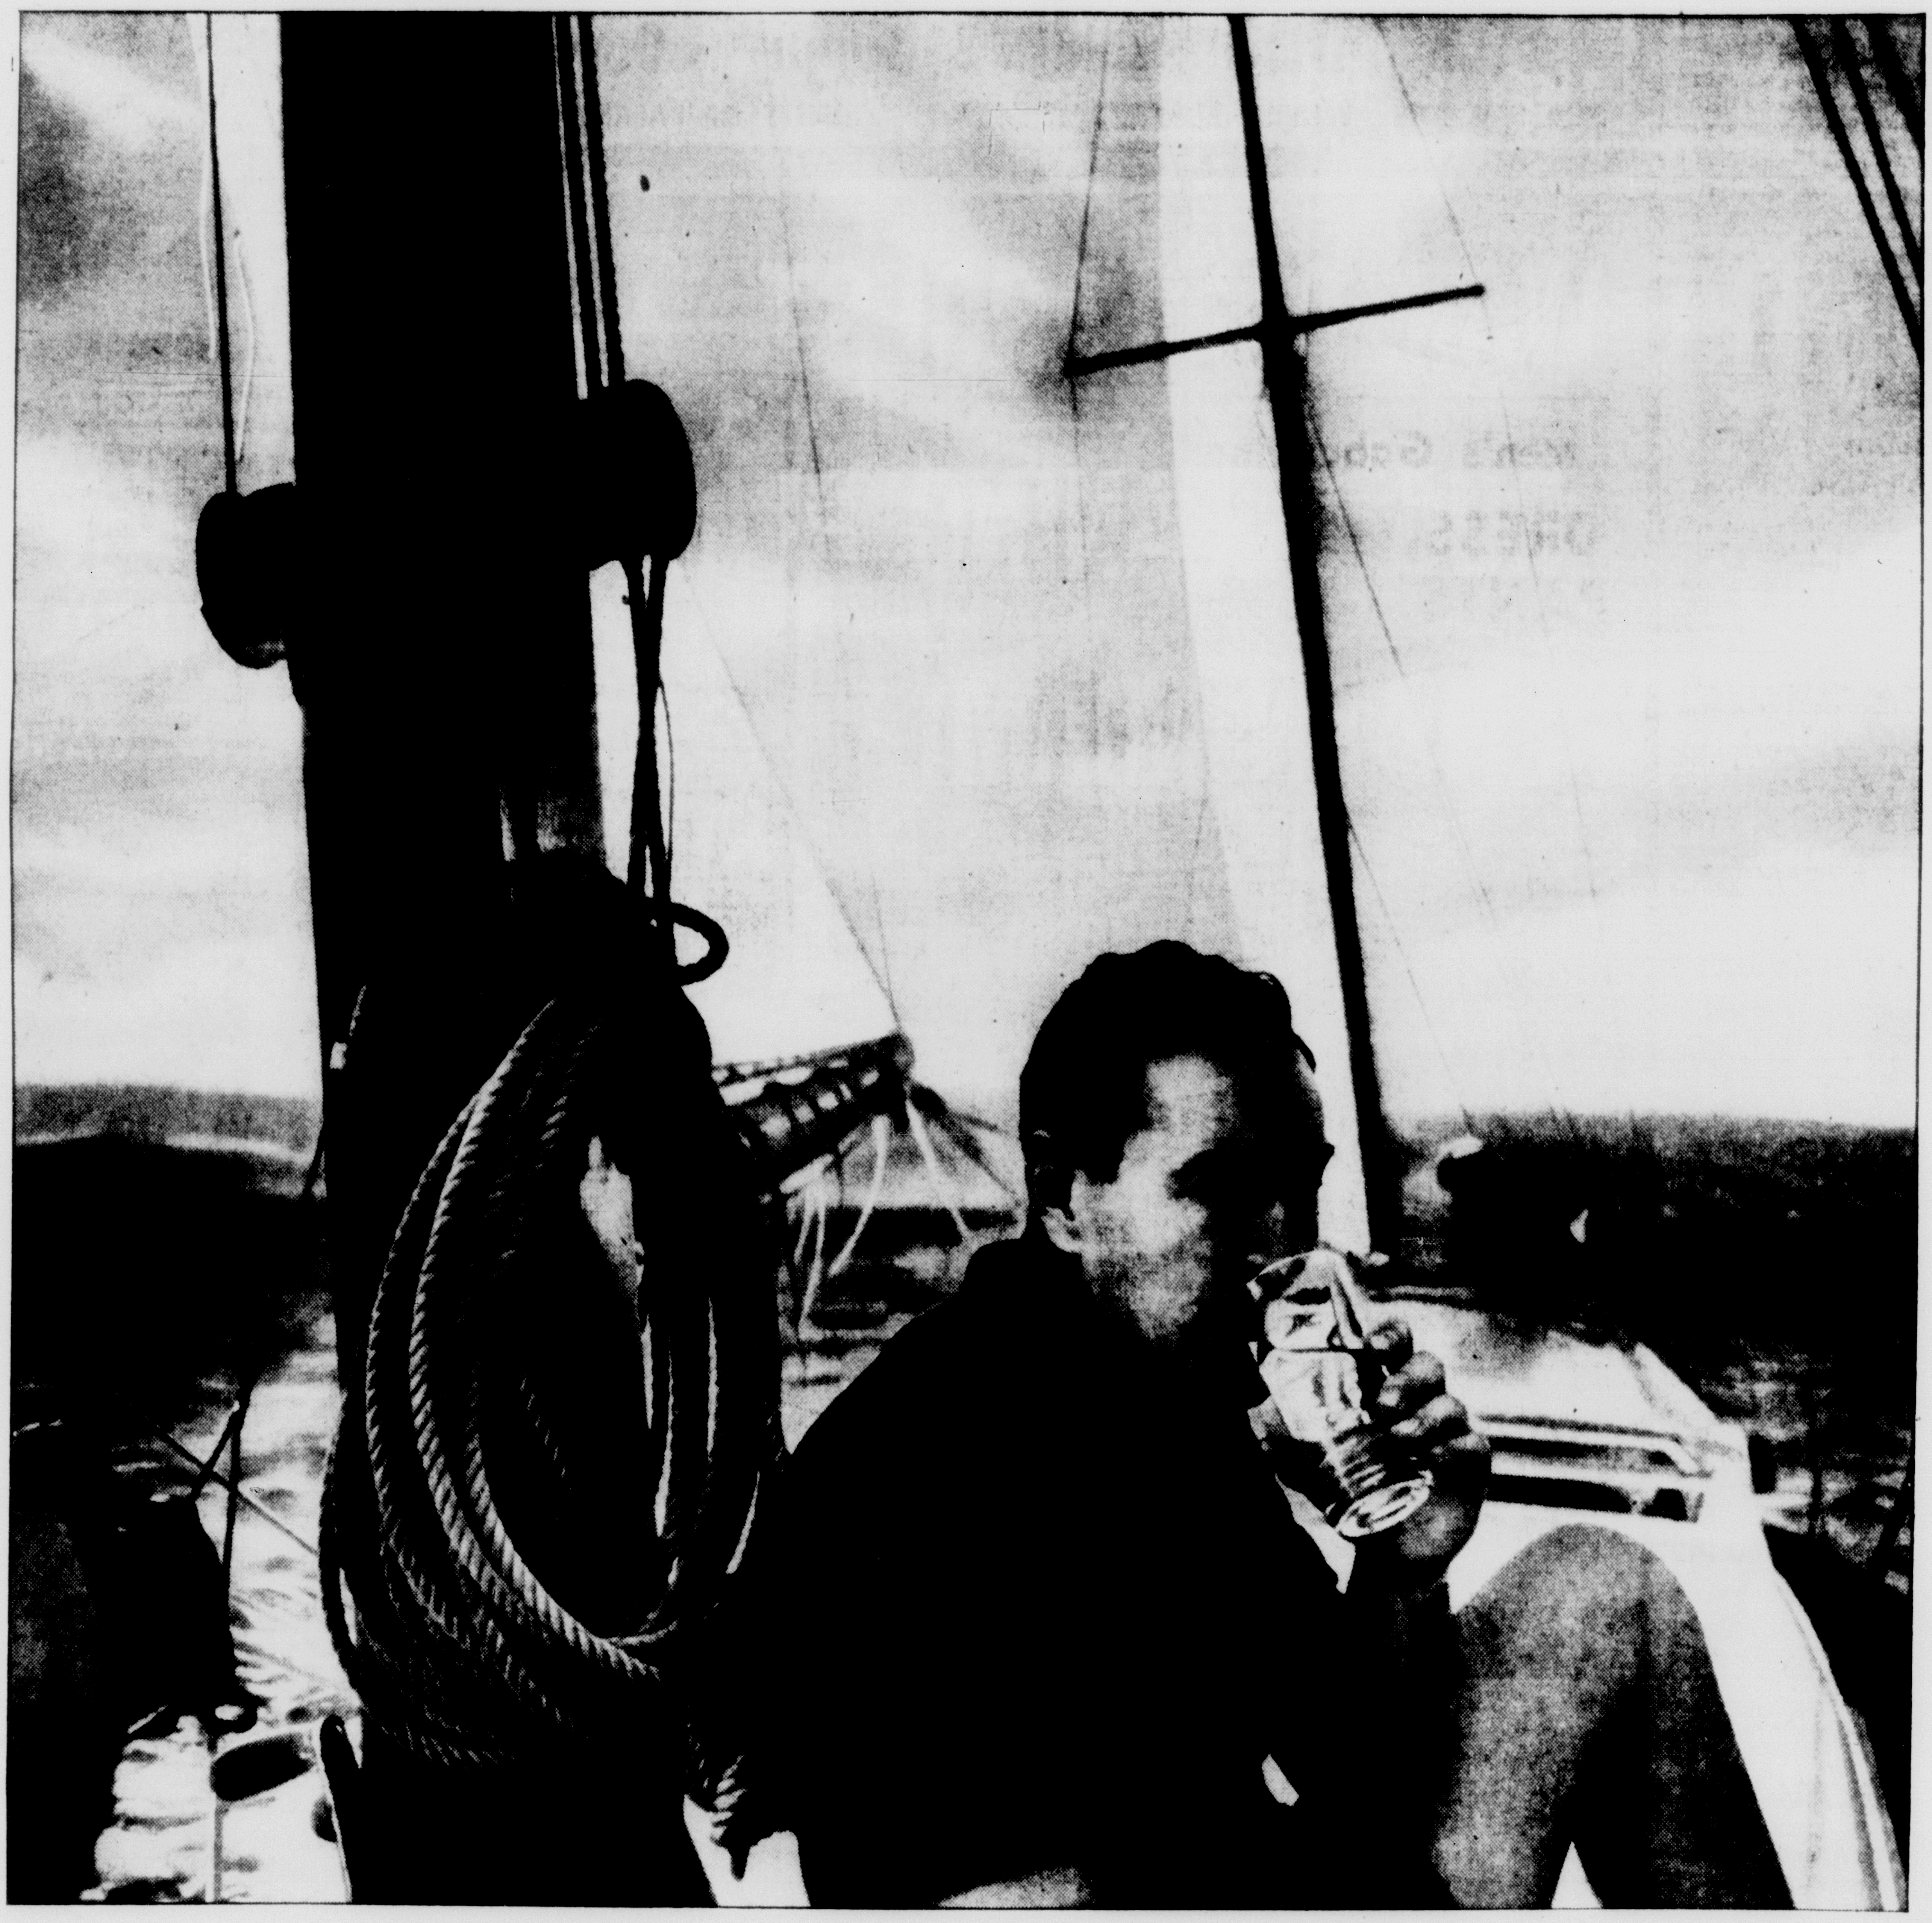
DISCOVERY!



Bill Robinson, associate editor of Yachting, sails off Ponce, Puerto Rico. Photograph by Tom Hollyman.

"I first tasted dry rum off the coast of Puerto Rico and now all my friends at home are drinking it."

"It looked like any other tall, cool drink but when I tasted my first Rum and Tonic, I knew I had made a discovery," says William W. Robinson of Rumson, N. J.

"It was tall and cool, all right. But it was dry and brilliant, too. A bright new taste.

"I told my friends in Rumson about rum—and it's taken the town by storm. Everyone seems to have his own idea about which rum drink tastes better. Daiquiris. Rum punches. Rum Collins. Rum on the rocks. Rum highballs. Rum and Cola.

"I stand by my first love—Rum and Tonic. But, frankly, I like them all."

Rum and Tonic Recipe: 1½ oz. white Puerto Rican rum, ice, add quinine water and a lime or lemon slice if desired. For free rum recipes, write: Rums of Puerto Rico, Dept. NM-16, 666 Fifth Avenue, New York 19, N. Y.

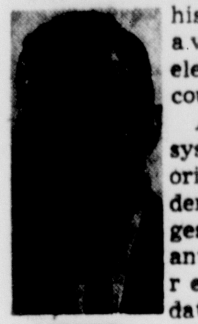
Conant Cites 'Snap' Subjects

By PHIL MEYER
Herald Education Writer

Fifth of a Series

The student who ranks at the top of his high school class may not deserve to be there, says Educator James B. Conant.



MEYER

The reason: He probably got his high grade average by electing "snap" courses.

A change in system of honoring top students was suggested by Conant in his 21 recommendations for high schools now being studied by Dade educators.

Assistant Superintendent Wesley Matthews and curriculum Director Jeff West took a look at this and other Conant proposals to see how Dade County stands. Among their findings:

Conant says undeserving students tend to get to the top in those schools where class rank is figured according to all courses taken. Bright students, anxious to make valedictorian or qualify for the top colleges, choose the easy courses to boost their averages.

Colleges aren't helping any, either, Conant said, by insisting on knowing where a student stood in his class before admitting him.

Matthews and West found that in Dade County the practice is to rank students in this manner. It has "in some cases encouraged children to take the less difficult courses," they said.

Conant's recommendation that the system be abandoned, ought to be "studied carefully," they said.

* * *

Honors Lists Revision Urged

BETTER than a class rank would be an "academic honors list," says Conant.

Published at the end of each report card period, it would include the names of students who chose the tough courses designed for the unusually talented and who made a B average. There should be separate recognition for students in commercial or vocational sequences, he said.

In Dade County, many schools have two honor rolls representing "different levels of achievement," according to the Matthews-West report. They propose that we consider switching to the Conant system.

* * *

More Reading Classes Needed

CONANT SAYS high schools should have developmental reading programs." Not for readers that would help students who want to increase their reading speed to well above the average.

Some Dade schools have such programs as elective courses. Others include six weeks of reading improvement in the regular English courses.

Matthews and West recommend that all Dade high schools use one system or the other.

* * *

Summer School Would Be Help

FREE SUMMER classes should be provided for students who have to repeat a subject and for the bright and ambitious ones who just want to learn, Conant says.

Dade has them, according to Matthews and West, but the courses which count toward graduation have a tuition fee. Free courses "would have merit," they said.

* * *

Pupils Should Mingle Freely

HOME ROOMS should keep the same students for three years, according to Conant, and they should include "a cross section of the school in terms of ability and vocational interests." This keeps vocational students from knowing only other vocational students, etc.

Most Dade schools do this and those that don't "should be encouraged to do so," Matthews and West said.

Lovely Liz spent her early childhood in England. She vacationed in the summers at a 15th century lodge in Kent, owned by her godfather. She danced before royalty at three, learned to ride horseback. In America, fame came at 12 for her role in the movie, "National Velvet." Liz wanted the movie role so badly she ate steaks daily, roller skated to develop muscles in an effort to grow big enough for the part. Hobbies: Painting, sculpturing, skeet-shooting. Hubbies: Hilton, Wilding, Todd.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — (UPI)— Virginia Viertel filed suit for divorce against Playwright Peter Viertel, accused last year of "enticing" Actress Deborah Kerr from her husband.

In the action, Mrs. Viertel accuses her husband with wilful desertion and extreme cruelty, claiming the writer left her "without cause and against her consent."

Miss Kerr, nominated Monday for an Academy Award for her role in "Separate Tables," filed for divorce from her husband — Anthony Bartley — last June, charging extreme cruelty.

Ailing Eye Sends Billy To Bed

MELBOURNE, Australia — (AP) — A recurrence of eye infection kept Evangelist Billy Graham in bed Thursday. But he will go on with his Melbourne crusade, said the Rev. Grady Wilson, a member of Graham's evangelical team.

"The eye trouble has been with him ever since the Melbourne Crusade began almost a fortnight ago," Wilson said.

The same infection delayed Graham's departure from the U.S. for Australia early this month. He spent two weeks in Hawaii recuperating from it.

The doctors have advised Graham to rest as much as possible and told him to cut his sermons from 60 to 35 minutes to reduce the strain.

About 200,000 persons so far have attended Graham's Melbourne meetings, which began 11 days ago.

The evangelist told a capacity crowd of 25,000 to pray for "Macmillan in Moscow, and Dulles and all other world leaders who are working for peace."

My Answer

God Will Help In Hour of Need

By BILLY GRAHAM

GRAHAM

QUESTION: My parents are about to be divorced after more than 20 years of married life. I feel I can't face my friends who all look down upon divorce for religious reasons. Could you give me some advice at a time when I need it badly?

ANSWER: I would like to speak a word to your foolish parents, but perhaps at this point they aren't looking for a solution, but bent on having their ways. As for you, it is fortunate that we live in a society where the individual must be judged on the basis of his own merits.

I gather from your letter that your friends don't approve of divorce, but neither do you. You are in no way approving the action of your parents. In your heart you are condemning their present action.

Now is a time when you can test the grace of God more than when things are going well. I would urge you to present yourself to God without any reservations, and seek His strength to face this embarassing problem. (Romans 12:1).

Then join with us in prayer for your parents who need to be converted, thus settling their accounts with God. I have known many homes reunited when two people experience personal salvation through faith in Christ. If they would come to Christ, He would be the solution to their present problem which is primarily a spiritual one.

"Yes, my floor test showed 'Beacon Wax' outshines the other waxes.

The Truth About Hormones To Make Skin Look Young

As I write this article, I can look through the doorway and see a woman of 45 waiting in the outer office. The light is good and I see her clearly.

She looks 10 years younger today than she did a month ago. What brought about this amazing change? Estrogenic hormones. Reams have been written about hormones. Will they make women of 75 look 16 again? Absolutely not. Will they make women of 60 feel like they are 20 again? Only in a way I shall explain later.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

To know the truth about hormones you need to learn just two simple facts: 1. The beauty of a woman's skin starts breaking down as signs of menopause begin, because the female organs fail to supply enough estrogenic hormones to feed the skin—less and less as you grow older. 2. Estrogenic hormones can be supplied to the skin by rubbing on a penetrating formula containing the hormones.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Here is a test reported in a scientific journal, one of many that showed similarly sensational results: Twenty-five women applied hormones to one side of the face and neck, and to one hand. On the other side and the other hand, a similar preparation containing no hormones was applied the same way.

These are the reports in simple words:

Skin lines (or wrinkles) quickly dimmed or disappeared from sight as creases and hollows filled out.

Blotches and "old-age freckles" faded on hands, face and neck.

Skin was softer, clearer, seemed to lose its chronic dryness, and take on revived freshness and vitality.

All these amazing things happened on the side where the hormones were used. Meanwhile no changes occurred on the other side. The same withered lifeless complexion.

Still another scientist reports in effect, improvement in the skin of women past menopause was striking. These women looked like the years had been turned back toward their youthful "pre-change" appearance.

I've seen this myself. I have seen the improvement so rapid that in just two days women looked younger. And, what a lift to the spirits! I cannot truthfully say that women of 60 felt like they were 20 again. But I have seen the light come back into their eyes—their chins raised with proud confidence—the zest for living return—because—I presume—to look younger is to feel younger.

Now to select a good estrogenic hormone preparation, here is what you need to know: the strength of the hormone preparations must appear on the label. The recommended daily allotment for the skin is 330 International Units.

The base should be as rich as possible in lanolin and vegetable oils to permit fast penetration and deep absorption and, when "rubbed in" your skin should not feel greasy or sticky. On first application, your skin should feel a radiant glow of revitalized youthfulness and refreshment.

An extra good buy in hormone products today is a preparation called HORMONEX Beauty Serum. It is made by a 36-year-old laboratory that has produced over 80 million packages of pure, fine cosmetics.

What is more, it is guaranteed to bring you joyous, noticeable results in 5 days or your money back. HORMONEX Beauty Serum is really a bargain at $3.50. So, if you want to see if your dreams of a younger-looking skin—with wrinkles dimmed, color and texture improved, can come true, I suggest you get a 100-day supply now. Use HORMONEX Beauty Serum for 5 days—then look for amazing results.

A single drop is so potent

A 100-day supply costs only $3.50 plus tax

Now you can concentrate your hormone treatment on spots that need it most because Hormonex Beauty Serum is so powerful a drop of it gives skin over three times as many hormone units as a dab of cream. Wonderful about the eyes and mouth, on the throat.

The most potent hormone preparation we know of for beauty culture—33,000 I. U. per ounce—equal to three and one-half 1-ounce jars of standard hormone cream. One bottle lasts about 100 days. Just 7 drops daily gives you the maximum allotment of female hormones. Contains large percentage of Lanolin and Sesame Oil—it penetrates.

You may obtain Hormonex Beauty Serum at JB's Red Cross Pharmacy 51 E. Flagler St.

Cummings to Help Cast Get Other TV Bookings

By JACK GAVER

GAVER

Bob and Mary Cummings

NEW YORK—(UPI)—Passing through the city on the way to a belated honeymoon trip—belated by 14 years — Bob Cummings took time to explain an unusual plan to further the careers of some of the regulars on his TV series.

"Our program (NBC, 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays) is in its fifth season," the lithe, handsome star said, "and we have three regulars who have contributed greatly to its success.

"I mean Ann B. Davis, who plays Schultzy, my secretary; Rosemary Decamp, who plays my widowed sister, and Dwayne Hickman, who plays my nephew.

"Paul Hennings — the producer and sole writer of the program—and I got to thinking about supporting players who stay with a series a long time, and we felt something ought to be done for their futures.

"You know, a player who is already well established with producers and the public can give a few years to a certain show and then leave it and go right along without a hitch.

"But so many of the successful regulars on the TV series programs are people who were either brand new when they started on them or had not had the opportunity previously to establish big reputations.

* * *

"IF SUCH A SERIES finally ends, or such an actor quits after putting in several years, he's in something of a spot about future work because his only identity probably is with this one TV character he has been playing.

"He might be the most versatile person in the world, but no one would know it, and he might have quite a time getting another break.

"What we are doing is this. One episode is written to show off Ann's abilities. She will dominate that particular show. The same with Rosemary and Dwayne.

"These amount to a sort of pilot film that might insure ideas for a personal series for each. We'll give each one a copy of the film of the particular show for demonstration purposes.

"Matter of fact, we've already done and shown the episode featuring Dwayne, and he's well on his way. It looks like he will have his own show next season, a series called 'Doby Gillis,' based on a character in a book by Max Shulman.

"Dwayne has been signed by a big agency, and the series is in preparation. That will mean he won't be with us next season, and we'll be sorry to lose him, but at the same time we'll feel mighty good about having helped him in his career."

* * *

THE PERENNIALLY youthfully-looking Cummings still has three years to go on the contract for his current series, in which he plays a commercial photographer.

"We keep coming up with ideas for new series," he said, "but the sponsor says he's happy with the way things are going with the current one, so we just go rolling along and file the ideas for future reference."

* * *

CUMMINGS AND HIS WIFE, Mary, are on a junket to Madrid, Cario and Athens.

From Athens, they'll go off on their own for a visit to London where the Cummings series is highly popular on the commercial network.

"We're calling this a honeymoon trip," Cummings said. "We couldn't afford a honeymoon 14 years ago when we were married, and after that it seemed like I never had time to get away.

"Five children came along to complicate matters, too. The few trips we did manage to make together were always rush jobs on business.

"But now we finally have some free time, we've left the kids in good hands and we're just going to have fun."

Perry's Studying a Shift

McINTIRE

JANET

TV's Perry Como will decide sometime next week whether he wants to shift his one hour Saturday night show to Wednesday next fall. Final talks on the deal will be launched next Tuesday.

NBC-TV has just about locked up a long-term exclusive contract with Janet Blair.

General Motors will sponsor a special one hour NBC-TV report on the "World Congress of Flight" from Las Vegas, Nev., on April 19.

The congress will draw air and space experts from 77 nations.

ABC-TV's Naked City will kill off John McIntire, one of its lead characters on March 17 so that McIntire can retire to his Montana ranch.

He'll be replaced in the series by Horace McMahon.

Ingrid Bergman, Darryl Zanuck and Bosley Crowther will chat on Ed Murrow's CBS-TV Small World March 8.

Guy Lombardo is in negotiation for purchase of a string of radio stations in the East.

CBS-TV's Jack Benny will do his April 5 show live from New York.

Peggy McCay has joined James Whitmore in the cast of "Lincoln Jones," first of a series of 10 new TV programs being produced for ABC-TV by Bing Crosby Productions.

FCC Rejects Ch. 10 Appeal

The Federal Communications Commssion has rejected an appeal from North Dade Video, Inc., to make a quick decision on the future control of Miami's controversial Channel 10 television station.

The FCC said it will make an announcement only after hearing an examiner's findings April 23.

The commission also denied a petiton by Elzey Roberts, a St. Louis broadcaster, for permission to file a new application for Channel 10.

2 — BALANCE — "The Chemistry of Foods."

4 — HIT PARADE — A couple of special events make this week's show a good one. One such is the on-camera appearance of choreographer Peter Gennaro, a great dancer, who'll team up with Wisa D'Orso for a song-and-dance version of the old vaudeville number, "I Will Come Back." The other involves Mel Torme, who will work with Dorothy Collins and Johnny Desmond in a medley involving instruments. During the course of this section, you'll see Dorothy on the vibes and harp (after a fashion), Johnny on the clarinet and piano and Mel., an expert drummer, soloing.

7 — TARGET — Adolphe Menjou stars as a retired Civil War general who carries a bitter secret in his heart.

10 — RIN TIN TIN — An honorable Indian scout is forced by a vengeful brave to lead a patrol into an ambush.

8

2 — NATURE'S REALM — W. Seagle of Tropical Hobbyland will discuss exotic animals showing specimens and using slides.

4 — RAWHIDE — Tonight's episode was filmed in midsummer in Arizona and poor Martha Hyer had to play one scene huddled around a campfire. She suffered for her art. She plays one of four sisters who get more or less adopted by trail boss Eric Fleming and his chief aide, Clint Eastwood.

7—ELLERY QUEEN—There's a considerable change in philosophy, now that the show has moved to New York. Tonight is the first of the new regime with Lee Philips as Queen. Physically, the program will be quite different —instead of little "cameo" sets, this will be a big-scale production, with full sets and full scenery. Even more important, there'll be a new dramatic approach here. These will all be human, realistic stories, rather than mere puzzles. There's using a theater-trained cast with Philips, Lili Darvas, George Voskovec and Georgann Johnson in the opener. The murder takes place early and from then on we concentrate on the people, with good characterizations. Basically, it's a story of two men confronting each other after many years and the question advanced is a difficult one — what is justice? Color.

Best Bet

10 — WALT DISNEY — It's cartoon night and apparently Dr. D. has been impressed by "The Chipmunk Song." Anyhow, he'll pull out some of the cartoons involving his chipmunk characters, Chip 'n' Dale and string them together here. There's a guest appearance from Donald Duck and it's all good animated fun.

7 — M SQUAD — Ballinger has a show down with two rival gangleaders who are clashing over profits of a nightclub supply racket.

10 — MAN WITH A CAMERA — When a wartime friend of Mike Kovac is slain in Lisbon, Mike flies to the city to clear his buddy's name.

9:30

2 — CHILDREN GROWING — "First Grade."

4 — STAR PLAYHOUSE — Mercedes McCambridge stars in a suspense tale of an intense hatred between a son and his father.

7 — THIN MAN — Vases float through the air and bodies appear and disappear with the Charles' visit a New England House which is haunted by a long-dead witch.

10 — 77 SUNSET STRIP — There's a murderous joker loose in tonight's story. He sends a funeral wreath and plants a death notice, all because of his dislike for a certain publisher. Said dislike is shared by many. And said publisher winds up with a bullet in the head. One funny bit involves a woman author who has a book about the Martians.

4 — LINEUP — A salesman falls for the oldest confidence game in the books, but the scheme backfires when the victim works his own larceny and nearly winds up in jail for withholding evidence.

7—CAVALCADE OF SPORTS — Gene Armstrong of Elizabeth, N.J., risks his undefeated record against Italo Scortichini of Italy.

Reform Judaism A Faith for Today

Last in a series on the history, beliefs and relationship of Reform Judaism to other branches of Judaism and Christianity as Reform Jews mark the 85th anniversary of their Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

By DR. JOSEPH R. NAROT
Of Temple Israel of Greater Miami

Dr. Joseph R. Narot
... Temple Israel rabbi

Whenever Reform Judaism is judged in relation to Protestantism and Catholicism, two suprisingly contradictory conclusions are reached. One of these conclusions suggests that Reform is spiritually very near to Christianity. While the other opinion holds that no expression of Judaism is farther removed from Christian thought than Reform. Interestingly enough, both views are correct.

Thus, whenever Christians visit our services at Temple Israel, they say that our worship forms make them feel very much at home.

AS IN CHURCH, our men and women pray seated side by side (unlike the traditional Jewish services in which the sexes are separated).

AS IN CHURCH, our men pray hatless (unlike the traditional congregation in which the covering of the head is an indispensable mark of Jewish piety).

AS IN CHURCH — at least, the Protestant — Temple Israel uses a preponderance of English in prayer (unlike the Orthodox which regards Hebrew as the only language for worship).

FINALLY, as in church, organ music accompanies our temple liturgy (unlike the non-Reform congregation which relies on the acapella singing of the cantor, choir, or both).

On the other hand, the sermons I preach at Temple Israel are not likely to be accepted easily by the fundamentalist Christian. For the theology of Reform Judaism, as well as its eschatology (teachings about heaven and hell, the soul and immortality, resurrection of the dead, etc.) have been and continue to be highly liberal in content, daringly exploring and pioneering in intent:

Reform Judaism holds that the Bible is not so much the final, supernaturally revealed word of God, as it is the record of man's historic quest for the word of God.

Reform Judaism maintains that rituals are not sacraments which forever damn by the violation of them and bless by the fulfillment of them, as they are dramatic and aesthetic symbols of the ideals men espouse.

Reform Judaism teaches that men have a share in the messianic ideal, namely, that all men—of every faith, race and nation — must labor together for the better life of justice and peace.

Reform Judaism believes, above all, that religion cannot speak with unquestioned authority even on religious questions, that every generation has something to add to mankind's quest for truth, that in that search much remains behind the veil of mystery, and that what we think about this mystery must be reconciled with the age in which we live, with its thought and its knowledge.

Of course, Reform Judaism is convinced that in these beliefs it adheres to historic and classic ideas in Judaism. Nevertheless, these beliefs openly stated do put some strain on its ties to Orthodox Judaism. It is possible here to find a closer bond between Christianity and Orthodox Judaism.

We believe that religion must be, not static but dynamic; not forbidding but permissive of spiritual and intellectual adventure. We believe that if religion is to offer any hope to man, it must relate itself to every segment of human truth: To the psychological disciplines, for example, which suggest that man will be healed of sin, not as he is condemned and punished, but as he is loved and understood. And to the physical sciences which are taking us out into the farthermost reaches of space and which call for new dimensions of faith that will match the vastness of the universe.

That is why Reform Judaism has placed so much emphasis on the effort to bring all men closer to each other, not because of their similarities, but in spite of their differences.

Our purpose is not to convert souls (for we believe with all Jews that no one needs to be converted from one faith to another in order to be saved), but to bring understanding to minds.

We believe that if Reform Judaism can bring its own adherents and possibly others closer to life, if but by one beat of the heart, it will have served its purpose will.

U.S. Says 'Sorry' to Ecuador

CHIRIBOGA

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The State Department swiftly apologized to Ecuadorean Ambassador Jose R. Chiriboga for a snub at a Post Office Department ceremony honoring Latin American Liberator Jose de San Martin.

Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said in a letter that Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield was "very upset" over the incident. Summerfield had offered an apology before Chiriboga protested to the State Department.

Chiriboga was among a group of Latin American ambassadors invited to the special ceremony. But Summerfield inadvertently omitted Chiriboga from the list of envoys who received a folder of a new issue of stamps honoring San Martin.

Chiriboga immediately sent a letter to Herter complaining about the oversight. The State Department response was delivered to the Ecuadorean embassy less than four hours after the complaint was received.

Chiriboga said, "Naturally, now I am entirely satisfied."

He had said earlier that "the fact that Ecuador is a small but democratic country and a loyal friend of the U.S. is no reason to forget to include Ecuador in the ceremony."

Herter explained that Chiriboga's name was not called out because the folder inscribed for him had been misplaced under folders for Argentina, Chile and Peru. Certainly, the acting secretary said, Summerfield had meant no offense.

The State Department also sent the Ecuadorean a leather folder containing 100 blue four-cent stamps and 100 red, blue and ocher eight-cent stamps bearing the liberator's picture.

'Spin' Picks Princess

Blonde, blue-eyed Grace McCurdy of Miami has been chosen as Florida's Cherry Blossom princess.

She will represent the state in Washington's annual Cherry Blossom Festival in April.

Miss McCurdy, 21, a secretary in Rep. Dante Fascell's Washington office, is the daughter of Mrs. Robert G. McCurdy of 3825 SW 60th Pl.

She was chosen over three other Florida lovelies by the spin of a wheel.

Miss McCurdy is a graduate of Coral Gables High and attended the universities of Miami and Alabama. She has been employed in Fascell's office since December.

Builders Off To Big '59

Dade's construction industry is off to a running start for 1959—more than twice as fast as a year ago.

Metro's Building and Zoning Department issued permits last month for 19.3 million dollars in new construction and remodeling, according to figures released by County Manager O. W. Campbell.

Permit valuation for January, 1958, was 8.1 millions.

Biggest gain was in residential construction. New homes begun last month numbered 699—186 more than a year ago.

Boy to Be House Page After All

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Jimmy Johnson's dream of being a student in the congressional page school will become a reality Monday.

The 14-year-old Negro boy from Chicago will be officially certified as an employe of five House members effective Sunday by Ralph Roberts, clerk of the House.

With that certification, Johnson will be eligible to attend the school established to educate congressional page boys and other juvenile employes of Congress.

Roberts said he received formal notice Wednesday of Johnson's employment.

Johnson came here last month under the impression he had received an appointment as a House page. Through a mix-up, there was no job available for him.

Yankees Would Have to Bid High For Orioles' O'Dell, Says Dunn

THERE WAS a story Thursday that the Yankees expect to make an early trade with another American League club.

The dispatch from St. Petersburg said the Yankees were prepared to offer four players for one pitcher—Dick Hyde, Pete Ramos or Camilo Pascual from Washington, or Billy O'Dell, Milt Pappas or Arnie Portocarrero from Baltimore.

BILLY O'DELL

"They'd sure have to bid high for O'Dell," said Jack Dunn, III, assistant to Baltimore General Manager Lee MacPhail. "The Yankees have done some talking about O'Dell, but they haven't even come close."

Dunn recalled that winter chatter about the Yankees being after O'Dell, who pitched three perfect innings in the 1958 All-Star game at Baltimore, stirred up a storm among the fans.

"We got a lot of mail from indignant fans," Dunn continued. "Also we are mindful of the fuss kicked up when Bob Turley and Don Larsen went to the Yankees."

As for Portocarrero, he won 15 games for the Orioles last season, which Dunn said was more than any Baltimore pitcher since the club got into the American League.

"Pappas won 10 games," Dunn mused, "Yessir, I know the Yankees would have to go high for O'Dell and also for Pappas, or Portocarrero."

Durney Impressed by Practice

SPECTATORS AND ORIOLES got a different impression of Manager Paul Richards Thursday than in earlier workouts. Richards stepped up both the tempo and length of practice.

"I'd sure hate to be an Oriole," said Bill Durney (Voice of the Orioles), who was reminded he could afford to lose a few pounds.

"I'm in no hurry about that," said Durney, who in his days with the old St. Louis Browns saw a lot of major league spring training.

"I'll tell you one thing," said Durney. "Richards runs the best organized practice of any manager I ever saw."

This hard work and attention to details is part of Paul's plans to get the Orioles into the first division.

First Landing Is 'Sleepy Head'

HIALEAH'S ANNUAL breakfast for trainers with horses entered in the upcoming Flamingo was an interesting affair Thursday morning. However, it produced no information to change the popular feeling that First Landing will run off and leave his rivals Saturday.

Trainers of First Landing's rivals are hopeful. As The Herald's Russ Harris reported Thursday morning, other trainers are confident First Landing will come through. Ten of 12 trainers polled by Russ picked First Landing and they should be as correct as the eight of nine trainers, who last week voted for Bardstown to win the Widener.

It was a surprise to hear from Charlie Johnson, aide to Publicist Everett Clay, that First Landing is a sleepyhead, except when he goes into action in a race.

"We don't take pictures of First Landing until after his workouts," Johnson explained. "He is so sleepy when he first comes on the track that he doesn't hold up his head and his ears are drooping."

This is understandable in view of horses being awakened before dawn for their workouts. If horses could talk, their handlers would probably get an earful.

If First Landing was inclined to be sleepy in a race, Jockey Eddie Arcaro would snap him out of it in a hurry. Arcaro had planned to fly here in time to ride in Friday's races. Thursday Eddie sent word he would skip the extra day and wait for the Flamingo. This won't hurt anything. Eddie knows the track and his horse.

Eurasia Called Willing Worker

GREENTREE STABLE, competing in the Flamingo for the first time in five years, has high hopes for Eurasia. He is certain to draw support from hunch players, particularly the women fans, because of being a gray colt. The same hue helped make Native Dancer a favorite with millions of racing fans. Of course, Native Dancer's ability had more to do with it than his color. For some reason, the feminine fans are partial to gray horses.

Eurasia has had a lot of tough luck. He had weak ankles as a yearling and this delayed his two-year-old racing debut until mid-summer.

"Eurasia is a willing worker in the mornings and a nice horse to train," said Trainer Frank (Buddy) McManus. "We have high hopes for him."

This does not necessarily mean the hopes will be realized Saturday. Actually Eurasia has had only two races, so it would really be something if he distinguished himself in the Flamingo. Eurasia won his first start and last Monday he finished behind Bayard Sharpe's Troilus.

* * *

Troilus Known as a 'Loafer'

IT IS TRUE that horses differ in temperament and Troilus is known as a loafer. I'm not calling the horse names—just reporting what Trainer Charles Peoples says about him.

"Troilus loafs in his stall, loafs in the morning workouts and would loaf in the afternoon races, if the jockey didn't stay right with him," said Peoples.

It is noticeable that Jockey Chris Rogers has to use his whip on Troilus throughout a race.

The colt is tremendous in size and has an appetite to match it. He eats 14 quarts of oats daily—12 being the normal ration—and considers dandelions a delicacy.

A Man at War

The Hartack Puzzle: Charm And Venom, Ego and Ability

By EDWIN POPE
Herald Assistant Sports Editor

Bill Hartack is the world's highest paid athlete—and perhaps the most thoroughly despised.

The reason for the first condition is clear. For four years, Hartack has been the best or very nearly the best rider in horse racing.

The reason for his staggering personal unpopularity with owners, trainers, jockeys, track officials and some newspapermen becomes clearer daily.

Within a year, the 26-year-old Miami Springs bachelor has insulted some of racing's biggest names, punched another rider, drawn 35 days in suspensions for rough riding, split with Calumet Farm, created a furor by refusing to ride a horse he considered unfit, terrorized the tackroom, and generally acted as a law unto himself.

Critics call him egotistical, irresponsible, arrogant. They say he is "too big, too smart."

Admirers insist racing needs more riders as sincere, as conscientious and as honest as Hartack.

* * *

He Collected, But He Didn't Forget

HOW DID the brash little man's war with horse racing — and himself — start? What motivates his fierce independence, his disregard for authority and tradition, his rejection of responsibility to almost everyone but his family and himself? Is it reasonable to expect him to mellow with the years?

Hartack's belligerence burst into its first full flower when a New Jersey newspaper erroneously published a story that Hartack had been accused of a crime he considers "worse than murder." He collected out of court. But he did not forget.

Polite and cooperative with certain turf writers, he is quick to criticize those he believes are against him.

The convenient analyses of most overbearing personalities such as Hartack usually wind up with the stock "inferiority complex" line. Whether or not that is true with Hartack, he does have a tremendous craving for financial security, born of an unprosperous childhood. Despite earnings of more than a million dollars since he began riding in 1952, he is far from wealthy. Any obstacle to his monetary well-being — inferior mounts or criticism from other riders, owners, trainers, newsmen — provokes an immediate and enraged response.

One of the Boys? Not Hartack

Orioles' Al Barth 'Homers'

Infielder Billy Klaus signed his Baltimore contract Thursday, as Manager Paul Richards put his Orioles through their first prolonged workout at Miami Stadium.

The drill included a continuous game, enlivened by Al Barth, who hit 25 homers at Wilson, N.C. in 1958, hitting a home run over the left field fence. Shortstop Wayne Causey collected three hits in the game in which Richards constantly charged lineups.

Richards is a great believer in making practices competitive and thinks the games help keep the players from becoming bored.

Wes Stock, who had a 14-6 record with Aberdeen last season, allowed only one hit during his stint, Causey bouncing one off his leg.

Chuck Estrada, who won 15 for Knoxville in 1958; Dick Fitzgerald, who missed most of the 1958 season because of Army service and Rolf Scheel, with Louisville last year, were impressive.

Including the rookies, who were given a preliminary week of practice, Richards had 72 players on the field. There was no lost motion, Richards being a great hand for keeping all of his players active. The special batting cage set up north of the stands was in use all day.

MUCH TOO GOOD for his opposition in Hialeah's featured seventh race Thursday was Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Amerigo. The foreign-bred won by three lengths as a 6 to 5 favorite.

Lubanski Topples Record

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Ed Lubanski, who Wednesday night captained the Pfeiffer team of Detroit to the all-time American Bowling Congress team score, smashed another ABC record Thursday with a nine game all-events total of 2,116.

The burly deadeye, who rolled a 700 in the team event, came back with 652 in the doubles and 764 in the singles. His singles tally also placed him on top of that category, and was just 11 pins short of breaking the all-time singles high of 775 set by Lee Jouglard in 1951.

Jim Spalding was sitting in the audience as Lubanski bypassed the 2,088 all-time all-events mark assembled by Spalding in 1957.

Lubanski's near-record singles skein included games of 241, 265 and 258. He needed a double in the final frame of his last game to snatch the record from Jouglard. In his effort to make sure he hit the headpin, Lubanski came in high and left the 6-pin intact on the first toss.

Lubanski's doubles 654 got 631 support from his partner, Bob Kwolek. Their 1,283 earned third place in the two-man standings.

Mid-America Meet Here 'Off'

A meeting scheduled in Miami Saturday for organization of the Mid-America Professional Football League has been postponed, Virgil E. Pierson of Birmingham, advised Thursday.

"An important announcement concerning the league will be forthcoming shortly," said Pierson, one of the leaders in the move for another pro loop.

Murtaugh Hits Trade Rumor

FORT MYERS — (AP) — Rumors that the Cincinnati Redlegs dealt Second Baseman Johnny Temple to the Milwaukee Braves for Pitcher Bob Buhl and Infielder Felix Mantilla Thursday brought some alarm to the Pittsburgh Pirates' camp.

Said Manager Danny Murtaugh:

"They must be trying to trade the Braves into another pennant if that's true."

Three UM Seniors End Home Hoop Careers Saturday

Three seniors will play their final home basketball game for the University of Miami Saturday night when the Hurricanes close their 1959 season against Florida State University in the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Joe Gardner, regular guard, Jerry Davis alternate center—forward and Ed Contreras, sub forward are the lads who will bow out

Gardner, always an accurate shot, was used sparingly until the current campaign when he moved up to a first string spot. In 24 games, he has tallied 353 points.

Gardner never has hit under 41 per cent of his field goal tries and this year he is connecting at a 46 per cent clip. He is a brilliant outside shot.

Davis, who did not play in high school, was a reserve as a sophomore but did not play last season. This year he appeared in 19 games and helped the Hurricanes considerably in rebounding.

Contreras, 6-4, better known as the school record-holder in home run hitting as the first baseman on the baseball team. He appeared in relief roles in his three cage campaigns.

The Hurricanes are stressing defense against the fast break of the two great Seminole guards, Hugh Durham and Don Bates who wrecked the Hurricanes by themselves when Miami played Florida State in Tallahassee.

Hurricane Mentor Bruce Hale is concerned over the rebounding battle since the Seminoles have John Richter, 6-5, Dan Boltz 6-6, and Charles Tinsley, 6-6.

Saturday's first game at 7 will match the UM freshmen with the National Air Lines quintet.

Greyhounds Chase 2 Rabbits

Biscayne Opens Doors Tonight

Biscayne Kennel Club, the Miami area's pioneer dog track, puts its 'new look' forward tonight in the opening of the track's 32nd meeting. A crowd of 7,500 is expected.

For the first time in official competition in the Miami area, the puppies will break from a single-door starting box and chase two rabbits instead of the conventional one.

The new starting box opens at around 70 miles an hour. The two rabbits are used to minimize the importance of starting positions and to prevent collisions and bumps at the turns.

"Extensive tests during schooling races prove the new getaway is an improvement over our old starts," said James C. Knight, Biscayne president. "During one night of schooling races only two pups fell in 39 races."

Heading the Inaugural field are Rio Grande Rose, Whirling Jet and Another Portis B., who finished in that order in Flagler's Race of Champions.

Secret Session, Copied, Jott's Jig, Madam Harmony and Affectionate round out the field.

Last year's Inaugural was won by Switch To, who has returned for the season's closing campaign.

In addition to its improvements for the puppies, Biscayne offers fans a newly landscaped infield with Florida flowers and shrubbery as a background to two giant fountains. New paddock benches have also been added to the second level of stands.

Eleven races are on tonight's card, with the first post at 8.

'It's a Girl' Jolts Archie

SAN DIEGO —(AP)— Birth of a second daughter caught light heavyweight boxing Champion Archie Moore a bit unprepared, he said Thursday.

"We were so sure that it would be a boy," he explained, "that we didn't have a girl's named picked." The Moores named the baby Joan Marie Moore. She was born Wednesday night.

Woodruff Seeking Fullbacks

GAINESVILLE —(AP)— Coach Bob Woodruff starts building his 1959 University of Florida football team today.

In the 20 workouts permitted for spring practice under Southeastern Conference rules, Woodruff will have a squad of 13 lettermen, 20 reserves and about 55 freshmen.

Lettermen who will be seniors next fall have been excused from football practice if they participate in other varsity sports.

However, Woodruff said, Wayne Williamson, quarterback from Tampa; Jack Westbrook, halfback from Miami, and to some extent Bobby Green, halfback from Bartlesville, Okla., will participate.

Three lettermen will play baseball — Mickey Ellenburg of Knoxville, Tenn.; Perry McGriff of Gainesville, and Lawrin Giannamore of Steubenville, Ohio. Two will compete in track —Don Deal of Corpus Christi, and Green.

"Special attention will be given freshmen fullbacks," Woodruff said. Three varsity fullbacks recently were scholastically ineligible for spring practice and will have to make up their grades in summer school to be eligible in the fall.

Bob Milby of Ocala is the only letterman fullback certain to return.

Lamar Peace, 210-pound freshman end from Lakeland, will be given a tryout at fullback, Woodruff said.

The coach scheduled practice sessions each weekday except Thursday, when many players participate in military drill.

The annual Orange and Blue intrasquad game is planned for Saturday afternoon March 21.

Southwest Wins Prep Track Meet

Host Southwest High won 11 of 13 events Thursday to whip Curley and Key West in a triangular track meet, first of the season in the Miami area.

Getting a big boost from double winner John Dacosta, Southwest scored 93 points to 27½ for Curley and 13½ for Key West.

Dacosta captured the 100-yard dash in 10.1, took the broad jump with a 19-foot, 1¼ inch leap, and ran on Southwest's winning 880-yard relay team.

Southwest's Bob Peeples won the pole vault with a 12-foot 3-inch effort, an excellent vault for this early in the season.

First Landing? I'll Just Take Troilus--Rogers

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Memories of playing second fiddle to [illegible]umet Farm's Tim Tam in last year's Kentucky Derby and Preakness still haunt Chris Rogers.

The 34-year-old Canadian-born jockey, who piloted Lincoln Road in his futile efforts to outrun Tam Tam, will be aboard Bayard Sharp's Troilus in Saturday's $100,000 added Flamingo at Hialeah.

Troilus will be second choice in the betting and most of the handicappers figure him to be runnerup to Meadow Stable's favored First Landing.

Maybe Rogers is kidding himself, but he insists, "I don't think I'll be second this time. I don't believe First Landing is another Tim Tam. And I have a feeling deep down that we're going to beat him."

Rogers grins at the mention of Tim Tam. "I can still feel that dude breathing down my neck," he said. "He sent me from champagne to 10-cent beer in a split second."

But Rogers would rather talk about Troilus.

"Everything you do with Troilus, you have to make him do. But what I like about him is that he's a very strong horse. Weigh doesn't seem to bother him. And he can turn on the speed anytime."

Some observers say Troilus may have "run his race" last Monday when he shattered Iron Liege's mile-and-one-sixteenth record at Hialeah. More than one trainer has expressed belief that maybe that took too much out of Sharp's colt.

"They didn't see him the next morning," said Rogers. "He was so frisky he was tearing down the barn."

Troilus has made 10 starts and won five of them. In his first try over a distance of ground, he won the Spaulding Lowe Jenkins stakes at Laurel. His second route event was last Monday's record smasher.

The colt has been in only one other stakes event, Hialeah's Bahamas, and he won that, too.

He has run only two bad races. In the first one he stumbled coming out of the gate. Then, in his 1959 debut in Hialeah, he propped as he hit a sunspot, finishing last in a field of nine.

Troilus was 18-1 and 25-1 in the two stakes he has won. They seem to underrate him. But if he can upset First Landing Saturday, he won't be underrated anymore.

And maybe Chris Rogers will be rid of those nightmares about Tim Tam.

Thursday's crowd of 17,313 wagered $1,588,854.

Baxley Tests Rebels

North Miami's Tom Baxley will try to pad his scoring total tonight at the expense of South Dade . . . but he may have trouble against the improving Rebels.

Early in the season Baxley hit 29 points against South Dade as North Miami romped to an easy victory. Tonight, on their home floor, the Rebels promise to give North Miami a tougher game.

South Dade is on a three-game winning streak, and has been considerably better defensively in recent games.

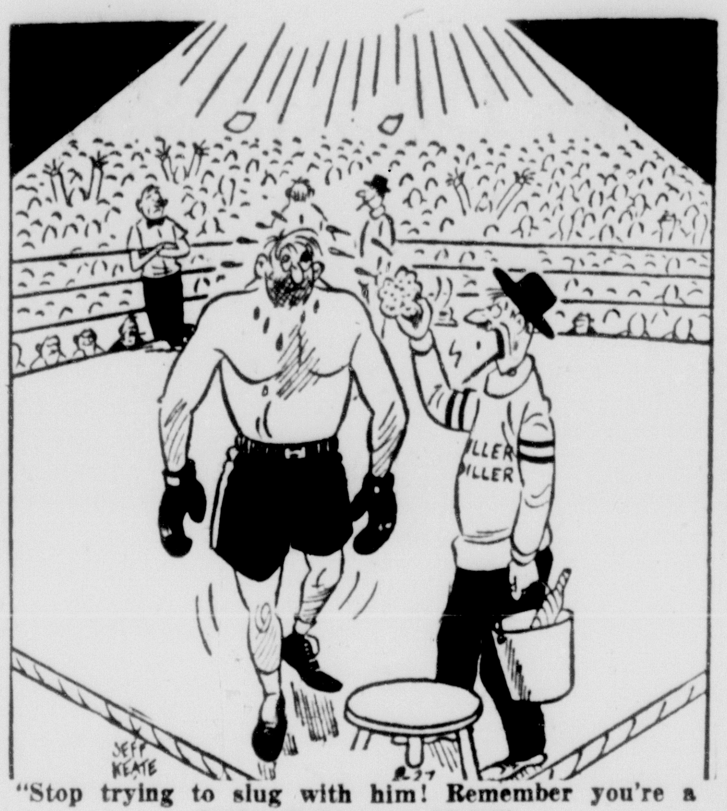
Baxley has 610 points with two more games after tonight.

The only other Miami area game puts Columbus at Tech. Edison visits Fort Lauderdale.

Other South Florida clashes list Pahokee at Okeechobee, Central Catholic at South Broward, Seacrest at Key West, Pompano Beach at Stranahan, Pine Crest at Riviera Beach and Melbourne at DeLand.

Schlinkman Boosted

CHICAGO —(AP)— Walt Schlinkman, assistant football coach at the University of Washington last season, Thursday named offensive backfield coach of the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League.



"Stop trying to slug with him! Remember you're a brainy fighter, you idoit!"

Delany Gets 'Pushers'

NEW YORK — (AP) — Olympian Phil Coleman Thursday was picked to join three other contenders in the drive to push Ron Delany to a four-minute indoor mile Saturday in Madison Square Garden.

Coleman's selection by Meet Director Asa Bushnell completed the five-man field for the Luis S. Zamperini Invitation Mile, special event at the IC4A Track and Field Championships.

In addition to Delany and Coleman, the other entries are Hungary's Istvan (Rozy) Rozsavolgyi, Air Force Lt. Bill Dellinger, and Germany's Paul Schmidt.

Russian Thinclads On Plateau--Canham

DETROIT —(AP)— Don Canham, track coach at the University of Michigan, believes the Russians have reached a point in track and field competition where they won't be making any more spectacular progress immediately.

"Russia came from a long way behind," Canham said, "and it came very fast. It has reached a performance and coaching plateau now, I think. They were eager, hard-working copycats. They have no inherent physical superiority."

Canham said he believes improved equipment and desire along with improved physical condition has been responsible for the numerous track and field records broken in recent years.

Something NEW in Dog Racing!

First in comfort and luxury, Biscayne Kennel Club now scores another "first" with sensational new track equipment. The unique, single-gate starting box, and new double-rabbit lure which starts 28 feet in front of the dogs, gives clean starts, eliminating bunching on the rail and bumping in the turn. This means more even distribution of winners, racing truer to form, and promises new speed records.

Hartack's Top Foe? Hartack

run out of the money on 25 favorites while finishing second or third on 10 others.

He has not hesitated to tell owners and trainers precisely what he thinks of their horses. This has not helped Chick Lang, perhaps the best agent in racing, in his efforts to land top-grade mounts for Hartack.

Hartack is not "one of the boys" in the jockey quarters. Even the gentler-natured riders resent his surliness. And it is possible that, once in a race, Hartack is denied common riding courtesies.

As his luck turns from good to bad, he withdraws more and more.

Hartack boosters — including thousands of bettors who wager only on the horses he rides — insist Hartack is protecting them when he causes horses to be scratched on his opinion that they are unfit. He did that last Saturday at Hialeah on Fred Hooper's Greek Circle.

Veterinarians claimed the horse was sound but some other experts noticed, as Hartack said he noticed, a peculiar action in the horse's movements before the race. Besides, it was hardly unprecedented; Ted Atkinson has taken himself off mounts in New York when he thought they were sore.

Hartack's legion of fans bristle, as he does, at occasional venomous outbursts by newspapermen who have been cut short by Hartack. It is only fair to point out in this case that he has at times been pestered beyond reason by questioners. One with the patience of Eddie Arcaro puts up with it; Hartack does not.

* * *

A Solitary Battle . . . No Help Wanted

DON'T take even money that Hartack will change.

At his best he can be a charming host. He can be open-handed; he set his father up on a farm of his own, and he is sending a sister through school. But he also can be crabbed and snappish even with his best friends. Basically he does what he pleases when he pleases. He does not care what anyone thinks.

Hartack believes he has battled his way up alone and he will either maintain that position or fall from it the same way.

He fights a solitary battle, asks no helps, wants none. He argues against any obligation to racing: "I owe them the best ride I can give them. That's all."

* * *

Horse Racing vs. 'Hartack Racing'

"I WON'T deny that Hartack brings horse racing publicity that it couldn't buy," says one official. "But he has tried to turn horse racing into jockey racing. Or, more specifically, Hartack racing. Can one man be bigger than all of racing?"

Racing's biggest people say no.

But they don't know what to do about it.

Hartack himself is the only one who can do anything about it.

He doesn't want to.

Yanks Eye California

The New York Times Service

ST. PETERSBURG — There is a strong possibility that within the year the New York Yankees will be seen in action in California, and this appearance is not wholly contingent upon their meeting either the San Francisco Giants or the Los Angeles Dodgers in next October's World Series.

Although the Yanks are keeping silent on the subject, it was learned Thursday that the Bombers and the Dodgers were negotiating for an exhibition game this summer in Los Angeles.

Also in prospect is a Yank trip to the west coast next spring for games with the Giants and the Dodgers.

NHL Helps Dobbyn

BUFFALO — (AP) — Bill Dobbyn, who lost an eye in a hockey game, got $24,937 from the benefit game between the National Hockey League All Stars and his teammates, the Buffalo Bisons, a financial report showed Thursday.

Bell in Hospital

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League was admitted to Lankenau Hospital Thursday for treatment of bronchitis. His condition was reported as good.

Hialeah Cagers Win Title

Hialeah faltered briefly, then Bernie Butts took command and the Thorobreds raced away from Key West, 63-56, Thursday night in the Gold Coast Conference basketball championship playoff at Jackson High.

Behind 13-10 at the end of the first quarter, Butts and his mates applied the pressure with a 22-point second period outburst.

Butts scored 24 points to boost his Dade County season record to 645.

To Handle Foul Claims

For Flamingo: Walkie-Talkies

MIAMI—(AP)—The outriders who take the horses to the post in the $100,000 Flamingo Stakes Saturday at Hialeah will carry two-way radios to try and forestall the confusion of the 1958 race when a foul claim was made and allowed.

After the horses pass the finish line and pull up around the turn any jockey with ideas of a foul claim can notify an outrider who will notify the stewards by radio.

"We do not wish a repetition of last year's Flamingo," Gene Mori, Hialeah president, said.

Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's Jewel's Reward finished first last year, after a bumping session in the stretch with Calumet Farm's Tim Tam. Bill Hartack aboard Tim Tam, claimed a foul against Manuel Ycaza riding Jewel's Reward.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Graham already had been escorted across the track to the winner's circle. She stood there for 15 or 20 minutes before the stewards disqualified her horse and made Tim Tam, who later took the Kentucky Derby, the winner.

NL Batting Champ Ashburn 'in Fold'

By the Associated Press

Richie Ashburn, the National League batting champion, and Felix Mantilla, who is expected to replace ailing Red Schoendienst in the Milwaukee Braves' lineup, signed their 1959 contracts Thursday.

Ashburn, a .350 hitter in 1958 for the Phillies, was reported to have recieved a $6,000 raise, lifting his salary to $38,000. Mantilla's salary was not indicated. The 24-year-old Puerto Rican has been listed as a utility infielder. This year he will get a chance to earn a regular's berth in the second base spot left open when Schoendienst contracted tuberculosis.

The New York Yankees cut their holdout list in half when Third Baseman Andy Carey and rookie First Baseman John Jaciuk came to terms. Carey came into camp and signed in about an hour. He was reported to have received a $3,000 raise to $18,000.

Still unsigned are Mickey Mantle, who officially became a holdout by remaining in Dallas the day he was due to report at St. Petersburg, and Pitcher Virgil Trucks.

Mantilla's signing left five of the Braves who haven't come to terms — Gene Conley, busy playing pro basketball; Joe Adcock, Don McMahon, Del Rice and Casey Wise. The Phillies have four unsigned.

Other players who signed contracts Thursday included veteran Baltimore Outfielder Gene Woodling and Charlie Maxwell of the Detroit Tigers.

The 36-year-old Woodling, believed to be the highest paid Oriole last season, apparently accepted about the same salary. Gene had talked about retiring last summer but admitted then he probably would return for another season "if we decide we need the money."

Infielder Billy Klaus signed late Thursday. Two other Baltimore players — Pitcher Billy Loes and Infielder Bobby Avila — are still out of the fold.

Second baseman Bobby Malkmus signed his contract with the Washington Senators, ending his "holdout."

Team President Calvin Griffith said that he and Outfielder Roy Sievers still are "several thousand dollars apart" in their negotiations.

The Phillies have only three players unsigned — infielders Chico Fernandez and Frank Herrera, who are expected to be no problem, and Dave Philley, part-time first baseman and pinchhitter still unheard from.

Pitchers Ray Semproch and Don Cardwell agreed to terms shortly after Ashburn signed.

Rocca Headlines Rassle Program

Argentine Rocca, wrestling's highest paid performer, headlines tonight's grapple show at Miami Beach Auditorium. He teams with Don Eagle in a two-fall finish scrap against the Graham brothers.

Ray Villmer tackles the Great Zorro and Jack Laskin takes on Ike Eakins in other bouts. The opener is set for 8:45 p.m.

Lyle Evans, W. T. Middleton and the 'Deciding' Coin

. . . flip of fate gave Middleton Saw Grass Special title

'Flip' Awards Trap Honors To Middleton

What 250 shots at 250 targets couldn't settle Thursday afternoon, the flip of a coin did.

W. T. Middleton of Sterling, Ill. took the Saw Grass Special — opening event in the Miami Winter Trap Championships — by that flip of fate after deadlocking Lyle Evans of Camillus, N.Y. in both the regular event and a shootoff.

Both Middleton and Evans cracked 99 of 100 targets from the 16-yard line in the Saw Grass, then went 23x25 in a shootoff over the darkening Trail Trap and Skeet Club range.

Middleton's Class A victory was the only Saw Grass class settled Thursday. Deadlocks in other classes will be shot off today.

In Class B, Robin Weir, E. J. Lisk, Warren Skaden, Raymond Warner and George B. Good tied with 94x100. Class C was a five-way tie between E. S. Freeman, Melvin Fox, Dr. Edwin C. Boyer, Howard Lott and F. D. Saunders with 91s. A. E. Welter and C. J. Stopher had 87s to lead Class D.

James Null Jr. took the Tamiami Handicap title, another 100 target event, with a 98x100 score from the 21-yard line. Sonny Hewes, shooting from the 22-yard line, was second with 96x100.

Miami's Helen DelMonico finished high lady with 94x100 from the 22-yard line.

George Newmaster took the 24-27-yard trophy with 91x100, while Carl Flock topped the 21-23 shooters with 96x100, and John Youngs led the 18-20-yard class with 92x100. Bardon Higgins tied Newmaster in the 24-27-yard event, but forfeited by leaving the grounds before a shootoff was called.

LaGorce's Dobbin, Alling Meet For Title; Mrs. Fuller Scores

Miss Jean Dobbin and Mrs. Eric Alling will meet for the LaGorce Country Club women's championship today, at 9 a.m.

Miss Dobbin downed Mrs. R. Stutzman, 4-3, and Mrs. Alling defeated Mrs. George Blaisdell, 2-up, in Thursday's semifinals.

Results of lower flights:

Championship consolation — Mrs. A. Cerami d. Mrs. C. H. Churchill, 3-2; Mrs. Thomas M. Whyel d. Mrs. M. M. Chapman, 3-1; First flight finals — Mrs. George Baker d. Mrs. William R. Krafft, 1-up; Second flight finals — Mrs. L. G. Hardy Jr., d. Mrs. Carolyn McLaney, 3-2.

Wexler Sues For License

Morris (Mushy) Wexler filed a Circuit Court suit Thursday for a license to race horses on Florida tracks.

The long-time bookie and key figure in the Kefauver investigation of Ohio race wire rackets, asked for review of a Florida Racing Commission hearing.

The commission denied Wexler permits to operate a racing stable in Florida last Dec. 30—after doing the same thing Jan. 2, 1958 and Jan. 3, 1957.

Place in Sun

Lawrence (Mass.) High School's football players have found their place in the sun, a week-long vacation at the Empress Hotel. Last year, the Lawrence gridders lost to Miami Edison here in the post-season Kiwanis Classic, and the weather was horrid. "But it's been fine this time," beams sun-burned Coach Ed Buckley, "and no worry about playing a game." Here, team Capt. Mike DiGaetano applies sun lotion to the back of John Kelleher while Harold Waters looks on. The team flies back tonight.

Alhambra, 'Jive' Draw Top Loads

Fred W. Hooper's Alhambra and John L. Appelbaum's Mister Jive share high weight of 124 pounds for next Wednesday's running of the Armed Handicap, feature of the opening program of the Gulfstream Park meeting. The Armed is at six furlongs and carries $10,000 in added money.

James P. Ross Jr., racing secretary and handicapper, rated this pair on equal terms while Hoop Band from the Price Stable comes next in line under 122 pounds. Four others are listed at 120 pounds. Boncrist Farm's Backbone, M. N. Goodwin's Jimmer, Fred Hooper's Olymar and R. R. Dunlop's White Cachet.

The weights for the six furlong dash then range on down from 119 on Cerasus to 102 on Mosby.

Alhambra earned a high position through seconds in two stakes at Hialeah, one behind Kentucky Pride and the other back of Clem. Mister Jive has been a double winner at Hialeah.

Of the 50 nominees to the Armed, eighteen have been winners during the current winter season, indicating that the starting field is likely to be a bulky one. The complete list of weights is as follows:

Glick, Cudone Advance

ORMOND BEACH —(UPI) —Veteran Evelyn Glick held off a determined bid by upset-minded Barbara Fitton Thursday to take a 1-up victory in the quarter-finals of the South Atlantic Women's Amateur Golf tournament.

Another close match saw Carol Cudone, West Caldwell, N.J., win, 3-2, over Lanny Cranston, San Marino, Calif., who had gained the quarter-finals with a thrilling morning round finish over the rolling Ellinor Village Country Club course.

Defending champion Judy Bell, Wichita, Kan., defeated Norma Shook, Chicago, 3-2; and Medalist Marge Burns, Greensboro, N.C., took an easy 6-5 win over Marilyn Williams, Milwaukee.

Miss Bell and Mrs. Cudone, partners in the Palm Beach Four-Ball tournament earlier this year, are paired Friday in what was described as a "match between friendly veterans." The other semi-final match pits Miss Burns against Mrs. Glick.

Mrs. Glick and Miss Fitton exchanged leads seven times before Mrs. Glick took the deciding advantage on the 16th hole when her opponent's second shot was over the green and she took a bogie. With a 1-up lead, Mrs. Glick won the match by halving the next two holes.

In the most exciting morning round match, Miss Cranston topped Kay Helleur with a 35-foot putt on the 18th green. Miss Fitton won the last two holes in a come-from-behind victory over Tish Preuss.

Favored to Win 17th Straight

Ace Armstrong Meets Scortichini Tonight

NEW YORK — (AP) — Undefeated Gene (Ace) Armstrong Thursday was a 2-1 favorite to rack up his 17th straight victory at the expense of Italo Scortichini, Italy's middleweight champion, tonight.

The two 160-pounders clash in a televised 10-rounder (NBC 10 p.m., EST) at Madison Square Garden.

It will be the second fight of the year for the 27-year-old contender from Elizabeth, N.J., matching his activity for all of 1958.

Armstrong is ranked fifth by the NBA and ninth by Ring on his 16-0 record. Scortichini is not ranked.

A clever boxer with fast hands and legs, the wiry Jerseyite has found it tough to get matches with the other upper echelon middleweights. In his only fights last year, he soundly whipped Charley Joseph and Rory Calhoun. Although he has scored only one knockout, he had the rugged Calhoun on the deck four times.

In his only outing this year, Armstrong decisively outpointed Eddie Dixon, the fighting cop from Newark, N.J., at the Garden, Jan. 9. After the fight, Dixon decided his future would be brighter with the police force and quit the ring.

TV FIGHT

Scortichini is no stranger to the U.S. or the Garden. He campaigned in the States from 1953 through 1956. The curly-haired veteran, now 29, compiled only a so-so record in the ring but made a solid personal hit in the bankroll department. Now he's back for another helping.

"I'm a better fighter than I was then," said the Italian. "I'm heavier and stronger. I know Armstrong is unbeaten but he's only had 16 fights. I've had much more experience. I think I can take him."

A pro 11 years, Scortichini's record is 41-22-7 including 15 knockouts. He won the Italian title by defeating Gino Rossi in Milan last April.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point system also will be used to help break draws.

Armstrong's younger brother, Eddie, meets undefeated Solomon Boysaw (19-0-1) of Cleveland, in a supporting lightweight 10-rounder. Eddie's record is 14-4-1. Another undefeated lightweight, Gene Gresham of Detroit (19-0-1) faces hard-hitting Candy McFarland (13-2-1) of Philadelphia, in another 10-rounder.

Grab Your Fishing Poles, Go to Sea; Mackerel, Bluefish, Trout 'Hungry'

FISHING
with Vic Dunaway

Miami anglers have been blessed with an unusual streak of ideal conditions — fine weather combined with fish that are both plentiful and hungry.

DUNAWAY

One desk-bound citizen looked out the window at a sunny sky, noted reports of sensational mackerel fishing in Biscayne Bay during the week, and commented pessimistically: "Just wait until the weekend."

Most anglers, however, look forward to their free time with happy anticipation, and the recent successes have them raring and ready for action.

The mackerel are in their familiar stomping grounds of the bay, running well around Rickenbacker's middle bridge, and falling in considerable number to small boaters, both in the neighborhood of the causeway and farther south.

And, in addition to mackerel, big bluefish may await the weekend angler. Large numbers of blues in the two-pound class are being taken from bay waters south of Cape Florida, with huskier specimens fairly common around Norris Cut.

A Klein of Alton Boat Company, Miami Beach, checked in 13 bluefish which averaged six pounds for a pair of Miami anglers, Murry Garber and Ernest Levi. These were caught in Norris Cut.

"This is the only big catch I've seen personally," Klein said, "but I have had reliable reports of many fish as big."

Good-sized trout of three to four pounds have also been taken off the Norris flats, and the flats near Mercy Hospital and Dinner Key.

Lake Worth Draws Mackerel Anglers

MACKEREL FISHERMEN from all over South Florida are still being drawn to Lake Worth, the big inland waterway of the Palm Beach area. In the northern section of the lake, roughly between Palm Beach and Riviera Beach, fantastic catches of mackerel have been made each day for 93 consecutive days.

When the water is murky in the lake, silver spoons are the best medicine. Clear water dictates a switch to white nylon jigs.

Mackerel, however, have been falling to every angling system, including the simple process of dragging a cloth or paper strip through the water on a pole. And fly casters have been making hay on the cooperative fish.

Fishermen around the Palm Beaches have found it tough to decide whether to hit the mackerel or to try outside waters where kingfish are equally thick.

Redfish Star at Ten Thousand Islands

TARPON OF ALL SIZES are currently swarming back-country areas near Flamingo. As always, their striking moods are unpredictable, but on good days, dozens of strikes can be expected. Capt. Pat Patton, who guides out of Flamingo, says he has never seen tarpon so numerous at this time of year. Among the best tarpon spots in the area are Mud Bay and Roberts River.

From the Ten Thousand Islands, reports indicate redfish are in the starring role at present, with trout hitting in streaks. Plenty of tarpon are cruising outside areas around passes and river mouths, though the bigger ones are being taken through patient dunking of natural bait.

Bill Ellis of Layton's Long Key Camp says prospects are varied in his neighborhood. Bottom fishermen are having good luck on grouper and rabbit fish. Trolling with feather-strip combinations draws strikes from trout and bluefish, both going up to five pounds.

Trout fishing at Jewfish Creek should hit a peak within about 10 days, according to the prediction of Harry Gilbert at Gilbert's Camp. "It's improving steadily," he says, "with catches right now hitting perhaps a dozen trout — some of them pretty good ones. Groupers are biting in Barnes Sound, both on bottom baits and on drifted shrimp and strips."

38-POUND SNOOK is displayed by W. J. Sellers of Hobe Sound. The 89-year-old angler used live shrimp to hook his 48-inch prize off the Roosevelt Bridge at Stuart.

Meyner in Florida to Get Award

End Segregation, Gov. Meyner Asks

By JOHN McDERMOTT
Herald Political Writer

Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, a probable presidential candidate in 1960, pleaded Thursday night for an ending of racial discrimination and segregation.

Addressing the first annual Herbert H. Lehman Award Dinner at the Diplomat Hotel in Hallandale, the Democratic governor called on the American people to set an example for the rest of the world.

Earlier in an interview he said that New Jersey, like the South, has had its racial problems.

"We still have some discrimination," he said, "but we try to work it out through negotiations by sitting down and discussing our differences."

More than 350 American and Canadian guests saw Meyner and Jack D. Weiler, New York realty dealer and philanthropist, presented with the Lehman Awards sponsored by the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

Meyner explained New Jersey's handling of the race problem during his interview.

He said his state's educational system includes a "Division Against Discrimination" to arbitrate and settle racial problems.

New Jersey, he said, has more than 400,000 Negroes—about eight per cent of 5,500,000 residents.

"Integration has worked out well," he said.

"Prior to 1947, many schools in southern New Jersey were segregated. So were schools in some of our better residential areas.

"Over the years, with understanding and negotiation, we have been able to work out our differences."

One of the most successful ways to solve these delicate problems is to let citizens committees, appointed by the mayors or other public officials, plan a course of action based on study, understanding and negotiation, he said.

In state government, the New Jersey governor said, he has tried to be impartial in his selection of officials.

Appointments should be based on ability, not on race or color, he said.

Meyner said that among his own appointments are the chairman of the New Jersey Parole Board, a judge and the head of a division in the State Highway Department. All are Negroes.

Admittedly, the crime rate among Negroes is high, he said.

This he blames on poor, crowded living conditions and lack of opportunity over the years.

What about his own presidential prospects?

Gov. Meyner indicated he is available.

"My term as governor runs until 1962," he said.

"If there is any political future for me it is in the terms of what I do as governor."

He said he hopes to lead a "unified" delegation from his state to the National Democratic Convention next summer.

Will he be a "favorite son" candidate?

"I wasn't in 1956 when there was some effort in my behalf," he said. "New Jersey delegates will be elected next spring.

"I'm not a boss. I'm a leader," he said.

School Board To Ask Cash For Safety

The chairman of the Dade County School Board said Thursday he will ask for $100,000 to eliminate fire hazards in the public schools.

Dr. C. Raymond Van Dusen said he will seek to have the special appropriation included in the next budget, which will be set in March and become effective July 1.

"The entire amount may not be necessary," Van Dusen said, "but we'll have to do a 100 per cent job in correcting overall conditions and remedying specific flaws."

The chairman said the school board has been conducting a stepped-up safety campaign since mid-December in cooperation with the firedepartments of each municipality and the Metro government.

Van Dusen said the job of correcting faults as they were called to officials' attention lies with the administration, but the Board sets the policy as to what officials should do."

U.S., Poles Will Discuss New Treaty

The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The U.S. and Poland will open talks next week on a new sales and loan agreement, informed sources here disclosed.

In Warsaw, talks will begin simultaneously to settle the claims of U.S. citizens who lost property in Poland as a result of Poland's nationalization program.

This double diplomatic move is designed to keep open one of the few existing avenues of contact between this country and Communist - run Eastern Europe.

It is aimed, further at demonstrating U.S. interest in the welfare of the Polish people and at encouraging those inside Poland who seek to follow a course in foreign affairs as independent as possible of Moscow's domination.

It is assumed by experts here that the U.S. will agree to sell Poland about 80 million-dollars worth of surplus agricultural products, mostly cereal and feed grains and cotton.

The U.S. also will probably extend credits of about 15 million-dollars from the President's special assistance fund for Polish purchases of industrial equipment in the U.S.

Rights Suspended

Rhodesia Moves To Outlaw Rebels

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia —(AP)— White authorities threw up a legal roadblock Thursday to bar from this British territory the Nationalist unrest surging across much of Africa.

Prime Minister Sir Edgar Whitehead declared a state of emergency and outlawed Rhodesian branches of the African National Congress, spearhead of a native movement to break white political control.

Police raiding squads rounded up scores of Congress leaders and other Negroes under a tactical plan drawn up two months ago.

Whitehead announced that police arrested between 250 and 500 persons involved in what he called a vain attempt to undermine the loyalty of the government's African employes. He said he is confident the roundup will be completeed soon.

Under the state of emergency, his government can detain anyone for a month. It bans gatherings of more than three persons, sets a curfew and prohibits publication of information about Southern Rhodesia's security forces.

Two of the prisoners, are James Chikerema, acting president of the Congress in Southern Rhodesia, and George Nyandoro, the general secretary.

Nyasaland disorders have threatened to develop into a head-on-clash between Negroes and whites.

These are part of a series of riots and other incidents that have cast a menacing shadow this week across the French Congo, Belgian Congo, Italian-run Somalia, the Central African Federation and South Africa. Their only apparent link is a restless surge for independence.

Ike Names Mrs. Luce As Envoy

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Thursday nominated Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, former U. S, ambassador to Italy, to be ambassador to Brazil.

Mrs. Luce, wife of Henry R. Luce, editor-in-chief of Time and Life magazines, retired as ambassador to Italy because of illness brought on by accidental poisoning.

The President named her to succeed Ellis O. Briggs in the Brazilian post.

There was no immediate announcement as to where Briggs, a top career diplomat, would be assigned next. There was some indication he might be named ambassador to Greece.

Mrs. Luce was active in Republican politics before she entered diplomatic service. She served a term in the House as a GOP representative from Connecticut.

In addition she has been a magazine editor, playwright, newspaper columnist, and lecturer.

Venus Shot Scheduled For June

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An informed source said Thursday the U. S. may fire two space probes at Venus next June, one to orbit the planet and the other to go on past it.

The launchings are said to have been scheduled tentatively for June 9 and June 12. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes to accomplish them with Thor-Able and Atlas-Able rocket combinations.

NASA representatives acknowledged that Venus and Mars probes are planned, but said no definite dates have been set. They said space programs are often subject to changes of schedule.

However, Venus is in the most favorable position for a probe launching about June 8. A vehicle launched on that date would have to follow an arc of some 250 million miles through space and would intercept Venus about Nov. 1 to 5, 145 to 150 days later.

After mid-June, there will not be an equally favorable launching date until Jan. 13, 1961. Other most favorable dates for an earth-to-Venus shot in the next decade have been calculated at Aug. 16, 1962, March 28, 1964, Oct. 27, 1965, June 5, 1967, and Jan. 11, 1969.

By comparison, in the same time period the most favorable launching dates for a Mars shot are Oct. 1, 1960, Nov. 16, 1962, Dec. 23, 1964, Jan. 26, 1967, and Feb. 28, 1969.

Violinist Heard by Civic Unit

By DORIS RENO
Herald Music Editor

A Music Review

Violinist Issac Stern played his fourth recital for members of Miami Civic Music Association to a nearly full house Thursday evening in Dade County auditorium. It was his second recital for this membership in two years.

Somehow it was not a very inspired or inspiring evening of music, though where the trouble lay, except perhaps in the program itself, it would be difficult to say — since Mr. Stern is at all times the master of his instrument, and the possessor of a warm full tone and such a fabulous technique that playing the violin seems almost too easy for him.

With Handel's Sonata in E major, which began the evening, the violinist communicated more than during all the rest of the program put together until he came to the Four Rumanian Dances of Bartok, the last encore and the other high spot of the recital.

The Handel is a lovely, serene, openhearted and confident work, which though dramatic in the composer's day seems calm by all our own standards—and Stern played it that way, with a long line and sympathetic, ingratiating tone.

Alexander Zakin, Stern's long-standing sonata partner, took equal responsibility at the piano. He is an excellent pianist and complements Stern well.

The two artists provided a very contained, uncomplicated (except technically) reading of the Beethoven Kreutzer Sonata in A major which was on the whole disappointing, though the Andante variations were performed singingly and with grace.

Perhaps it isn't fundamentally a communicative or an integrated work; anyhow, it didn't come off, and there was some restlessness with the program expressed during the intermission.

The Chausson Poeme was presented with taste and flair, but not too much personal involvement with the music, and the rest of the pieces played were minor in nature.

They included an Intermezzo by Schumann and a Scherzo by Brahms, both part of the youthful occasional "F.A.E. Sonata" done by these composers in collaboration, and the dazzling Notturno and Tarantella by the Polish composer Karol Szymanowski, written as a showpiece for virtuoso violinists.

As Szymanowski died in 1937 and was a romantic anyway, the 20th century was scarcely touched upon except for the wonderful Bartok dances and a mild Siciliana and Rigadon of Kreisler, also added as encores.

We longed for more Bartok, and for some Bach, which Stern has always played so magnificently. Perhaps — next time.

Death Ends Hunt For Wife

MADISON, Wis. — (AP) — Death has ended the search of a childless 79-year-old millionaire for a wife with whom to start a new family.

The tale unfolded in county court as counsel for the late Louis F. Schoelkopf explained why the pioneer auto dealer left nearly $600,000 of his estate uncommitted in bequests.

Attorney Charles Riley told Judge L. L. Darling that Scholekopf, whose first wife died about 10 years ago, "was looking for a wife until he died. He was going about the country looking for a girl or lady who would marry him.

"He wanted to have a child of his own. He thought he would save that much of the estate for his own child and wife," Riley said.

The will provided for a specific bequest of $400,000 to the University of Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation and some $31,000 to nieces and nephews. Two stepdaughters received nothing under terms of the document.

Judge Darling ordered the will admitted to probate. The residue of the estate will be divided among the nieces and nephews.

SHOULD YOU ENCOURAGE A SHY CHILD TO PLAY WITH OTHER CHILDREN?
YES ☐
NO ☐
2.
DOES FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY STIMULATE A MAN'S AMBITION?
YES ☐ NO ☐

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

YES, PROVIDED that you don't expect that this alone will do the trick. Child guidance experts Leslie Rosenthal and Leo Nagelberg tell of instances of children who were still shy after three years in groups with other children. The group experience helped but it wasn't enough. Some children also need individual attention by a trained expert, such as an adjustment teacher or a counselor who specializes in children's problems.

2. Yes. When a man marries he takes on solid responsibilities of establishing and maintaining a home. As children come, his concern for them stimulates him to provide not only for their present welfare, but for their education and their future. His wife encourages him to get ahead because only through his success can she and the children get some of the things they want. She may do harm if she expects too much, but certainly she is often an important stimulus.

EXPERIENCED TELEPHONE SALESMEN AND WOMEN. LUCRATIVE EARNINGS, DAY AND NIGHT POSITIONS. PL 7-8711.

Reading Time 1 Minute 45 Seconds

TWO minutes spent reading this ad can spell the difference between success and failure in your choice of a selling career. If you're making your choice wisely the following facts are of prime interest to you:

1. Popularity of product
2. Turnover of sales department
3. Actual earning of present salesmen
4. Reputation of company
   a. For fair dealing
   b. For sales leadership

IN THESE days of phony deals, wild promises and half-baked propositions, a salesman should choose with care. Your first concern should be whether or not you're getting facts or fiction. Only facts are worth any interest on your part.

WE'LL start with fact No. 1: The English Ford is outselling it's competitive makes by more than 4 to 1 in Dade County. Last month we sold more English Fords than any dealer in the United States. Fact No. 2: We have less turnover of salesmen than any similar sales organization. Fact No. 3: In January our low man made $360.99, our top man made $922.08. The average was $542.49. Fact No. 4: Our reputation for fair dealing and sales leadership is known by everyone in Dade County both in and out of the automobile business.

THESE men earned the above on a 6 day week basis with no canvassing or outside solicitation. Our advertising campaign and previous owners provide all the prospects a salesman can handle. Our cars also enjoy the most favorable bank financing in the industry.

IF SELECTED you will drive a new English Ford Demonstrator and receive prizes and bonuses plus a paid vacation.

NATURALLY — we do not hire any Tom, Dick or Harry for the above job. In order to qualify you must have a successful selling record in big ticket items. (Automobile experience not necessary.) We prefer married men with plenty of kids who own their own homes and have a record of leadership in their field. Please allow 1 hour for application and interview anytime after 9:00 A.M.

POWER STEERING

HERE'S another one of those automobiles that's hard to do justice to in print. It's our 1953 CHEVROLET 9 PASSENGER 4 door STATIONWAGON. It's a beautiful automobile finished in cool and spotless two tone Arlington over Springmist Green. The entire interior including the green leather trimmed seats and doorpanels, headliner and floor mats is completely factory original and way above average.

JUST look at the extras in this double duty hard to find automobile. Besides the POWER STEERING you'll have POWERGLIDE automatic transmission, the big "8" tube DeLuxe push button radio, Chevrolet's thermostat heating and fresh air system, directional signals, clock and A-1 white wall tires. It even has a Kleenex dispenser. Here's the best part. It's guaranteed in writing for 90 days by Grentner Bros. and No Cash Needed — Just trade in your 1949 model for the down payment.

Hoffa to Collins: Spread Wealth

'Worry About Living Costs, Not About Me,' Teamster Says

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Teamster boss Jimmy Hoffa told Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday to "worry more about Florida's working people and their living standard — and less about Hoffa."

Collins on Wednesday had described the diminutive leader of the giant union as "discredited," and said he wished Hoffa "would keep out of Florida."

"The less we see of him the better," the governor added.

Hoffa is in Miami for a Teamsters' executive board meeting.

HOFFA

COLLINS

Tying himself to the labor movement as a whole, Hoffa said, "I don't think Collins can talk about Hoffa without speaking against the Teamsters and all working people in Florida.

"If the governor would push some legislation to raise minimum wages and the workers' living standards, then the people wouldn't seek union help," the labor leader told a press conference.

"There's too big a spread in Florida," he said, "between wealth and poverty.

"And you need something besides sun to enjoy life in Florida," Hoffa added.

Ready to go with his reply to the governor, the labor leader paused and then said, "Well, I really think he was just doing a little campaigning for Collins."

Hoffa interrupted his daylong sessions with the Teamsters Thursday, flying to Philadelphia for a rank-and-file union testimonial dinner. The banquet honors Raymond Cohen, a Philadelphia Teamsters kingpin whom Hoffa is trying to oust.

The Teamster boss denied "there is anything unusual in my attendance," and called it a "rank-and-file dinner which Cohen is privileged to attend."

There was no word from Teamster officials as to their next move toward infiltrating the nation's airline industry.

Hoffa's union gained the first step Wednesday when it was certified as the bargaining agent for some 800 Pan American Airways stock clerks, 268 of whom work in Miami.

The stock clerks switched from the International Association of Machinists to join the Teamsters. Thursday, George Browne, general chairman of District 100 which had the clerks, said "it was no grievous loss.

"We have 7,000 members, and dropping the PAA stock clerks won't hurt us." He said they were "long delinquent" in their per capita dues.

Browne also tossed a barb Hoffa's way when he added:

"Jimmy Hoffa has no business representing anyone on the airlines other than his truck drivers. He's got the door open now, however, and probably will go for the maintenance men next."

The IAM now represents the maintenance men on several airlines, including Eastern Air Lines in Miami.

Hialeah Gets Approval on Water Tank

Hialeah will get a two-million-gallon water storage tank to boost pressure and provide for expansion in its fast-growing northwest section as the result of Florida Supreme Court action in Tallahassee.

About $100,000 of a total of $450,000 in water revenue certificates validated by the high court will go to construction of the tank. It will be located at Ludlum Road and NW 138th Street. Work on the project is scheduled to start in June.

Another $340,000 of the revenue certificates validated will go to existing water department debts for past expansion, Earl C. Crooks, water department director said.

The remainder will go for improvement of existing lines to increase pressure throughout the city, Crooks said.

Hialeah buys its water from the city of Miami. Its system serves 18,500 homes and the Hialeah industrial district.

One Moonshiner Out of Business

Federal agents relaxed Thursday with the thought that when oft-accused moonshiner Frank Lester Brock, 48, winds up his affairs in 30 days it will wind up some of theirs.

Three indictments against Brock, of 3401 NW 48th St., drew him a five-year sentence from Federal Judge Emett Choate and following that five years of probation. The judges gave Brock 30 days to wind up his affairs.

Brock was held in three cases originating near here and at Jacksonville.

'Taxpayers' Revolt' Gains Speed

RITZVILLE, Wash. —(AP)— A "nonpartisan taxpayers' revolt" that started here over a cup of coffee went into its third week Thursday with the letter-writing campaign spreading to the far corners of the state.

An estimated 10,000 or more revolt-inspired form letters have poured in on state legislators in Olympia, and Gov. Albert D. Rosellini's office said he has received 1,358 of them.

In addition, thousands of companion petitions were being circulated, the signers pledging not to ask for additional services from state government and demanding in return that no new tax laws be passed.

"The campaign has exceeded our wildest dreams," said Edward Cross, an attorney who helped start it here. "With all the phone calls, my practice has gone by the boards. We've really got a tiger by the tail."

It started at a Lions Club meeting in this town of 2,200 on Feb. 11 when Bryson Reinhardt, a Wenatchee, Wash., salesman, made a speech about government and taxes.

"When it was over, some of us got to talking and decided that's what we always do — just talks," Cross said. "We agreed to meet for coffee next morning and consider some kind of petition and form letter."

Twenty men showed up, then 40 more joined in, $300 was collected for printing and a nameless organization was born with an eight-man steering committee headed by Ralph Danekas, a mortician who says he is politically independent.

"It's a completely nonpartisan, grass roots effort," said Cross, a former Republican county prosecutor. The steering committee includes Roy Scott, one-time Democratic county commissioner.

The original goal was to get 1,500 signatures on a "no-new-services, no-new-taxes" petition in the local Adams county. Cross said they got 1,150 in three days and that the idea "snowballed."

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

BELL

GENE MORI gave a party at Hialeah Park. 'Twas basically a breakfast for turf writers, but he included me in. The town's hummin' these days, with the Flamingo comin' up Saturday and baseball just down the road.

No place in Miami is so picturesque as Hialeah Park on a sunny morning. Prancing thoroughbreds come onto the track by the dozens, gallop as they tug at the bit, begging the exercise boys to turn them loose. Most of them wind up doing the full speed chore singly. But occasionally you'll see a real hoss race.

Exercise boys don't wear the flaming stable colors you see when the pari-mutuel windows open. But they sing and chatter and have lots more fun than the official jocks. The flamingos usually sit quietly, making a brilliant pink island in the lake. Swans, ducks, occasional wild bird visitors and big coveys of grackles keep the infield alive.

Up in the grandstand at the finish wire sit clockers, make believe clockers and just plain kibitzers. Some of of them, I'm told, know every horse in the barns. But I've a hunch they get a bit of workout inventory.

P.S. The breakfast was super—with the biggest strawberries I ever saw.

For Church

Diosa Costello is a Puerto Rican entertainer. Her show has run at the Lucerne Hotel in Miami Beach for almost two years, with no sign of declining patronage. That's a miracle.

St. Michael's, 2935 W. Flagler St., is a Spanish-speaking Catholic Church in Miami. Diosa's mother worshipped there until her death. Diosa, eager to do something in her mother's memory, is starting a campaign to enlarge the church. It has become much too small.

So Diosa and her entire troupe will give a huge variety show at Dade County Auditorium Sunday, March 8, at 3 p.m. They're calling it the Pan American Festival.

Not All Broke

All hoss players and fighters are bound to die broke. That's the adage, but there are exceptions. I met an old time fighter recently, Jimmie Bryson. He's such an exception that he handed me $100 to send children to summer camp. Jimmy owns package stores.

Busy Refugee

The Inca Lounge will be one of the features at the new Everglades Hotel. The Inca statues and light shields you'll see there are the creations of Joe Rosner, a German refugee sculptor. The fisherman with his net at the fountain also is his work. Joe did the seven-foot knights in armor you've seen at King Arthur's Court at Miami Springs Villas.

Hotel Boom

So how's business??????

The great pastime in this glorious bit of confusion called Greater Miami is to compare this season's business with last season. If you don't do it you're not cool, man.

Well, Gootsie Palmer is general manager of Dupont Plaza Hotel operations and decided to compare. Dupont Plaza opened Feb. 19, 1958. Room occupancy for the first week was 11 per cent. So Gootsie compared those figures with the same period this February.

"Business has increased 890 per cent," he cried.

Vizcaya will be over-run by artists Sunday, good, bad, worse——and all enthusiastic. It's a sponsorship of the Miami Art League, called Artists' Day. Bring your tools and you'll get in free.

And Sunday, March 8, the Art League will have a clothesline exhibition of the paintings done this Sunday.

That reminds me: Gallery Restaurant is having a four-artist exhibit Sunday afternoon. $1 admission which goes to the Heart Fund. You get a champagne cocktail, too. The exhibits will remain a month. All sales are split evenly between Heart Fund and the artist.

Doctor Said She'd Never Walk Again
. . . but five months later she's swimming at Beach

Florida Sunshine Brings Health to Soap Opera Star

By PHIL MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

A star of radio soap operas, whose doctor told her last fall she'd probably never walk again, was bounding around in the Miami sunshine Thursday, almost as good as new.

"My voice still isn't right, though," warbled Charlotte Manson, who broke her back in a fall last September. "I can't speak from the diaphragm."

"That's near the sacrum," she explained, pointing to her sacrum, the lowest bone in the spine. "And the fracture line gets in the way."

Miss Manson, who used to be Randy in "King's Row," was most recently Gillian Gray in "This Is Nora Drake." She took the part just two and a half months after she tumbled off a sun deck at Ocean Beach, N. Y., and woke up in a hospital to hear a doctor say:

"You'll never walk again, girl."

"He had a thick Southern accent," she recalled Thursday. "I just looked at him and said, 'You shouldn't be thinking negatively.'"

Miss Manson was moved to a New York City hospital, and two weeks later felt like getting up and walking. So she did.

"I felt this surge of energy and just got up and walked around," she said.

Amazed doctors put her back to bed and fitted her with a steel brace. She went home, worked a little in front of the microphones, and last week the doctors removed the brace.

Now she swims and walks in the Florida sun outside the Montmarte Hotel to restore her strength. "This is my third day here, and I'm beginning to do better already," she said.

"I'm going to shoot a pilot film for television at Palm Beach. It's for a detective series—I'm not actually the soap opera type, you know. The women I play aren't clinging vines."

"Like I told one of those doctors, I said, 'Listen, you, I've got more starch in my backbone than you have in all of that white suit.'"

She said it with feeling. Sacrum or no sacrum.

A little girl clutching a bag of candy darted across a Miami street to her death Thursday.

Deborah Townsend, 9, ran into the path of a Miami Transit bus which hurled her 20 yards, killing her.

She was the second traffic fatality of the day.

Joseph Norton, 81, who was struck by a car on Feb. 4, died at a Miami hospital.

Witnesses gave this account of Deborah's death:

She had bought a bag of candy at a store across from her house, 1237 NW 62nd St., and ran into 62nd St. from between two cars.

The bus, driven by Lewis R. Booth, 35, of 40 NW 62nd St., swerved, but could not avoid Deborah, said Accident Investigator M. E. Gracey.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Townsend.

In another accident, Howard Allen Pecquet, 5, ran across NW 14th St. and was hit by a car. He suffered a broken arm.

The driver, Andrew Buonocore, 64, of 3170 SW Eighth St., could not avoid hitting the boy, Accident Investigator Art Shellenberger said.

Howard, son of Mrs. Sarah Pecquet, of 1616 NW Seventh Ct., was listed in serious condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital.

Services for Mr. Norton, who lived at 727 NW First St., will be in Ocean City, N. J., with Philbricks in charge here.

He is survived by his wife, Antionette, and four daughters and a son, all out of town.

Can't Afford the Prizes

Woe Is Me, Says TV Winner

"Congratulations," said the letter. "You win a fur coat, a motorboat engine, washer and dryer, bicycle, typewriter, watch, and complete workshop."

And the winner, Mrs. William Powell, a bespectacled 42-year-old housewife at 17101 NW 37th Ave., started counting her gray hairs.

Her woe? Taxes. "I don't know if I can afford to accept," she said. "We're already in debt."

Mrs. Powell tore off a toothpaste tube label last October,

NO!-I WIN!
YOU WIN

and jotted down her estimate for the retail price of a flock of items in a television contest sponsored by Lever Brothers, "The Price Is Right."

Thursday she got the news she had won.

But a tax lawyer said the income tax will amount to about $482. Her husband is a $100-a-week foundry worker and they have three children. The prizes are worth about $2,700.

So Mrs. Powell has a question. Does anybody want to buy a fur coat, motorboat engine, washer and dryer, bicycle, typewriter, watch and complete workshop?

Metro Getting Tough With Traffic Courts

City Frees Suspect in Metro Row

Refuses to Give Case to County

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

The City of Miami withdrew drunken and reckless driving charges against a truck driver Thursday rather than bow to Metro Traffic Court.

City attorneys had been ordered by Circuit Judge J. Fritz Gordon to either file the charges against John J. Haggerty in Metro Court by 5 p.m. or release Haggerty from city jail.

Haggerty, 52, of 819 NE 82nd Ter., was arrested Feb. 18 at N. Miami Ave. and 62nd St. after his truck hit the rear bumper of a Cadillac being driven into a service station. He had been held for trial in Miami Municipal Court today.

His attorneys cited a Supreme Court decision and several Circuit Court actions upholding Metro Court jurisdiction over city courts in Miami, Miami Beach and Miami Shores.

Judge Gordon gave city attorneys eight hours to decide. After conferences, Assistant City Attorney Vivion Rutherford said the Haggerty cases would not be prosecuted at all, "rather than establish a precedent."

County Attorney Darrey Davis said that all circuit judges in every case "have uniformly ruled that municipal courts have no jurisdiction or power in these traffic cases, and it seems rather strange to me that they would drop charges against a driver they believe guilty rather than try his case in Metro Court."

Rutherford reported to Judge Gordon that Haggerty was being freed at 2:35 p.m., and there was no further need for a habeas corpus writ.

Cuba Police Held Him, Patten Says

Cuba secret police held him four hours at Havana's airport Wednesday, Metro Commissioner Arthur Patten charged angrily. He said they searched him, accused him of smuggling currency and "tried to shake me down."

Patten said he will make an official protest to the Cuban government.

The commissioner identified "Jose Castro Calderon" as the leader of the Cubans who detained him as he tried to leave on a chartered plane. Patten was returning from a Cuban independence day celebration to which Metro officials had been invited by Fidel Castro

When he protested he was an American official in Cuba by invitation, Patten said, "Calderon" sneered and told him, "You may be a big man in your country, but here you're nothing."

Patten said he was finally allowed to leave after telephoning Cuban President Urrutia's office.

The First Real Clue to Death

Slain Woman's Wallet Returned By Mail

By AL FINKELSTEIN
Herald Staff Writer

The crimson plastic wallet of a slain Miami airlines clerk was mysteriously mailed to the Miami International Air Depot Thursday night, The Herald learned.

Metro homicide detectives refused to elaborate — but conceded it was the first "outside break" they have had toward solving the killing of Mrs. Mary Louise Meslener, 23-year-old reservations agent at National Air Lines.

The Air Depot is located just west of the airline office and her car had been parked directly beside it.

The wallet was returned in a paper package. A $5 bill that was in it was missing together with other papers.

The Herald also learned Air Force officials immediately began their own investigation among MIAD personnel to determine if any of the 116 men at the base had any knowledge of Tuesday's slaying.

The victim's wallet was identified for Metro police by her brother, William Harvey, with whom she and her husband, Frank, 29, had lived at 19320 NW Seventh Ct.

However, no trace of the blonde, pony-tailed woman's 1958 Rambler turned up after a 16-hour air-land search, according to T. A. Buchanan, Metro homicide detective chief.

Even as Metro detectives continued a round-the-clock lookout for the car, the dead woman's husband "wondered" Thursday if his wife's killer might have known that Monday and Wednesday were the only two days on which she drove home alone from work.

Every other day, Meslener said, he picked up his wife when her work ended at 7:30 p.m. and drove to their in-laws home.

But on Mondays and Wednesdays, the Bronx, N.Y., auto mechanic student said he attended night classes at Lindsey Hopkins Vocational School, and his wife drove the car to work.

Fishermen found the blonde woman's body Tuesday morning on the bank of the Miami River, near NW South River Dr. and 75th Ave. — about seven miles from where she had parked her car.

Meanwhile, at the home of his brother-in-law, Meslener sat quietly, answered questions softly — and pondered:

"She didn't know anybody here . . . She used to come right home . . . She was quiet, the home type . . . She never picked up hitchhikers.

"Why . . . why would somebody want to harm her?"

The couple had been married five years, had no children, decided to come to Miami to get into the service station business with the Harveys.

In New York, Meslener was in the refrigeration business; his wife was a telephone operator with the New York Telephone Co.

At National Air Lines, Mrs. Meslener's immediate superiors said she was "a quiet girl . . . neat." It was only her second week on the job.

The couple came to Miami four month ago. Meslener enrolled immediately in his night course; his wife had applied to NAL in November, but was not hired until two weeks ago.

Wedding Day Was Happy One for Mesleners

Shoes Wet, Man Killed

A 31-year-old Negro laborer was electrocuted Thursday noon when police said he picked up a 120-volt electric saw after emerging wet from a swimming pool in which he was working.

The victim, Junior Harden, 6156 SW 66th Ter., was employed by Vic Polk Swimming Pools and was working on construction of a pool at 3851 Braganza St., Coconut Grove.

His shoes and socks still wet after leaving the pool, he picked up the tool without first taking precautions to ground it properly, police said.

Butt Too Much, She Gets $250

Mrs. Stella Stern, 544 NW 18th Ave., gulped a cigaret butt with her ice cream in a Miami Beach hotel coffee shop last August and still can't eat ice cream.

She told her story Thursday to Small Claims Court Judge Sidney Segall, who awarded her $250 damages against the Empress Hotel management, 4333 Collins Ave. Mrs. Stern is a non-smoker.

Union Set to Start To Keep Hoffa Out

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Jimmy Hoffa, two-fisted Teamsters Union boss who has tangled with a variety of opponents, ranging from labor hoodlums to the federal government, was matched against a new foe in Miami Thursday.

John Della Jacova, 42 of 671 NE 75th St., reported he is starting an independent union to fight a Teamsters organizing drive here to sign up door men, parking lot attendants, gas station employes and cab drivers.

Going a step further, Jacova is including automobile salesmen in his campaign.

"I've been approached by a lot of these guys to set up an independent union against the Teamsters," he explained. "I don't have to tell you why they don't want to be represented by Hoffa."

He indicated they were opposed to the Teamsters because of the series of scandals which follow in the union's wake, and because of Hoffa's iron grip on the controls.

"Many of those who have already signed with the Teamsters did it because they were afraid not to," contended Jacova.

A former owner of the doormen's concession at several big Miami Beach hotels, Jacova doesn't consider himself a set-up for Hoffa.

He estimates he can sign up 2,000 workers without too much trouble.

Jacova is scheduled to appear before Circuit Judge Robert Floyd March 3 to request a charter for his union.

"The Teamsters know about this and are working fast and furious to sign up as many men as they can," he claimed.

This is Jacova's first venture in union organization, he said.

$7 Million Available For Tollroad

Metro can draw another seven million dollars for road construction from its open-end 25-million-dollar bond issue for financing the 36th St. tollroad, State Road Board Member William Singer told the commission Thursday.

But there are no plans to use the available money, Metro Traffic Engineer George Kunde told The Herald.

"True, the revenues from this tollroad could support a 32-million-dollar loan," Kunde said. "But if we borrowed the full amount, road revenues greater than the amount needed to pay off the bonds would have to be turned over to the banks.

"It's better to let the extra credit ride," Kunde said, "and retain the surplus tollroad revenues to use in repairing existing secondary streets."

Singer told the Commission the 36th St. road, running from the midtown interchange to Miami International Airport, will be ready in 1961.

Attorney Will Sue For Order

Miami Is First Target of Action

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

Metro commissioners got tough Thursday with Dade cities which are ignoring the Supreme Court-backed authority of Metro Court in trafifc cases, and voted to force cooperation "by all legal means possible."

County Attorney Darrey A. Davis said he will file suit in Circuit Court within 10 days. He will ask for an order to all Dade municipalities to dissolve their own traffic courts and yield to Metro.

The commission action, proposed by Arthur Patten and and carried unanimously, was Metro's most forceful move so far to end an impasse with a city over any phase of county government expansion.

The Supreme Court ruled last Dec. 28 that Metro's is the proper court for trying all traffic offenses in Dade County.

Three smaller municipalities have already signed court-merger pacts with Metro. But the cities with the busiest traffic courts — Miami, Coral Gables and Miami Beach — have balked.

Davis said he may elect to "take on the biggest foe first, Miami," instead of naming all 26 Dade cities as defendants in the suit.

Acting Miami City Attorney Jack Rice told The Herald he is ready to get just as tough as Metro in resisting court consolidation.

"Let Davis file his suits," Rice said. "Metro has been trying to get our court for a long time, and we're still operating."

Patten said "the time is past when we should wait for people to agree to abide by the law. The Supreme Court has spoken, and we have the power and duty to see that the law is complied with."

Davis agreed, saying Metro's attempt "to educate the cities into cooperation has failed."

The high court's decree became final Feb. 20, when it refused to rehear the original suit challenging Metro court, brought by Miami Shores.

Miami officials have contended they are already complying with the Supreme Court ruling, which they interpreted as backing only Metro's authority to set minimum standards for traffic codes and courts. Miami has also contended its court and code were superior to Metro standards.

"Metro traffic code is not anywhere near as comprehensive as ours," Miami Attorney Rice said. "If Metro takes over, our fine laws on one-way streets, obstructions in the roads, and other matters will go unenforced."

Commissioners directed Senior Metro Judge Jack M. Turner to make specific recommendations on the additional judges, courtrooms and staffers he will need in a county-wide operation.

Turner has said Metro judges will have to be increased from the present three to eight in order to handle an estimated case-load of 120,000 a year.

Golfer Fights for Own Cart

A golfer who hates to walk sued the City of Miami Beach Thursday.

Bernard Cumes, 2101 Calais Dr., was irritated because the management of city-owned Bayshore Golf Course wouldn't let him buzz around in his own private electric powered cart.

So Thursday Cumes filed an injunction suit, claiming his cart was "an accepted mode of conveyance."

"Clubs and electric powered carts are so much a complement of a golfers' equipment," said Golfer Cumes, "that the loss of one is as disastrous as the loss of the other."

Golf used to be just a "raw undeveloped pastime for rich old men," said Taxpayer Cumes. "But now it is a highly polished scientific sport."

HONEST JUDGE, I NEED IT!
ELECTRIC CART

At the bottom of Cumes' woe is Morris Lipp, city manager.

In a recent ruling, Lipp said electric carts are all right but not privately owned electric carts.

The city, it seems, leases out a concession on the course and the concessionaires want to rent out electric carts themselves.

Ervin Opens Door To Bottling Plant

An attorney general's opinion Thursday cleared the way for licensing Schenley Industries Inc. as a wine bottler in Hialeah.

The proposed bottling plant would be located at 550 W. 20th St.

Attorney General Richard Ervin wrote the opinion for State Beverage Director H. G. Cochran to clear up several technical points that arose because Schenley manufactures liquor in other states.

Cochran said he had not yet actually issued the license for the Hialeah bottling plant pending a study of the opinion.

Riccio Wants License Back

Anthony Riccio Thursday asked to get back the liquor license he once held at his well-known "Riccio's Italian And American Restaurant," 991 NE 79th St.

A suit, filed before Circuit Judge Marshall C. Wiseheart would compel the State Beverage Department to grant a "special" permit.

Riccio had the license between 1954 and 1956 when the business went into bankruptcy and the license was sold and transferred under a bankruptcy sale.

'If You Want My Blood, Here It Is'

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— "If you want my blood, then take it," screamed Richard Roberson as he sliced open his arm with a razor in court Thursday.

He was awaiting trial on a narcotics charge.

Deputies overpowered the 28-year-old man and medical technicians applied a tourniquet to his arm.

Roberson's mother, sitting in the courtroom for the trial, fainted when her son started hacking at his arm.

A defending attorney said Roberson wanted to plead guilty to narcotics addiction, but the district attorney refused the request because of Roberson's previous record.

Roberson, sitting in the prisoners' dock, suddenly jumped to his feet, yelled: "Why can't I get a plea of addiction? Everyone else does." Then he pulled the razor from his pocket, yelled again, and started cutting himself. Deputy Louis Heyd Jr. said he did not know how Roberson got the razor.

Airport Employes Seek Cafe

Airline workers at Miami's new multi-million dollar International Airport, unhappy with a coin-machine snack bar, will petition the Port Authority for an employe cafeteria.

Frank Duffy, a Pan American operations worker who wrote the petition, charged Thursday night that the County Commissioners had let out so many concessions workers were calling the place "just a supermarket with airplanes on the side."

"We think the Port Authority has forgotten us completely," he said. "The airport has allocated space for an appliance store and a clothing store. But all we have is a battery of coin-operated vending machines."

Duffy said 559 signatures were on the petition.

They include employes from about a dozen airlines, custom officials and rental car agencies.

Most of the trouble, he said, stems from the fact that at the old site employes who didn't bring their lunch had easy access to restaurants on 36th St.

In the new location, he said, they don't.

The petition, which he said will be presented to the full authority sometime next month, calls for a centrally located hot meal cafeteria at "prices within reason."

Port Director George McSherry was unavailable for comment.

Paris Rent Squabble Costs Colonel a Star

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee Thursday refused to approve the promotion of Air Force Col. John C. McCawley after an unusual private investigation into a rent squabble he once had with a Paris landlady.

The committee concluded that the incident raised a question of McCawley's fitness to serve as a general officer.

McCawley, 50, is chief of the manpower division for the Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, Ohio. He was one of 22 colonels recommended by President Eisenhower for routine promotion to brigadier general.

Chairman Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) said the committee deleted McCawley's name from the list after a subcommittee held three private hearings on the matter.

He said the question raised was one of "good faith" bearing on McCawley's fitness to serve as a brigadier.

Russell said the controversy developed over a contract made by McCawley with a French woman for the rental of a Paris apartment. When the French franc was devalued, Russell related, McCawley reduced his dollar payments. The landlady objected, he said, and McCawley then wrote letters which the landlayd interpreted as "an effort to blackmail her."

Russell said McCawley's letters raised the question of whether French taxes had been paid on the rental payments.

Income Tax Series: No. 10

You May Get a Tax Break From Recent Rulings

Last of a Series

By SYLVIA PORTER
(In collaboration with The Research Institute of America)

Major rulings and decisions on board, lodging and moving expenses of employes — involving countless hundreds of thousands of families — also were handed down in 1958.

First, the many employes who must live at the place where they work—employes of hospitals, sanitariums, parks, educational institutions, etc.—got a real break from a favorable higher court decision last year.

The law says that meals and lodging furnished to an employe for the convenience of the employer are not taxable income to the employe if the meals are furnished on the employer's business premises and the employe is required to live on the premises as a condition of the job.

This is simple to apply when the employer directly furnishes the free board and lodging, but instead many employers pay the employe a somewhat higher salary, furnish the board and lodging, then deduct a charge from the employe's salary for the board and lodging.

* * *

As far as the employe is concerned, he comes out exactly the same whether he gets, say, a $5,200 salary plus "free" board and lodging worth $1,000, or a $6,200 salary less a $1,000 charge deducted by the employer for the board and lodging.

Yet, the Treasury has insisted that the employe is exempt only when he works under the "free" type of arrangement and that he has $1,000 more of taxable income under the charge set-up.

An appeals court in 1958 refused to buy this viewpoint. It said that the effect of either deal was to give the employe board and lodging and Congress didn't intend this to be taxed.

* * *

A second common situation didn't work out as happily for employes last year. This one involves the person who has to move his home and family in order to take a job with a NEW employer. The new employer often reimburses the employe for the costs of moving.

Is this reimbursement taxable income to the employe? The court's answer is yes. Also, the employe can't deduct the costs of making the move.

But if an employe makes a similar move at the request of his present employer, the reimbursement for his moving costs is not taxable. Thus, if an employe who works for the Smith Corp.'s New York office, is required to move to the Smith Corp.'s Los Angeles office and is reimbursed by the company for his moving costs, he doesn't have to pay taxes on the reimbursement. If he had been paid for moving to Los Angeles by a new employer, he would have to pay taxes on the reimbursement.

* * *

In a third situation, construction workers didn't get the help they expected from the Supreme Court in clearing up their right to deduct the cost of travel, board and lodging at their various jobs.

Normally, if an employe lives in the same area where his job is, he can't deduct his living expenses. But because construction workers, unlike most of us, must move from job to job, the Treasury eased up on its strict rules and allowed them to deduct living expenses on any job which was "temporary"—but not "indefinite."

Such words as "temporary" and "indefinite" are slippery, though, and they led to the fights over interpretation that you would expect. When is a job temporary? When does it become of "indefinite" duration? The Supreme Court in 1958 sidestepped an explanation of the difference, but it did say that it wouldn't object to a deduction for the construction worker's living and travel expenses on a "temporary" job if that was okay with the Treasury.

* * *

The Treasury itself is now trying to work out an objective ruling on when a temporary job becomes indefinite. In its instructions accompanying the 1958 tax returns, it indicates a job lasting over a year will rarely be accepted as "temporary."

That means a construction worker who is on the same job for more than a year may be headed for litigation if he deducts travel, board and lodging expenses and his return is picked up for examination.

What's In A Name? 100 Bucks

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's administration took action Wednesday to protect his family's billion-dollar name.

It charged a Wall Street brokerage firm had offered a retired 70-year-old man a $100-a-week retainer for use of his name.

The man's name is Rockefeller — Willard Douglas Rockefeller. He is no kin of the descendants of John D. Rockefeller Sr., builder of the family fortune.

New York Attorney Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz said the elderly man had been paid the retainer simply for use of his name in the title of the firm and for serving as a dummy board chairman.

According to the state, the name of Rockefeller Williams and Co. was assumed last October by the brokerage house of Teden and Co. which was organized in 1935.

"The corporation contracted in October, 1958, with one Willard Douglas Rockefeller to permit the corporation to use his name in the company enterprise," Lefkowitz said.

"In return for his signing this contract, Willard Douglas Rockefeller was promised $100 a week and the title of chairman of the board of the corporation."

Lefkowitz said that the elderly man, a retired former hotel promoter who lives in Brooklyn, has signed an affidavit saying he devoted no working time to the company and did not receive the $100 a week he was promised.

Well Known Stocks Are Usually Safe

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. We now own some Macy and Sears, Roebuck stock and are thinking about buying some other issues. I have been impressed with the steady dividends and financials tatus of Waldorf System, Van Raalte, Neisner Bros. and Adams-Millis.

My wife, however, favors more well-known stocks. Her remark, "I never heard of them," seems to me to be an unscientific method of picking stocks.

What is your opinion of investing in stocks such as I have mentioned?

A. Sticking with well-known stocks may not be scientific. But it can pay off. Once you move away from the big outfits, you usually have to do a great deal more investigating of stocks that you are interested in. And you have to watch them more carefully. Big corporations can survive bad breaks much more easily than small and medium-sized firms.

This doesn't mean that everybody should invest in nothing except blue chips. There are many smaller companies whose stocks are as good as or better investments than those of corporate giants. You just have to be careful in picking them.

Waldorf System, for instance, has been a steady income producer for its stockholders even though it hasn't shown much price action. Van Raalte took a plunge in 1956 when it cut its dividend but has been showing progress for the past year or so. Neisner hasn't shown much, reflecting the fact that its dividend last year was 80 cents a share as against $1 a share in previous years. Adams-Millis, because it has a strong financial position, has been able to keep its dividend at $2 a year — despite the fact that its earnings dipped below that amount at times.

$10,000-a-Year Chef

His Dollars Are Sanforized

Last of A Series

By STAN JOHNSON
Herald Business Writer

Inflation is just a word to Harry Cottell, one of those fortunate few whose income has risen at about twice the rate that the dollar has dropped in value.

Cottell, 48, is supervising chef for the Maisel's and Junior's Kitchen restaurants. He earns more than $10,000 a year in salary and benefits.

A chef for 30 years, he went to work for his present employers in 1947 as a $90-a-week short-order cook.

His income has more than doubled in 12 years during a period when the dollar has lost about a quarter of its value.

One of his three children has married and no longer depends on him for support. Another will be married soon.

* * *

He and his family live modestly but comfortably in a two-bedroom home in Hialeah.

Except for slightly higher insurance and entertainment bills, their total living expenses are not much larger than those of a family with a $5,000 income.

Their mortgage payments are $46 a month. They spend $35 to $40 per week for groceries, about $30 for entertainment, $25 a month for utilities, and $243 a year for insurance.

Their transportation expenses are low because Cottell is furnished a car by his employer.

His employer also pays all the cost of a pension program which will allow him to retire at age 55.

"The way it looks now, with savings and the pension, I'll have plenty," he said.

* * *

But Cottell could be wrong.

Economists say that by 1975, he will need an income of more than $33,000 to equal his present salary if inflation continues at the 1939 to 1959 rate.

A Miami woman says her husband, who retired 18 years ago, is looking for part-time work now because the dollars he had saved then are only worth 50 cents now.

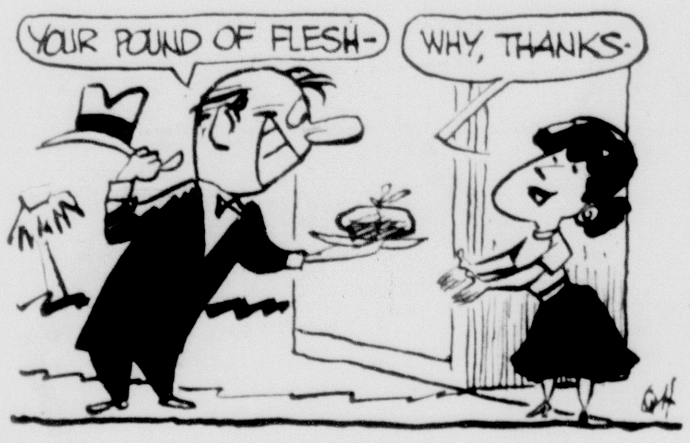
A Miami Beach man who is also living on a fixed income warns that "people will be paying $10,000 for a loaf of bread" if the government doesn't check inflation.

"I saw it in Germany after the first World War, and it can happen here, too," he said.

A more cheerful opinion comes from Dr. Reinhold Wolff, who heads the University of Miami's Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

"Right now in the Miami area, we don't have inflation and we don't have deflation. We've just got flation," he said.

Harry Cottell Ponders Inflation



Now They're Friendly

Collection Agents Trying Psychology

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

CHICAGO—The people who don't pay their bills are not the destitute, with a multitude of hungry young mouths to feed, but fairly comfortable and productive job-holders.

A study by a psychologist shows that 20 per cent of the debt-defiant live in Chicago neighborhoods in the $6,000-to-$10,000 income bracket — and 40 per cent in $4,000-to-$6,000 neighborhoods.

The survey, still incomplete, is being made by Eugene Barnes, director of research, National Accounts System, Chicago, an operator of several collecting agencies.

"The chronic debtor, like a child, is unable to postpone desires. He wants immediate gratification."

Barnes said that, while "credit buying is an integral part of business dynamics, credit buying beyond one's means is in violation of public morality."

Barnes is one of the first psychologists in the nation to become identified with collection agencies.

The reason is the wish of some segments of the industry to give it a new look, to alter the public conception of the collection agency as an organization of nasty people, who seek to dispossess debtors and garnishee wages and make life generally miserable.

"That approach is disappearing with the realization that the public sympathy is with the debtor," said Barnes.

"Even legislation has been changed to give the debtor every break, a far cry from the 'debtors' prisons' of years ago."

The new approach of the collection agencies is to be a friend of the debtor, to counsel him on budgeting problems, to get him a new job, if necessary, said Barnes.

"And, while working with him, we hope to instill an 'inner control' over his spending habits—a 'credit conscience.'"

Detroit Judge Bars Sale of Mutual Broadcasting System

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

A Detroit circuit judge has issued a temporary restraining order barring F. L. Jacobs Co. officials from disposing of any of the firm's assets.

The order, which came in a stockholders' petition for a receivership, would temporarily block the proposed sale of the Mutual Broadcasting System Inc. to Max Factor & Co.

Meanwhile, in New York the Jacobs Co. consented to a mandatory injunction requiring it to file certain financial reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission by March 31.

The SEC has charged that the previous management, headed by Alexander Guterma, failed to report various loans and stock sales as required by law.

Outboard Salesmen Come South

More than a dozen outboard motor salesmen from northern states are gathered in Miami today as part of an unusual sales campaign.

The promotional program is being staged by local dealers with the cooperation of the marine products division of McCulloch Corp., which makes Scott outboard motors.

Norman C. Owen, vice president of the division, said the idea is to show that active promotional efforts at the right place will sell boats, motors and trailers even in the middle of winter.

The Miami program is designed to tie in with the Miami Boat Show at Dinner Key Auditorium. Salesmen are coming from points as far away as northern Minnesota and upper New York to assist Miami dealers.

Similar programs are planned for the Tampa-St. Petersburg area and Orlando-Winter Park next month.

Glamour Stocks Up Sharply

NEW YORK — (UP) — Wide gains by electronics, rocket fuel shares and assorted issues highlighted a mixed stock market Thursday.

The big, key issues which control the popular averages did little or nothing. They showed an array of gains and losses running from fractions to a point or so.

The so-called glamour stocks went to town. Polaroid soared 11¼ to 119. Zenith jumped another 4, Thiokol 3¼, Lukens Steel 6 7-8 and General Tire 4 7-8.

General Tire reflected an advance of 10¾ to 86¾ by its rocket-making subsidiary, Aerojet-General, on the American Stock Exchange. Aerojet was spurred by big earnings and prospects or more to come.

Meanwhile American Motors and Studebaker-Packard stemmed their retreat of the past few sessions and moved to the upside. Chemicals were mixed. Drugs, airlines and electrical equipments rose. Martin Co. was up 1 3-8 on a good earnings report while other aircraft sagged.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed on volume of 1,900,000 shares compared with 1,720,000 Wednesday.

Declarer Scores on Semi-Strip

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Double	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♥	4 ♦	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦.

Declarer brought home his contract today by virtue of a play that might be termed the "semi-strip."

Purists might carp at South's demand opening, but we shall not point the finger of scorn at him. West doubled to encourage his partner to show a reasonable spade suit, holding the diamond suit in reserve if East bid clubs. North's free bid of four hearts was tempered by his failure to take positive action on the previous round.

West opened the king of diamonds and continuted the suit. Declarer ruffed and drew trumps in two rounds. A one trick set appeared inevitable since the bidding precluded even the vaguest chance that East held the ace of spades.

Goren on Bridge

However, declarer set about to determine what holding would permit the contract to be fulfilled. He visualized West with the A-A-J of spades alone and considered going over to the king of clubs, ruffing out the last diamond, then cashing the ace of clubs hoping to clear West's hand of that suit, then a low spade out of his hand on the supposition that West would have to win with the jack and be compelled to lead either a diamond or a spade.

Suddenly it dawned on him that if West had only two clubs, the contract could be brought home irrespective of the ace. He therefore cashed the ace of clubs and went over to the king and returned the jack of diamonds, discarding the five of spades from his own hand. West was in and found it impossible to avoid the loss of a trick on his next lead. A diamond lead would provide declarer with a ruff and a discard while a spade lead would establish South's king.

Democrats To Stick by Los Angeles

By DAVID KRASLOW
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The Democratic National Committee will approve at its meeting here today the recommendation that the party's 1960 convention be held in Los Angeles.

Committee sources discounted reports that the recommendation made last month by a site selection subcommittee might be rejected.

"It has never happened and there's no indication that it will happen now," one source said when asked if the national committee had ever overruled a site group's decision.

The same source said the site subcommittee was influenced primarily by "political considerations" in choosing Los Angeles over six other cities.

"The growth of our party has been in the West," he said. "We haven't been out there in a long time and the Republicans have. It was just as simple as that."

He said the last Democratic convention in the West was in San Francisco in 1920. The GOP met in that city in 1956.

Los Angeles and San Francisco are the only Western cities among the seven bidding for the convention. The others are Miami Beach, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

PARIS — With the fifty Haute Couture houses of Paris turning out 3,000 new designs for Spring and Summer, there is no lack of variety. Nobody can say, "These new fashions don't become me." — especially as the dressmakers are all adhering to the cult of the reasonable and wearable.

The big daytime favorite is still the two-piece costume. What looks like a suit at first glance is invariably a dress with a jacket. In printed silk with a pleated skirt, in polka-dotted silk or cotton, in pastel linen or cotton, or in sheer wool, it remains the answer.

The small house of Michel Goma is a good place to start looking at the daytime picture. Because Mr. Goma is young and successful and is regarded as having the most American taste of any French designer, a good many of his creations are already on the way to America. On the day he first showed his 1959 collection it was applauded so vigorously that he came out shyly from behind the curtain and then had to run behind chairs to escape being kissed by too many enthusiastic ladies.

The hard-headed buyers chose two simple daytime dresses — a gray wool named "Plotte" buttoned down the side, and a navy wool named "Fantasio," which has a white organdy modestie, three-quarter sleeves and a sprig of valley lilies at the belt. "Plotte" is named for a girl Mr. Goma knows, but why she is called Plotte he has no idea.

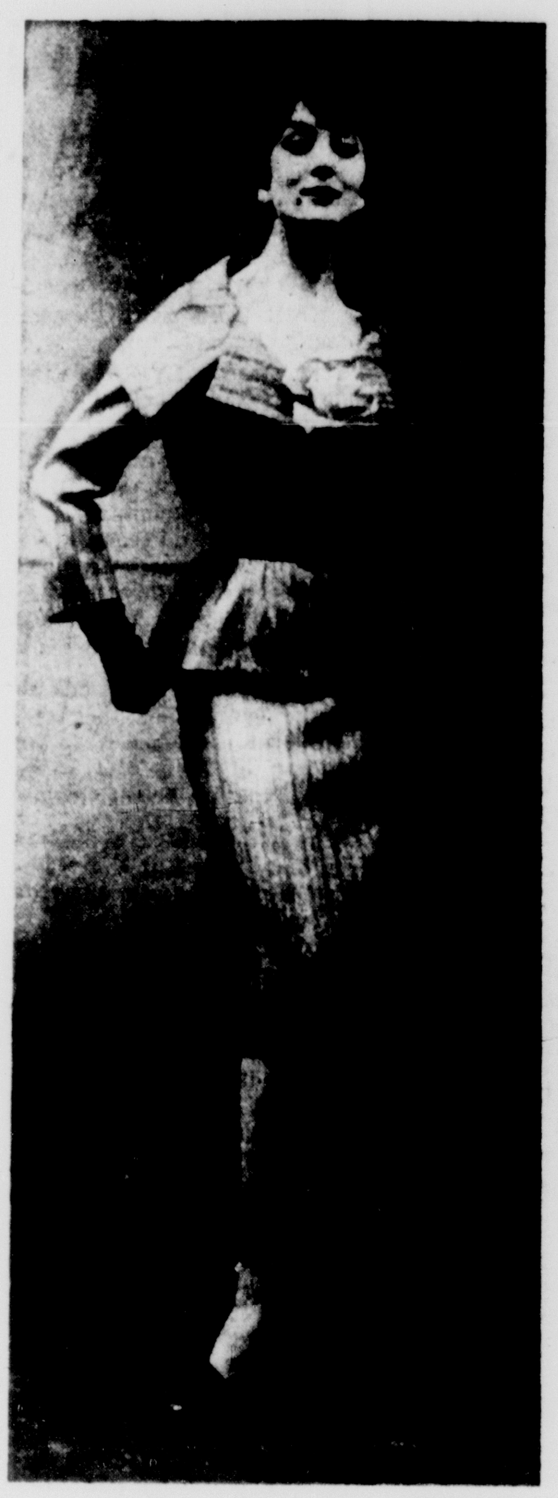
At Dior the No. 1 best seller is also gray: a dress with jacket, named "Londres" (London), the jacket longer and tailored like a man's, and accessorized with a black and white foulard scarf.

At Dior there is a great deal of gray. In fact, for the first fifteen minutes of looking at the collection you think it is going to be all gray .Then comes a wave of navy, nautical not only in color but in cut. Real middy blouses with sailor collars and V-shaped insets, sometimes of navy, sometimes white. With them go the small sailor hats called "Jean Bart" — the name of a French naval hero under Louis XIV and of a recent French warship.

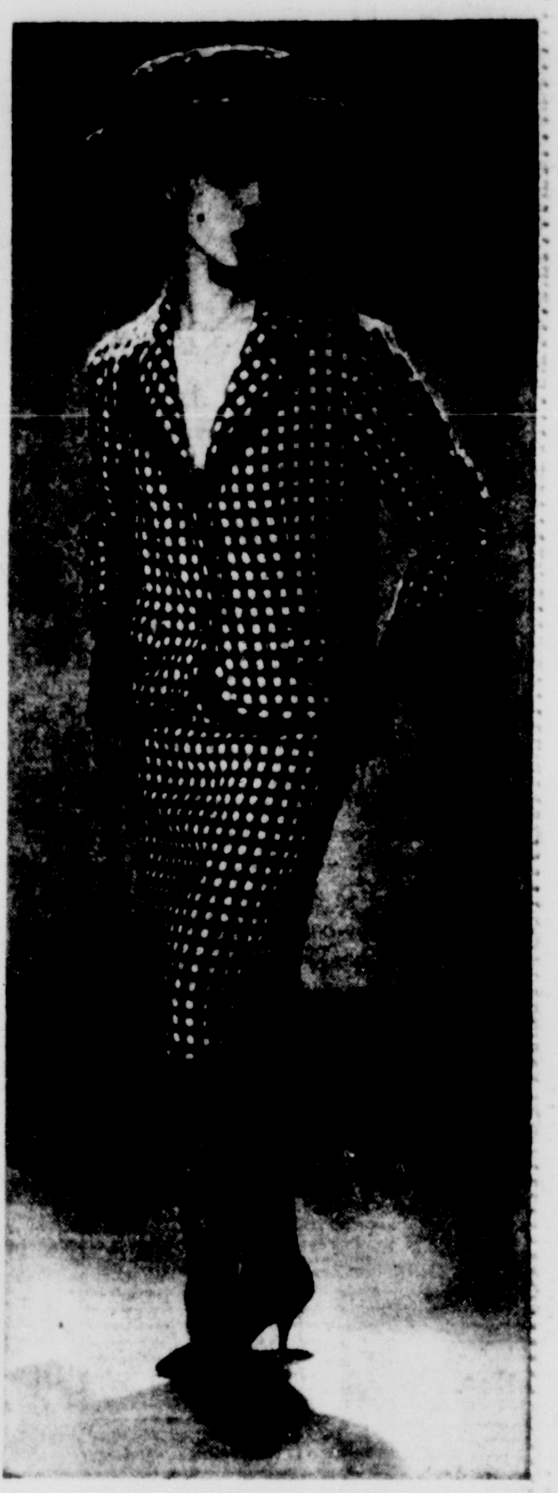
* * *

GUY LAROCHE, who has a feeling for youth and for America, having spent three years on Seventh Avenue designing young clothes, has done a wrap-around chemise in red wool with a white wool bolero piped in red. The neck is a very low V, the sleeves end just below the elbow and the only visible fastening is one big button. Buyers like it.

Paris Suit Story

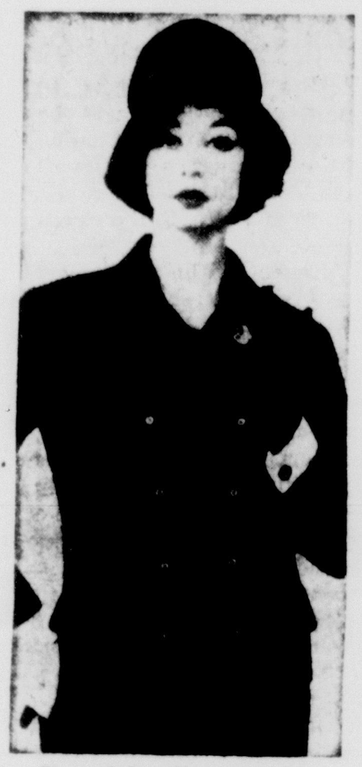


The Dandy by Claude Riviere
. . . black and white striped melange of silk, nylon, alpaca



—Peter Frink Photo

A 'Real Suit' by Maggy Rouff
. . . gray and white checked wool with notched lapels



Double Breasted
. . . and white cuffed by De Rauch

PARIS — The return of the "vrai tailleur"—the real suit—is hailed by everybody. Real lapels again, with notches in them, longer sleeves with white shirt cuffs, linked with cuff buttons, showing an inch or two below the sleeves, the longer jacket curving slightly along the line of the figure. All adaptations from the man-tailored suit.

Designers are so pleased to be showing these real suits again, they accessorize them with man-inspired foulard scarves tucked in at the neck, a carnation in the buttonhole, and a mannish boater hat, softened with a veil.

Dior is the stronghold of this type of suit, but other houses have their versions of it. At Nina Ricci's it is the No. 2 suit — playing a supporting role to the bloused "Bourgeron". Madeleine de Bauch does a double-breasted type, white-cuffed.

The opposite school of thought can be completely happy in the bloused suit with cinched belt, of which there are many examples. Claude Riviere has a dandy which she calls just that — the name inspired by a new black and white striped suiting which recalls the dandies of another day. This fabric, made by Sekers of England, is tailored by Madame Riviere into a bloused tunic with a wide cape collar, a snug black leather belt and a straight skirt.

Guy Laroche is staying with that much-loved number, the bright boucle with printed silk blouse matching the coat lining. Sometimes he adds a cagoule (hood) of the silk, which looks very beguiling framing a young face, and should be practical in an open car. Anything, a French designer thinks, to banish the peasant head-scarf.

Color of Woman's Soul?

NEW YORK — (WNS) — Have you found your blonde soul?

Antoine of Paris, the world's most famous hairdresser, is convinced that every woman has a blonde soul—and she goes to the hairdresser to express it.

Don't misunderstand — M. Antoine doesn't insist that every woman has a secret yen to be a blonde. What he does believe is that every woman has a glamorous inner vision of herself which, more often than not, she keeps repressed.

Antoine sees his job as that of getting the client's appearance and her libido to jibe. Coiffure and makeup, he explains, are a background for personality.

"If a woman has the soul of a femme fatale but lacks the equipment, I give her the look she has secretely longed for."

Find the Star And Win the Centerpiece

By HELEN WELLS
Herald Society Editor

PERSON TO PERSON

They weren't playing musical chairs, the 83 "girls" at a sumptuous luncheon May (Mrs. Floyd) Best and Hazel (Mrs. Al) Penn gave on Wednesday at the Surf Club. They were turning their chairs upside down to look for a gold star.

And she who found a star on the underside of her chair walked off with the exquisite centerpiece on her table. These were double pink carnations centered with tiny felt butterflies, and the whole thing was "showered" with a waterfall of shimmering plastic strips.

Places at tables were determined by selecting handsome sequined butterflies of various colors to match the butterflies in the center of the carnations.

"I had butterflies in my middle a while ago," remarked Florence Bourke Ellis. She had reviewed Dr. Zhivago before 500 women plus a goodly scattering of men.

Florence was one of the honor guests as was Hazel (Mrs. Harold) Wright.

With Katie (Mrs. Ray) Heslop was her attractive daughter, Jean, Mrs. William T. Cooper, who is here for a visit at Katie's Surf Club apartment from their home town, Akron, Ohio.

Hazel Penn

May Best

Kay Marshall

Hazel Penn wore a silk print of many colors, the predominant one, gold. May was in smart blue and white cotton. They are two of the best dressed in Miami Beach's winter set and looked like several million dollars.

Good to see Kay (Mrs. Jim) Marshall back again from Rio. She flew in on Sunday and made her "debut" appearance at the opera on Monday. Another new addition to the winter colony, "Boots" Jenkins, an annual visitor, said she had arrived from Atlanta last week.

Luncheon for Eva Likova

A luncheon today at the W. Bay Harbor Drive home of Mrs. William Maxwell honors Eva Likova, who sings the role of the page boy Oscar so beautifully in the opera The Masked Ball.

Incidentally, the final performance of The Masked Ball will be given Saturday evening in Dade County auditorium.

For Boys Town of Italy

Some 40 planners lunched at the Columbus Hotel Thursday to work out details of a benefit dinner for Boys Town of Italy. The tentative date is April 23, locale, the Fontainebleau.

The Rev. John Patrick Carroll-Abbing started Boys Town in Italy and is coming to the U.S. to raise funds for this project. He will be in Miami with Mrs. George Skouras, whose husband is an official with 20th Century Fox, and Princess Gabriella Pacelli, niece of the late Pope Pius.

Bill Gaither met the Rev. Carroll-Abbing when he and Elaine were on their around the world jaunt last summer and became interested in his work. Another planner is philanthropist Bob Pentland.

Here to Meet Grandparents

That little red headed new Moon swam into the orbit of his grandparents on Thursday. He is Charles M. Moon III and came down from Atlanta with his mama and dad, Rebecca and Charles Jr., for a visit with Celeste and Charlie Moon at their home on Brickell Ave.

Rebecca and Charles Moon Jr.

★ ★ ★

Missed from the party scene is Mickey Cebollero. This gay-blade-about-town is bedded down with a virulent virus in St. Francis Hospital.

Another "casualty" is Betty Kremp. She has canceled all dates for a while and is staying quietly in her and Al's elegant apartment on E. Bay Harbor Drive.

★ ★ ★

Bal Harbour Yacht Club's new president will meet members of the club on March 11 at a dinner dance. Al Hoffman is the retiring president. The Commodores' Ball at the club is tentatively set for April 8th but may be changed to April 11.

★ ★ ★

Here's a surprise for friends of Susan Rose Haftel. She said "I do" to Daniel David Feinberg, on Feb. 21st. The bride is the daughter of the Louis Haftels of 8445 Byron Ave., Surfside and a granddaughter of Muriel Hirsch Pick.

Dan's parents are the Charles Feinbergs of 5987 N Bay Road. Both of the newlyweds attended University of Miami and they'll make their home in Miami Beach.

★ ★ ★

You'd never know it from the invitations which "Betty" and Bill Busser have in the mail for a dinner dance March 26 at La Gorce Country Club, but this is an occasion.

They are celebrating the 39th anniversary of their wedding in Lewisburg, Pa.

Mask and Ear Stoppers Banish Light and Noise

By ELEANOR HART
Herald Glamour Clinic Editor

Who can catch 40 winks, let alone get a good eight-hours' sleep when:

. . . BRIGHT SUN peeps or street lights glare through venetian blinds?

. . . YOUR EVER-LOVIN' snores at your elbow?

. . . THE NEIGHBORS shrill at their kids outside?

YOU can if you retire with the proper equipment.

This equipment consists of a lightweight aluminum foil mask covered with black taffeta, plus ear stoppers made of air foam and waxed ends.

The mask, which molds to fit the contour of the face, loops over ear lobes with the greatest of ease, and shuts out light like a velvet cloak.

The ear stoppers, about the size of a thumb-nail, are impregnated with wax to muffle annoying noises.

You put them to work by grasping the soft lastex end and inserting the waxed end into the ear opening. A little pressure makes a snug, comfortable closure in the cartilage portion of the ear. The stopper does not enter the ear canal.

The product was developed to combat the health hazard of noise in 1941 by a mechanical engineer, at Wright Field in Dayton, O., but is new in the Miami area. It is also effective in protecting ears while swimming.

Both the mask and the stoppers are made to order for the poor guy who must toil by night and try to sleep by day. The mask will last indefinitely, a pair of stoppers about a month.

For information on where to buy the mask and ear stoppers, please call the Herald Shopping Service at the phone number shown above. After 24 hours, the information may be obtained only by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dinner Dance To Raise Funds For Cancer Work

Half a dozen projects to help cancer patients will be financed through the Sunday night dinner dance of United Order True Sisters, Miami 43. Party is at 7 p.m. in the Carillon Hotel.

It's open to the public and Mrs. Alvin Herbst, 18140 NE 13th Rd., North Miami Beach, is taking reservations.

During the year, the True Sisters make dressings for the American Cancer Society, transport patients to hospitals and doctor appointments help the Children's Tumor Clinic at Variety Children's Hospital, and pays for visits of the Visiting Nurse Association to homes of low income cancer patients.

The organization gives monthly parties at Hope School for Mentally Retarded Children and recently gave the children a toy automobile. Mrs. Lawrence Friedman, 1931 SW 14th Ter., is president of Miami 43.

'Truckers' Wives Can Be Proud'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I have read with interest the letters from truck drivers' wives. I have been in the motor transportation industry 25 years and am now employed as claim supervisor for a large transfer company.

I have had experience in all phases of the industry, including dispatching. Currently I am president of the Women's Traffic Club of Greater Miami.

As a woman and a widow, I can sympathize with the pangs of loneliness expressed by the wives of truck drivers.

The motor transport industry has come a long way in the two and a half decades of my association with it. It has become a profession.

I have the highest respect for these "knights of the road" who ride by day and night.

The work of these drivers is essential in the growth of the economy of our state and nation.

They are dedicated men who move vital equipment for the government to serve the needs of military forces as well as commercial shipments.

In my estimation, they stand in the front line of defense for our country, its women and children.

In recognition for satisfactory service, our company follows an enlightened policy which applies to all drivers in in our operations over 40 states. In addition to regular vacations, a driver who has been out of town on long hauls for an accumulated period of 90 days is granted an extra week to spend with his family.

This extra time is given only if he remains at home with them during his seven-day leave.

Who stands behind this driver? The woman who keeps the home fires burning.

She can be justly proud and not dwell on her lonely hours, but spend her time raising her children to be good American citizens and teach them to appreciate and respect their father's important occupation.

GLORY G.

Your letter should be an inspiration to the women behind the "knight of the road" and help them better realize the special responsibilities they have in keeping his armor bright.

A Woman's Prayer

By Josephine [illegible]

Father of all men, amid the cheers and fame the world gives to the winner I pray thee today for one of thy children who struggled hard but was defeated.

Grant him the comfort of thy presence, and the knowledge that in thy view his effort has not been lost.

Help him to accept the verdict without bitterness, to reassess himself and his cause calmly, and to decide wisely whether to renew the battle or turn to other pursuits.

Strengthen him to rise again, and help him to find the channels in which he may serve thee best.

Amen.

'Have You Tried To Understand?'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I wonder if Truckers' Project Booster has ever tried understanding her neighbors instead of criticizing them.

I say she is more to be pitied than censored because she has obviously never known the sweetness of compatibility.

'I'll Pray For You'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

To Down But Not Out, may I say — you indeed have a heavy cross to bear, but one thing is needful and you have already chosen that in your belief that God will send you help and see you through.

You simply cannot fail with your wonderful outlook.

Two thoughts that have helped me are: Jim Bishop's "In every trouble, trace some lights of thine," and a Thought for the Day that appeared with Column With a Heart: "He that has no cross will have no crown."

I have said many prayers for others I have read about in this column, and I will not forget a daily prayer for you.

I sincerely hope your burdens will soon lighten.

'My Child Won't Talk'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

My four-year-old boy has been going to kindergarten from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. since last fall and still won't talk to his teacher. He likes her and behaves, but won't talk.

He was slow in starting to talk and that's why I put him in kindergarten, to help him learn to play with other children. There are no small children in our neighborhood.

My son talks at home . . . you can't shut him up! I think he's shy, bashful and stubborn. But you can't force a child to talk. What do you think?

PUZZLED

No, you can't "force" him to talk. And the more you talk about it in his presence (and I hope you don't), the less likelihood that he will change.

It's possible that his teacher employs a stern manner for disciplinary reasons that frightens him. Small children are often terrified by abrupt or loud spoken adults.

I suggest that you talk with her. Perhaps she can pay him some small attention that will put him more at ease. I recall a second grade teacher who helped ease a little girl's shyness considerably by asking her to erase the blackboard and help out with similar duties in the room.

It's also possible that another kindergarten would offer more permissive surroundings in which your son would feel more at ease.

To Lonely: Lend a Hand

LONELY'S letter brings a call from Mrs. Faye Newalk, in charge of volunteer workers for the Lend-a-Hand Fund, 225 SW 2nd Ave.

"Lonely is invited to come and see us here at the office," she says. We have a lovely group of women, most of whom looked us up because they, too, were lonely at one time."

These women sew, sort clothes and pack toys. One of Mrs. Newalk's most faithful recruits is an 81-year-old woman who has been helping out for the last five years.

So for all the Lonelies (this sounds like a fine suggestion for the Sad and Perplexeds, too), stop by the Lend-a-Hand office, Monday through Friday, 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., and lend a hand . . . You'll be welcome.

Eleanor Hart.

Mizrachi's President Visits Local Chapters

Mrs. Moses (Dina) Dyckman, national president of the Mizrachi Women's Organization, is visiting the six local chapters in Dade County while she vacations in Miami Beach.

While the organization has 50,000 members in 300 chapters throughout the country, all of its work is done in Israel.

It has a $1,200,000 yearly budget to finance a network of elementary and high schools which give academic and agricultural education to children of orthodox religious background.

Many of the children, particularly the orphans, are housed in dormitories. There's also a nursery school for maladjusted children from broken homes.

Mrs. Dyckman says that about 2,000 children are now enrolled in the schools and "thousands more" attend the recreation centers after school for recreation and help with their homework.

About 40 per cent of the cost per child in the school program is subsidized by Youth Aliyah and the remainder by Mizrachi.

Flamingo Weekend Memory

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boucher
. . . on previous visit to Hialeah

By REGRET
Herald Columnist

Reminiscences are drifting through Hialeah's air this Flamingo weekend, memories of the greats and the forgottens who captured one of the track's two most prized trophies.

Winners' Circle

One such remembrance is of a little bay colt, the late Charlie McAdam. He was owned by John C. Clark, former president of Hialeah Race Track, and named for Charles V. McAdam, president of McNaught Syndicate and very much alive.

Charlie McAdam (the colt) won the Flamingo in 1952, then went on to win the Swift Stakes. However, he hurt himself at Belmont that summer, so at the age of three was retired to stud. He sired two crops of yearlings who last year made him second among the sires of winners.

But two years ago last September Charlie's spirits outdid his capacity and he broke a leg trying to get over a paddock fence. He had to be destroyed. Charlie McAdam the thoroughbred is no more, but as long as there's a Flamingo Day, and as long as there's a Charles V. McAdam, no one will forget the little bay colt.

* * *

In From Nassau For Flamingo Day

Sir Victor Sassoon may be an islander, but he's by no means island-bound. This hale, moustachioed Nassauvian flies in today to be at Hialeah for Flamingo Day Saturday.

With him will be the couple who were his guests Bahamas Day, English breeders Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boucher (they pronounce it Bow-cher, as if it hurt), now on their way back to London.

Sir Victor Sassoon

Just fresh from London is another guest Mrs. Charles Hughesdon who played the role of Vera Charles with Bea Lillie in Auntie Mame there. She is to meet her husband who is flying in from Australia, the last leg of a trip around the world.

The Bouchers and the Hughesdons are due at Hialeah this afternoon with Mollie Cullum. Mollie had planned to return to Nassau with the Hughesdons and Sir Victor on Sunday, but now thinks she'll stay until the meeting ends Tuesday.

* * *

Kingmaker Heads For Louisiana

The Cortright Wetherills, who've had their share of winners this season, have sent their Kingmaker over to Fairgrounds in New Orleans this weekend. A sprinter, and a good one, this Happy Hill Farm entry might easily bring home some Louisiana bacon.

* * *

How One Horse Got Her Name

"My dear girl . . ." Whenever Harry Genter of Minneapolis starts a sentence with these words his wife Frances knows he is going to be very firm about what he is going to say. One doesn't take Mr. Genter's "my dear girl" ideas lightly.

Apparently Mr. Genter didn't take lightly the chestnut filly foaled on his wife's birthday two years ago. He named her My Dear Girl. And Wednesday at Hialeah My Dear Girl showed she meant business in the Florida Breeders' Purse. She won it.

"She's a gentle lady," said Frances Genter, "but she has a mind of her own."

The Genters have been racing thoroughbreds for about 20 years, mostly up north, very few down here.

* * *

Devlin Defends The Trotters

An inquiring reporter from a New York sports magazine set about on what looked like a hopeless quest Wednesday. At Hialeah, haven for the most avid thoroughbred racing fans anywhere, he was trying to find somebody who would take the side of harness racing as opposed to thoroughbred.

He was having a pretty hard time of it until, like an Arabian genii, Franklin E. Devlin, sitting with his family in a clubhouse box, appeared and introduced himself. Mr. Devlin, aside from being mayor of East Williston, N. Y., is vice president of Harness Tracks of America.

With Mr. Devlin were his wife (they're vacationing in Palm Beach), his daughter Ann and her husband Ed Green of Palm Beach, Mr. and Mrs. William Harmonay from Rye, N.Y., Mrs. Dorothy Gregory of Manhasset, N. Y., and Marshall Heminway, also Palm Beach. All of a sudden the case for the trotters and sulkies had staunch defenders.

How Sally Keeps Her Shape in Shape

By Herald Wire Services

CHICAGO — In 26 gala years of fanfare and fan-dancing, there's only one thing Sally Rand has never been accused of taking off — weight.

She has never had to.

How does svelte (114 pounds) little (5-foot) Sally—who admits to being 56 — keep her shape in shape?

Being happy, healthy and busy.

"It's all a matter of attitude," she says.

"Most women my age are grandmothers. They age according to a socially prescribed plan. When they're young mothers, they look one way; when they're grandmothers they look another way.

"Not me," says Sally brightly. "I've never had these same attitudes."

Carol Wouldn't Like Miami

NEW YORK — Floridians, who are so proud of our state's warm weather, needn't expect to see much of teenage movie and stage actress Coral Lynley in person.

Carol is a New York City bred girl and she loves wintertime.

"I am fascinated with cold weather," she says. "I don't really begin to perk until the temperature drops to zero."

Gentle Spirit, Or Intellectual?

PARIS — (WNS) — Models, beautiful but dumb, are a thing of the past. Nowadays, a mannequin must have brains as well as beauty.

Explains Dior model Leslie MacLennan: "She's got to cultivate a mind and soul to match her attractive face and figure."

Leslie, a tall brunette with green eyes, and the longest fingernails in Europe, has been careful to develop a gentle feminine spirit.

"A real he-man wants somebody to protect," Leslie explained. "A real she-woman blossoms under such protection."

Carol Lynley

By contrast, Mimi d'Arcangues of Chanel recommends the sophisticated and intellectual approach.

"Today's girl is attractive when her wits can keep up with those of her male partner, but she should never surpass him and take the lead," she declared.

Why Rockettes All Look Alike

NEW YORK — The Rockettes of Radio City Music Hall in New York City all look alike on stage, in size and conformation. But there's really as much as five inches difference in height between the shortest and tallest girls.

The trick to this illusion is explained by Miss Leanne Mitchell, who is in charge of their dressmaking staff.

"It's making the hems even," Miss Mitchell said. "You make the hemlines higher for the short girls and longer for the tall ones. But course, when they are in skin-tight leotards, it's harder.

"After all, legs and legs, and you can't do much about that."

Hairdressers Award Three Scholarships

Greater Miami Hairdressers Association will award three complete beauty school scholarships on March 10 in the Alcazar Hotel.

Recipients are Ida Jean Morris, Miami Jackson High School; Carolyn Williamson, North Miami High, and Luz Ortiz, Hialeah High. They were chosen from 15 senior high applicants in cooperation with high school counselors.

The scholarships are being given by LaFrance and J. Rollo Beauty Schools, and the Miami Academy of Beauty Culture, in conjunction with the recent observance of National Beauty Salon Week.

What Will Whiten Her Doeskin Gloves?

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

READERS' EXCHANGE

All right now, let's be formal. Gloves and all that. A young blonde reader — and if you wonder how we're sure she's all that, it's because we know her — writes about a doeskin glove problem.

"My white doeskin gloves are no longer white," she says. "They're yellowish." She doesn't know if this is from old age—one pair is a year old; the other, two—or from having been washed.

"Why yellow?" she asks. "And is there any way to whiten them up again?"

Answers From Crochet Experts

NOW ABOUT that crochet hook. Yes, some readers can tell Mrs. A.S. of Miami what the double-hooked implement is for. In fact, one would like to get one just like it.

Mrs. C.C. of Miami says it's "used to make an afghan stitch. There are several crochet books at the department stores that tell you how to make items with that stitch.

"I wish I knew where to buy one to replace one I lost. I have been asking here for five years and have not as yet found one."

And a Westport, Conn., woman who says "I am 70 years old so I know," tells about it, too. She says the hooks are of different sizes "so you use only one end at a time, whatever size you want . . . I used them when I was a small child."

Mrs. G.S., a friendly-sounding newcomer of a mere two years, says the double hook needle "is used with two balls of yarn and makes a rib effect."

She writes, "I have a real old crochet book that tells how to use it . . . if Mrs. A.S. would care to look at it, I'd be happy to show her the book."

There you are, Mrs. A.S. A new friend. A book of instructions. All you need do is buy the yarn and awa-a-ay you go.

Old Nylons Come in Handy

IF YOU'RE a button and string kind of saver, you may be interested in what you can do with old nylon stockings—other than throw them away, of course.

Her Iron Won't Steam

Mrs. F.R.H. would like you to help iron out her problem. She's all steamed up about it, too.

Has a "fairly new steam iron but it doesn't steam anymore." Just Mrs. H. She steams all the time when she thinks about it.

"I think the vents are clogged up. What can I use to unclog them?" She'd like your suggestions first, before taking it to a repairman.

Whipped Cream-Nut Frosting Wins Top Prize in Contest

Pistachio nuts are a luxury note in the whipped cream frosting which wins first prize in this week's recipe contest. The recipe is from the files of Mrs. Nell White.

Mrs. Betty McCarrick's Party Cake Frosting has a pineapple flavor and dots of maraschino cherries. Her recipe wins second prize. She suggests it especially for orange chiffon cake.

The flavors of peanut butter and coffee blend in Mrs. Rose Leion's third prize recipe. It is a no-cook recipe which can be kept refrigerated for using.

* * *

PISTACHIO WHIPPED CREAM FROSTING
(First Prize, $5 in cash)

½	teaspoon unflavored gelatin
2	teaspoons cold water
1	cup heavy cream, well chilled
½	cup sugar
½	cup ground pistachio nuts (about 4 ounches)

If gelatin is used the frosted cake may be kept in refrigerator several hours before serving. If cake is to be frosted and served at once the gelatin is not needed.

Soften gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Place over hot water to dissolve. Cool slightly. Whip cream until stiff. Add sugar gradually, then gelatin mixture, if used, and beat until mixture stands in peaks. Add ground nuts and stir quickly. A few whole nuts may be reserved to decorate top. Pile on cake at once. Makes enough for an 8x12-inch cake or two 8-inch layers.

PARTY CAKE FROSTING
(Second Prize, $3 in cash)

1	package vanilla pudding mix (not instant)
1¼	cups milk
1	9-ounce can crushed pineapple (including juice)
1	small jar maraschino cherries, drained and quartered
1	cup heavy cream, whipped
3	tablespoons sugar
¼	teaspoon vanilla

Cook vanilla pudding, milk and crushed pineapple together until thick. Cool and add cherries and whipped cream mixed with sugar and vanilla. Fill and frost cake. Place frosted cake in refrigerator until served and return the unused portion to the refrigerator. Especially good on Orange Chiffon Cake. Fills and frosts two 8-inch layers.

PEANUT BUTTER-COFFEE FROSTING
(Third Prize, $2 in cash)

¼	cup butter or margarine
⅓	cup peanut butter
⅛	teaspoon salt
2¼	cups sifted confectioners' sugar
½	cup strong cold coffee
½	teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter. Add peanut butter and salt. Blend thoroughly. Add sugar alternately with coffee, a little at a time. Cream thoroughly until smooth. Add vanilla. This frosting may be stored in a covered jar in the refrigerator until ready to use. Frosts tops and sides of two 8-inch layers.

Attack on Her Husband Is 'Nonsense': Mrs. R

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK — I have just been sent a brochure which carries at its head: "Weekly Broadcast No. 219, Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, U. S. Navy, Ret. Manion Forum Network; sponsor, Manion Forum, South Bend, Ind."

Mrs. FDR

Supposedly, this broadcast proves that my husband laid the plans for the attack on Pearl Harbor in order to involve us in World War II.

This is not the first of this type of literature which I have received, and I suppose it is sent to me so that I may have the opportunity of saying what I think about the contents.

The only possible way for me to comment — since I was not on the inside of any government secrets and can only have the information that a number of other citizens might also have — is to tell you how I arrive at certain conclusions which are different from those set forth by Mr. Manion.

There are certain men who have published their memoirs — for instance, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. Surely the latter would have been familiar with any information received prior to Pearl Harbor days.

Secretary Stimson was an honest man, an upright gentleman, and a Republican. The same can be said for The Secretary of Navy, Mr. Knox.

In addition, General Marshall, Admiral Stark and various other people mentioned in this broadcast certainly knew what was done both prior to Dec. 7, on that day, and on every day thereafter.

Yet none of these men anywhere state or suggest that there is any evidence to support the accusation that the Pearl Harbor attack was deliberately provoked.

* * *

NO PRESIDENT could make policy decisions without the understanding and the participation on the part of such cabinet officers as the Secretaries of State, War and Navy.

Anyone who talked to my husband prior to Dec. 7, 1941, knew that he feared we might in some way be drawn into the war, and that everything he did was to strengthen Great Britain and France in the hope that by doing so we would not have to be drawn in.

To believe that my husband actually suppressed the knowledge that Pearl Harbor was to be attacked seems to me incredible, for the simple reason that it would have been so stupid.

He had a keen interest in recorded history, and he would certainly have known that if there was something to hide it would some day be found out. In addition, he was anxious not to fight a war on two fronts.

Therefore, when I read all this carefully manufactured testimony and the half-truths that are sent out by Dean Clarence Manion and some others, I suppose they are convinced they have discovered the truth. But I am overcome with surprise that they can be so illogical and believe such nonsense.

O-o-oh--What Big Eyes You Have

CHICAGO —(UPI)— That wide-eyed, appealing look spells trouble, according to Cartoonist Joe Kaliff of New York.

"Look out for the man with wide open eyes," he warned the ladies. "He's the wolf, always ogling."

He advised men, likewise, not to be taken in by a girl's big-eyed gaze.

"She may seem gullible but she's not," Kaliff said. "Look behind those eyes and you'll find she's scheming."

'I Wised Up Too Late'

DEAR MRS. RICKER:

I have been reading your column with great interest, especially your advice to those girls who are discouraged by the pseudo popularity of the "not-so-nice" variety.

I was a "not-so-nice" girl who wised up too late and perhaps my story will help some of these girls. Not long ago, when I was a teenager, I wanted above everything else to be popular.

I was, for a while, and I played it fast and loose. I had a lot of dates and was envied by girls who were less popular. But when the time came for me to settle down the decent boys didn't want me for a wife.

Dorothy Ricker

It took me SEVEN years to find a decent man who was willing to overlook my past and marry me. Girls, don't make the mistake I made.

It takes a long time to convince people that you have changed for the better. I know!

MRS. B. C.

Your frank, testimonial letter should be helpful to those teenagers who may be confused about the vital importance of proper, moral behavior.

From your experience they can learn what it takes to recover a lost reputation.

To win back the respect of nice people is a long, hard road, with many snubs and heart-breaks on the way.

It just isn't worth the price one has to pay for so-called popularity gained by loose, immoral conduct.

Dorothy Ricker

New Signs Irk Gardeners

Local garden clubs are protesting the three "enormous billboards" to be placed at the LeJeune entrance to Miami's new airport.

"It's not that we are 'agin' billboards," says Mrs. James C. Steele, "but that our new airport could be landscaped and beautified to make it the most beautiful in the country."

Mrs. Steele, president of the Council of Garden Club Presidents, says the local clubs are writing to George McSherry, airport director, and Walter Weiss, chairman of the Port Authority.

They're asking that the Port Authority hire a competent landscaper to beautify the airport.

"We're trying to do this in a positive way," Mrs. Steele added.

"The airport could be so beautiful. It would be a pity to deface it with these billboards.

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Get Along With People

AS PRODUCTION manager of Knight Newspapers, Les Griner has a lot to say about the kind of men who are hired in certain departments and he has a good chance to see how well they produce.

When I was interviewing him the other day he made this observation: "I'd rather have an uneducated gentleman than and educated fool."

To which he added: "The most important qualification for a job is the ability to get along with people."

Mr. Griner makes good sense.

IF THE MEMBERS of our Old Songs and Poems Musical and Literary Society want to do a favor, they can help Mrs. Evelyn B. Book, Box 412, Naples.

She's all bothered because she can't remember the rest of the words to a song that went: "If I ever go to heaven, I'd sit right on the moon, And keep my eyes on you. I'd see that you don't———."

And right there is where her memory fails her. That's a terrible spot to forget.

I'd like to know myself what it is the singer is going to see that his girl friend doesn't do.

Personally, I think he'd find out more about her goings-on if he hid underneath her porch swing than if he sat on the moon, but then I'm not a poet or song writer.

SOME TIME BACK we mentioned a local boy, Jerry Bucci, who was making quite a name for himself as a singer with his fellow soldiers stationed in Germany.

Now his mother, Mrs. Tony Bucci, Hollywood, tells us that Jerry may expand his audience beyond the armed forces.

When Bob Hope was in Germany he listened to Jerry and liked what he heard. Apparently because of this, Jerry now is making a record which he hopes will be a big click. So do we all.

Jerry expects to be back home in April and may be singing for the home folks before long.

I GOOFED FOR GOOD when I said that Sweet Caporals belonged with the memories of the golden past. It seems that they're still very much with us.

Jack Anderson, Hollywood, says that he, too, thought they were extinct but was told recently by a friend that they're sold at Shell and Walgreen stores.

Then Kim Hart sent me a package, reporting that he not only sells Sweet Caporals but Home Run, Piedmont, and Picayune, other brands that were being sold at the turn of the century.

He runs The Tobacco Shop in Fort Lauderdale and doesn't want me running down his business by saying one of his products isn't made any more.

John Schraedel, 41 SW 15th Rd., is so much more up on the times than I am that he not only knows Sweet Caporals are still sold, he smokes them regularly.

W. G. Ham, 1461 NE 108th St., says a Sweet Caporal was the first manufactured cigaret he ever saw and that they're now very popular in Canada. He smokes them every summer when he visits in Ontario.

Another package of the old favorites was sent in by G. R. (Bob) Millard, Hialeah, and Steve Carroll, Miami Hotel, told me I could get all of them I can smoke at a shop at 117 SE First Ave.

Ed Hamm, staying at the Flamingo Hotel, Miami Beach, while visiting at Sea Girt, N.J., mailed me a package, and Mrs. Irene Horlamus, Coral Gables, brought another to the office.

So you can see I've been well supplied with Sweet Caporals and I'll never say again they aren't made anymore. They aren't a bad smoke, incidentally, although I'm going to stick to Salems. I no longer am a tobacco fiend, since switching from Chesterfields. I'm now a menthol fiend.

★ ★ ★

ALONG WITH THE CIGARETS, Mrs. Horlamus left a loaf of bread which her company makes. The Horlamus bread is supposed to be the next best thing to home made bread, busting out with proteins. It's good, all right, but while it may be more healthful, it doesn't have the taste and smell of a loaf fresh out of mama's oven.

THE Last Word

By DR. BERGEN EVANS

QUESTION: What is the connection between hysterical and hysterectomy?—S. U. B.

ANSWER: Both are derived from the Greek word hystera, womb.

Hysterectomy is the surgical removal of the womb.

Hysterical derives from a curious ancient belief that the womb was an unfixed organ which, moving about in the abdomen, tickled and upset a woman and produced hysteria.

Since hysteria was caused by the womb, it followed that men could not be hysterical. When men had tantrums and smashed things and shrieked and wept it was thought to display force of character. Nothing was more bitterly resented in Freud's early teaching than his insistence that men, too, were subject to hysteria.

The womb was sometimes called the mother and hysteria was called "a fit of the mother." From this use of mother - matrix derive such expressions as "mother of pearl" and "mother of vinegar."

Many physicians, by the way, believe many hysterectomies are due more to hysteria than necessity.

Labor Strikes Sweep Japan

TOKYO —(AP)— Japanese labor's annual spring offensive for higher wages began with four million workers striking for 24 hours or holding rallies on the job to slow production.

Unions of the large leftist Sohyo Federation and a few independent unions were involved. Iron and steel production chiefly was cut, but no violence was expected.

The unions are demanding monthly pay increases ranging from $5.55 to $8.33 and a wage floor of $22.22 a month. The average monthly wage in Japan was last reported at $60.

Jack Kofoed Says

Some Losers Recoup With Plush Salaries

THERE SEEM to be payoffs, even for defeated politicians. One congressman, thoroughly walloped, was given a $25,000 a year job as legal officer for a government relief agency.

A defeated governor was rewarded with a $30,000 civil defense spot, another a $15,000 one as assistant to the winner. Everyone has a finger in the pie, except voters.

Random golf notes: Bill Tinder has the Biltmore course in the best shape it has been for several years . . . The Miami Shores rebuilding program is moving ahead steadily, but Jim MacLaughlin is itchy to have it completed . . . George Astor, at the Fontainebleau, tutored Judy Garland's husband, Sid Luft, and her musical director, Neal Hefti, playing better golf than they ever did . . . Long hitting Jack Drees, the TV Wednesday night fight announcer, fascinated with the new Westview look, and Ross Sobel.

The Guys and Gals Dance club presents its annual ball at the Empress Saturday for the benefit of the Mental Health Society.

Members of the Creative Writing Class at Lindsey Hopkins meet Saturday night at Goldie Ramer's home, 6750 SW 26th Ter. Mrs. Ramer thinks that if more people were scrubbers, this would be a better world. I wonder.

Maybe the Schenley people haven't heard about the rash of jewel robberies here. They have a half million dollar display of samovars at Jordan Marsh's . . . Ralph Pearl, Las Vegas "Sun" columnist, staying at the Deauville, is certain to resume his feud with Frank Sinatra, who's singing at the Fontainebleau.

Betting at Dania and Miami jai alai frontons has skyrocketed to undreamed of heights. Last year Roy McAndrews' pelota palace set a record of eight million dollars. This year he is running well ahead of that mark, but Dick Berenson's is even in front of that.

The strange thing is that attendance at both places is almost exactly the same, but people in Miami seem to bet more heavily than those in the Dania-Hollywood-Fort Lauderdale area. Everybody's happy, though.

Jimmy Durante, one of show business' immortals, opened at the Latin Quarter last night. There never has been anyone just like Schnozzola, either in the tempo of his performance or in great heart. Jimmy celebrated his 66th birthday last month, but has the drive and vitality of a man half his age. God grant him many a year to come.

Suspension of licenses for three minor moving traffic violations is utterly wrong. A man, who has driven a car more than 750,000 miles in 30 years without an accident that was his fault, was set down for three months recently.

His sins? Driving 38 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone, 42 miles in a 35 mile zone, making a right turn at a stop street without coming to a full halt, though there was no other car in sight.

Such punishment . . . particularly for one whose living depends on the use of his car . . . neither makes good sense nor contributes to the safety campaign.

Correction: A Brooklynite says neither "Peg Leg" Lonergan nor "Wild Bill" Lovett, two vicious criminals of an earlier era, died in the electric chair. Lonergan was rubbed out at the Adonis Club, Lovett in a dock war. The fellow from the city where the tree grew says he can't remember any of Brooklyn's bad boys getting the hot seat.

St. James Catholic Church is looking for singers and dancers to appear in its seventh annual stage production.

Nightlife with George Bourke

Martin, Durante Have One Factor in Common -- Boxoffice Lure

FORTUNES have been lost trying to fathom the enigma that is show business, the paradox, for instance, which makes the same audiences flock to the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii to o-oh and a-ah over Tony Martin of the classic profile, the thickly-tufted head, and the dulcet tones and then go on to the Latin Quarter to o-oh and a-ah over Jimmy Durante of the rather notable profile, the almost denuded pate and the voice with the rasp of a saw — albeit that of a musical saw.

We don't have the explanation to the enigma or to the paradox — unless it is that the public recognizes that art, in the sense of the application of skill to the production of an end, is as variable thing.

Martin to Durante was the course of our beat on a recent night and the level of our appreciation, and that of those around us, it appeared, seemed equal at both shows even though there is no tangible basis of comparison in their work for either appreciation or critical judgment.

At Cafe Pompeii Tony pleased the eye — the feminine eye to a greater extent — and the ear with his tailoring and pleasantly paced romantic rondelays such as "Houseboat," "I'm Glad I'm Not Young," "All of You," "Fascination," "Fire Down Below," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and so many more before he had to beg off. Here certainly must be the greatest cafe showman of our era, you think as you leave.

Then you spend an hour watching Jimmy Durante charm with his pseudo petulance, his Inka-Dinka-Do tempos and his madcap antics with wonderful Sonny King, new-to-the-act Johnny Mack who dances as smoothly as Sonny sings, rotund Sally Davis, Charlie Roth, Jules Buffano and the Durante Darlings, and you think: here certainly must be the greatest cafe showman of our era. So what are you going to do!

Incidentally, at Latin Quarter you get several numbers of Donn Arden's Sky High Revue in addition to Durante. At Cafe Pompeii, Martin, with Al Sendry at the piano, is preceded by Allan Drake, who warms up with his comedy, and Augie and Margo, a pair of modern dancers who start off with a sizzling terping touch.

Ivory Tower Heavenly

THE SAXES, George, Rhoda and son Edward, have come up with something brand new for the Miami Beach area in the Ivory Tower, an exquisite dining, dancing and dreaming caravanserai 16 stories in the clouds above Collins Ave. It quite properly consists of a jewel-like setting atop the Saxony Hotel, which was itself the first of the post-war luxury hotels—10 years ago.

A dream-world of overhead plexiglass domes, through which the tropical skies and the stars can be seen as one dines or dances and plush carpeting underfoot for "barefoot" dancing are only two of the out-of-this-world attractions of the Ivory Tower.

One reaches it in a Crystal Ball, a uniquely Westinghouse-designed lift, which zooms 32 fugitives from earth-level worries aloft at a time—in an elevator shaft built on the outside of the hotel. The decor and general planning of the project are the brainchildren of Mrs. Sax, who also supervised the recent addition of 200 rooms to bring the Saxony total to 440 rooms.

. . . satire

JACK CLEARY, who probably helped chalk up thousands of March of Dimes miles, urges attendance at the March of Dimes dance the Drum Corps will sponsor at the Biscayne Boulevard on Saturday night . . . A "coketail" party and show is slated at the United Synagogue Youth Chapter purim cabaret dance on March 21 at Temple Emanu-El on Miami Beach . . . Long Islanders who might think the bosses at Cheeta's Lounge and Restaurant in the Ponce de Leon Hotel look familiar might be recalling them from dining operations in that area . . . FOUND — by this reporter, on Miami Beach — an article of value to someone with a Stephen born on April 14. We're in the phone book.

Bill Jordan has hinted this will be his last year as a Bar of Music operator. If so he seems intent upon being remembered for the shows he used to do. Jordan, of course, is assured of his own fame as one of the very best twin piano artists in the business, but he is apparently intent upon being recalled as an impresario too.

Currently, for instance, he has a rollicking show which features the ace classic impressionist of them all, Arthur Blake, who does fantastically sharp take-offs on Tallulah Bankhead, Louella Parsons, Henry VIII, Gloria Swanson and so on. In addition he has comedian Guy Rennie, the evergreen Harvey Bell, for song, and Lee Coby at the keyboard.

Sepian Revue Sizzles at Ciro's

IF YOU SEE Roberta Sherwood among the lobsters and fish at Mike Gordon's it could be because she's visiting a relative. No! Not the lobsters. Roberta's nephew, Bill Waters, is a bartender there . . . Sallie Blair, who heats the night air at Ciro's Lounge, is studying dramatics (when she's in New York) with Mervyn Nelson. The sultry singer wants to be ready when the stage and picture bids come. Incidentally, the main room at Ciro's has an incendiary sepian revue on tap—its ingredients being, in good part, those of the recent "Jump for Joy" production. But with the "governor" off and a sky's-the-limit tempo. On tap are Jimmy Randolph, Stumy and Stumpy and the Norma Miller singers, plus delightful Damita Jo as an added entry.

Bob Rohde's band has recorded the marching song which accompanies the entrance of the Jai Alai players at Dania Hi Li. This is probably the week for marches. Let's hope they don't get too martial . . . Hy Heller, who is called the sturgeon-general at Lindy's in New York, is AWOL — the L for Lindy's — vacationing at the Fontainebleau.

Tone, Ex-Wife Toast Divorce In Champagne

CELEBS ABOUT TOWN: The Duke and Duchess of Windsor waltzing at El Morocco. Admiring couples left the floor so they could twirl. But it made them self-conscious and they returned to their table . . . One-time No. 1 deb, Brenda Frazier, seeing the old haunts with Constantin Alajalov, who does most of the covers for The New Yorker . . . Franchot Tone and actress Dolores Dorn-Heft at the Little Club celebrating their divorce with champagne . . . Martha Hyer and Marilyn Maxwell giving the Eden Roc that Beverly Hills look . . . Tony Bennett excited about his "brand new act" for Copa which started Thursday. . . . Viveca Lindfors, star of Paramount's "Tempest" movie (due soon), shuddering in the North Pole weather . . . Kim Novak strolling unnoticed through an army of autograph fans waiting for Marilyn Monroe near her E. 57th apt . . . "Miss Apple Cheeks" (Claudette Colbert) waiting for Geo. Abbott to take her to see "The Disenchanted."

Franchot Tone . . . a toast

Dolores Dorn-Heft . . . apart

Martha Hyer . . . a look

SALLIES IN OUR ALLEY: Gertrude Berg, who was hugged and kissed by the critics for her hilarious performance in "A Majority of One," was the topic in the Beverly Blue Room recently . . . "She's come a long way in show business," observed one diner, "for a gal who isn't glamorous" . . . "Since when," rejoined another, "has talent lost its glamor?" . . . Singer Didi Douglas explains why so many starlets never become overnight successes: "Too many overnights."

* * *

BEHIND-THE-SCENES: On March 16 Knopf will publish "The Seesaw Log" by William Gibson. Besides the stage version of the hit, "Two for the Seesaw," Gibson offers frank comment on many things that preceded the Broadway premiere . . . Frixample: Gwen Verdon turned it down . . . Kim Stanley never even responded when it was sent to her to read and even though "Seesaw" was a big click, the co-star, Henry Fonda, requested that the author stay away from his dressing room . . . Fonda also left the smash hit after six months . . . None of the play's success was ever an occasion for jubilation, but one of weariness, bewilderment, even loss.

MEMOS of a Midnighter: Sammy Davis, Jr. came to town (en route to Florida bookings) and phoned a few friends to his hotel suite "for a party," now in its third night . . . Virginia McManus, convicted sinner, became one after a medic jilted her, she told an interviewer . . . Rose Duperier (she was with Mrs. Betty Davis in her final hours) is actually Baroness Duperier, former wife of the chief of President Charles DeGaulle's political party . . . Babs Warden, ballet mistress at "La Plume," weds Stan Lebowsky ("Whoop Up" conductor) March 8 . . . Agent Howard Hoyt's wife, Pat, is recovering from agonizing burns suffered all over her body. Fell asleep with a cigaret in her hand at their home near New Hope . . . It's a boy for dancer Nancy Crompton at Lenox Hill Hosp. She is Mrs. John Weiler . . . "Newcomers of 1928" opens at the B'way Riviera Mar. 12 . . . Things must be rough over at Time, Inc., where a new economy order says even execs must fly "Tourist."

Midtown Vignette: They were from Utah—making their initial visit to Our Town . . . A typical New Yorker was showing them Broadway at night . . . Pointing to some of the eyefilling signery, he carelessly said: "There, now, what do you hicks think about that?" . . . "Seems to me," squelched one of the visitors, "that you New Yorkers are the real hicks, not we. Where we come from the folks know all about New York. But you New Yorkers know very little about Utah!" . . . Mutual friends reported that incident . . . We trust Utah newspapers will use it . . . Especially the punchline . . . The "typical New Yorker" was from Hoboken.

STAGE DOOR: Mable Wayne wrote the melody to "Little Man You've Had A Busy Day," not Al Hoffman and Dick Manning, who merely wrote the words . . . Teevee's Shari Lewis and her ex-mgr. (Leo Pillot) may settle things out of court . . . Corbett Monica, Copa comic, is the son of silent screen star Maria Montez, who danced with Rudy Valentino . . . Cary Grant's latest crush is Madeline Rhue, seen in many teevee shows. She's in his new film . . . Tommy Leonetti owes his Steve Allen booking (next Sabbath) to David Allen, who stepped aside . . . Allen has defeated several serious problems himself.

Nippers Are Used on Ronald Long and Leading Lady

NEW YORK —(AP)— Police had to separate the leading players of a Restoration comedy here Wednesday night. In "She Shall Have Music," handcuffs are placed on the players' wrists early in the second act.

Actor Ronald Long, playing Mr. Pinchwife, angrily dragged Honey Sanders, playing a madam named Mother Catchall, off the stage. That much was in the script.

Stuart Bishop, who wrote the book, never intended the key to be lost. But it was.

The remainder of the comedy was a bit unusual. Whenever the madam was on stage, she held one arm outstretched, permitting Mr. Pinchwife to hide in the wings.

Two emergency squad patrolmen were finally summoned. They brought a hacksaw and nippers with them. The hacksaws didn't work. The nippers did after two hours.

Circle Chorus Sings Sunday

The Workmen's Circle Chorus will be heard in its first concert this year at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Hibiscus auditorium, 10th St. and Alton Rd., Miami Beach.

Soloist will be William Royal, tenor. Choral numbers will be sung in Yiddish, Hebrew and English.

Incredible Story of Corruption Unfolds

'Capone' Has Shocking Impact

By GEORGE BOURKE
Herald Amusement Editor

Movie Review

IN BRIEF — Best and most arresting racket film in a long time. Teems with action and timely warning.

A dozen years after his demise the evil magic of the name of Al Capone is about to demonstrate the open sesame to quick fortune which it was in its prohibition hey-day. That part of the racketeer's life which made him internationally notorious and created (or at least brought to monstrous maturity) a way of underworld life still with us, is being currently told in a movie of such noteworthy excellence, with such fascinating impact, that it is likely to prove as profitable to its producers as did any Chicago brewery, brothel or bank robbery in the Roaring Twenties.

Written by Malvin Wald and H. F. Greenberg from a record of bullets and blood already indelibly inscribed in the history of Chicago, and directed realistically by Richard Wilson, "Al Capone" covers the mobster's life from his arrival in Chicago in 1919 to be a bodyguard, up to the incarceration of the Czar of Crime in Alcatraz on a tax violation rap in the 30's.

Its tale of political corruption, which allowed hoodlums to capture the second largest city in the nation, the gang warfare for control of the lucrative rackets and, the eventual infiltration of the mob into legitimate channels of business is a story well known. The picture, however, chiefly as the result of a great performance by Rod Steiger in the title role and Producer John Burrows and Leonard Ackerman's determination not to add one single false melodramatic touch is as suspenseful as waiting for tomorrow's headlines.

As a matter of fact — if one thinks and looks closely one can in fact see tomorrow's headlines still forming out of the pattern and organization established in the bloody days described therein.

Among the highlight scenes would be Capone "fingering" a benefactor as they both listen appreciatively to a Caruso recording; the Valentine's Day massacre; the "Julius Caesar" touch to a scene where Capone learns his Brutus of a newspaperman hireling has betrayed him; the gangster funerals; and Capone's wooing of the widow of one of his victims in the film's only romantic note and possibly its only fiction.

In the widow's part Fay Spain enlarges on and repeats the success she had in "God's Little Acre."

There are many other excellent performances such as Martin Balsam, as a crooked newspaperman who might be Jake Lingle; Murvyn Vye, as Bugs Moran; Nehemiah Persoff, as Johnny Torrio; Joe de Santis, as Jim Colosimo; Robert Gist, as O'Banion; Lewis Charles, as Hymie Weiss, and James Gregory as an incorruptible cop.

It will be noted that actual names are used in the cast list and the usual disclaimer of changing the names to shield the innocent — or the guilty — is not used.

COOL ATTITUDE is mutual in scene from "No Name on the Bullet," which will star Audie Murphy and Joan Evans at the Town, currently.

Sinatra-Sammy Davis Friendship Cools

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — The Frank Sinatra-Sammy Davis, Jr., friendship is as cold as the icebergs of Greenland.

Sammy made a speech in which he said a few things about his close friend, Sinatra, that didn't sit well with Frankie. When it was repeated to the thin one, he asked that a tape of the show which had been made, be read to him.

The result is that Sammy won't be in "Never So Few" nor "Oceans 11" with Sinatra. I can only feel that Sammy didn't realize what he was saying, or that he meant his remarks as a joke, because Frankie has been his idol for years.

* * *

AS THE "LAST of the movie moguls," my friend Sam Goldwyn has been getting more national publicity this month than most movie stars.

Sam's latest honor is from the Hollywood Foreign Press Association to present annually a plaque to be known as the Samuel Goldwyn International Film Award. First presentation will be made at the Foreign Press Awards banquet at the Cocoanut Grove March 5.

Sammy Davis, Jr.

... breaking up that old gang o' mine?

IT ISN'T OFTEN casting news hands me a laugh — but I just can't keep it secret any longer that Jack Benny has the inside track for the title role in "The Billionaire." In view of Jack's professional reputation as a penny-pincher and a tightwad — it's really a stroke of imagination on Jerry Wald's part to want "Jackson" for "The Billionaire."

Jack's comedy, "Charlie's Aunt," was a wow movie comedy, and cleaned up at the box-office. You can bet he'd be welcome back as a movie star at 20th Century-Fox.

* * *

JACK LEMMON probably will live a long time but he'll never have a compliment like the one producer-director Billy Wilder gave him after "Some Like It Hot." Said Billy, "Jack is the greatest comedy talent in the entire industry."

* * *

SNAPSHOTS — The Buddy Ebsens expect another baby in April. They have four daughters living with them, and two away from home.

We went to the Racquet Club with Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy, and an annoying woman made it almost impossible for Jack to eat his dinner. She kept coming over to the table and kissing him again and again.

Shirley and Jack will not go to Miami on advice of her doctor.

Early to Bed...

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — Actor Jack Carson, asked if he objects to his old late telecasts, said, "Naw, I'm usually asleep by 11 o'clock anyway."

Band Concert

The musical comedy class of Ladislao Vaida will present portions of "My Fair Lady" by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe at tonight's concert by Caesar La Monaca and his band at 7:45 in Bayfront Park bandshell.

Bill Eastham will sing the leading role of Henry Higgins and Ann Congelo and Susan Brinegar will share the role of Eliza Doolittle. Others in the cast will be Gabriel Denes, Frank White, Sharlene Curfew, Susan Stadler and Helen Ziff. Esther Barrett will be at the piano and Gordon Shaw will narrate the program.

Wherefore Woodwinds?

Members of the Miami Symphonic Society Orchestra will explain and demonstrate the woodwind section of the orchestra for members of Miami Music Teachers Association at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, March 7, in the Miami Conservatory concert hall.

Participating will be Rochelle Draizar, flute, Bill Murray, oboe, Anthony Greco, clarinet, Bill Taylor, bassoon, Mitchell Osman, French horn, and Billie O'Day, moderator. Miss O'Day is the conductor of the orchestra.

Also Vocal Instructor

3 Violin Teachers Join Conservatory

Miami Conservatory has added three violin instructors to its music faculty. They are Sunja Balogh, Pierre Mande and Rose Schneebalg.

Mrs. Balogh

Mrs. Balogh, now playing a first violin in University of Miami Symphony Orchestra, has in the past played with the New Orleans Symphony and National Symphony of Washington, D.C. She is the wife of Julien Balogh, principal oboe with the UM ensemble.

Mande has taught violin in this area for a number of years.

Miss Schneebalg studied under Jean Paul Morel at Brooklyn College, and in Miami has worked with Dr. Frederick Neumann and Eugene Dubois.

The vocal department is adding a new teacher, soprano Meline Kulhanjian, a winner in the young artist auditions of National Federation of Music Clubs in 1955.

Registration for work in both departments may be arranged at the main studio, 2973 Coral Way, HI 6-2523.

Youth Orchestra Plans Auditions

Robert Strassburg's All Miami Youth Symphony Orchestra will open auditions next week for new members to augment its ranks during the current semester.

Auditions will be held at 4 p.m. each Saturday in March. Auditioners must perform a solo, scales, arpeggios and a current orchestra selection, and demonstrate sight-reading ability.

The orchestra rehearses from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays at Ponce de Leon Junior High school.

Good Luck, Kids; You Sure Need It

By ANN LANDERS

ANN

DEAR ANN: I'm 16 and my husband is 19. We were married in November and expect a baby in April. (Go ahead and count, everybody else is.)

I love my husband and I don't want anything to happen to our marriage. Besides, with a baby on the way, I need him. We had a big argument about his not helping me with the wallpaper and painting in the apartment.

In my condition I shouldn't be on ladders and scaffolds but the place was so shabby I couldn't stand it anymore, so I decided to fix it up. He promised to help, but he hasn't kept his word. He went out with his pals four times this week.

I told him I was going back to my folks and he said "Go ahead." I really didn't mean it, but now I can't get him to talk to me because I threatened to leave him. Please help me. I'd rather die than have my folks know the shape our marriage is in. — KATHY Same song, second verse. Neither of you kids were ready for marriage, but apparently this wasn't a decision reached after careful deliberation.

You are married, and about to become parents, which means you'd both better grow up in a hurry and measure up to the enormous responsibilities ahead.

Go to the clergyman who joined you together. Discuss your problems with him. It's going to take plenty of patience and determination to make your marriage work. Since the boy-groom is already flying the coop four nights a week, you will have to be the grown up one.

Good luck. You'll need plenty of it.

DEAR ANN: I am considered a very good cook and enjoy experimenting with new recipes. A friend (?) who thinks she is the best cook in the whole world, served a rather nice souffle at a luncheon recently and I asked for the recipe. She gave it to me—reluctantly.

I followed the instructions carefully, and it was the biggest mess I ever saw. This annoyed me because the recipe called for expensive ingredients and I had to throw everything out. There's no question but that she left out a few important ingredients or instructions, just to be mean.

I called her the next morning and she blamed my stove. When I asked her to repeat the recipe she said "This is an insult" and slammed down the receiver.

Was I wrong to call her: Did I insult the woman? What do you think? — OUT 13 EGGS AND A HALF POUND OF BUTTER.

Dear Out: Souffles are delicate and capricious things. It very well could have been your stove. I don't feel that you insulted her, however. Let the matter drop. And in the future get your recipes from the food section of this paper.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CENTREVILLE, Md. —(AP)— John Smith is about convinced he has been building his barn in the wrong place. Fire destroyed his newest along with 4,000 bales of hay, 40 pigs and seven brood sows.

It was the third time in three years flames have leveled Smith's barn built and rebuilt on the same spot. The first two fires were caused by lightning. The last one was believed due to a wiring defect.

Few Rooms, Rental Cars-but Tourists? Wow!

'Hottest February' Packs 'Em In

By GENE MILLER
And JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writers

You can't rent or beg a room at some of Miami Beach's top hotels.

You'd better eat early or very late if you want to avoid a long line at most eating places.

Rent a car? It's almost impossible now.

South Florida's do-or-die season is finally paying off.

Only a year ago goosebumped South Florida hotelmen were crying frozen tears.

But if this February stays warm just two more days, the month will go down as the warmest on record.

Specifically:

	1959	1958
Average Temp.	74.5	60

And with the sun, Miami Beach's fears of a 1958-like bankruptcy rash have bleached.

Hotel business is up strong, airlines are hauling in more customers, and the car rental gang is going great.

Even the perpetually grumbling cabbies are grumbling a few decibels lower.

Not everyone, of course, has banished all thoughts of the poorhouse forever. But the key indicators show the 1959 season is generally far ahead of 1958 and within shouting distance of the lush 1957 days.

One clothier came up with a neat left-handed comment.

"More people are here than ever before. But the weather's too nice for shopping."

Using a fictitious name, The Herald telephoned 16 hotels and motels and asked for accommodations for two for Saturday through Tuesday.

Four — the Eden Roc, Fontainebleau, Diplomat and Deauville — politely said no soap, we're full.

The Americana, Carillon, Montmarte, Delano, Driftwood, Golden Gate, Dunes, Castaways, Thunderbird, Tangiers, Saxony and the Delano said they could oblige.

"The pressure is off temporarily," said Delano Owner John Goldberg. "We didn't have a room to sell last week and we probably won't again next week.

Miamians Who Knew Him Think So

Did Zwillman Die To Escape Probe?

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

Did Abner (Longie) Zwillman hang himself in his 20-room West Orange, N. J., mansion to keep from appearing before the Senate racket probe?

Miamians who heard that he had committed suicide Thursday recalled his many trips here in the late 1940s, believe that is the answer. The Senate group now is going into coin-machine rackets and protection. Zwillman headed a company handling cigaret vending machines.

One of his partners recently was questioned about Zwillman before the Senate group.

Abner Zwillman
. . . he was depressed

Zwillman was a familiar figure around Miami Beach for a time, but Daniel P. Sullivan, operating director of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami, doesn't believe he actually "operated here." His friends included Jack Friedlander, once credited with being the "Mr. Big" of Dade County gambling. Friedlander now has migrated to Havana gambling.

He was also a buddy of Nicky Delmore, who put a lot of his racket money in a big real estate enterprise at Fort Pierce, until The Herald identified him to his new neighbors there. Then he moved out.

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmn in New Jersey the 54-year-old Prohibition era figure had been depressed since a Senate Rackets Committee began delving into the coin-machine industry.

Zwillman owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., which handled cigaret machines.

His wife, Mary, whose finishing school background contrasted with Zwillman's early life in Newark's slums, found the body in a basement storage room at their fashionable home.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide. He said Zwillman used a plastic-covered clothesline.

The rope was attached to a beam eight feet from the floor. Zwillman's knees were slightly buckled and his toes almost touched the floor.

Police said Zwillman advised his wife Wednesday night to take a sleeping pill because she had trouble falling asleep, although he normally frowned on barbituates.

When she awoke Thursday morning, she went to the basement to get some cleaning tissue.

Zwillman's body was found in the storage room as she opened the door. Mrs. Zwillman became hysterical.

Half a bottle of bourbon and an empty glass were found in the cellar. Steinbach said his stepfather never had more than two glasses of brandy at a time — and then only with company.

Although linked with the rackets by various law enforcement agencies and officials for years, Zwillman served only a single prison sentence — six months for assault and battery in 1928.

Only last week a grand jury indicted several persons in connection with alleged bribing of jurors on the deadlocked panel that tried Zwillman for income tax evasion in 1956. He was aaccused of evading the payment of $38,911 in income taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Steinbach said Zwillman's moodiness took a particularly serious turn when Jerry Catena of South Orange, a partner in the Runyon Vending Machine Co., was called before the McClellan Committee recently and was asked a series of questions about Zwillman.

After the Catena appearance, Steinbach said, the normally gregarious Zwillman wouldn't talk to anyone for long periods. The stepson also said there had been indications Zwillman was ready to sell out his cigaret vending company.

Zwillman was particularly unhappy, Steinbach said, about any embarrassment publicity would cause his wife and daughter, Lynn.

Zwillman followed a career that has been duplicated many times in the past quarter-century—rags to rackets to riches to "respectability."

Born in August 1904 on Newark's slum-ridden Broome St. to poor immigrant parents, Zwillman became one of the

Cuba Asks Extradition Of Eight

HAVANA — (AP) — Cuba formally asked the Dominican Republic Thursday to arrest eight high officials of the ousted Fulgencio Batista regime now in exile in that Caribbean country.

Cuba demanded their extradition on charges of robbery and misuse of public funds.

Cuba has already requested — thus far in vain — the extradition of Batista, who also is in exile in the Dominican Republic.

A note from Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte to Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican ambassador to Cuba, said the fully documented charges to supplement the request would be forthcoming in 60 days, as required under an extradition agreement between the two countries.

Ten ex-Batista soldiers were excuted Thursday, bringing to 343 the unofficial total shot by revolutionary firing squads after conviction on war crimes charges.

They were executed at Matanzas, Holguin and Pinar del Rio.

Whites Hit At Unrest In Africa

South Rhodesia Jails Hundreds

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia —(AP)— White authorities threw up a legal roadblock Thursday to bar from this British territory the Nationalist unrest surging across much of Africa.

Prime Minister Sir Edgar Whitehead declared a state of emergency and outlawed Rhodesian branches of the African National Congress, spearhead of a native movement to break white political control.

Police raiding squads rounded up scores of Congress leaders and other Negroes under a tactical plan drawn up two months ago.

Whitehead announced that police arrested between 250 and 500 persons involved in what he called a vain attempt to undermine the loyalty of the government's African employes. He said he is confident the roundup will be completed soon.

Under the state of emergency, his government can detain anyone for a month. It bans gatherings of more than three persons, sets a curfew and prohibits publication of information about Southern Rhodesia's security forces.

Whitehead said many of the Congress officials are jobless youths with criminal records and bloodshed might result if they continued to carry on a campaign of intimidation. Appealing for the people to go about their business as usual, he said:

"The government believes that, with the removal of those responsible for stirring up strife, the emergency will be very brief."

Two of the prisoners, are James Chikerema, acting president of the Congress in Southern Rhodesia, and George Nyandoro, the general secretary.

Britain called off a projected visit of the Earl of Perth, minister of state in the London Colonial Office, to talk over a future constitution for self-governing territory and its partners in the sprawling Central African Federation, a rich, landlocked member of the British Commonwealth. The earl was to have flown from London Thursday.

Final Atmosphere Is Chilly

Mac and Nikita End Talks; Neither Will Budge an Inch

KIEV, U.S.S.R. — (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wound up their talks Thursday in an atmosphere of bitter chill. The British visitor warned Khrushchev of grave danger if anyone interferes with the Western powers' rights in Berlin.

"But Khrushchev is not budging an inch," a British spokesman said, "and Macmillan is not budging an inch, either. Make of that what you will."

But the British spokesman said there is nothing left to talk about except the wording of a final communique.

It had been expected that the Kiev trip would provide another opportunity for talks between the two leaders. But Khrushchev cancelled his plans to accompany Macmillan at the last moment and stayed in Moscow. There he received a delegation from Iraq.

Khrushchev told Macmillan at the meeting Thursday morning that "he had a tooth which required attention and he would have to give up the trip," the spokesman said.

The spokesman insisted that this was no breach of diplomatic courtesy, since Khrushchev had not originally planned to accompany Macmillan. But diplomats still wondered whether Khrushchev's toothache was real or diplomatic.

Before flying here for a visit to the Ukraine, Macmillan told Khrushchev that interference without some alternative arrangement "would lead to a dangerous situation," the spokesman said.

Such alternative arrangements supposedly would meet the Soviet threat to turn over to East Germany the control of Allied lifelines to isolated Berlin. These would have to come through negotiations, in Macmillan's view.

But Khrushchev in his speech to a political rally in the Kremlin Tuesday heaped ridicule on the Western plan for negotiations at the foreign ministers' level. In that speech Khrushchev warned that any violations of East Germany's borders in a dispute over Berlin would be considered an act of aggression.

Despite the tenor of Khrushchev's remarks, the spokesman insisted in reply to a reporter's question that Macmillan does not believe the Soviet premier has shut the door on a foreign ministers' meeting.

"He left the door open," the spokesman said. "It was a small door, but the light is going through."

But the Kremlin speech, coming at the height of the British visit, so stung Macmillan that he thought of breaking off further talks and returning to London, British sources reported.

"But Mr. Macmillan came here to have talks with the Soviet leaders and to see the country," a British official said. "He had the talks and he decided he might as well see the country."

There will be a final meeting with Khrushchev Monday after Macmillan returns from visits to Kiev and Leningrad.

Beaming Ike Takes Leave of a Guest
. . . Sen. Hugh Scott breakfasted with President

3 Senators Sure Ike Can Cope With Reds

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Three freshman Republican senators came away from a meeting with President Eisenhower Thursday convinced he has counter-proposals for dealing with Russian demands on Berlin.

This attitude was gleaned by Sens. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Kenneth B. Keating of New York and Winston L. Prouty of Vermont at a bacon-and-eggs breakfast with the chief executive.

They reported their convictions as a freshman Democrat, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D., Conn.), praised the administration's firm stand on Berlin as "sound, enlightened and morally right." He also replied to some Democrats who have accused the administration of being "inflexible" in its Berlin policy.

"There is no peculiar virtue in the concept of flexibility," he told the Senate. "Flexibility implies compromise and concession. When applied to fundamental principles, right principles, flexibility is not only without virtue; it becomes a vice."

The GOP senators said the President did not go into any details on how the U.S. might cope with Russian balkiness on Berlin. But they reported he was ready to deal with any situation.

"We did not get the idea that the Russians are the only ones who can come up with suggestions or counter-proposals," Scott said.

Keating said he sensed "no gloominess" over Cold War problems in the talk with Eisenhower. However, Prouty said, there was a "certain degree of urgency."

American officials still hoped that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev would agree to realistic negotiations on Berlin. They thought he might leave the door ajar for an East-West foreign ministers meeting when Moscow sends its formal reply to Allied proposals for such a conference.

Nixon Brings Daughter Here

Vice President Richard M. Nixon is vacationing in Greater Miami for a few days with his daughter, Julie, who is recovering from an eye infection.

The 10-year-old girl was ordered by her physician in Washington to head for a warm climate until she recovers. She has been out of school three weeks.

The vice president, who comes here frequently, brought her to Key Biscayne where they are guests of C. G. Rebozo. Nixon said Thursday they plan to return to Washington this weekend.

Airplanes Are Sent To Area

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The U.S. Navy put a boarding party on a Soviet fishing trawler off Newfoundland Thursday in an investigation of recent breaks in Transatlantic cables.

The Pentagon said the radar-picket ship Roy D. Hale, placed a party on board the Soviet trawler Novorossirsk about noon when the Russian vessel was about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland.

In announcing the boarding of the Soviet trawler, the Pentagon said that it was done "under treaty provisions concerning protection of undersea cables."

There was no word as to what the boarding party learned.

Skipper of the Hale is Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. Korte of Westerly, R.I. A native of Freeport, Minn., he is a submarine as well as a destroyer officer.

Before the announcement of the boarding of the trawler, the Navy had said in response to inquiries that the Hale had been sent to the area and that U.S. planes from the Naval Air Station at Argentia, Newfoundland, were flying over the area, where cables operated by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Western Union had been disrupted.

First reports of damage to Transatlantic cables came Saturday. The Pentagon said that four additional reports had been made by Wednesday and that aerial reconnaissance conducted by American planes "confirmed extended operations of Novorossirsk in the area of the cable breaks at the time the breaks occurred."

The announcement said that the investigation and the boarding of the Russian vessel were undertaken under terms of a treaty for protection of cables to which both the U. S. and Russia are signatory parties.

Gen. Marshall Holding Own

FORT BRAGG, N. C. —(AP)— Gen. George C. Marshall rested well during the night but remained in serious condition Thursday at the Army hospital here.

Col. George M. Powell reported the 78-year-old general's condition was essentially unchanged. A pituitary gland involvement, causing him trouble a few days ago, is now under control, Powell added.

Medical History of a Child Ignored by Parents

Life Too Painful, Boy Became a Machine

CHICAGO — (AP) — Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed a night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran through the day and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "bam." The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancies machinery idle or broken down:

"For long periods of time . . . he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation . . . We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his "calamity could be fall a child in any time and culture but our own."

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents. He gave this account:

The parents didn't mistreat Joey but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or non-eating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was nine years old. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Joey reverted to a partially human stage — but as an infant. He made drawings showing himself inside an auto with a group he named the Carr family. He was still inclosed, but was with others and could move around. Still later he pictured himself driving the car.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Did Slayer Know Victim Would Drive Home Alone?

By AL FINKELSTEIN
Herald Staff Writer

Mary Louise Meslener
. . . a fatal Monday

The husband of a slain airlines reservations clerk "wondered" Thursday if his wife's killer might have known that Monday and Wednesday were the only two days on which she drove home alone from work.

Every other day, Frank Meslener said, he picked up his 23-year-old wife, Mary Louise when her shift ended at 7:30 p.m., at National Airlines, and drove to their in-laws' home at 19320 NW Seventh Ct.

But on Mondays and Wednesdays, the 29-year-old Bronx, N. Y. auto mechanic student said he attended night classes at Lindsey Hopkins Vocational School and his wife drove their 1958 Rambler to work.

Miami homicide detectives Thursday still could find no trace of the two-tone blue car.

Fishermen found the blonde woman's body Tuesday morning on the bank of the Miami River, near NW South River Dr. and 75th Ave. Police said she was shot in the right temple.

Police Thursday afternoon said: "So far, we are stumped . . . not a clue."

Meanwhile, at the home of William Harvey — the woman's brother — where the Mesleners were staying since they arrived in Miami four months ago from New York, the victim's husband sat quietly, answered questions softly — and pondered:

"She didn't know anybody here . . . She used to come right home . . . She was quiet, the home type . . . She never picked up hitchhikers.

"Why . . . why would somebody want to harm her?"

chological effect. People go home and new people come in."

But the thing to remember is that occupancy is running 70, 80 and 90 per cent — at top prices.

The Carillon, for example, is renting out its space at $33 a head a day.

Up-to-the-week figures from some airlines show this February has already flown passed its well-cooled counterpart last year.

Reported Delta: In-bound passengers in February, 1958, 11,832. In-bound this year with four days uncounted, 12,145.

Reported Pan American: February, 1958, 24,988. Twenty days this February showed 20,000.

National said its in-bound load was up 12 per cent.

Eastern estimates business is up "10 per cent or so" this month and figures to boost its 180 in-and-out flights a day to 200 this March.

The car renters came up with the most glowing words.

Examples:

Olin's: "We've had nothing available for two weeks. We are 53 per cent over last year."

Crouch: "Nothing since last Saturday. We are accepting only on a pot-luck basis."

Hertz: "Nothing whatsoever on a day-to-day basis for the last two weeks."

Tolls on the Sunshine State Parkway were $392,768 in January from $364,436 a year ago. Florida Turnpike Authority Chairman Thomas B. Manuel said, "We're doing even better in February."

While visitors played, a record number of Dade Countians were working the first month of this year. Some 302,000 were on the employment rolls compared with 297,650 last year and 289,250 in 1957. There were 23,000 unemployed this year compared with 16,900 in 1958 and 11,700 in 1957.

At the beach, any skilled hotel worker can get a job, one employment agency reported. Unemployment among other levels of the beach economy is "practically nil," according to Joe Staton, partner in Miami Beach Employment Service.

Most of the Caribbean islands were in the same boat.

Nassau, San Juan, and Kingston found no shortage of customers. But Havana couldn't say the same. One major airline reported its passengers into the Cuban capital were down 5,000 this month.

Avoid Area, Aircraft Warned

Blast Rocks H-Plant In Britain; 2 Killed

ALDERMASTON, England —(AP)— A violent explosion rocked Britain's big H-bomb factory here Thursday, killing two men and injuring another.

Airplanes were warned to avoid the region 45 miles west of London. But they resumed flights when officials said the blast was caused by conventional explosives and there was no radioactive danger. Traffic was permitted on nearby roads.

It was the sixth incident at the nuclear weapons research base in the past four years. Britain's Atomic Energy Authority set up a board of inquiry.

Last Tuesday two employes of the U.S. Atomic Laboratory at Los Alamos, N.M., were killed in an explosion of radioactive material.

A British Atomic Energy Authority spokesman said no radioactive materials were involved or disturbed in the Aldermaston blast.

He would not identify the explosives more precisely. But he said some are used at the atomic weapons factory and research establishment, housed in a dozen brick buildings and huts scattered over a 200-acre area enclosed by a high fence.

The men killed were Laboratory Workers Terence Bishop, 29, and James Walter Mallin, 45, employes of the Atomic Energy Authority for more than five years. The injured man suffered fractures of several ribs. He is Leslie Blake, 31, an assistant foreman.

The explosion occurred as boxes of explosives were being unloaded near a building. The building caught fire, but flames were extinguished quickly.

nation's biggest—and best hidden — behind-the-scenes underworld operators.

Just how big he was remained a matter of much speculation—to newspapers and Senate crime probers alike.

Zwillman hit the big money for the first time during Prohibition. Admittedly he was a rum-runner and bootlegger. And he made millions.

A U.S. Treasury intelligence agent once told Senate probers Zwillman was top man in a bootlegging syndicate that made at least 50 million dollars from 1926 to 1932.

As the years went by, Zwillman, like many other men who started in the rackets, thirsted after respectability. He invested in many legitimate businesses, often secretly, knowing his name could be the kiss of death for a legitimate enterprise.

In 1939 he married the former Mary De Groot Mendels, Steinbach, resident of swank and exclusive Millburn, finishing school graduate and one-time Junior Leaguer.

Teachers' Bane

'You Can't Spank Me, So - - Boo!'

ALBANY, N.Y. — (AP) — Teachers are subjected to heckling, catcalls and boos — even in an all-girl school — because the pupils are immune from spankings in school, a 16-year-old girl reports.

Susan Stalcup, a junior at Julia Richman High School, in New York City, says that is the situation in her school. Despite objections of some adults, she wants teachers given the right to use corporal punishment.

She testified at a state legislative hearing.

New York state law authorizes teachers to use moderate force in disciplining pupils, but local school boards may restrict that privilege. A New York City regulation bars all corporal punishment. A bill before the Legislature would forbid localities to make such rules.

other components of the federation, made up of eight million Negroes and 257,000 white settlers.

Nyasaland disorders have threatened to develop into a head-on clash between Negroes and whites.

These are part of a series of riots and other incidents that have cast a menacing shadow this week across the French Congo, Belgian Congo, Italian-run Somalia, the Central African Federation and South Africa. Their only apparent link is a restless surge for independence.

A senior Rhodesian official said a strike of Africans employed on the huge Zambesi River hydroelectric project had assumed a definitely political aspect. About 7,000 men are involved. The strike was launched by African laborers for higher wages after a recent accident in which 14 Africans and three white men were killed.

The laborers, paid the equivalent of 4½ cents an hour, asked for 14 cents. They rejected the contracting company's offer of seven cents.

With work on the dam at a standstill, the strikers have stoned buildings and vehicles. Members of the Nyasaland African National Congress were reported directing the operations from a hideout in the bush.

Dulles Looks Forward to Going Back

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' personal secretary said Thursday he is looking forward to resuming his duties.

Miss Phyllis Bernau said that at a birthday party Dulles told her he expects to recover sufficiently from cancer to get back on the job.

Miss Bernau and others of Dulles' immediate office staff gave him a 71st birthday party at Walter Reed Army Medical center Wednesday.

Dulles is undergoing X-ray treatments there for abdominal cancer.

President Eisenhower has said it is up to Dulles to decide — after the treatment ends, probably in a week or two — whether he is physically able to carry on.

Miss Bernau said she was delighted with Dulles' appearance. She described the party as "lots of good laughs," and said Dulles was "quite sharp and full of beans."

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

GENE MORI gave a party at Hialeah Park. 'Twas basically a breakfast for turf writers, but he included me in. The town's hummin' these days, with the Flamingo comin' up Saturday and baseball just down the road.

BELL

No place in Miami is so picturesque as Hialeah Park on a sunny morning. Prancing thoroughbreds come onto the track by the dozens, gallop as they tug at the bit, begging the exercise boys to turn them loose. Most of them wind up doing the full speed chore singly. But occasionally you'll see a real hoss race.

Exercise boys don't wear the flaming stable colors you see when the pari-mutuel windows open. But they sing and chatter and have lots more fun than the official jocks. The flamingos usually sit quietly, making a brilliant pink island in the lake. Swans, ducks, occasional wild bird visitors and big coveys of grackles keep the infield alive.

Up in the grandstand at the finish wire sit clockers, make believe clockers and just plain kibitzers. Some of of them, I'm told, know every horse in the barns. But I've a hunch they get a bit of workout inventory.

P.S. The breakfast was super—with the biggest strawberries I ever saw.

The great pastime in this glorious bit of confusion called Greater Miami is to compare this season's business with last season. If you don't do it you're not cool, man.

Well, Gootsie Palmer is general manager of Dupont Plaza Hotel operations and decided to compare. Dupont Plaza opened Feb. 19, 1958. Room occupancy for the first week was 11 per cent. So Gootsie compared those figures with the same period this February.

"Business has increased 890 per cent," he cried.

Speed Trap Is Denied by Georgians

LUDOWICI, Ga. — (UPI) — Officials of Ludowici and Long County hotly denied Thursday allegations of a Cleveland Auto Club that speed traps, including a quick-changing traffic light, are operated in their areas.

Ludowici City Attorney Ralph L. Dawson, called charges by Harold T. Cantlin, manager of the Cleveland club "untrue."

Long County Sheriff W. M. Jones admitted that "we occasionally do operate speed devices" but added that not many tourists have been arrested in his county on speed charges.

The verbal tiff was touched off when the Cleveland Auto Club announced adoption of a "shun Eastern Georgia" policy because of the increasing number of arrests of Florida-bound motorists in speed traps.

Cantlin said some 12,000 members who ask each year for routings to Florida will be sent via a bypass route. The new route was not announced for fear that deputy sheriffs will learn of it and shift their speed trap activities.

He said members are warned of the "high enforcement area" in the 50-mile section of U. S. Route 301 from Sylvania, Ga., south to the Florida line at Folkston, Ga.

It's 'Official' -And Cold, Too

CONKLINGVILLE, N.Y.—(AP) — This Adirondack community had the distinction of being officially the coldest in the nation Thursday — at 16 below zero.

Note to would-be rivals: The word "officially" is important. The Weather Bureau in Albany gave its approval of the 16 below and said that was the nation's lowest.

Conklingville, 15 miles west of Glens Falls, has had below-zero temperatures on 37 mornings in the last 90 days.

National Summary

Most of the northeast retained a dry weather pattern today and high pressure over northern Georgia ended the rains temporarily over portions of the southeast. But a low pressure circulation off the Carolina Coast maintained a few patches of rain from South Carolina to the southern Virginia coast. Temperatures: mid 30s under sunny skies over much of New England ranging to the mid 80s in Florida.

Sunny skies stretched from the central Appalachians into the central plains with temperatures warming into the 50s before mid day. But moisture spreading inland from the western Gulf of Mexico contributed rains over much of Texas with quarter inch hail accompanying a thunderstorm over midland Texas. Rain and snow fell over portions of Illinois and southern Michigan with snow over parts of Wisconsin and northern Michigan.

Most of the southwest remained sunny. Rain lingered over Washington state. A cold front across the northern Rockies and trailing westward into Oregon marked the advance of Pacific air spreading a few patches of snow across the Rockies with rain and snow reaching the Dakotas.

Trail of Theft Ring Leads to Prison

Guard Using Convict's Skill on Safes?

OCALA —(UPI)— A prison guard was accused Thursday of supplying his brother and another man with a convict to pull off safe-cracking jobs.

The trail of the safecracking ring led the investigators inside the walls of a new state prison at nearby Lowell.

Prison Supt. Harvey West said four men were picked up just outside the confines of the prison before dawn after he and Highway Patrol troopers stalked them in an unmarked car.

Arrested and charged with breaking and ntering were the guard, Samuel Altman, 25, his brother, George, about 28, both of Oxford in Sumter County; and Clement A. Barnes, 43, of nearby Wildwood.

A prisoner, whose name was withheld, was charged with escape.

Conferring with West in the matter late Thursday were State Atty. Gordon Oldham of Leesburg and Asst. State Atty. James Kynes Jr., Ocala.

West said he had suspected the ring, which allegedly netted several thousand dollars in a series of recent safe breaks, originated in his prison after a tip from a prisoner.

After checking for more evidence, he called in the Highway Patrol.

The prison official parked in the unmarked car just outside the prison gates and waited until he saw Altman, who was hired as a guard last month, release a prisoner.

Thinking West's car was the one he was to meet, the prisoner virtually jumped into the arms of the law.

Moments later, George Altman and Barnes drove up in a 1959-model car and were surrounded by patrolmen.

Police Chief K. C. Alverez, who has custody of the men in his jail, said the men had planned two safe jobs at Gainesville in Alachua County.

Safe-cracking tools were found in George Altman's car and at a spot in some woods near Ocala.

Alverez said two safes had been cracked here, one at Inverness and other attempts were made throughout the area.

He said all the safes were robbed the same way — by "peeling" off the tops with crow-bars.

The prison was just recently opened across the road from the state women's prison and the safe-cracking jobs broke out after prisoners were transferred here from Raiford, West said.

Hoffa to Collins: Spread Wealth

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Teamster boss Jimmy Hoffa told Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday to "worry more about Florida's working people and their living standard — and less about Hoffa."

Collins on Wednesday had described the diminutive leader of the giant union as "discredited," and said he wished Hoffa "would keep out of Florida."

"The less we see of him the better," the governor added.

Hoffa is in Miami for a Teamsters' executive board meeting.

HOFFA

COLLINS

Tying himself to the labor movement as a whole, Hoffa said, "I don't think Collins can talk about Hoffa without speaking against the Teamsters and all working people in Florida."

"If the governor would push some legislation to raise minimum wages and the workers' living standards, then the peopeople wouldn't seek union help," the labor leader told a press conference.

"There's too big a spread in Florida," he said, "between wealth and poverty."

"And you need something besides sun to enjoy life in Florida," Hoffa added.

Ready to go with his reply to the governor, the labor leader paused and then said, "Well, I really think he was just doing a little campaigning for Collins."

Hoffa interrupted his day-long sessions with the Teamsters Thursday, flying to Philadelphia for a rank-and-file union testimonial dinner. The banquet honors Raymond Cohen, a Philadelphia Teamsters kingpin whom Hoffa is trying to oust.

The Teamster boss denied "there is anything unusual in my attendance," and called it a "rank-and-file dinner which Cohen is privileged to attend."

There was no word from Teamster officials as to their next move toward infiltrating the nation's airline industry.

Hoffa's union gained the first step Wednesday when it was certified as the bargaining agent for some 800 Pan American Airways stock clerks, 268 of whom work in Miami.

The stock clerks switched from the International Association of Machinists to join the Teamsters. Thursday, George Browne, general chairman of District 100 which had the clerks, said "it was no grievous loss."

"We have 7,000 members, and dropping the PAA stock clerks won't hurt us." He said they were "long delinquent" in their per capita dues.

Browne also tossed a barb Hoffa's way when he added:

"Jimmy Hoffa has no business representing anyone on the airlines other than his truck drivers. He's got the door open now, however, and probably will go for the maintenance men next."

The IAM now represents the maintenance men on several airlines, including Eastern Air Lines in Miami.

Governor: Less Talk Of Mixing

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday called for less public talk about the emotion-packed integration problem, but two key legislators immediately took sharp issue with him on the point.

House Speaker-Designate Thomas D. Beasley said "the time has come for restraint in urging integration" and that he for on proposed to keep on speaking out on the subject.

And Sen. W. Randolph Hodges of Cedar Key said people of the South should not talk recklessly, but "should talk loud enough of their disapproval of integration so they finally will be heard in Washington."

Collins, following his own advice, declined comment on the legislative manifesto pledging a last-ditch fight to save segregated schools and states rights. He also was mum on talk by key North Florida senators that they would vote to close public schools rather than submit to integration.

"I have the feeling that this whole subject is so fraught with emotion and so subject to unsound interpretations, and it is so likely that any statement would be received in a different light than it was intended, that I think the time has come for the exercise of considerable restraint," he said.

"I think that applies to legislators. I think it applies to candidates. I think it applies to newspapers. And I think it applies to governors. So I think I will start out by saying that I don't feel I should make a comment on that proposition. I think the people can understand it for what it is."

On the subject of state finances Collins painted a rainbow across Florida's stormy financial skies.

But two other state leaders threw up black new rain clouds.

"I don't think it's a time for pessimism. It's a time for optimism and confidence," Collins said.

Jones Denies Bribe Charge And Linking Webb to Bolita

BARTOW, Fla. —(AP)— E. B. (Shorty) Jones denied at his bribery trial Thursday that he offered Sheriff Hagan Parrish money to permit a bolita syndicate to operate in Polk County. Jones said the sheriff lied about the offer.

Jones was the first defense witness called in the three-day old criminal court trial. The one-time Madison County legislator is charged with attempting to bribe Parrish to let the lottery ring operate in the county.

He could be sentenced to five years in prison if convicted.

"The sheriff is mistaken," Jones testified. "He is not telling the truth, sir."

Parrish, star witness for the prosecution, testified Tuesday that Jones approached him several times in 1956 and 1957 and offered him $5,000 cash plus 10 per cent of the monthly bolita gross.

The sheriff said the offer first was made at a meeting in Winter Haven on Dec. 15, 1956. He said Jones offered him $3,000 at that time and $2,000 more "when the deal was cemented."

Jones testified Thursday he met Parrish in Winter Haven to talk about group insurance for deputies and about the possibility of getting a job with Florida Citrus Mutual.

"Mr. Parrish was leaving Citrus Mutual to become sheriff," Jones said. "I wanted to talk to him to see if he could help me get into Citrus Mutual and to see if I could sell group insurance to his deputies.

"There was nothing said about an offer to operate bolita in Polk or any other county. I did not have $3,000 in my pocket."

Jones, 39, said he worked with Florida Insurance Co. of Miami at the time.

The defendant testified he once worked for Cecil Webb, wealthy Tampa miller and former head of the State Road Board. He said he knew of no connection between Webb and a lottery syndicate.

"Webb is one of the most honest men in Florida," Jones said. "He couldn't have had any interest in bolita."

Parrish and Atty. J. Hardin Petersen of Lakeland testified that Jones told them Webb was one of the "big men" behind the numbers racket.

Webb, reached at Thomasville, Ga., called the allegations ridiculous.

Jones said he couldn't recall talking about Webb in Parrish's presence but added, "I think so much of Mr. Webb that I often talked about him."

Jones wept while making the statement. His wife left the courtroom during this portion of the testimony. She also was crying.

Brevard to Get Two New Cities

By BILL BUNGE
Melburne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — Plans for two major developments, which will add at least 46,000 homes to mushrooming Brevard County — site of the Cape Canaveral Missile Test Center—were announced Thursday.

In one of the biggest real estate deals in Florida history, the Mackle brothers of Miami announced their purchase of 48,000 acres three miles south of Melbourne.

They plan to build a 30,000 home community. The property, fronting on the Indian River and running west 13 miles to the St. Johns River, cost in excess of $18,250,000 the Mackles said.

At the same time, Magnuson Properties of Miami said it will develop 4,000 acres north of Eau Gallie into a 16,000 home community to be called Palm Shores.

The land, in the Lake Washington area, will be developed for homes priced from $9,500 to about $19,000, the announcement said.

Planned are 200 miles of roads. About 400 feet of the property fronts on Lake Washington and will be developed for recreational use, Magnuson announced.

Only Wednesday, plans were announced for a 15 million dollar apartment project near the missile center.

The Mackle brothers — Elliott, Robert and Frank — operate the Mackle Co., which handles construction for the General Development Corp., which they also head.

They have been widely publicized for their home building activities, among the nation's largest, along both coasts of Florida.

The announcement said work on Port Malabar would get under way this summer on 30,000 homes in the $8,000 to $14,000 price range, shopping centers, roadways, a multi-million dollar water and sewage system and recreation areas.

Plans also call for a yacht basin, yacht club and acreage assignments for schools and medical facilities.

Port Malabar will grow into a city of nearly 100,000 persons, the Mackles predicted.

The General Development Corp. will offer 105,000 home sites for sale at Port Malabar under its nationally-advertised $10 down, $10 a month plan.

In addition to a half mile of frontage on Indian River, the property also fronts for two miles on winding Turkey Creek. The property will have access both to the ocean and the Indian River for light craft.

Port Malabar is the third major development announced by the Mackles in the last two weeks. Other purchases were 36,000 acres at Port St. Lucie, south of Fort Pierce, where a community already is under way. The other was 10,000 acres on the state's West coast.

The Mackle group also is developing 91,000 acres at Port Charlotte on the southwest coast.

New City Planned at Lauderdale

FORT LAUDERDALE — Plans for a 4,000-home community on 1,168 acres near Fort Lauderdale were announced Thursday by All State Properties, Inc., of New York.

All State President Herbert Sadkin said his firm bought the property for five million dollars from Robert Goldman of Miami.

The land, formerly known as MacArthur Dairy Farm, is located on the north side of Sunrise Blvd., east and west of the Sunshine State Parkway.

More than 6,500 feet of commercial frontage on highways is included.

Sadkin said construction will start within 60 days on eight model homes in the $10,000 to $15,000 bracket.

All State, Sadkin said, already is active in residential construction at four places on Long Island, N.Y., and in Louisville, Ky.

Rainstorm Hits Plane, Pilot Lost

By DAN DROWN

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE — A search plane Thursday sighted the wreckage of a light plane which crashed Wednesday night between Orlando and Melbourne.

Horace P. Barham, of Cocoa Beach, pilot of the downed Patrick Aero Club craft, was presumed dead but his fate had not been confirmed late Thursday.

Thundersqualls blocked a helicopter which tried to reach the wilderness crash site, the Air Force said.

But Nick Dean, pilot of the plane which sighted the wreckage, said he didn't see "how the pilot could have survived."

The plane apparently struck the ground nose first and burned, Dean and his two crew members reported.

They reported the crash was about "20 to 25 miles northwest of the Orlando Livestock Company ranch" west of Melbourne.

The Air Force said Barham apparently crashed when he tried to reach Melbourne Airport after a rainstorm blocked a landing attempt at Orlando.

Barham took off from Patrick at about 7:20 p.m. Wednesday on a flight to Melbourne and Orlando. He was last heard from shortly after 8 p.m.

School Now Free of Bugs, Also Pupils

TAMPA — (UPI) — School officials opened up vermin-plagued Gary Elementary School Thursday morning, after an all-night fumigating job, but only 36 of the 275 pupils were on hand.

Some 40 mothers, were present, however, all demanding that school be suspended until the fumigating fumes are dissipated.

Meanwhile, workmen spruced up the building in preparation for school opening Monday morning.

About 30 mothers took their children out of the building Wednesday, declaring the school, infested with mites, rats and roaches, was a health hazard.

School officials said they had been fighting the problem for some time, but that every time they fumigated the building the vermin returned.

The mothers displayed welts on their childrens' bodies which they said were caused by mite bites.

Cut Out Ads Because of Deficit

Pullman Granted Night Rate Increase

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — The Florida Railroad Commission Thursday granted a five per cent increase in Pullman night rates after an official warning the company might have to eliminate service on all but "crack" trains.

Charles D. Boak, Pullman's chief passenger agent, said his company's "only salvation" for its money troubles might eventually be to cut out all sleeping car lines not making a profit.

He told the commission Pullman had to cut out its national advertising program last year because of a huge deficit.

Boak said Pullman took ads in national magazines up to July, 1958, but a soaring deficit forced curtailment of the program.

Report Wounds

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Florida Sheriff's Association will seek a law from the 1959 Legislature requiring doctors, nurses and hospitals treating gunshot wounds to make reports to their sheriffs.

Such a law would be a great help to enforcement officers in investigations of crimes, the association said. Several states have similar proposals.

Failure to make the reports to the sheriff would be punishable by up to 6 months imprisonment or $100 fine.

ST. AUGUSTINE —(UPI)— A middle-aged woman's body, its hands tied with a silk stocking, was found in the San Sebastian River Thursday and a coroner's report said she had been in the water about 24 hours.

The body of the small-framed woman was taken to Daytona Beach for an autopsy. Investigators had no lead as to the woman's identity.

Coroner M. A. Pellicer said the woman was fully clothed except for shoes and stockings. Her shoes also were tied together with a silk stocking and were dangling around her neck. He added there were no wounds or exterior bruises to indicate she had been beaten.

Grandad Shot

DEFUNIAK SPRINGS —(AP)— First degree murder charges were filed Thursday against a 16-year-old boy accused of shooting his stepgrandfather to death.

The boy, Jimmy Ray Watson, was being held in jail pending a decision on what court should try him.

The boy was charged with killing John Henry Robinson, 52, with a shotgun fired at almost pointblank range Wednesday.

If the youngster is tried in juvenile court, he could be sentenced to an indefinite stay at the Marianna School for Boys. If the case is tried in Circuit Court, the penalty could range up to life in prison or death in the electric chair.

'Pressured,' Says Official

BOSTON —(AP)— Massachusetts Insurance Commissioner Joseph A. Humphreys charged Thursday a member of the governor's council spoke to him about granting a license to a Florida insurance company and that he felt an effort was being made to "pressure" him.

Humphreys said he informed Gov. Foster Furcolo of the incident which occurred in the council lounge.

Humphreys said the councillor was Raymond F. Sullivan (D., Springfield). Sullivan said he was trying to help a constituent, a Springfield insurance company, which wanted to help the Florida man get a license.

The councillor idenified the president of the Florida company as Harry Gourley of Jacksonville. He said Gourley was in Boston for two days and left Thursday to return to Florida.

Stop Eating Your Heart To Death, Medics Warn

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Fat Americans were warned again to stop overeating and start exercising.

They were advised to take these steps, along with other "common sense" suggestions, by Dr. Irvine H. Page, director of research at the Cleveland Clinic. He, along with five other eminent scientists in the field of heart disease, presented a national report on "A Decade of Progress Against Cardiovascular Disease."

Dr. Page said that several factors seem to be involved in the formation of arteriosclerosis, the disease that hardens the arteries. In 1956, there were nearly 460,000 dieaths from this disease and related afflictions.

Heredity, elevated blood pressure, exercise, stress, sex, diet and indulgence seem to play some role in the hardening of arteries, Dr. Page said. If your cholesterol level is high, your doctor may recommend a change in dietary habits.

Long Hours Didn't Pay

DETROIT — (AP) — Ferd Clay worked seven days a week.

Mondays through Thursdays he went from door-to-door taking orders for bargain television sets, cameras, appliances and jewelry.

Friday through Sunday he spent filling the orders.

Detectives Alex Wierzbicki and Stanley Viciulius halted the routine. They arrested Clay and he was charged with burglary.

The detectives claimed Clay filled his orders by stealing the goods. They estimated the loot at $30,000 from 115 homes in northern Detroit and suburbs.

They said only about $2,000 in cash had been collected but that records showed Clay had another $8,000 in time payment coming.

Ex-Prime Minister on Lecture Tour of U.S.

Attlee's Wry Wit Leaves 'em Laughing and Glad He Came

By PAUL GAPP
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

VALPARAISO, Ind. — An Englishman with a bald head, a clipped accent and a wry sense of humor left 'em laughing.

Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee also left behind a load of political ideas for Valparaiso University students to debate.

Attlee dropped his quips on the campus while making a speech, eating lunch with local dignitaries and answering question at a press conference.

Sample (when asked how he likes American tea):

"We didn't care when you dumped it in Boston harbor but did you have to dredge it up and serve it back to us?"

That one got a big laugh.

Attlee, who's in the middle of a lecture tour, rattled off answers to questions with a clipped delivery so rapidly and choppily British that some people didn't understand him.

They were too polite to ask him to repeat.

These capsule comments came through loud and clear, however:

On diplomatic recognition of Red China: "If you expect a person to obey the rules of a club, you don't tell him he can't be a member, do you?"

On the Allies' lagging behind Russia in missile development: "If you already have something that can kill one million people, must you have something that can kill two million?"

On British and American methods of choosing political candidates: "We (the English) have no barefoot boys from Wall Street."

On Britain's race riots last fall: "We had a spot of them in a very bad part of London. It has passed over."

The students' reaction, was, as they say, mixed.

"He looks like my grandfather," said Mildred Anderson, 20, of Hyattsville, Md. "He's quite a showman, though, the way he used anecdotes and things."

"I think he's very human and warm," said Mary Ruprecht, 18, of Valparaiso. "He made me feel more secure about the strength of our government."

The former Laborite prime minister is now a member of the House of Lords.

3 Firms Reveal Projects

Plans Include 46,000 Houses

See Brevard Map on 1D

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — A housing boost of more than a half billion dollars for Brevard County's home-starved citizens was announced Thursday — a shot that will mean more than 46,000 new houses and apartments.

Three companies, spending a total of 675 million dollars, are supplying the impetus to put this guided missile base area's housing situation back in orbit,

The Mackle Co. of Miami, the William Seckendorff Corp. of New York and Magnuson Properties of Miami made almost simultaneous announcements of their huge projects.

Mackle is planning a 30,000 home development south of Melbourne that will cost 550 million dollars.

Magnuson has revealed plans for constructing 16,000 homes near Eau Gallie with a total development price tag of more than a hundred million dollars.

And Seckendorff's project calls for an undetermined number of garden apartments, homes and shopping centers on the Beach side of the Banana River south of Patrick Air Force Base.

Altogether, Brevard County will gain more than 52,000 acres of property for its tax rolls.

Mackle's development alone will cover 48,000 acres; Magnuson's will be laid out on 4,000 acres, and Seckendorff's apartments will start with a 427-acre tract.

Mackle's project will go up under the name of Port Malabar, and get underway this summer in the area between Palm Bay and Malabar.

It includes a half-mile frontage on U.S. Highway 1, running westward from Indian River for 13 miles to the St. John's River, and extending 12 miles north and south.

Port Malabar, according to the planners, will have recreation areas, an industrial park for light industry, community shopping areas and public bathing beaches, parks, yacht basins and yacht club.

Magnuson's development extends from Eau Gallie's northern limits to a point near Pineda, and will include homes on 20 miles of roadway. It, too, will have fishing facilities, boat docks and "a miniature Cypress Gardens."

Seckendorff's spokesmen said their project will be designed specifically to fill the need for more rental units in the area.

"There are many people coming here to work on missiles for short periods," the company said, "and they cannot find places to rent."

The apartments will be one and two bedroom affairs with their own shopping center, marina and golf course.

Police and firemen are not among the workers the Teamsters are trying to organize. The union is restricting its drive to Dearborn's public works and sanitation departments employes.

Former Legislator Is Convicted on Bribery Charges

BARTOW —(AP)— A criminal court jury Thursday night convicted former state legislator E. B. (Shorty) Jones of attempting to bribe Sheriff Hagan Parrish to permit a bolita syndicate to operate in Polk County.

The six-man jury reached its verdict after deliberating one hour and 20 minutes.

The stocky, wavy haired defendant wept and embraced his wife when the verdict was announced. His 13-year-old son broke into uncontrollable sobs and had to be helped from the court room.

Jones, after receiving the verdict, said he had nothing to say.

Defense Attorney Ellis Rubin asked for a poll of the jury. This was done and the verdict was affirmed.

Rubin then served notice he would seek a new trial. Judge Roy Amidon gave the attorney until March 9 to file formal papers. He set March 16 for a hearing on the motion. The judge deferred sentencing.

The jury received the case after three days of testimony. It deliberated 20 minutes, then returned to the courtroom and asked that portions of the testimony be read from the record.

This testimony concerned statements by Attorney J. Hardin Petersen Jr., about a meeting Jones had with Parrish and Petersen in Bartow, March 22, 1957.

Ths six jurors then returned to continue deliberating. They reached their verdict an hour later.

The defendant could receive up to five years in prison.

Jones denied from the witness stand that he offered the sheriff a bribe. The defendant, only state witness called in the case, said Parrish lied.

"The sheriff is mistaken," Jones testified. "He is not telling the truth, sir."

Parrish, star witness for the prosecution, testified Tuesday that Jones approached him several times in 1956 and 1957 and offered him $5,000 cash plus 10 per cent of the monthly bolita gross.

The sheriff said the offer first was made at a meeting in Winter Haven on Dec. 15, 1956. He said Jones offered him $3,000 at that time and $2,000 more "when the deal was cemented."

The defendant testified he once worked for Cecil Webb, wealthy Tampa miller and former head of the State Road Board. He said he knew of no connection between Webb and a lottery syndicate.

"Webb is one of the most honest men in Florida," Jones said. "He couldn't have had any interest in bolita."

Parrish and Petersen of Lakeland testified that Jones told them Webb was one of the "big men" behind the numbers racket.

Webb, reached at Thomasville, Ga., called the allegations ridiculous.

Bitter Chill Ends Talks In Russia

KIEV, U.S.S.R. — (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wound up their talks Thursday in an atmosphere of bitter chill. The British visitor warned Khrushchev of grave danger if anyone interferes with the Western powers' rights in Berlin.

"But Khrushchev is not budging an inch," a British spokesman said, "and Macmillan is not budging an inch, either. Make of that what you will."

Before flying here for a visit to the Ukraine, Macmillan told Khrushchev that interference without some alternative arrangement "would lead to a dangerous situation," the spokesman said.

Such alternative arrangements supposedly would meet the Soviet threat to turn over to East Germany the control of Allied lifelines to isolated Berlin. These would have to come through negotiations, in Macmillan's view.

But Khrushchev in his speech to a political rally in the Kremlin Tuesday heaped ridicule on the Western plan for negotiations at the foreign ministers' level. In that speech Khrushchev warned that any violations of East Germany's borders in a dispute over Berlin would be considered an act of aggression.

Despite the tenor of Khrushchev's remarks, the spokesman insisted in reply to a reporter's question that Macmillan does not believe the Soviet premier has shut the door on a foreign ministers' meeting.

"He left the door open," the spokesman said. "It was a small door, but the light is going through."

But the Kremlin speech, coming at the height of the British visit, so stung Macmillan that he thought of breaking off further talks and returning to London, British sources reported.

"But Mr. Macmillan came here to have talks with the Soviet leaders and to see the country," a British official said. "He had the talks and he decided he might as well see the country."

There will be a final meeting with Khrushchev Monday after Macmillan returns from visits to Kiev and Leningrad. But the British spokesman said there is nothing left to talk about except the wording of a final communique.

It had been expected that the Kiev trip would provide another opportunity for talks between the two leaders. But Khrushchev cancelled his plans to accompany Macmillan at the last moment and stayed in Moscow. There he received a delegation from Iraq.

Khrushchev told Macmillan at the meeting Thursday morning that "he had a tooth which required attention and he would have to give up the trip," the spokesman said.

The spokesman insisted that this was no breach of diplomatic courtesy, since Khrushchev had not originally planned to accompany Macmillan. But diplomats still wondered whether Khrushchev's toothache was real or diplomatic.

Balmy February Drawing Tourists Here in Droves

By GENE MILLER
And JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writers

You can't rent or beg a room at some of Miami Beach's top hotels.

You'd better eat early or very late if you want to avoid a long line at most eating places.

Rent a car? It's almost impossible now.

South Florida's do-or-die season is finally paying off.

Only a year ago goosebumped South Florida hotelmen were crying frozen tears.

But if this February stays warm just two more days, the month will go down as the warmest on record.

Specifically:

	1959	1958
Average Temp.	74.5	60

And with the sun, Miami Beach's fears of a 1958-like bankruptcy rash have bleached.

Hotel business is up strong, airlines are hauling in more customers, and the car rental gang is going great.

Not everyone, of course, has banished all thoughts of the poorhouse forever. But the key indicators show the 1959 season is generally far ahead of 1958 and within shouting distance of the lush 1957 days.

One clothier came up with a neat left-handed comment.

"More people are here than ever before. But the weather's too nice for shopping."

A Herald reporter telephoned 16 hotels and motels and asked for accommodations for two for Saturday through Tuesday.

Four — the Eden Roc, Fontainebleau, Diplomat and Deauville — politely said no soap, we're full.

The Americana, Carillon, Montmarte, Delano, Driftwood, Golden Gate, Dunes, Castaways, Thunderbird, Tangiers, Saxony and the Delano said they could oblige.

"The pressure is off temporarily," said Delano Owner John Goldberg. "We didn't have a room to sell last week and we probably won't again next week.

"The last couple of days in the month always have a psychological effect. People go home and new people come in."

But the thing to remember is that occupancy is running 70, 80 and 90 per cent — at top prices.

The Carillon, for example, is renting out its space at $33 a head a day.

Up-to-the-week figures from some airlines show this February has already flown passed its well-cooled counterpart last year.

Reported Delta: In-bound passengers in February, 1958, 11,832. In-bound this year with four days uncounted, 12,145.

Reported Pan American: February, 1958, 24,988. Twenty days this February showed 20,000.

National said its in-bound load was up 12 per cent.

Eastern estimates business is up "10 per cent or so" this month and figures to boost its 180 in-and-out flights a day to 200 this March.

The car renters came up

New Herald Edition To Expand Coverage

The Miami Herald is taking another step to keep pace with the rapidly-growing Middle East Coast of Florida. Effective today, The Herald will publish two separate editions daily instead of one for the area covering Brevard, Indian River, St. Lucie and Martin counties.

One edition will be devoted to Brevard County, perhaps the fastest growing area in the state. The other edition will cover Indian River, St. Lucie and Martin counties.

The two editions will make it possible to provide readers in the four counties with greatly expanded news and picture coverage of their area.

The Herald now has two local news bureaus, with full-time reporters, and four correspondents in the four-county area.

American Sailors Investigate Break In Atlantic Cable

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The U.S. Navy put a boarding party on a Russian fishing trawler in the North Atlantic Thursday to find out if the vessel was responsible for damage to five U.S. transatlantic cables.

Acting under an 1884 treaty to which czarist Russia was a party, sailors from the destroyer escort Roy O. Hale boarded the Soviet ship Novorossisk which was lying about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland.

Early Thursday night the Defense Department announced that the boarding party had returned to the American vessel, which then headed for Argentia, Newfoundland. The Soviet ship started traveling on a northerly course at 10 knots.

The Defense Department said it had not yet received a detailed report from the Hale, commanded by Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. Korte.

The unusual action was ordered after the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Western Union reported that breaks had occurred in five cables along the course in which the Soviet ship has been operating.

All the breaks were within a 50-mile area at the edge of the continental shelf, about 195 miles east of Newfoundland, in about 1,000 feet of water, the companies said.

The department said the first report of damage to the cables was received last Saturday. By Wednesday four other reports had been received of additional cables being damaged or put out of service.

Offhand, there appeared to be no military advantage that would result from wilful breaking of the cables in peacetime. They carry commercial messages for the large part.

There was no report from any Soviet source or on Moscow Radio late Thursday night on the boarding of the trawler.

This boarding conceivable could stir up serious new trouble with Russia.

Experts said the most frequent cause of damage to cables in the area is from the boards used by trawlers to keep their nets open as they are dragged along the bottom to scoop up fish.

The Defense Department did not say who actually ordered the boarding, taken under a treaty known as "the convention for the protection of submarine cables of 1884."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower was advised before the official announcement that a warship had been sent to the area. But he said the President did not give the boarding order and had no further information.

A spokesman for the State Department said only that the department was fully informed and approved the boarding.

The Defense Department said the 1884 treaty "authorizes examination by naval ships of official documents of other ships suspected of damaging and interfering with cables under the high seas."

Under the treaty, any action against the Russian ship would be up to the Soviet Union after it has received the U.S. Navy's report.

Cuba Asks Extradition Of Eight

HAVANA — (AP) — Cuba formally asked the Dominican Republic Thursday to arrest eight high officials of the ousted Fulgencio Batista regime now in exile in that Caribbean country.

Cuba demanded their extradition on charges of robbery and misuse of public funds.

Cuba has already requested — thus far in vain — the extradition of Batista, who also is in exile in the Dominican Republic.

A note from Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte to Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican ambassador to Cuba, said the fully documented charges to supplement the request would be forthcoming in 60 days, as required under an extradition agreement between the two countries.

Ten ex-Batista soldiers were excuted Thursday, bringing to 343 the unofficial total shot by revolutionary firing squads after conviction on war crimes charges.

They were executed at Matanzas, Holguin and Pinar del Rio.

Medical History of a Child Ignored by Parents

Life Too Painful, Boy Became a Machine

CHICAGO — (AP) — Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed at night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran through the day and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "bam." The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancied machinery idle or broken down:

"For long periods of time . . . he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation . . . We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his "calamity could befall a child in any time and culture but our own."

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents. He gave this account:

The parents didn't mistreat Joey but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or noneating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was nine years old. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Joey reverted to a partially human stage — but as an infant. He made drawings showing himself inside an auto with a group he named the Carr family. He was still inclosed, but was with others and could move around. Still later he pictured himself driving the car.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Southern Rhodesia Acts

Whites Move to Head Off Surge of African Natives

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia —(AP)— White authorities threw up a legal roadblock Thursday to bar from this British territory the Nationalist unrest surging across much of Africa.

Prime Minister Sir Edgar Whitehead declared a state of emergency and outlawed Rhodesian branches of the African National Congress, spearhead of a native movement to break white political control.

Police raiding squads rounded up scores of Congress leaders and other Negroes under a tactical plan drawn up two months ago.

Whitehead announced that police arrested between 250 and 500 persons involved in what he called a vain attempt to undermine the loyalty of the government's African employes. He said he is confident the roundup will be completed soon.

Under the state of emergency, his government can detain anyone for a month. It bans gatherings of more than three persons, sets a curfew and prohibits publication of information about Southern Rhodesia's security forces.

Whitehead said many of the Congress officials are jobless youths with criminal records and bloodshed might result if they continued to carry on a campaign of intimidation. Appealing for the people to go about their business as usual, he said:

"The government believes that, with the removal of those responsible for stirring up strife, the emergency will be very brief."

Two of the prisoners, are James Chikerema, acting president of the Congress in Southern Rhodesia, and George Nyandoro, the general secretary.

Britain called off a projected visit of the Earl of Perth, minister of state in the London Colonial Office, to talk over a future constitution for self-governing territory and its partners in the sprawling Central African Federation, a rich, landlocked member of the British Commonwealth. The earl was to have flown from London Thursday.

Northern Rhodesia and the protectorate of Nyasaland are other components of the federation, made up of eight million Negroes and 257,000 white settlers.

Nyasaland disorders have threatened to develop into a head-on clash between Negroes and whites.

These are part of a series of riots and other incidents that have cast a menacing shadow this week across the French Congo, Belgian Congo, Italian-run Somalia, the Central African Federation and South Africa. Their only apparent link is a restless surge for independence.

A senior Rhodesian official said a strike of Africans employed on the huge Zambesi River hydroelectric project had assumed a definitely political aspect. About 7,000 men are involved. The strike was launched by African laborers for higher wages after a recent accident in which 14 Africans and three white men were killed.

The laborers, paid the equivalent of 4½ cents an hour, asked for 14 cents. They rejected the contracting company's offer of seven cents.

With work on the dam at a standstill, the strikers have stoned buildings and vehicles. Members of the Nyasaland African National Congress were reported directing the operations from a hideout in the bush.

with the most glowing words.

Examples:

Olin's: "We've had nothing available for two weeks. We are 53 per cent over last year."

Crouch: "Nothing since last Saturday. We are accepting only on a pot-luck basis."

Hertz: "Nothing whatsoever on a day-to-day basis for the last two weeks."

Tolls on the Sunshine State Parkway were $392,768 in January from $364,436 a year ago. Florida Turnpike Authority Chairman Thomas B. Manuel said, "We're doing even better in February."

While visitors played, a record number of Dade Countians were working the first month of this year. Some 302,000 were on the employment rolls compared with 297,650 last year and 289,250 in 1957. There were 23,000 unemployed this year compared with 16,900 in 1958 and 11,700 in 1957.

At the Beach, any skilled hotel worker can get a job, one employment agency reported. Unemployment among other levels of the beach economy is "practically nil," according to Joe Staton, partner in Miami Beach Employment Service.

Most of the Caribbean islands were in the same boat.

Nassau, San Juan, and Kingston found no shortage of customers. But Havana couldn't say the same. One major airline reported its passengers into the Cuban capital were down 5,000 this month.

Zwillman Took Only Way Out?

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

Did Abner (Longie) Zwillman hang himself in his 20-room West Orange, N. J., mansion to keep from appearing before the Senate racket probe?

Miamians who heard that he had committed suicide Thursday recalled his many trips here in the late 1940s, believe that is the answer. The Senate group now is going into coin-machine rackets and protection. Zwillman headed a company handling cigaret vending machines.

One of his partners recently was questioned about Zwillman before the Senate group.

Zwillman was a familiar figure around Miami Beach for a time, but Daniel P. Sullivan, operating director of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami, doesn't believe he actually "operated here." His friends included Jack Friedlander, once credited with being the "Mr. Big" of Dade County gambling. Friedlander now has migrated to Havana gambling.

He was also a buddy of Nicky Delmore, who put a lot of his racket money in a big real estate enterprise at Fort Pierce, until The Herald identified him to his new neighbors there. Then he moved out.

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmen in New Jersey the 54-year-old prohibition era figure had been depressed since a Senate Rackets Committee began delving into the coin-machine industry.

Zwillman owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., which handled cigaret machines.

His wife, Mary, whose finishing school background contrasted with Zwillman's early life in Newark's slums, found the body in a basement storage room at their fashionable home.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide. He said Zwillman used a plastic-covered clothesline.

The rope was attached to a beam eight feet from the floor. Zwillman's knees were slightly buckled and his toes almost touched the floor.

Although linked with the rackets by various law enforcement agencies and officials for years, Zwillman served only a single prison sentence — six months for assault and battery in 1928.

Only last week a grand jury indicted several persons in connection with alleged bribing of jurors on the deadlocked panel that tried Zwillman for income tax evasion in 1956. He was accused of evading the payment of $38,911 in income taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Zwillman was particularly unhappy, Steinbach said, about any embarrassment publicity would cause his wife and daughter, Lynn.

Speed Trap Is Denied by Georgians

LUDOWICI, Ga. — (UPI) — Officials of Ludowici and Long County hotly denied Thursday allegations of a Cleveland Auto Club that speed traps, including a quick-changing traffic light, are operated in their areas.

Ludowici City Attorney Ralph L. Dawson, called charges by Harold T. Cantlin, manager of the Cleveland club "untrue."

Long County Sheriff W. M. Jones admitted that "we occasionally do operate speed devices" but added that not many tourists have been arrested in his county on speed charges.

The verbal tiff was touched off when the Cleveland Auto Club announced adoption of a "shun Eastern Georgia" policy because of the increasing number of arrests of Florida-bound motorists in speed traps.

Cantlin said some 12,000 members who ask each year for routings to Florida will be sent via a bypass route. The new route was not announced for fear that deputy sheriffs will learn of it and shift their speed trap activities.

He said members are warned of the "high enforcement area" in the 50-mile section of U. S. Route 301 from Sylvania, Ga., south to the Florida line at Folkston, Ga.

Dulles Talks With Aides On Berlin

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred at Walter Reed Army Hospital for an hour or more Thursday with three top State Department officials on the developing difficulties with Russia over Berlin.

A State Department spokesman said Dulles had a "general discussion" with the officials.

Presumably the discussion covered the virtual breakdown of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Moscow talks with Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the critical Berlin problem

Dulles requested the conference which brought to his hospital room Acting Secretary Christian Herter, Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy and Assistant Secretary Livingston T. Merchant. They are the three department officials most concerned with the Berlin problem.

It was the longest and largest meeting Dulles has participated in since he entered Walter Reed Hospital Feb. 10. He is undergoing x-ray treatments for cancer.

Dulles arranged the conference after the news broke that Macmillan and Khrushchev had come to the end of their talks without any agreement or more hopeful approach toward a solution of the East-West difficulties over Berlin.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

GENE MORI gave a party at Hialeah Park. 'Twas basically a breakfast for turf writers, but he included me in. The town's hummin' these days, with the Flamingo comin' up Saturday and baseball just down the road.

BELL

No place in Miami is so picturesque as Hialeah Park on a sunny morning. Prancing thoroughbreds come onto the track by the dozens, gallop as they tug at the bit, begging the exercise boys to turn them loose. Most of them wind up doing the full speed chore singly. But occasionally you'll see a real hoss race.

Exercise boys don't wear the flaming stable colors you see when the pari-mutuel windows open. But they sing and chatter and have lots more fun than the official jocks. The flamingos usually sit quietly, making a brilliant pink island in the lake. Swans, ducks, occasional wild bird visitors and big coveys of grackles keep the infield alive.

Up in the grandstand at the finish wire sit clockers, make believe clockers and just plain kibitzers. Some of of them, I'm told, know every horse in the barns. But I've a hunch they get a bit of workout inventory.

P.S. The breakfast was super—with the biggest strawberries I ever saw.

Diosa Costello is a Puerto Rican entertainer. Her show has run at the Lucerne Hotel in Miami Beach for almost two years, with no sign of declining patronage. That's a miracle.

St. Michael's, 2935 W. Flagler St., is a Spanish-speaking Catholic Church in Miami. Diosa's mother worshipped there until her death. Diosa, eager to do something in her mother's memory, is starting a campaign to enlarge the church. It has become much too small.

So Diosa and her entire troupe will give a huge variety show at Dade County Auditorium Sunday, March 8, at 3 p.m. They're calling it the Pan American Festival.

Hotel Boom

So how's business??????

The great pastime in this glorious bit of confusion called Greater Miami is to compare this season's business with last season. If you don't do it you're not cool, man.

Well, Gootsie Palmer is general manager of Dupont Plaza Hotel operations and decided to compare. Dupont Plaza opened Feb. 19, 1958. Room occupancy for the first week was 11 per cent. So Gootsie compared those figures with the same period this February.

"Business has increased 890 per cent," he cried.

Teachers' Bane

'You Can't Spank Me, So--Boo!'

ALBANY, N.Y. — (AP) — Teachers are subjected to heckling, catcalls and boos — even in an all-girl school — because the pupils are immune from spankings in school, a 16-year-old girl reports.

Susan Stalcup, a junior at Julia Richman High School, in New York City, says that is the situation in her school. Despite objections of some adults, she wants teachers given the right to use corporal punishment.

She testified at a state legislative hearing.

New York state law authorizes teachers to use moderate force in disciplining pupils, but local school boards may restrict that privilege. A New York City regulation bars all corporal punishment. A bill before the Legislature would forbid localities to make such rules.

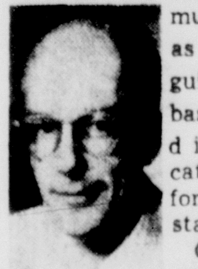
Forecast More Stable Economy, Further Progress

Civic Leaders Hail Big Brevard Projects

Story on Project on P. 1A

By BILL BUNGE
Melburne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — The half-million-dollar retirement home project the Mackle Co. of Miami plans on developing south of here was hailed by community leaders as giving this guided missile base area the diversification it needs for a more stable economy.



BUNGE

Civic, business and governmental leaders claim the Mackle development, plus the other huge projects announced for the area this week, "are something this area has needed ever since the one-shot missile boom economy started" over five years ago.

Here are a few comments of local leaders:

RICHARD B. MULDREW, Greater Melbourne Chamber of Commerce president and former state legislator: "The Mackle deal alone will stabilize the economy of this Brevard area, and we won't have to depend entirely on the missile test center.

"Retirees, such as will live IN Mackle's Port Malabar, have a steady income. Although the missile base isn't going to fold up, those extra dollars from people with pensions will continue to roll into this area despite any drastic economic change.

"Besides," Muldrew said, "this project will use up a lot of undeveloped land. This will tend to boost tax rolls, and maybe we can even look toward an eventual reduction in millage."

R. H. BERG, Melbourne real estate broker and chairman of the Brevard County Planning and Zoning Board: "We have not received any plans from Mackle, but I'm sure the board would cooperate to the fullest extent in helping them with zoning. However, I'm only one member, and can not speak for the entire board."

E. G. BARBEE, Palm Bay councilman: "I'm for progress, and this sound like it's certainly coming. All the people that will be brought here by Mackle should give us a more diversified economy because they will have pensions as their main source of income."

C. B. HOSKINS, Melbourne area Florida Power and Light Co. manager: "This big development assures the future growth of this area and Florida, and is the first of a lot of other things that are coming our way.'

"If Mackle would put this thing here within the next two years, we would be able to provide them with all the power they would need. We have recently put into use a 240,000 volt power line, which runs through the Mackle property, and this will serve any demand of that project."

JOHN H. WILSON, civic leader and Southern Bell Telephone Co. area manager: "I have always favored bringing retirees into the state. The money they spend — and it's steady spending — all comes from out of Florida.

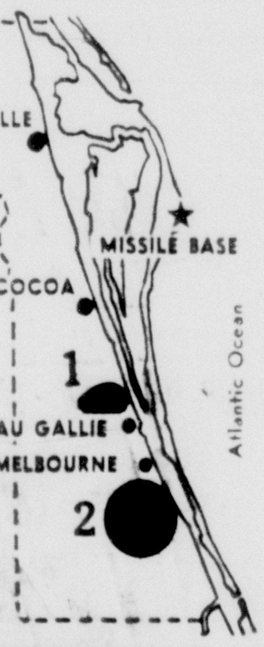
"In providing telephone service there, we probably have had enough advance notice to be ready at the same time the people move into the homes."

The Mackle project, together with the Gaines Construction Company's billion-dollar Haven Green development at Micco, will use thousands of acres of raw land between Melbourne and the south county line.

This territory extends some 20 miles south of Melbourne, and contains the city of Palm Bay, several unincorporated towns and much sparsely settled land. Most of this current development runs along U.S. 1, extending several miles westward.

The Gaines firm, with headquarters in Miami, already has 204 homes in the final stages of construction and plans to hold open house for its project March 8.

Claiming to be building a complete municipality, Gaines hopes to build 50,000 homes. It also is to contain stores, factories and Indian River front development.



WHERE TWO MAJOR developments are planned to meet Brevard County's housing needs: No. 1 is Magnuson Properties 4,000 acres north of Eau Gallie and No. 2 is the Mackle Brothers 30,000-home community site fronting on Indian River.

Airman Ordered To Jail

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE — A military tribunal Thursday sentenced Airman Third Class Jose Sisneros to 18 months in prison for a July, 1958, assault on Kenneth L. Trumbull of Melbourne.

The seven-officer general court - martial also gave Sisneros a bad conduct discharge, reduced him to basic airman and ordered him to forfeit two-thirds of all pay during confinement.

Col. Harry Halberstady announced the sentence after his board deliberated for two hours. Earlier the board deliberated an hour and a quarter before finding Sisneros guilty of two of three charges against him.

The airman was found guilty of assaulting Trumbull on a deserted South Brevard beach and of "wrongfully appropriating" Trumbull's car, but the board found him innocent of stealing six items which belonged to Trumbull.

Trumbull, an architectural designer, was left naked on the beach after the assault.

Basic Thurman Byrd, who is also charged in connection with the assault and robbery, is awaiting trial on charges similar to those placed against Sisneros.

Retail Men To Explore Schedules

Herald Service

VERO BEACH — Store hours, a holiday schedule and special sales events will be included in the discussion when the Retail Division of the Vero Beach Chamber of Commerce meets Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the chamber building.

All Chamber of Commerce members engaged in retail business are invited by George Loy Jr., division chairman, to attend and take part in the discussion.

"It is realized that the retail field is widely diversified, so that patterns of practice must be adapted to meet the varying business requirements," Loy said. Locations such as the Beach and outlying areas also need special consideration.

"However, it is the hope of the committee that it may be possible for a major number of merchants, at least in the central business area, to agree upon some basic policies."

Hunt for Airplane Halted

Old Wrecks Are Checked

Herald Bureau

PATRICK AFB—Rainstorms and the coming of darkness Thursday forced the Air Force to break off a search for a light plane which apparently crashed Wednesday night in a desolate area between Orlando and Melbourne.

Before the search ended, however, an Air Force helicopter managed to land aolngside several wrecked planes which had been reported during the day. All the wrecks turned out to be old ones.

The Air Force identified the pilot of the missing craft as Horace P. Barham of Cocoa Beach, a member of the Patrick Aero Club which owned the missing craft.

The Air Force said Barham apparently crashed when he tried to reach Melbourne Airport after a rainstorm blocked a landing attempt at Orlando.

Barham took off from Patrick at about 7:20 p.m. Wednesday on a flight to Melbourne and Orlando. He was last heard from shortly after 8 p.m.

The report touched off a nine-plane search conducted by the Air Force, the Navy, the Civil Air Patrol and Nick Dean, a Melbourne air taxi operator.

Air Force spokesmen said Barham was a private pilot of 22½ years experience. He worked for the Air Material Command.

The crash was the second for the Patrick Aero Club in three months. An Air Force enlisted man died early in December when he crashed into the Banana River while attempting to land at Patrick.

Florida Killer Sent To Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Joseph Soconis, 28, odd jobs man from Cocoa, Fla., has been declared legally insane and committed to a state mental hospital as the outgrowth of a shooting last month.

Soconis was charged with murder after the death of one of his victims, Mrs. Evelyn Hageman, 37. He also wounded Mrs. Marie Pitcaithley, 34, in a welfare office when they turned down his demand for aid on Jan. 16.

Superior Judge Harry Neubarth declared Soconis insane and ordered him committed to Atascadero State Hospital in San Luis Obispo County.

Soconis and his wife, Beverley, 35, left Cocoa about two years ago. He had worked in Los Angeles and then went to Seattle before coming here the day before the shooting.

The shooting occurred after welfare workers told Soconis he hadn't lived in California long enough to qualify for relief.

Old Cow Hand Would Understand This Brevard Scene

. . . but he wouldn't recognize scientific ranches

Airplanes, Cowboys Run Florida Ranches

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

COCOA — "An oldtime cowboy wouldn't recognize it at all," but cattle ranching is booming along the St. Johns River.

"Of course, we can't see any replacement for the cowpony," says Jerry Filipse, pasture superintendent for the largest ranch in Brevard County.

BROWN

The Andrew Duda and Sons 45,000 - acre spread is a scientific ranch — typical of six large ranches which have grown up in the county since the late 40's — and the horse and its wide-hatted rider have companions unknown in the old west.

Airplanes fly close overhead to seed pastures where 15,000 beef cattle and 1,500 breed cattle graze, and one of the world's largest plows works alongside the cowboys cutting 30-inch irrigation ditches at one swipe.

There's also an array of scientific equipment, 77 pieces of rolling stock and a 200-piece assortment of other mechanical equipment to do the heavy work.

"Used to be a cowboy herded cattle and rode fences," says Horace Fulford, general manager of the layout, "but an oldtime cowboy just couldn't run this place."

"No one of us can keep it all in his head, so there have to be five of us to run the place."

Prize Brahma Cattle Give Ranch Its Fame

. . . Horace Fulford inspects one

Working under Fulford are four department heads, 40 ranchhands and 17 horses, and "each has to work like two men," says the ranch manager.

Duda's — which is owned by a celery grower "who just wanted to get into the cattle business" — and the other large ranches have their roots in a "turning point" in Brevard cattle raising which came along in the late 40's, says Jimmy Oxford, the county's agriculture agent.

"Bill Leanord (a now retired cattleman) showed us you have to really prepare a pasture . . . that you have to kill out the native grass and start anew."

Since then cattlemen have treated their ranges like well-kept lawns and the cattle business has boomed. It used to take 40 acres of Brevard range to support a cow. Now one acre can do it.

Thanks to "improved pastures" which are diked against flood waters and irrigated and planted in special food grasses, the county's cattle population has jumped from 8,000 to more than 60,000 head and its annual dollar volume has soared to over two million.

Cattle experiments came along right with the pasture improvement and the cattlemen now have special breeds fitted to the special Florida environment.

The cattle experimentation is continuing. Fulford, for example, has sizable herds tied up in feed experiments and other large groups in an artificial insemination experiment. Other special Brahma cattle have brought fame to the ranch.

And the pasture improvement is continuing. Duda crews have finished 25,000 acres, but still have about 20,000 acres of sawgrass and wasteland to improve.

"You've got to understand, this isn't oldtime cattle raising. It's industry, and we're treating it like that," says Fulford.

"But go ahead and sit on that desk, we're still country as hell around here," he added as he cocked a stetson hat over one eye and looked like one of the oldtime cowboys who "wouldn't recognize the place."

New Street Plan Started

EAU GALLIE — City Manager Clark Maxwell reported Thursday that city engineers have started plans for a new street program to be launched some time this summer.

Meanwhile, Maxwell said the Manley Construction Co. reported it will have all curbing placed and grading and limerock base work finished in the present program within two weeks. This firm now has started to "fine grade" streets in the New Loveridge Heights area, and Laurie and Magnolia Aves. are almost ready for a priming job.

FORT PIERCE — The most Rev. Coleman F. Carroll, Bishop of the Miami diocese, paid his first visit to Fort Pierce Wednesday evening when he confirmed a class of 125 at St. Anastasia's Catholic Church.

The class included 105 children and 20 adults. Father Joseph McLaughlin of Miami, secretary to the Bishop, was in charge of the ceremony.

Cocoa Asks U. S. Loan

COCOA — City officials Thursday formally applied for a $31,600 Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency loan for a new city sewer system.

The proposed $1,500,000 system would bring sewers to four new subdivisions — Broadmore Acres, Charlton Terrace, Cocoa Hills and Virginia Park. It would also extend to a portion of the city's Negro section.

City plans call for floating a revenue issue to pay for the extensions.

Contracts Due To Be Let On 4 New Schools

Cost Set At About $2 Million

TITUSVILLE — Brevard County's school board will award construction contracts for four new schools today in a move designed to end overcrowding throughout the school system.

The four — and three already underway—will be ready for most of the 1959-60 school year.

They will end "double sessions" in the county' elementary schools, according to Woodrow Darden, County school superintendent.

The five-school project and two enlargement projects which will be contracted along with it are expected to eat up about two million dollars of a 4.5-million-dollar bond issue the board sold in December.

But they are only the first step in a 17-school construction program which is expected to cost 10.5 million dollars and last three years.

Money for the 17-school program — which will push the number of county schools to 38 — will come from the 4.5-million-dollar bond issue and an estimated six million dollars of state and federal funds the board expects to collect during the three-year program.

The schools which will be contracted for today are Whispering Hills elementary, Cocoa Negroe lementary, Eau Gallie elementary and Melbourne Elementary.

All will be 26-classroom plants.

The two enlargement projects call for construction of six classrooms and a cafetorium at Mims elementary school and for the addition of locker rooms at Titusville High School.

Funeral today

FORT PIERCE — Funeral services for Klaus Wolfgang Reichelt, 30-year-old visitor from Toronto, Canada, will be held at the graveside in the Fort Pierce Cemetery at 4 p.m. today. Reichelt was killed Tuesday morning when he was hit by a semi-truck on U.S. 1.

Over Resignation

Irate Parents Rap School Unit

Herald Bureau

COCOA BEACH—Parents Thursday accused school officials of forcing Dewey DeLaire, principal of the local school, out of his job because his children attend a parochial school.

DeLaire, School Superintendent Woodrow Darden and School Board Chairman Bob Hudson all denied the charge.

But Thurman Justice, a local attorney, said he was ready to represent Cocoa Beach elementary school PTA members who will try to block the "forced" resignation at a special school board meeting today.

And Municipal Judge Herbert LaRoche said the "forced resignation" is the "stinkingest thing the school board has ever done." DeLaire, he said, is one of the "best liked men in Cocoa Beach."

PTA members bombarded PTA President Thomas Goldcamp with demands for action. Goldcamp wasn't home all day, but his wife said she was "swamped" by the calls.

In a prepared statement, DeLaire admitted his resignation is connected with the fact his three children attend a "nonpublic school for specific training in my faith."

The principal said he was not forced into the action and that he resigned "of my own free will," and Darden said DeLaire "has made a truthful statement."

DeLaire of 22 Hardee Circle, Cocoa, sends his children to a parochial school run by St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church.

In his statement he said:

"It appears that there has been some question about the advisability of my being a public school administrator with my children attending a nonpublic school."

Darden said the attendance at a parochial school was "just a problem" he had discussed with DeLaire . . . "we discuss problems all the time, but they don't often lead to resignations."

Darden and Hudson both said they knew of no school board policy against private schools for the children of school administrators.

Hudson also said DeLaire is a "personal friend" and a "fine school administrator . . . I hate to lose him . . . and I'm halfway shocked."

DeLaire said the resignation is effective March 15. He has been principal of the Cocoa Beach school since August, 1957, and said, "I shall miss my association with parents, children and staff of the Cocoa Beach school."

He also said his "decision in no way should be interpreted as a reflection on the public schools for I think they are doing a wonderful job."

DeLaire said he will go to work for one of the Cape Canaveral missile contractors.

Hensley Appointed To Post

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins announced he will appoint Manatee County Judge Robert E. Hensley to succeed the late circuit Judge William T. Harrison of Bradenton. The governor said the appointment will be made in a few days when Hensley submits his resignation as county judge.

Collins said a new county judge probably will be named in two or three days.

Judge Hensley, 36, has lived in Florida since he was three years old. He was educated in ublic schools at Stuart, Fort Pierce, Defuniak Springs and Crestview and received his law degree rfom Stetson University in 1950.

He has served as Manatee County judge since July 1955.

Pact to Aid Airport

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

COCOA — A simple intercity agreement may turn out to be the seed of an industrial development for Central and North Brevard.

The agreement calls for reopening the long dormant Cocoa - Titusville Airport, and "now," says Mayo Hill, executive of the Greater Cocoa Chamber of Commerce, "somebody will be able to use it."

Industrialists have interested themselves in the field from time to time, "but," explains Hill, "they felt they couldn't get anything done dealing with two city councils."

The agreement—which ended a year of Cocoa-Titusville controversy about airport administration—calls for a six-man appointive board to run the field. Both Cocoa and Titusville, joint owners of the field, will be represented on the board.

The board doesn't exist yet, but Cocoa and Titusville already have one "hard bite" for use of field land.

Peninsular Development Corp. of Orlando wants to take over the whole field and turn most of its 500 acres over to a "large aircraft company" which is seeking Florida land.

Edward J. Hanlon, Peninsular attorney, asked the Cocoa and Titusville councils for a lease on the field during January, but the deal was held off until an airport authority could be set up.

Peninsular already leases a 190-acre industrial park at Orlando Municipal Airport, but Hanlon has explained, the Orlando park isn't big enough.

Plans for the abandoned Navy field are the keynote of Central Brevard plans for industrial promotions, but they aren't the whole story.

A Cocoa group headed by Claude Dyal, an insurance agent, is readying a four-pronged drive for industry in a move designed to balance Brevard's economy which now rests on Cape Canaveral.

The group, a Chamber of Commerce committee, is setting up its drive with the help of D. P. Caldwell, director of industrial development for the Florida Power and Light Co.

Committee members are gathering industrial statistics, searching for industrial property, and planning publicity campaigns and local financing for incoming plants.

Stop Eating Your Heart To Death, Medics Warn

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Fat Americans were warned again to stop overeating and start exercising.

They were advised to take these steps, along with other "common sense" suggestions, by Dr. Irvine H. Page, director of research at the Cleveland Clinic. He, along with five other eminent scientists in the field of heart disease, presented a national report on "A Decade of Progress Against Cardiovascular Disease."

Dr. Page said that several factors seem to be involved in the formation of arteriosclerosis, the disease that hardens the arteries. In 1956, there were nearly 460,000 dieaths from this disease and related afflictions.

Heredity, elevated blood pressure, exercise, stress, sex, diet and indulgence seem to play some role in the hardening of arteries, Dr. Page said. If your cholesterol level is high, your doctor may recommend a change in dietary habits.

Long Hours Didn't Pay

DETROIT — (AP) — Ferd Clay worked seven days a week.

Mondays through Thursdays he went from door-to-door taking orders for bargain television sets, cameras, appliances and jewelry.

Friday through Sunday he spent filling the orders.

Detectives Alex Wierzbicki and Stanley Viciulius halted the routine. They arrested Clay and he was charged with burglary.

The detectives claimed Clay filled his orders by stealing the goods. They estimated the loot at $30,000 from 115 homes in northern Detroit and suburbs.

They said only about $2,000 in cash had been collected but that records showed Clay had another $8,000 in time payment coming.

Can't Smell; Wins $9,800

The judgment was against Motorist Derek Fitness, whose car injured Miss McLaughlin to the extent, she testified, that she can't smell a rose or frying bacon and all food tastes the same.

Ex-Prime Minister on Lecture Tour of U.S.

Attlee's Wry Wit Leaves 'em Laughing and Glad He Came

By PAUL GAPP
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

VALPARAISO, Ind. — An Englishman with a bald head, a clipped accent and a wry sense of humor left 'em laughing.

Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee also left behind a load of political ideas for Valparaiso University students to debate.

Attlee dropped his quips on the campus while making a speech, eating lunch with local dignitaries and answering question at a press conference.

Sample (when asked how he likes American tea):

"We didn't care when you dumped it in Boston harbor but did you have to dredge it up and serve it back to us?"

That one got a big laugh.

Attlee, who's in the middle of a lecture tour, rattled off answers to questions with a clipped delivery so rapidly and choppily British that some people didn't understand him.

They were too polite to ask him to repeat.

These capsule comments came through loud and clear, however:

On diplomatic recognition of Red China: "If you expect a person to obey the rules of a club, you don't tell him he can't be a member, do you?"

On the Allies' lagging behind Russia in missile development: "If you already have something that can kill one million people, must you have something that can kill two million?"

On British and American methods of choosing political candidates: "We (the English) have no barefoot boys from Wall Street."

On Britain's race riots last fall: "We had a spot of them in a very bad part of London. It has passed over."

The students' reaction, was, as they say, mixed.

"He looks like my grandfather," said Mildred Anderson, 20, of Hyattsville, Md. "He's quite a showman, though, the way he used anecdotes and things."

"I think he's very human and warm," said Mary Ruprecht, 18, of Valparaiso. "He made me feel more secure about the strength of our government."

The former Laborite prime minister is now a member of the House of Lords.

Spring and Color Go Hand in Hand, Naples Has Both

By DORIS REYNOLDS
Herald Correspondent

NAPLES—Perpetual spring in Naples means lots of color! There's color everywhere . . . in the gay and bobbing boats on the Gulf and the bay; scarlet vines entwining trellises and porches and fluttering bits of color on hats and jaunty costumes. Even though we "year rounders" stick to gay cottons all year, our visitors dress with a bit more flair and abandon. Along Fifth Ave., we've spotted the all-of-a-sudden popular skimmers, with streaming bows of filmy chiffon in garden hues. Taking time to beachcomb a bit I even spotted a bikini and several Italian bikinis (modified and a bit more modest). Gaily trimmed flats are all the rage; many in florals, checks and plaids.

MRS. REYNOLDS

Best of all I like the crisp shorts (almost always Bermudas or Jamaicas). Natives and visiters perfer linens, with soft floral blouses. In the evening . . . linen and silks. Colors: pastels, gentle prints and, this year, quite a bit of red. And everywhere . . . sweaters . . . ranging from bulky knits to the beautifully trimmed cashmeres for cocktails.

But alas, no Easter bonnets in Naples. Most of us dust off a chapeau we've had for years and wear only on Easter Sunday. But this year I'm splurging . . . I'm tried of Nassau straw beach hats, fising caps and sun bonnets. I'm all for every Naples gal owning a real genuine and ultra-feminine Easter bonnet! Anyone for chapeaus?

Homes and Gardens Tour Next

Saturday the annual Garden Club Home and Garden Tour will take place, beginning at 1 p.m. Here's your chance to see five beautiful Naples' homes. All proceeds go to the worthy projects of the club. The Garden Club has been responsible for beautifying school grounds and many other spots in Naples.

I got an advance look at the Anton Kazanjian home on 1st Street and it's truly a lovely place. No wonder several magazines have done pictorial stories on it. The Kazanjians have spent quite a bit of time in China, and the art objects they collected there are effectively. displayed against warm pastels that predominate throughout the house.

Bonnie Kazanjian paints well and has done a number of pictures used in the house, as well as some delicate shell creations. The Kazanjian gardens are at their blooming best right now, except for Bonnie's darling cactus garden. It's just started to blossom forth.

The remaining houses include the John Cowles' home at Third St. and Second Ave. No. 1 (the famous butterfly house). Much of the furniture is built-in at the Cowles' home, and there is also modernistic furniture and a superb garden and landscaping.

Katherine and Dick Wolfe's home at 3861 Gordon Dr. is built on two levels, with a magnificent swimming pool and lanai, overlooking the Bay of Naples.

Another home on Gordon Dr. to be shown is the residence of John and Mona Becker. The Beckers both love sports and adore dogs (presently they've only one boxer) and this love of the outdoors is reflecting in the warm colors and comfortable furnishings in their house (1965 E. Gordon Drive).

An oversized porch is where the Beckers do most of their entertaining and it affords a view of the water, too. Although the Beckers still maintain a home in the North they did bring some heirloom pieces with them. They have a lovely collection of valuable glass and Wedgewood china.

The home of Frank and Anna Garry, in Port Royal, is built around an inside garden. Anna Garry, who has the greenest thumb in these parts has done wonders with native plants, small trees, and air plants. Their house is done in pastels blended with warm wood paneling and functional modern furniture.

Maps, showing location of all houses, are on the back of the tickets. You can get tickets at the banks here, several shops, apartments and motels. Tickets will also be sold at the individual houses.

And White Elephants as Well

TOMORROW, TOO, is the "white elephant" sale. This year it will be held at the Woman's Club with many interesting objects for sale. Last year they even had a Lincoln convertible, a swimming pool and a three-room house, along with lots of other "white elephants." This year there's talk of people turning in their old white elephants for new, so who knows what you'll find. It's open all day!

Several Events On Schedule

COMING EVENTS: March 6 and 7 have been picked for The Red Stocking Revue at the Supper Club. Roger Franklin arrived in Naples this week to direct this cabaret, which promises to be loads of fun. All of the entertainment will be Naples people. The money goes to indigent children requiring hospital care.

Then on the ninth and 10th the newest Briggs' film, "Whistle and Sing" will be shown. Ditto the benefit. The film will be shown at the high school auditorium

On Wednesday Frank Otte gave one of the most fascinating book reviews ever held here. Frank reviewed Ted White's best seller, "The Mountain Road." The story depicted in "The Mountain Road" is one Franke Otte himself lived.

The setting is China in the autumn of 1944, when the Japanese were sweeping through China and the U.S. air bases were destroyed. At that time Major Otte was in Liuchow and Kweilan and had a part in the mass evacuation of hundreds of thousands of Chinese civilians. The pathos and drama in "The Mountain Road" certainly could not have been interpreted by anyone with as much understanding as by Frank Otte.

The author has written three books and each one was selected by the Book of the Month Club. He went to China in 1938 as a correspondent.

'Pressured,' Says Official

BOSTON —(AP)— Massachusetts Insurance Commissioner Joseph A. Humphreys charged Thursday a member of the governor's council spoke to him about granting a license to a Florida insurance company and that he felt an effort was being made to "pressure" him.

Humphreys said he informed Gov. Foster Furcolo of the incident which occurred in the council lounge.

Humphreys said the councillor was Raymond F. Sullivan (D., Springfield). Sullivan said he was trying to help a constituent, a Springfield insurance company, which wanted to help the Florida man get a license.

The councillor idenified the president of the Florida company as Harry Gourley of Jacksonville. He said Gourley was in Boston for two days and left Thursday to return to Florida.

Pullman Granted Increase

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— The Florida Railroad Commission Thursday granted a five per cent increase in Pullman night rates after an official warning the company might have to eliminate service on all but "crack" trains.

Charles D. Boak, Pullman's chief passenger agent, said his company's "only salvation" for its money troubles might eventually be to cut out all sleeping car lines not making a profit.

He told the commission Pullman had to cut out its national advertising program last year because of a huge deficit.

Boak said Pullman took ads in national magazines up to July, 1958, but a soaring deficit forced curtailment of the program.

Grand-Dad Shot

DEFUNIAK SPRINGS —(AP)— First degree murder charges were filed Thursday against a 16-year-old boy accused of shooting his stepgrandfather to death.

The boy, Jimmy Ray Watson, was being held in jail pending a decision on what court should try him.

The boy was charged with killing John Henry Robinson, 52, with a shotgun fired at almost pointblank range Wednesday.

If the youngster is tried in juvenile court, he could be sentenced to an indefinite stay at the Marianna School for Boys. If the case is tried in Circuit Court, the penalty could range up to life in prison or death in the electric chair.

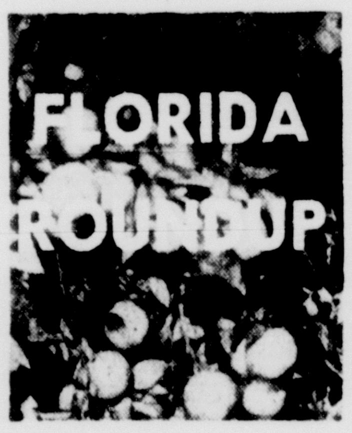
Body in River

ST. AUGUSTINE —(UPI)— A middle-aged woman's body, its hands tied with a silk stocking, was found in the San Sebastian River Thursday and a coroner's report said she had been in the water about 24 hours.

The body of the small-framed woman was taken to Daytona Beach for an autopsy.



Investigators had no lead as to the woman's identity.

Coroner M. A. Pellicer said the woman was fully clothed except for shoes and stockings. Her shoes also were tied together with a silk stocking and were dangling around her neck. He added there were no wounds or exterior bruises to indicate she had been beaten.

Report Wounds

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Florida Sheriff's Association will seek a law from the 1959 Legislature requiring doctors, nurses and hospitals treating gunshot wounds to make reports to their sheriffs.

Such a law would be a great help to enforcement officers in investigations of crimes, the association said. Several states have similar proposals.

Failure to make the reports to the sheriff would be punishable by up to 6 months imprisonment or $100 fine.

South's Future

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — A Florida State University geography professor said Wednesday he can see no reason why the South's economy cannot catch up with the rest of the nation in time.

Henry F. Baker, head of the department, told a lecture series audience on the South and its resources that the South has many advantages to offer industry. Examples, he said, are natural gas, a warm climate requiring less fuel distribution points, highways open the year round, and a good water supply.

OFFICIAL SMACKS — two of them — are bestowed on Florida's Cherry Blossom princess in Washington. Grace McCurdy of Miami collects them from Sen. Spessard Holland and Rep. Dante B. Fascell. Miss McCurdy, who's on Fascell's secretarial staff, was chosen for the title by the Florida State Society and will vie for the Cherry Blossom Queen title in April.

Guard Using Con's Skill on Safes?

OCALA —(UPI)— A prison guard was accused Thursday of supplying his brother and another man with a convict to pull off safe-cracking jobs.

The trail of the safecracking ring led the investigators inside the walls of a new state prison at nearby Lowell.

Prison Supt. Harvey West said four men were picked up just outside the confines of the prison before dawn after he and Highway Patrol troopers stalked them in an unmarked car.

Arrested and charged with breaking and entering were the guard, Samuel Altman, 25, his brother, George, about 28, both of Oxford in Sumter County; and Clement A. Barnes, 43, of nearby Wildwood.

A prisoner, whose name was withheld, was charged with escape.

Conferring with West in the matter late Thursday were State Atty. Gordon Oldham of Leesburg and Asst. State Atty. James Kynes Jr., Ocala.

West said he had suspected the ring, which allegedly netted several thousand dollars in a series of recent safe breaks, originated in his prison after a tip from a prisoner.

After checking for more evidence, he called in the Highway Patrol.

The prison official parked in the unmarked car just outside the prison gates and waited until he saw Altman, who was hired as a guard last month, release a prisoner.

Thinking West's car was the one he was to meet, the prisoner virtually jumped into the arms of the law.

Moments later, George Altman and Barnes drove up in a 1959-model car and were surrounded by patrolmen.

Police Chief K. C. Alverez, who has custody of the men in his jail, said the men had planned two safe jobs at Gainesville in Alachua County.

Safe-cracking tools were found in George Altman's car and at a spot in some woods near Ocala.

Alverez said two safes had been cracked here, one at Inverness and other attempts were made throughout the area.

He said all the safes were robbed the same way — by "peeling" off the tops with crow-bars.

The prison was just recently opened across the road from the state women's prison and the safe-cracking jobs broke out after prisoners were transferred here from Raiford, West said.

School Now Free of Bugs, Also Pupils

TAMPA — (UPI) — School officials opened up vermin-plagued Gary Elementary School Thursday morning, after an all-night fumigating job, but only 36 of the 275 pupils were on hand.

Some 40 mothers, were present, however, all demanding that school be suspended until the fumigating fumes are dissipated.

Meanwhile, workmen spruced up the building in preparation for school opening Monday morning.

About 30 mothers took their children out of the building Wednesday, declaring the school, infested with mites, rats and roaches, was a health hazard.

School officials said they had been fighting the problem for some time, but that every time they fumigated the building the vermin returned.

The mothers displayed welts on their childrens' bodies which they said were caused by mite bites.

148 New Homes

BOYNTON BEACH — Some 148 new homes in the Lindsey Homes sub-division at Rolling Green Ridge will be on display to the public March 1. Robert Lindsey, president of the construction company said.

Governor: Less Talk Of Mixing

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday called for less public talk about the emotion-packed integration problem, but two key legislators immediately took sharp issue with him on the point.

House Speaker-Designate Thomas D. Beasley said "the time has come for restraint in urging integration" and that he for one proposed to keep on speaking out on the subject.

And Sen. W. Randolph Hodges of Cedar Key said people of the South should not talk recklessly, but "should talk loud enough of their disapproval of integration so they finally will be heard in Washington."

Collins, following his own advice, declined comment on the legislative manifesto pledging a last-ditch fight to save segregated schools and states rights. He also was mum on talk by key North Florida senators that they would vote to close public schools rather than submit to integration.

"I have the feeling that this whole subject is so fraught with emotion and so subject to unsound interpretations, and it is so likely that any statement would be received in a different light than it was intended, that I think the time has come for the exercise of considerable restraint," he said.

"I think that applies to legislators. I think it applies to candidates. I think it applies to newspapers. And I think it applies to governors. So I think I will start out by saying that I don't feel I should make a comment on that proposition. I think the people can understand it for what it is."

On the subject of state finances Collins painted a rainbow across Florida's stormy financial skies.

But two other state leaders threw up black new rain clouds.

"I don't think it's a time for pessimism. It's a time for optimism and confidence," Collins said.

Airlines Hotels, Rushed

Month May Be The Hottest Yet

By GENE MILLER
And JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writers

You can't rent or beg a room at some of Miami Beach's top hotels.

You'd better eat early or very late if you want to avoid a long line at most eating places.

Rent a car? It's almost impossible now.

South Florida's do-or-die season is finally paying off.

Only a year ago goosebumped South Florida hotelmen were crying frozen tears.

But if this February stays warm just two more days, the month will go down as the warmest on record.

Specifically:

	1959	1958
Average Temp.	74.5	60

And with the sun, Miami Beach's fears of a 1958-like bankruptcy rash have bleached.

Hotel business is up strong, airlines are hauling in more customers, and the car rental gang is going great.

Not everyone, of course, has banished all thoughts of the poorhouse forever. But the key indicators show the 1959 season is generally far ahead of 1958 and within shouting distance of the lush 1957 days.

One clothier came up with a neat left-handed comment.

"More people are here than ever before. But the weather's too nice for shopping."

A Herald reporter telephoned 16 hotels and motels and asked for accommodations for two for Saturday through Tuesday.

Four — the Eden Roc, Fontainebleau, Diplomat and Deauville — politely said no soap, we're full.

The Americana, Carillon, Montmarte, Delano, Driftwood, Golden Gate, Dunes, Castaways, Thunderbird, Tangiers, Saxony and the Delano said they could oblige.

"The pressure is off temporarily," said Delano Owner John Goldberg. "We didn't have a room to sell last week and we probably won't again next week.

"The last couple of days in the month always have a psychological effect. People go home and new people come in."

But the thing to remember is that occupancy is running 70, 80 and 90 per cent — at top prices.

The Carillon, for example, is renting out its space at $33 a head a day.

Up-to-the-week figures from some airlines show this February has already flown passed its well-cooled counterpart last year.

Reported Delta: In-bound passengers in February, 1958, 11,832. In-bound this year with four days uncounted, 12,145.

Reported Pan American: February, 1958, 24,988. Twenty days this February showed 20,000.

National said its in-bound load was up 12 per cent.

Eastern estimates business is up "10 per cent or so" this month and figures to boost its 180 in-and-out flights a day to 200 this March.

The car renters came up with the most glowing words.

Examples:

Olin's: "We've had nothing available for two weeks. We are 53 per cent over last year."

Crouch: "Nothing since last Saturday. We are accepting only on a pot-luck basis."

Hertz: "Nothing whatsoever on a day-to-day basis for the last two weeks."

Tolls on the Sunshine State Parkway were $392,768 in January from $364,436 a year ago. Florida Turnpike Authority Chairman Thomas B. Manuel said, "We're doing even better in February."

While visitors played, a record number of Dade Countians were working the first month of this year. Some 302,000 were on the employment rolls compared with 297,650 last year and 289,250 in 1957. There were 23,000 unemployed this year compared with 16,900 in 1958 and 11,700 in 1957.

At the Beach, any skilled hotel worker can get a job, one employment agency reported. Unemployment among other levels of the beach economy is "practically nil," according to Joe Staton, partner in Miami Beach Employment Service.

Most of the Caribbean islands were in the same boat.

Former Legislator Is Convicted on Bribery Charges

BARTOW —(AP)— A criminal court jury Thursday night convicted former state legislator E. B. (Shorty) Jones of attempting to bribe Sheriff Hagan Parrish to permit a bolita syndicate to operate in Polk County.

The six-man jury reached its verdict after deliberating one hour and 20 minutes.

The stocky, wavy haired defendant wept and embraced his wife when the verdict was announced. His 13-year-old son broke into uncontrollable sobs and had to be helped from the court room.

Jones, after receiving the verdict, said he had nothing to say.

Defense Attorney Ellis Rubin asked for a poll of the jury. This was done and the verdict was affirmed.

Rubin then served notice he would seek a new trial. Judge Roy Amidon gave the attorney until March 9 to file formal papers. He set March 16 for a hearing on the motion. The judge deferred sentencing.

The jury received the case after three days of testimony. It deliberated 20 minutes, then returned to the courtroom and asked that portions of the testimony be read from the record.

This testimony concerned statements by Attorney J. Hardin Petersen Jr., about a meeting Jones had with Parrish and Petersen in Bartow, March 22, 1957.

Ths six jurors then returned to continue deliberating. They reached their verdict an hour later.

The defendant could receive up to five years in prison.

Jones denied from the witness stand that he offered the sheriff a bribe. The defendant, only state witness called in the case, said Parrish lied.

"The sheriff is mistaken," Jones testified. "He is not telling the truth, sir."

Parrish, star witness for the prosecution, testified Tuesday that Jones approached him several times in 1956 and 1957 and offered him $5,000 cash plus 10 per cent of the monthly bolita gross.

The sheriff said the offer first was made at a meeting in Winter Haven on Dec. 15, 1956. He said Jones offered him $3,000 at that time and $2,000 more "when the deal was cemented."

The defendant testified he once worked for Cecil Webb, wealthy Tampa miller and former head of the State Road Board. He said he knew of no connection between Webb and a lottery syndicate.

"Webb is one of the most honest men in Florida," Jones said. "He couldn't have had any interest in bolita."

Parrish and Petersen of Lakeland testified that Jones told them Webb was one of the "big men" behind the numbers racket.

Webb, reached at Thomasville, Ga., called the allegations ridiculous.

Bitter Chill Ends Talks In Russia

KIEV, U.S.S.R. — (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wound up their talks Thursday in an atmosphere of bitter chill. The British visitor warned Khrushchev of grave danger if anyone interferes with the Western powers' rights in Berlin.

"But Khrushchev is not budging an inch," a British spokesman said, "and Macmillan is not budging an inch, either. Make of that what you will."

Before flying here for a visit to the Ukraine, Macmillan told Khrushchev that interference without some alternative arrangement "would lead to a dangerous situation," the spokesman said.

Such alternative arrangements supposedly would meet the Soviet threat to turn over to East Germany the control of Allied lifelines to isolated Berlin. These would have to come through negotiations, in Macmillan's view.

But Khrushchev in his speech to a political rally in the Kremlin Tuesday heaped ridicule on the Western plan for negotiations at the foreign ministers' level. In that speech Khrushchev warned that any violations of East Germany's borders in a dispute over Berlin would be considered an act of aggression.

Despite the tenor of Khrushchev's remarks, the spokesman insisted in reply to a reporter's question that Macmillan does not believe the Soviet premier has shut the door on a foreign ministers' meeting.

"He left the door open," the spokesman said. "It was a small door, but the light is going through."

But the Kremlin speech, coming at the height of the British visit, so stung Macmillan that he thought of breaking off further talks and returning to London, British sources reported.

"But Mr. Macmillan came here to have talks with the Soviet leaders and to see the country," a British official said. "He had the talks and he decided he might as well see the country."

There will be a final meeting with Khrushchev Monday after Macmillan returns from visits to Kiev and Leningrad. But the British spokesman said there is nothing left to talk about except the wording of a final communique.

It had been expected that the Kiev trip would provide another opportunity for talks between the two leaders. But Khrushchev cancelled his plans to accompany Macmillan at the last moment and stayed in Moscow. There he received a delegation from Iraq.

Khrushchev told Macmillan at the meeting Thursday morning that "he had a tooth which required attention and he would have to give up the trip," the spokesman said.

The spokesman insisted that this was no breach of diplomatic courtesy, since Khrushchev had not originally planned to accompany Macmillan. But diplomats still wondered whether Khrushchev's toothache was real or diplomatic.

Nixon Brings Daughter Here

Vice President Richard M. Nixon is vacationing in Greater Miami for a few days with his daughter, Julie, who is recovering from an eye infection.

The 10-year-old girl was ordered by her physician in Washington to head for a warm climate until she recovers. She has been out of school three weeks.

The vice president, who comes here frequently, brought her to Key Biscayne where they are guests of C. G. Rebozo. Nixon said Thursday they plan to return to Washington this weekend.

American Sailors Investigate Break In Atlantic Cable

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The U.S. Navy put a boarding party on a Russian fishing trawler in the North Atlantic Thursday to find out if the vessel was responsible for damage to five U.S. transatlantic cables.

Acting under an 1884 treaty to which czarist Russia was a party, sailors from the destroyer escort Roy O. Hale boarded the Soviet ship Novorossisk which was lying about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland.

Early Thursday night the Defense Department announced that the boarding party had returned to the American vessel, which then headed for Argentia, Newfoundland. The Soviet ship started traveling on a northerly course at 10 knots.

The Defense Department said it had not yet received a detailed report from the Hale, commanded by Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. Korte.

The unusual action was ordered after the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Western Union reported that breaks had occurred in five cables along the course in which the Soviet ship has been operating.

All the breaks were within a 50-mile area at the edge of the continental shelf, about 195 miles east of Newfoundland, in about 1,000 feet of water, the companies said.

The department said the first report of damage to the cables was received last Saturday. By Wednesday four other reports had been received of additional cables being damaged or put out of service.

Offhand, there appeared to be no military advantage that would result from wilful breaking of the cables in peacetime. They carry commercial messages for the large part.

There was no report from any Soviet source or on Moscow Radio late Thursday night on the boarding of the trawler.

This boarding conceivable could stir up serious new trouble with Russia.

Experts said the most frequent cause of damage to cables in the area is from the boards used by trawlers to keep their nets open as they are dragged along the bottom to scoop up fish.

The Defense Department did not say who actually ordered the boarding, taken under a treaty known as "the convention for the protection of submarine cables of 1884."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower was advised before the official announcement that a warship had been sent to the area. But he said the President did not give the boarding order and had no further information.

A spokesman for the State Department said only that the department was fully informed and approved the boarding.

The Defense Department said the 1884 treaty "authorizes examination by naval ships of official documents of other ships suspected of damaging and interfering with cables under the high seas."

Under the treaty, any action against the Russian ship would be up to the Soviet Union after it has received the U.S. Navy's report.

Cuba Asks Extradition Of Eight

HAVANA — (AP) — Cuba formally asked the Dominican Republic Thursday to arrest eight high officials of the ousted Fulgencio Batista regime now in exile in that Caribbean country.

Cuba demanded their extradition on charges of robbery and misuse of public funds.

Cuba has already requested — thus far in vain — the extradition of Batista, who also is in exile in the Dominican Republic.

A note from Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte to Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican ambassador to Cuba, said the fully documented charges to supplement the request would be forthcoming in 60 days, as required under an extradition agreement between the two countries.

Ten ex-Batista soldiers were excuted Thursday, bringing to 343 the unofficial total shot by revolutionary firing squads after conviction on war crimes charges.

They were executed at Matanzas, Holguin and Pinar del Rio.

GOP Trio Says Ike's Ready

National Alert Called For To Meet Crisis in Berlin

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, (D., Conn.), warning that the Soviets may trigger a war over Berlin, Thursday urged an intesnive 90-day program to alert the nation for any eventuality.

"I do not believe the country is prepared — that the people are prepared — that they know we are on the threshold possibly of grave disaster," Dodd told the Senate.

On the other hand, three Republican senators said after a talk with President Eisenhower that firm plans have been made to meet any Russian move to force the Western allies out of divided Berlin. No details were given.

Dodd said he questions not so much the adequacy of U.S. armed forces as what he termed the unpreparedness of the people for possible conflict.

"We should embark today," he said, "upon a 90-day program of the utmost urgency that will prepare the American people, the American economy, and the American defenses for whatever demands may be made upon them."

Dodd appealed for Democrats and Republicans to close ranks behind Eisenhower's refusal to end four-power rule of Berlin and convert the Western sectors into a demilitarized city as Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev demands.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he was disturbed by reductions in the Army and other signs that, instead of strengthening defenses, "we are going in the opposite direction."

"I don't want the Russians to feel we are so weak we can't give an accounting of ourselves on May 27," Fulbright added.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), said "an increased defense posture" must be part of the nation's Berlin preparedness. Kennedy said the U.S. is approaching a climax in its relations with the Soviet Union.

"It does indicate that one side or the other will have to give way," Kennedy said.

The three GOP senators who had a breakfast meeting with Eisenhower were Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Kenneth Keating of New York and Winston L. Prouty of Vermont.

"The government is prepared to meet any situation," Scott told newsmen. He said it would not be appropriate for him to give details.

French Announce Decree

Moslems to Control Most Algeria Cities

The New York Times Service

ALGIERS—The French government Thursday announced an electoral decree under which Moslems will gain control over the administration of Algeria's cities and towns.

Paul DeLouvrier, French government delegate general, made public the texts regulating voting procedures for municipal elections next April.

Voters in all communities, except those in the most troublesome fighting zones, will go to the polls between April 19 and 26 to elect municipal councils. During the subsequent week the elected councilors will choose a mayor and deputy mayor from among their number.

Moslems are assured of a majority on the council of each community in which they outnumber the Europeans, which is practically everywhere.

The only major exception that occurred to observers is the city of Oran where the Europeans are the larger of the two ethnic groups.

Moslems will control the municipal council even of the city of Algiers, a European stronghold par excellence. They will have 41 of 75 seats.

This is the result of the annexation a few days ago of nine predominantly Moslem suburbs, increasing the city's population from 400,000 to 750,000.

The annexation was decreed by the French government last week. Within its old limits the city had a predominantly European population. Within the new limits the Moslems are in the majority.

Medical History of a Child Ignored by Parents

Life Too Painful, Boy Became a Machine

CHICAGO — (AP) — Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed at night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran through the day and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "bam." The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancied machinery idle or broken down:

"For long periods of time . . . he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation . . . We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his "calamity could befall a child in any time and culture but our own."

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents. He gave this account:

The parents didn't mistreat Joey but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or non-eating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was nine years old. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Joey reverted to a partially human stage — but as an infant. He made drawings showing himself inside an auto with a group he named the Carr family. He was still inclosed, but was with others and could move around. Still later he pictured himself driving the car.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Whites Move to Head Off Surge of African Natives

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia —(AP)— White authorities threw up a legal roadblock Thursday to bar from this British territory the Nationalist unrest surging across much of Africa.

Prime Minister Sir Edgar Whitehead declared a state of emergency and outlawed Rhodesian branches of the African National Congress, spearhead of a native movement to break white political control.

Police raiding squads rounded up scores of Congress leaders and other Negroes under a tactical plan drawn up two months ago.

Whitehead announced that police arrested between 250 and 500 persons involved in what he called a vain attempt to undermine the loyalty of the government's African employes. He said he is confident the roundup will be completed soon.

Under the state of emergency, his government can detain anyone for a month. It bans gatherings of more than three persons, sets a curfew and prohibits publication of information about Southern Rhodesia's security forces.

Whitehead said many of the Congress officials are jobless youths with criminal records and bloodshed might result if they continued to carry on a campaign of intimidation. Appealing for the people to go about their business as usual, he said:

"The government believes that, with the removal of those responsible for stirring up strife, the emergency will be very brief."

Two of the prisoners, are James Chikerema, acting president of the Congress in Southern Rhodesia, and George Nyandoro, the general secretary.

Britain called off a projected visit of the Earl of Perth, minister of state in the London Colonial Office, to talk over a future constitution for self-governing territory and its partners in the sprawling Central African Federation, a rich, landlocked member of the British Commonwealth. The earl was to have flown from London Thursday.

Northern Rhodesia and the protectorate of Nyasaland are other components of the federation, made up of eight million Negroes and 257,000 white settlers.

Nyasaland disorders have threatened to develop into a head-on clash between Negroes and whites.

These are part of a series of riots and other incidents that have cast a menacing shadow this week across the French Congo, Belgian Congo, Italian-run Somalia, the Central African Federation and South Africa. Their only apparent link is a restless surge for independence.

A senior Rhodesian official said a strike of Africans employed on the huge Zambesi River hydroelectric project had assumed a definitely political aspect. About 7,000 men are involved. The strike was launched by African laborers for higher wages after a recent accident in which 14 Africans and three white men were killed.

The laborers, paid the equivalent of 4½ cents an hour, asked for 14 cents. They rejected the contracting company's offer of seven cents.

With work on the dam at a standstill, the strikers have stoned buildings and vehicles. Members of the Nyasaland African National Congress were reported directing the operations from a hideout in the bush.

Says Agriculture Department

American Farm Income Is Highest Since 1951

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Agriculture Department reported Thursday the average American farmer made more money last year than in any year since 1951.

The net income per person on farms from all sources rose 10 per cent in 1958 to a record $1,068. This was nine per cent above the previous high of $983 per capita in 1951.

Realized net farm income—the money left over after production expenses are paid—totaled $13,100,000,000 last year, up 21 per cent from 1957.

The department said total net income — which includes changes in inventory at the end of the year—rose 22 per cent to $14,200,000,000.

Larger cattle supplies and increased stocks of wheat and corn on farms at year's end resulted in a substantial increase in farm inventories for the second consecutive year.

Gross farm income in 1958 was up 10 per cent to a record 38 billion dollars, exceeding the peak set in 1951 when the Korean war boom sent prices received by farmers to record heights.

The realized net, however, was somewhat smaller than in 1951 because of higher production costs.

Zwillman Took Only Way Out?

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

Did Abner (Longie) Zwillman hang himself in his 20-room West Orange, N. J., mansion to keep from appearing before the Senate racket probe?

Miamians who heard that he had committed suicide Thursday recalled his many trips here in the late 1940s, believe that is the answer. The Senate group now is going into coin-machine rackets and protection. Zwillman headed a company handling cigaret vending machines.

One of his partners recently was questioned about Zwillman before the Senate group.

Zwillman was a familiar figure around Miami Beach for a time, but Daniel P. Sullivan, operating director of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami, doesn't believe he actually "operated here." His friends included Jack Friedlander, once credited with being the "Mr. Big" of Dade County gambling. Friedlander now has migrated to Havana gambling.

He was also a buddy of Nicky Delmore, who put a lot of his racket money in a big real estate enterprise at Fort Pierce, until The Herald identified him to his new neighbors there. Then he moved out.

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmen in New Jersey the 54-year-old prohibition era figure had been depressed since a Senate Rackets Committee began delving into the coin-machine industry.

Zwillman owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., which handled cigaret machines.

His wife, Mary, whose finishing school background contrasted with Zwillman's early life in Newark's slums, found the body in a basement storage room at their fashionable home.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide. He said Zwillman used a plastic-covered clothesline.

The rope was attached to a beam eight feet from the floor. Zwillman's knees were slightly buckled and his toes almost touched the floor.

Although linked with the rackets by various law enforcement agencies and officials for years, Zwillman served only a single prison sentence — six months for assault and battery in 1928.

Only last week a grand jury indicted several persons in connection with alleged bribing of jurors on the deadlocked panel that tried Zwillman for income tax evasion in 1956. He was accused of evading the payment of $38,911 in income taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Zwillman was particularly unhappy, Steinbach said, about any embarrassment publicity would cause his wife and daughter, Lynn.

Speed Trap Is Denied by Georgians

LUDOWICI, Ga. — (UPI) — Officials of Ludowici and Long County hotly denied Thursday allegations of a Cleveland Auto Club that speed traps, including a quick-changing traffic light, are operated in their areas.

Ludowici City Attorney Ralph L. Dawson, called charges by Harold T. Cantlin, manager of the Cleveland club "untrue."

Long County Sheriff W. M. Jones admitted that "we occasionally do operate speed devices" but added that not many tourists have been arrested in his county on speed charges.

The verbal tiff was touched off when the Cleveland Auto Club announced adoption of a "shun Eastern Georgia" policy because of the increasing number of arrests of Florida-bound motorists in speed traps.

Cantlin said some 12,000 members who ask each year for routings to Florida will be sent via a bypass route. The new route was not announced for fear that deputy sheriffs will learn of it and shift their speed trap activities.

He said members are warned of the "high enforcement area" in the 50-mile section of U. S. Route 301 from Sylvania, Ga., south to the Florida line at Folkston, Ga.

Dulles Talks With Aides On Berlin

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred at Walter Reed Army Hospital for an hour or more Thursday with three top State Department officials on the developing difficulties with Russia over Berlin.

A State Department spokesman said Dulles had a "general discussion" with the officials.

Presumably the discussion covered the virtual breakdown of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Moscow talks with Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the critical Berlin problem

Dulles requested the conference which brought to his hospital room Acting Secretary Christian Herter, Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy and Assistant Secretary Livingston T. Merchant. They are the three department officials most concerned with the Berlin problem.

It was the longest and largest meeting Dulles has participated in since he entered Walter Reed Hospital Feb. 10. He is undergoing x-ray treatments for cancer.

Dulles arranged the conference after the news broke that Macmillan and Khrushchev had come to the end of their talks without any agreement or more hopeful approach toward a solution of the East-West difficulties over Berlin.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

GENE MORI gave a party at Hialeah Park. 'Twas basically a breakfast for turf writers, but he included me in. The town's hummin' these days, with the Flamingo comin' up Saturday and baseball just down the road.

BELL

No place in Miami is so picturesque as Hialeah Park on a sunny morning. Prancing thoroughbreds come onto the track by the dozens, gallop as they tug at the bit, begging the exercise boys to turn them loose. Most of them wind up doing the full speed chore singly. But occasionally you'll see a real hoss race.

Exercise boys don't wear the flaming stable colors you see when the pari-mutuel windows open. But they sing and chatter and have lots more fun than the official jocks. The flamingos usually sit quietly, making a brilliant pink island in the lake. Swans, ducks, occasional wild bird visitors and big coveys of grackles keep the infield alive.

Up in the grandstand at the finish wire sit clockers, make believe clockers and just plain kibitzers. Some of of them, I'm told, know every horse in the barns. But I've a hunch they get a bit of workout inventory.

P.S. The breakfast was super—with the biggest strawberries I ever saw.

St. Michael's, 2935 W. Flagler St., is a Spanish-speaking Catholic Church in Miami. Diosa's mother worshipped there until her death. Diosa, eager to do something in her mother's memory, is starting a campaign to enlarge the church. It has become much too small.

So Diosa and her entire troupe will give a huge variety show at Dade County Auditorium Sunday, March 8, at 3 p.m. They're calling it the Pan American Festival.

Hotel Boom

So how's business??????

The great pastime in this glorious bit of confusion called Greater Miami is to compare this season's business with last season. If you don't do it you're not cool, man.

Well, Gootsie Palmer is general manager of Dupont Plaza Hotel operations and decided to compare. Dupont Plaza opened Feb. 19, 1958. Room occupancy for the first week was 11 per cent. So Gootsie compared those figures with the same period this February.

"Business has increased 890 per cent," he cried.

Teachers' Bane

'You Can't Spank Me, So--Boo!'

ALBANY, N.Y. — (AP) — Teachers are subjected to heckling, catcalls and boos — even in an all-girl school — because the pupils are immune from spankings in school, a 16-year-old girl reports.

Susan Stalcup, a junior at Julia Richman High School, in New York City, says that is the situation in her school. Despite objections of some adults, she wants teachers given the right to use corporal punishment.

She testified at a state legislative hearing.

New York state law authorizes teachers to use moderate force in disciplining pupils, but local school boards may restrict that privilege. A New York City regulation bars all corporal punishment. A bill before the Legislature would forbid localities to make such rules.

Most of the southwest remained sunny. Rain lingered over Washington state. A cold front across the northern Rockies and trailing westward into Oregon marked the advance of Pacific air spreading a few patches of snow across the Rockies with rain and snow reaching the Dakotas.

Marina Hotel Hit By Suit

Mortgage Default Filed

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST—Mortgage foreclosure proceedings were initiated here Thursday against the Casa Marina Hotel, Inc., operators of one of the oldest hostelries on this island.

The lawsuit, filed in Circuit Court by Attorney Allan B. Cleare Jr. for the Emmerff Corp. of Ohio, charges the Casa Marina with defaulting on payment of a $29,000 promissory note due Feb. 15.

A second defendant in the lawsuit is Beale E. Poste, of Granville, Ohio, and holder of a second mortgage for $50,000 on the hotel company.

Beale was president of Casa Marina Hotel, Inc. when it purchased the hotel from Emmerff Corp. in April, 1956, for $592,000.

But Jack Alpin is now listed as president of the company, which apparently he acquired in October, 1956. At that time, according to the lawsuit, the annual payments on the mortgage were dropped by agreement from $39,467 to the present $29,000.

The Casa Marina, located at the corner of Flagler Ave. and Reynolds St., has played an important role in the social and tourist life of this community for years. Its main building, housing 200 rooms, loverlooks the ocean and grounds with a bathing pier, swimming pool and tennis courts.

Max Mamorstein, president of Emmeff, said Thursday he would not be able to decide the fate of the hotel until after a hearing to appoint a receiver scheduled in court this morning.

In the meantime, he said, Emmett F. Conniff has replaced Alpin as managing director of the hotel. Conniff managed the Casa Marina from 1946 to 1957.

The foreclosure lawsuit asks the court to order a sale for the real and personal property of the hotel to recover the principal balance due on the mortgage of $523,533. It also asks that the defendants pay court costs, attorney's fees, abstract costs and a $5,757 premium paid by the plaintiff on insurance for the hotel.

Marathon Boys Club To Be Built

Herald Service

MARATHON—The Boys Club of Marathon will have a roof over its head Saturday night if the combined efforts of five civic organizations materialize.

West Coast Atom Plant Pact Signed

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government signed a contract Thursday with two combines of private utilities, permitting them to build and operate an atomic power plant in Florida.

The plant will be built somewhere on Florida's west coast at a place to be designated later.

Signers of the contract were the Atomic Energy Commission and private power combines known as the East Central Nuclear Group and the Florida West Coast Nuclear Group.

East Central, comprised of 14 utilities, will build the 50,000 kilowatt plant at a planning and development cost of some 18 million dollars, AEC said.

Maximum AEC assistance will be $13,180,000, but AEC said the probably cost share will be about equally divided.

The plant, expected to be finished by June of 1963, would be a phototype for a larger 200,000 kilowatt facility.

It is to be operated by the Florida West Coast Nuclear Group, which plans to spend 26 million dollars on construction.

The design will be done by the General Nuclear Engineering Corp. of Dunedin, Fla., and the American Electric Power Service Corp.

Members of the Florida West Coast Nuclear Group are Florida Power Corp. and Tampa Electric Co.

Members of the East Central Nuclear Group are:

Truce Seen In Utilities Lobbying

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — Public and private power interests in Florida have declared a truce and will not combat each other during the 1959 legislature, it was reported Thursday.

J. Thomas Gurney of Orlando, chairman of the legislative committee for the Florida Municipal Utilities Association said agreement had been reached between top figures in the public and private power fields not to sponsor legislation that would harm either side.

Gurney, reporting at the association's annual conference, said the truce was agreed on when the legislative committee met recently with officers of privately owned power companies.

Gurney said there was "quite a scrap" during the 1957 legislature over efforts to impose taxes on municipally owned utilities.

"We believe it ended successfully for the municipal utilities since no less an authority than the attorney general of Florida has ruled that the act passed is not to be constured as authorizing the taxing of municipal utilities," Gurney said.

At the conference with private power interests since the 1957 legislature, Gurney said, "we told them we weren't trying to provoke arguments with them and that we thought there are sufficient statutes on the books today to handle power problems, public and private."

Gurney said the municipal utilities assured the private companies that "we had no plans to introduce provocative legislation against us were introduced. They said they had no legislation of their own they intended to offer except a couple of matters in which they have our support."

Gurney said one top flight private power company executive indicated "they were ready to forget any idea at all about trying to tax public utilities."

"We think they are sincere," Gurney said, "but our watchman will still be on the tower. We will live up to it as far as we are concerned."

Also approved by the association was a resolution opposing any possible federal restrictions on import of residual fuel oils into the U. S.

TV Channel Contested

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Hurley W. Holland said Thursday he plans to keep voting control of Suncoast Cities Broadcasting Corp. of St. Petersburg "as long as I live."

Holland, Suncoast's president made this statement at a communications commission hearing on Channel 10 television at Largo. Suncoast is one of six applicants for the channel.

"I'm going to make this my last venture," Holland said.

His comment came during cross examination dealing with Holland's interest in other radio properties while living in St. Petersburg, he held considerable stock and was a director of Radio Station WNEW in New York City for several years. He now owns one fourth of radio station WNVY at Pensacola.

Other applicants for channel 10 are Tampa Telecast Inc.; WTSP-TV; Bay Area Telecasting Corp.; Florida Gulfcoast Broadcasting Inc., and the City of St. Petersburg (WSUN-TV).

Rainstorm Hits Plane, Pilot Lost

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE — A search plane Thursday sighted the wreckage of a light plane which crashed Wednesday night between Orlando and Melbourne.

Horace P. Barham, of Cocoa Beach, pilot of the downed Patrick Aero Club craft, was presumed dead but his fate had not been confirmed late Thursday.

Thundersqualls blocked a helicopter which tried to reach the wilderness crash site, the Air Force said.

But Nick Dean, pilot of the plane which sighted the wreckage, said he didn't see "how the pilot could have survived."

The plane apparently struck the ground nose first and burned, Dean and his two crew members reported.

They reported the crash was about "20 to 25 miles northwest of the Orlando Livestock Company ranch" west of Melbourne.

The Air Force said Barham apparently crashed when he tried to reach Melbourne Airport after a rainstorm blocked a landing attempt at Orlando.

Barham took off from Patrick at about 7:20 p.m. Wednesday on a flight to Melbourne and Orlando. He was last heard from shortly after 8 p.m.

Collins said a new county judge probably will be named in two or three days.

Judge Hensley, 36, has lived in Florida since he was three years old. He was educated in public schools at Stuart, Fort Pierce, Defuniak Springs and Crestview and received his law degree rfom Stetson University in 1950.

He has served as Manatee County judge since July 1955.

Plans OKd For School In E. Naples

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

EVERGLADES – Approval of the first school bidding under the 2.98 million dollar Collier County school bond issue was given Thursday for Shadowlawn Elementary School in East Naples.

Architect K. Whitney Dalzell, Clearwater, estimated the job would be ready on the schedule he set in December with advertising for construction March 12 and bids received April 2.

Dalzall's original estimate called for the 6 classrooms to be completed Aug. 15 and the cafetorium Sept. 15 in time for fall sessions.

The school board approved his final plans and preliminaries by Lyell, Nick and Morris for the Lake Park 8-classroom addition. However board members questioned Supt. Bill Reynold's proposal to begin clearing the sites of Shadowlawn, the Carver Negro addition, and the new Naples High School.

Following a morning jeep tour of the densely wooded Naples High School tract, Member Pitt Orick questioned the need for a wholesale "pulpwood" clearing. He was backed by Chairman Leo Chickering who said clearing at any site would disturb the ground for the contructors, who usually do their own clearing.

Learning the school board plans to supply electricity, wells and pumps at the site, as well as clearing them, Chickering, who is also a builder, said "We sure are being nice to contractors."

"Don't worry, it'll be in the bill," said Orick.

The clearing was held for later reports.

The superintendent noted matching federal-state aid programs will give $2,500 yearly for four years and will make possible additional language courses throughout the county next year.

"We'll have Spanish in the fourth grade, and possibly some in the third," said Reynolds.

Naples Man A Suicide, Police Say

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — Warren Allen Tyson, 42, Naples real estate man, was found dead of a self-inflicted bullet wound Thursday afternoon it was reported by Police Chief S. B. Caruthers. The chief said Tyson shot himself in the right temple with a .32 revolver.

Capt. Orran P. Coates said the body was found in an apartment of the Beachcomber about 2 p.m. by Manager Ray Waln and Bob Scott who shared an office with Tyson. Coates said Tyson had attempted suicide last March, when he was taken to the hospital for treatment of slashed wrists.

The captain said Tyson had been dead between 12 and 14 hours when found. Coates attributed the death to despondency.

Tyson is survived by his mother, Mrs. Isabel Tyson, 431 3rd St., North, his wife, Mrs. Constance Newell Tyson and a daughter, Constance, of Pine Orchard, Conn.

Private funeral services will be held at the convenience of the family at Pittman Memorial Chapel.

Cocoa Asks U. S. Loan

COCOA — City officials Thursday formally applied for a $31,600 Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency loan for a new city sewer system.

The proposed $1,500,000 system would bring sewers to four new subdivisions — Broadmore Acres, Charlton Terrace, Cocoa Hills and Virginia Park. It would also extend to a portion of the city's Negro section.

City plans call for floating a revenue issue to pay for the extensions.

Key West Bond Dispute Second Round Coming Up

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — The city of Key West finally gets into court today to validate its proposed $2,750,000 issue of utilities tax revenue certificates.

Odds are being laid that the court will turn down—at least for the time being — the city's petition to have its bond issue validated.

Today's hearing, scheduled for 11 a.m. in the Circuit Courtroom, climaxes the city's steady battle since last October to push through an ambitious capaital improvement program based on the bond sale.

Informed observers think the court will refuse a final decision on the validation while litigation is pending on a voters' petition to repeal a 10 per cent utility tax levied by the city last November over considerable popular opposition.

Revenue from the tax over a 33-year period was intended to pay off the bond certificates, according to the city's plan.

The city's hopes that the petition lawsuit might be resolved quickly were dashed Monday when Circuit Judge John J. Kehoe refused a summary judgment in the case.

Now the lawsuit must go through the full legal proceeding — a process which could take months.

One of the major complaints brought by the state, and individual taxpayers, against the bond validation is that important relevant litigation is pending. The court is asked to reserve judgment on the bond validation until the repeal petition lawsuit is resolved.

Without the court's approval of the bond issue, the city administration and its program are stymied.

Besides Judge Kehoe, temporarily assigned here from his court in Dade County, another new face will appear at the hearing this morning.

Phil O'Connell, state attorney from West Palm Beach is substituting for J. Lancelot Lester, the regular state attorney for this area.

Both Lester and Circuit Judge Aquilino Lopez Jr., of this district, disqualified themselves from participating in the validation proceedings.

City Election Law Change Asked by JCs

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — The Jaycees will begin sending out letters today to civic organizations in Key West proposing that the city's election system be modified.

The proposed change, adopted in a resolution at the club's Wednesday night meeting, calls for having the candidates to the five city commission seats run at large. The five candidates with the highest votes would be elected. The top vote-getter of the five would become mayor.

At present commissioners are elected from districts — a system which results, say the Jaycees, in personality clashes, added expense in run-offs, and the possible loss of a good man defeated in his district by a small margin.

The Jaycees are sending copies of their resolution to organizations to get a reaction.

"We want to know if other groups are for it or against it," said Louis Signorelli, chairman of the Jaycee Public Affairs Committee which sponsored the resolution.

Copies of the proposal will also go to the county's delegation of state legislators with a view to initiating necessary legislative action.

Totaling 46,000 Homes

Brevard to Get Two Super Developments

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — A housing boost of more than a half billion dollars for Brevard County's home-starved citizens was announced Thursday — a shot that will mean more than 46,000 new houses and apartments.

Three companies, spending a total of 675 million dollars, are supplying the impetus to put this guided missile base area's housing situation back in orbit.

The Mackle Co. of Miami, the William Seckendorff Corp. of New York and Magnuson Properties of Miami made almost simultaneous announcements of their huge projects.

Mackle is planning a 30,000 home development south of Melbourne that will cost 550 million dollars.

Magnuson has revealed plans for constructing 16,000 homes near Eau Gallie with a total development price tag of more than a hundred million dollars.

And Seckendorff's project calls for an undetermined number of garden apartments, homes and shopping centers on the Beach side of the Banana River south of Patrick Air Force Base.

Altogether, Brevard County will gain more than 52,000 acres of property for its tax rolls.

Mackle's development alone will cover 48,000 acres; Magnuson's will be laid out on 4,000 acres, and Seckendorff's apartments will start with a 427-acre tract.

Mackle's project will go up under the name of Port Malabar, and get underway this summer in the area between Palm Bay and Malabar.

It includes a half-mile frontage on U.S. Highway 1, running westward from Indian River for 13 miles to the St. John's River, and extending 12 miles north and south.

Port Malabar, according to the planners, will have recreation areas, an industrial park for light industry, community shopping areas and public bathing beaches, parks, yacht basins and yacht club.

Magnuson's development extends from Eau Gallie's northern limits to a point near Pineda, and will include homes on 20 miles of roadway. It, too, will have fishing facilities, boat docks and "a miniature Cypress Gardens."

Seckendorff's spokesmen said their project will be designed specifically to fill the need for more rental units in the area.

"There are many people coming here to work on missiles for short periods," the company said, "and they cannot find places to rent."

The apartments will be one and two bedroom affairs with their own shopping center, marina and golf course.

Lauderdale Area to Get New 'City'

FORT LAUDERDALE — Plans for a 4,000-home community on 1,168 acres near Fort Lauderdale were announced Thursday by All State Properties, Inc., of New York.

All State President Herbert Sadkin said his firm bought the property for five million dollars from Robert Goldman of Miami.

The land, formerly known as MacArthur Dairy Farm, is located on the north side of Sunrise Blvd., east and west of the Sunshine State Parkway.

More than 6,500 feet of commercial frontage on highways is included.

Sadkin said construction will start within 60 days on eight model homes in the $10,000 to $18,000 bracket.

All State, Sadkin said, already is active in residential construction at four places on Long Island, N.Y., and in Louisville, Ky.

SRD Firm On Paving Complaint

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST The new section of U.S. 1 coming into this island at the "triangle" stands a good chance of getting adequate lighting, but unless county or state authorities take some action, the stretch of highway will keep its present rough surface.

City Manager Dave King and officials of the City Electric System have worked out a recommendation on lighting which has already been sent to the State Road Department.

The recommendation calls for a string of 28 mercury vapor lights from the Key West edge of the Stock Island bridge to the "triangle." Installation of the lamps and their subsequent maintenance would be borne by the City Electric System.

At present only two amber lights illuminate the triangle, which has several alternative turnoffs for traffic moving in both directions. The condition, plus the lack of proper signs, has brought complaints from Police Chief George Gomez and others.

King said he felt the chances of getting prompt SRD approval for the lighting arrangement were good.

But the matter of getting the stretch of highway smooth-surfaced is something else.

King said he discussed with SRD engineers the highway's rough gravely surface, pointing out that it is the sort of finish used on secondary roads.

The engineers agreed, King said, but explained that the four-year old contract under which the road was built called for that type of surface.

The project was approved in 1955 when the SRD approved of such rough topping for primary roads. Hassles over rights-of-way delayed construction until now, King said the engineers told him.

To lay a smooth surface on the four-lane highway, which reaches the length of Stock Island into the Key West City limits, additional funds must now be authorized by the county and the SRD, King said.

Two Park Contracts Awarded

Herald Bureau

Contract were awarded Thursday for two additional developments in Everglades National Park.

Superintendent Warren F. Hamilton announced that Edelblut Construction Co. of Fort Myers was awarded a $83,944.67 bid to construct elevated trials of cypress and douglas fir at Mahagany Hammock, Pa-Ha-O-Kee Overlook and Mangrove Trail.

Eddy Construction Co. of Homestead was low-bidder to construct an equipment storage and shop building at Flamingo to provide facilities for the maintenance and operation of the National Park Service in the Flamingo area, Hamilton said.

The trails to be built will lead to three outstanding points of observation. They will constitute a part of the interpretive tour of the main park road leading from the East entrance, west of Florida City, and terminating at Flamingo.

Both contracts were part of the Mission 66 Development and are to be completed within 150 calendar days.

Ex-Prime Minister on Lecture Tour of U.S.

Attlee's Wry Wit Leaves 'em Laughing and Glad He Came

By PAUL GAPP

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

VALPARAISO, Ind. — An Englishman with a bald head, a clipped accent and a wry sense of humor left 'em laughing.

Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee also left behind a load of political ideas for Valparaiso University students to debate.

Attlee dropped his quips on the campus while making a speech, eating lunch with local dignitaries and answering question at a press conference.

Sample (when asked how he likes American tea):

"We didn't care when you dumped it in Boston harbor but did you have to dredge it up and serve it back to us?"

That one got a big laugh.

Attlee, who's in the middle of a lecture tour, rattled off answers to questions with a clipped delivery so rapidly and choppily British that some people didn't understand him.

They were too polite to ask him to repeat.

These capsule comments came through loud and clear, however:

On diplomatic recognition of Red China: "If you expect a person to obey the rules of a club, you don't tell him he can't be a member, do you?"

On the Allies' lagging behind Russia in missile development: "If you already have something that can kill one million people, must you have something that can kill two million?"

On British and American methods of choosing political candidates: "We (the English) have no barefoot boys from Wall Street."

On Britain's race riots last fall: "We had a spot of them in a very bad part of London. It has passed over."

The students' reaction, was, as they say, mixed.

"He looks like my grandfather," said Mildred Anderson, 20, of Hyattsville, Md. "He's quite a showman, though, the way he used anecdotes and things."

"I think he's very human and warm," said Mary Ruprecht, 18, of Valparaiso. "He made me feel more secure about the strength of our government."

The former Laborite prime minister is now a member of the House of Lords.

Stop Eating Your Heart To Death, Medics Warn

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Fat Americans were warned again to stop overeating and start exercising.

They were advised to take these steps, along with other "common sense" suggestions, by Dr. Irvine H. Page, director of research at the Cleveland Clinic. He, along with five other eminent scientists in the field of heart disease, presented a national report on "A Decade of Progress Against Cardiovascular Disease."

Dr. Page said that several factors seem to be involved in the formation of arteriosclerosis, the disease that hardens the arteries. In 1956, there were nearly 460,000 dieaths from this disease and related afflictions.

Heredity, elevated blood pressure, exercise, stress, sex, diet and indulgence seem to play some role in the hardening of arteries, Dr. Page said. If your cholesterol level is high, your doctor may recommend a change in dietary habits.

Long Hours Didn't Pay

DETROIT — (AP) — Ferd Clay worked seven days a week.

Mondays through Thursdays he went from door-to-door taking orders for bargain television sets, cameras, appliances and jewelry.

Friday through Sunday he spent filling the orders.

Detectives Alex Wierzbicki and Stanley Viciulius halted the routine. They arrested Clay and he was charged with burglary.

The detectives claimed Clay filled his orders by stealing the goods. They estimated the loot at $30,000 from 115 homes in northern Detroit and suburbs.

They said only about $2,000 in cash had been collected but that records showed Clay had another $8,000 in time payment coming.

Can't Smell; Wins $9,800

LONDON —(AP)— A high court judge has ruled that losses of the senses of smell and taste are worth 3,500 pounds ($9,800) to 50-year-old Eileen McLaughlin.

The judgment was against Motorist Derek Fitness, whose car injured Miss McLaughlin to the extent, she testified, that she can't smell a rose or frying bacon and all food tastes the same.

Month May Be The Hottest Yet

By GENE MILLER

Herald Staff Writers

You can't rent or beg a room at some of Miami Beach's top hotels.

You'd better eat early or very late if you want to avoid a long line at most eating places.

Rent a car? It's almost impossible now.

South Florida's do-or-die season is finally paying off.

Only a year ago goosebumped South Florida hotelmen were crying frozen tears.

But if this February stays warm just two more days, the month will go down as the warmest on record.

Specifically:

	1959	1958
Average Temp.	74.5	60

And with the sun, Miami Beach's fears of a 1958-like bankruptcy rash have bleached.

Hotel business is up strong, airlines are hauling in more customers, and the car rental gang is going great.

Not everyone, of course, has banished all thoughts of the poorhouse forever. But the key indicators show the 1959 season is generally far ahead of 1958 and within shouting distance of the lush 1957 days.

One clothier came up with a neat left-handed comment.

"More people are here than ever before. But the weather's too nice for shopping."

A Herald reporter telephoned 16 hotels and motels and asked for accommodations for two for Saturday through Tuesday.

Four — the Eden Roc, Fontainebleau, Diplomat and Deauville — politely said no soap, we're full.

The Americana, Carillon, Montmartre, Delano, Driftwood, Golden Gate, Dunes, Castaways, Thunderbird, Tangiers, Saxony and the Delano said they could oblige.

"The pressure is off temporarily," said Delano Owner John Goldberg. "We didn't have a room to sell last week and we probably won't again next week.

"The last couple of days in the month always have a psychological effect. People go home and new people come in."

But the thing to remember is that occupancy is running 70, 80 and 90 per cent — at top prices.

The Carillon, for example, is renting out its space at $33 a head a day.

Up-to-the-week figures from some airlines show this February has already flown passed its well-cooled counterpart last year.

Reported Delta: In-bound passengers in February, 1958, 11,832. In-bound this year with four days uncounted, 12,145.

Reported Pan American: February, 1958, 24,988. Twenty days this February showed 20,000.

National said its in-bound load was up 12 per cent.

Eastern estimates business is up "10 per cent or so" this month and figures to boost its 180 in-and-out flights a day to 200 this March.

The car renters came up with the most glowing words.

Examples:

Olin's: "We've had nothing available for two weeks. We are 53 per cent over last year."

Crouch: "Nothing since last Saturday. We are accepting only on a pot-luck basis."

Hertz: "Nothing whatsoever on a day-to-day basis for the last two weeks."

Tolls on the Sunshine State Parkway were $392,768 in January from $364,436 a year ago. Florida Turnpike Authority Chairman Thomas B. Manuel said, "We're doing even better in February."

While visitors played, a record number of Dade Countians were working the first month of this year. Some 302,000 were on the employment rolls compared with 297,650 last year and 289,250 in 1957. There were 23,000 unemployed this year compared with 16,900 in 1958 and 11,700 in 1957.

At the Beach, any skilled hotel worker can get a job, one employment agency reported. Unemployment among other levels of the beach economy is "practically nil," according to Joe Staton, partner in Miami Beach Employment Service.

Former Legislator Is Convicted on Bribery Charges

BARTOW — (AP) — A criminal court jury Thursday night convicted former state legislator E. B. (Shorty) Jones of attempting to bribe Sheriff Hagan Parrish to permit a bolita syndicate to operate in Polk County.

The six-man jury reached its verdict after deliberating one hour and 20 minutes.

The stocky, wavy haired defendant wept and embraced his wife when the verdict was announced. His 13-year-old son broke into uncontrollable sobs and had to be helped from the court room.

Jones, after receiving the verdict, said he had nothing to say.

Defense Attorney Ellis Rubin asked for a poll of the jury. This was done and the verdict was affirmed.

Rubin then served notice he would seek a new trial. Judge Roy Amidon gave the attorney until March 9 to file formal papers. He set March 16 for a hearing on the motion. The judge deferred sentencing.

The jury received the case after three days of testimony. It deliberated 20 minutes, then returned to the courtroom and asked that portions of the testimony be read from the record.

This testimony concerned statements by Attorney J. Hardin Petersen Jr., about a meeting Jones had with Parrish and Petersen in Bartow, March 22, 1957.

Ths six jurors then returned to continue deliberating. They reached their verdict an hour later.

The defendant could receive up to five years in prison.

Jones denied from the witness stand that he offered the sheriff a bribe. The defendant, only state witness called in the case, said Parrish lied.

"The sheriff is mistaken," Jones testified. "He is not telling the truth, sir."

Parrish, star witness for the prosecution, testified Tuesday that Jones approached him several times in 1956 and 1957 and offered him $5,000 cash plus 10 per cent of the monthly bolita gross.

The sheriff said the offer first was made at a meeting in Winter Haven on Dec. 15, 1956. He said Jones offered him $3,000 at that time and $2,000 more "when the deal was cemented."

The defendant testified he once worked for Cecil Webb, wealthy Tampa miller and former head of the State Road Board. He said he knew of no connection between Webb and a lottery syndicate.

"Webb is one of the most honest men in Florida," Jones said. "He couldn't have had any interest in bolita."

Parrish and Petersen of Lakeland testified that Jones told them Webb was one of the "big men" behind the numbers racket.

Webb, reached at Thomasville, Ga., called the allegations ridiculous.

Bitter Chill Ends Talks In Russia

KIEV, U.S.S.R. — (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wound up their talks Thursday in an atmosphere of bitter chill. The British visitor warned Khrushchev of grave danger if anyone interferes with the Western powers' rights in Berlin.

"But Khrushchev is not budging an inch," a British spokesman said, "and Macmillan is not budging an inch, either. Make of that what you will."

Before flying here for a visit to the Ukraine, Macmillan told Khrushchev that interference without some alternative arrangement "would lead to a dangerous situation," the spokesman said.

Such alternative arrangements supposedly would meet the Soviet threat to turn over to East Germany the control of Allied lifelines to isolated Berlin. These would have to come through negotiations, in Macmillan's view.

But Khrushchev in his speech to a political rally in the Kremlin Tuesday heaped ridicule on the Western plan for negotiations at the foreign ministers' level. In that speech Khrushchev warned that any violations of East Germany's borders in a dispute over Berlin would be considered an act of aggression.

Despite the tenor of Khrushchev's remarks, the spokesman insisted in reply to a reporter's question that Macmillan does not believe the Soviet premier has shut the door on a foreign ministers' meeting.

"He left the door open," the spokesman said. "It was a small door, but the light is going through."

But the Kremlin speech, coming at the height of the British visit, so stung Macmillan that he thought of breaking off further talks and returning to London, British sources reported.

"But Mr. Macmillan came here to have talks with the Soviet leaders and to see the country," a British official said. "He had the talks and he decided he might as well see the country."

There will be a final meeting with Khrushchev Monday after Macmillan returns from visits to Kiev and Leningrad. But the British spokesman said there is nothing left to talk about except the wording of a final communique.

It had been expected that the Kiev trip would provide another opportunity for talks between the two leaders. But Khrushchev cancelled his plans to accompany Macmillan at the last moment and stayed in Moscow. There he received a delegation from Iraq.

Khrushchev told Macmillan at the meeting Thursday morning that "he had a tooth which required attention and he would have to give up the trip," the spokesman said.

The spokesman insisted that this was no breach of diplomatic courtesy, since Khrushchev had not originally planned to accompany Macmillan. But diplomats still wondered whether Khrushchev's toothache was real or diplomatic.

Nixon Brings Daughter Here

Vice President Richard M. Nixon is vacationing in Greater Miami for a few days with his daughter, Julie, who is recovering from an eye infection.

The 10-year-old girl was ordered by her physician in Washington to head for a warm climate until she recovers. She has been out of school three weeks.

The vice president, who comes here frequently, brought her to Key Biscayne where they are guests of C. G. Rebozo. Nixon said Thursday they plan to return to Washington this weekend.

4,000 New Homes Scheduled For Ft. Lauderdale Area

More Broward News, Pages 1D, 11C

By RICK TUTTLE
Hollywood Bureau Chief

HOLLYWOOD — Another 4,000 new homes will begin springing up west of Fort Lauderdale within the next 60 days.

A 1,168-acre tract has been purchased for 4.5 million dollars by All State Properties, Inc., of New York, from Miami Investor Robert Goldman.

All State President Herbert Sadkin announced the purchase here Thursday.

"At least eight model homes, ranging in price from $10,000 to $15,000, will be offered," Sadkin said.

The land involved is another parcel of the former McArthur Dairy property. It is north of Sunrise Blvd., on both the east and west sides of the McArthur interchange of the turnpike.

This is the first Florida Venture for All State.

Sadkin said the company plans further operations in Florida.

The firm is currently building homes at four locations on Long Island and in Louisville, Ky.

More than 6,500 feet of commercial frontage on highways is included in the development plan. Roads and waterway systems are also included, Sadkin said.

Minimum lot size is 60 by 100 feet.

Co-brokers for the transaction were All State Realty Co., Fort Lauderdale, and Ernest Jones Associates, Miami. Broward Title Co. of Fort Lauderdale insured the title.

Ted David and Donald Hulmes, both of Hollywood, were attorneys on the transaction.

Meanwhile, two major housing developments were announced on the central east coast in Brevard County, destined to give that missile base area at least 46,000 new homes.

The Mackle Company of Miami said it has purchased 48,000 acres three miles south of Melbourne for about $18,250,000. A 30,000-home community called Port Malabar will be constructed on the tract between the Indian River and St. Johns River.

Another 16,000 homes will be developed on 4,000 acres north of Eau Gallie by Magnuson Properties of Miami. The community, in the Lake Washington area, will be called Palm Shores.

Carnation Vs. Rose

Senate's Debaters Battle Over Flowers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate debated Thursday whether the carnation or the rose should be designated as the national flower.

Sen. Gordon Allott (R., Colo.) said that while the rose is beautiful and looks good in a vase, the carnation can be worn by men because of "its ruggedness, its fertility, its virility, its courage."

Sen. Keneth B. Keating (R., N.Y.), a champion of the rose, retorted that "any flower looks better on a woman than in any other surroundings."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican floor leader, put in a calming word:

"English history records the war of the roses between the House of York and the House of Lancaster. I hope, after this long interlude, the war of the roses will not be resumed."

American Sailors Investigate Break In Atlantic Cable

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The U.S. Navy put a boarding party on a Russian fishing trawler in the North Atlantic Thursday to find out if the vessel was responsible for damage to five U.S. transatlantic cables.

Acting under an 1884 treaty to which czarist Russia was a party, sailors from the destroyer escort Roy O. Hale boarded the Soviet ship Novorossisk which was lying about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland.

Early Thursday night the Defense Department announced that the boarding party had returned to the American vessel, which then headed for Argentia, Newfoundland. The Soviet ship started traveling on a northerly course at 10 knots.

The Defense Department said it had not yet received a detailed report from the Hale, commanded by Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. Korte.

—Associated Press Wirephoto

Lt. Cmdr. Korte
. . . commands USS Hale

The unusual action was ordered after the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Western Union reported that breaks had occurred in five cables along the course in which the Soviet ship has been operating.

All the breaks were within a 50-mile area at the edge of the continental shelf, about 195 miles east of Newfoundland, in about 1,000 feet of water, the companies said.

The department said the first report of damage to the cables was received last Saturday. By Wednesday four other reports had been received of additional cables being damaged or put out of service.

Offhand, there appeared to be no military advantage that would result from wilful breaking of the cables in peacetime. They carry commercial messages for the large part.

There was no report from any Soviet source or on Moscow Radio late Thursday night on the boarding of the trawler.

This boarding conceivable could stir up serious new trouble with Russia.

Experts said the most frequent cause of damage to cables in the area is from the boards used by trawlers to keep their nets open as they are dragged along the bottom to scoop up fish.

The Defense Department did not say who actually ordered the boarding, taken under a treaty known as "the convention for the protection of submarine cables of 1884."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower was advised before the official announcement that a warship had been sent to the area. But he said the President did not give the boarding order and had no further information.

A spokesman for the State Department said only that the department was fully informed and approved the boarding.

The Defense Department said the 1884 treaty "authorizes examination by naval ships of official documents of other ships suspected of damaging and interfering with cables under the high seas."

Under the treaty, any action against the Russian ship would be up to the Soviet Union after it has received the U.S. Navy's report.

Cuba Asks Extradition Of Eight

HAVANA — (AP) — Cuba formally asked the Dominican Republic Thursday to arrest eight high officials of the ousted Fulgencio Batista regime now in exile in that Caribbean country.

Cuba demanded their extradition on charges of robbery and misuse of public funds.

Cuba has already requested — thus far in vain — the extradition of Batista, who also is in exile in the Dominican Republic.

A note from Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte to Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican ambassador to Cuba, said the fully documented charges to supplement the request would be forthcoming in 60 days, as required under an extradition agreement between the two countries.

Ten ex-Batista soldiers were excuted Thursday, bringing to 343 the unofficial total shot by revolutionary firing squads after conviction on war crimes charges.

They were executed at Matanzas, Holguin and Pinar del Rio.

Medical History of a Child Ignored by Parents

Life Too Painful, Boy Became a Machine

CHICAGO — (AP) — Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed at night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran through the day and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "bam." The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancied machinery idle or broken down:

"For long periods of time . . . he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation . . . We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his "calamity could befall a child in any time and culture but our own."

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents. He gave this account:

The parents didn't mistreat Joey but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or non-eating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was nine years old. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Joey reverted to a partially human stage — but as an infant. He made drawings showing himself inside an auto with a group he named the Carr family. He was still inclosed, but was with others and could move around. Still later he pictured himself driving the car.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Whites Move to Head Off Surge of African Natives

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia —(AP)— White authorities threw up a legal roadblock Thursday to bar from this British territory the Nationalist unrest surging across much of Africa.

Prime Minister Sir Edgar Whitehead declared a state of emergency and outlawed Rhodesian branches of the African National Congress, spearhead of a native movement to break white political control.

Police raiding squads rounded up scores of Congress leaders and other Negroes under a tactical plan drawn up two months ago.

Whitehead announced that police arrested between 250 and 500 persons involved in what he called a vain attempt to undermine the loyalty of the government's African employes. He said he is confident the roundup will be completed soon.

Under the state of emergency, his government can detain anyone for a month. It bans gatherings of more than three persons, sets a curfew and prohibits publication of information about Southern Rhodesia's security forces.

Whitehead said many of the Congress officials are jobless youths with criminal records and bloodshed might result if they continued to carry on a campaign of intimidation. Appealing for the people to go about their business as usual, he said:

"The government believes that, with the removal of those responsible for stirring up strife, the emergency will be very brief."

Two of the prisoners, are James Chikerema, acting president of the Congress in Southern Rhodesia, and George Nyandoro, the general secretary.

Britain called off a projected visit of the Earl of Perth, minister of state in the London Colonial Office, to talk over a future constitution for self-governing territory and its partners in the sprawling Central African Federation, a rich, landlocked member of the British Commonwealth. The earl was to have flown from London Thursday.

Northern Rhodesia and the protectorate of Nyasaland are other components of the federation, made up of eight million Negroes and 257,000 white settlers.

Nyasaland disorders have threatened to develop into a head-on clash between Negroes and whites.

These are part of a series of riots and other incidents that have cast a menacing shadow this week across the French Congo, Belgian Congo, Italian-run Somalia, the Central African Federation and South Africa. Their only apparent link is a restless surge for independence.

A senior Rhodesian official said a strike of Africans employed on the huge Zambesi River hydroelectric project had assumed a definitely political aspect. About 7,000 men are involved. The strike was launched by African laborers for higher wages after a recent accident in which 14 Africans and three white men were killed.

The laborers, paid the equivalent of 4½ cents an hour, asked for 14 cents. They rejected the contracting company's offer of seven cents.

With work on the dam at a standstill, the strikers have stoned buildings and vehicles. Members of the Nyasaland African National Congress were reported directing the operations from a hideout in the bush.

Says Agriculture Department

American Farm Income Is Highest Since 1951

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Agriculture Department reported Thursday the average American farmer made more money last year than in any year since 1951.

The net income per person on farms from all sources rose 10 per cent in 1958 to a record $1,068. This was nine per cent above the previous high of $983 per capita in 1951.

Realized net farm income—the money left over after production expenses are paid—totaled $13,100,000,000 last year, up 21 per cent from 1957.

The department said total net income — which includes changes in inventory at the end of the year—rose 22 per cent to $14,200,000,000.

Larger cattle supplies and increased stocks of wheat and corn on farms at year's end resulted in a substantial increase in farm inventories for the second consecutive year.

Gross farm income in 1958 was up 10 per cent to a record 38 billion dollars, exceeding the peak set in 1951 when the Korean war boom sent prices received by farmers to record heights.

The realized net, however, was somewhat smaller than in 1951 because of higher production costs.

Zwillman Took Only Way Out?

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

Did Abner (Longie) Zwillman hang himself in his 20-room West Orange, N. J., mansion to keep from appearing before the Senate racket probe?

Miamians who heard that he had committed suicide Thursday recalled his many trips here in the late 1940s, believe that is the answer. The Senate group now is going into coin-machine rackets and protection. Zwillman headed a company handling cigaret vending machines.

One of his partners recently was questioned about Zwillman before the Senate group.

Zwillman was a familiar figure around Miami Beach for a time, but Daniel P. Sullivan, operating director of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami, doesn't believe he actually "operated here." His friends included Jack Friedlander, once credited with being the "Mr. Big" of Dade County gambling. Friedlander now has migrated to Havana gambling.

He was also a buddy of Nicky Delmore, who put a lot of his racket money in a big real estate enterprise at Fort Pierce, until The Herald identified him to his new neighbors there. Then he moved out.

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmen in New Jersey the 54-year-old prohibition era figure had been depressed since a Senate Rackets Committee began delving into the coin-machine industry.

Zwillman owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., which handled cigaret machines.

His wife, Mary, whose finishing school background contrasted with Zwillman's early life in Newark's slums, found the body in a basement storage room at their fashionable home.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide. He said Zwillman used a plastic-covered clothesline.

The rope was attached to a beam eight feet from the floor. Zwillman's knees were slightly buckled and his toes almost touched the floor.

Although linked with the rackets by various law enforcement agencies and officials for years, Zwillman served only a single prison sentence — six months for assault and battery in 1928.

Only last week a grand jury indicted several persons in connection with alleged bribing of jurors on the deadlocked panel that tried Zwillman for income tax evasion in 1956. He was accused of evading the payment of $38,911 in income taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Zwillman was particularly unhappy, Steinbach said, about any embarrassment publicity would cause his wife and daughter, Lynn.

Speed Trap Is Denied by Georgians

LUDOWICI, Ga. — (UPI) — Officials of Ludowici and Long County hotly denied Thursday allegations of a Cleveland Auto Club that speed traps, including a quick-changing traffic light, are operated in their areas.

Ludowici City Attorney Ralph L. Dawson, called charges by Harold T. Cantlin, manager of the Cleveland club "untrue."

Long County Sheriff W. M. Jones admitted that "we occasionally do operate speed devices" but added that not many tourists have been arrested in his county on speed charges.

The verbal tiff was touched off when the Cleveland Auto Club announced adoption of a "shun Eastern Georgia" policy because of the increasing number of arrests of Florida-bound motorists in speed traps.

Cantlin said some 12,000 members who ask each year for routings to Florida will be sent via a bypass route. The new route was not announced for fear that deputy sheriffs will learn of it and shift their speed trap activities.

He said members are warned of the "high enforcement area" in the 50-mile section of U. S. Route 301 from Sylvania, Ga., south to the Florida line at Folkston, Ga.

Dulles Talks With Aides On Berlin

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred at Walter Reed Army Hospital for an hour or more Thursday with three top State Department officials on the developing difficulties with Russia over Berlin.

A State Department spokesman said Dulles had a "general discussion" with the officials.

Presumably the discussion covered the virtual breakdown of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Moscow talks with Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the critical Berlin problem

Dulles requested the conference which brought to his hospital room Acting Secretary Christian Herter, Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy and Assistant Secretary Livingston T. Merchant. They are the three department officials most concerned with the Berlin problem.

It was the longest and largest meeting Dulles has participated in since he entered Walter Reed Hospital Feb. 10. He is undergoing x-ray treatments for cancer.

Dulles arranged the conference after the news broke that Macmillan and Khrushchev had come to the end of their talks without any agreement or more hopeful approach toward a solution of the East-West difficulties over Berlin.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

GENE MORI gave a party at Hialeah Park. 'Twas basically a breakfast for turf writers, but he included me in. The town's hummin' these days, with the Flamingo comin' up Saturday and baseball just down the road.

BELL

No place in Miami is so picturesque as Hialeah Park on a sunny morning. Prancing thoroughbreds come onto the track by the dozens, gallop as they tug at the bit, begging the exercise boys to turn them loose. Most of them wind up doing the full speed chore singly. But occasionally you'll see a real hoss race.

Exercise boys don't wear the flaming stable colors you see when the pari-mutuel windows open. But they sing and chatter and have lots more fun than the official jocks. The flamingos usually sit quietly, making a brilliant pink island in the lake. Swans, ducks, occasional wild bird visitors and big coveys of grackles keep the infield alive.

Up in the grandstand at the finish wire sit clockers, make believe clockers and just plain kibitzers. Some of them, I'm told, know every horse in the barns. But I've a hunch they get a bit of workout inventory.

P.S. The breakfast was super—with the biggest strawberries I ever saw.

The great pastime in this glorious bit of confusion called Greater Miami is to compare this season's business with last season. If you don't do it you're not cool, man.

Teachers' Bane

'You Can't Spank Me, So--Boo!'

ALBANY, N.Y. — (AP) — Teachers are subjected to heckling, catcalls and boos — even in an all-girl school — because the pupils are immune from spankings in school, a 16-year-old girl reports.

Susan Stalcup, a junior at Julia Richman High School, in New York City, says that is the situation in her school. Despite objections of some adults, she wants teachers given the right to use corporal punishment.

She testified at a state legislative hearing.

New York state law authorizes teachers to use moderate force in disciplining pupils, but local school boards may restrict that privilege. A New York City regulation bars all corporal punishment. A bill before the Legislature would forbid localities to make such rules.

National Summary

Most of the northeast retained a dry weather pattern today and high pressure over northern Georgia ended the rains temporarily over portions of the southeast. But a low pressure circulation off the Carolina Coast maintained a few patches of rain from South Carolina to the southern Virginia coast. Temperatures: mid 30s under sunny skies over much of New England ranging to the mid 80s in Florida.

Sunny skies stretched from the central Appalachians into the central plains with temperatures warming into the 50s before mid day. But moisture spreading inland from the western Gulf of Mexico contributed rains over much of Texas with quarter inch hail accompanying a thunderstorm over midland Texas. Rain and snow fell over portions of Illinois and southern Michigan with snow over parts of Wisconsin and northern Michigan.

Most of the southwest remained sunny. Rain lingered over Washington state. A cold front across the northern Rockies and trailing westward into Oregon marked the advance of Pacific air spreading a few patches of snow across the Rockies with rain and snow reaching the Dakotas.

Tiny Birds In the Hand

HUMANE SOCIETY MEMBERS hope to persuade parents to refrain from buying chicks and ducks for the children this Easter—and, in fact, to bring about a state law this spring to control such sales.

"It's cruelty," a Fort Lauderdale woman said. "It's like buying a child a 10-cent toy."

What prompted her statement were complaints of West Hollywood residents about a flock of noisy ducks which makes its home on one of the residential lakes there. Ducks which survive to find such homes are the lucky ones, this lady feels. Many of the little fowls die of neglect or manhandling soon after Easter.

The American Humane Society and the State Federation of Humane Societies have been carrying on this campaign for some time. Some cities and states now have laws prohibiting the sale of these chicks and ducks except in lots of 12, or some such number. This protects the legitimate breeder, but discourages individual sales such as take place at Easter . . .

Which Way Will Johns Run?

COUNTY REPUBLICAN LEADERS are convinced that Fort Lauderdale City Commissioner Ed Johns will be a candidate for the County Commission next year. Yet there's been every indication that he will run for the City Commission again this spring.

Will he go into the city election with the intention, if he's elected, of cutting his term short in order to run for the county board? Will he take himself out of the county race now, in order to run in the city, or skip the city race and wait for 1960? . . .

THE UNINCORPORATED AREA lying west of Dania is getting to be a trouble spot for post office and telephone people. People living there have southwest Fort Lauderdale addresses, but are in the Hollywood section of the phone book. One or the other may have to give.

About 500 or 600 families are involved, Postmaster Dale Dunifon says. A few months ago the Post Office attempted to resolve the problem by conducting a poll, to see whether they wanted to be shifted into the Dania postal area. Most people voted against it . . .

Gambling at Fair? Backers Say 'No'

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

HALLANDALE — Despite the fact that an assistant state attorney said he saw a payoff in dimes, backers denied Thursday that there is any gambling at the Industrial and Agricultural Fair.

"If there were gambling we would absolutely put a stop to it," declared S. Lee Crouch, Chamber of Commerce president.

He added: "This carnival is one of the cleanest ever staged in Broward County."

Police Chief Robert Aiken said the fair has been "checked and rechecked and there is no gambling for money."

Mrs. Martin Fink, 741 SW Fifth Ct., Hallandale, said her husband lost $13 trying to win a radio in a point game played with a ball. She called the game crooked, and said she did not complain to police because "they wouldn't do anything about it."

"There are four uniformed men at the fair. They're there to hear complaints. There's nothing I can do if they don't complain," Aiken said.

Assistant State Attorney Quentin V. Long, a Hallandale resident, said he visited the fair and saw a winner receive "four dimes instead of a pack of cigarets" in a 10-cent chance game.

"It could have been just one instance, but I asked Chief Aiken and the Sheriff's Department to investigate," said Long.

Aiken said four plainclothesmen checked out Long's complaint "and saw them playing for cigarets only."

Teenager Dies, 2 Hurt In Crash

HOLLYWOOD — One teenaged boy was killed and two others seriously injured about 10 p.m. Thursday when their car apparently went out of control, left the highway and rolled over in the Hollywood Hills section.

The dead boy was identified as Al Reynolds, 18. He was a passenger in a Jaguar. Injured were Larry Aument, 2515 Sherman St., the driver; and Arthur Ross, 1921 Johnson St. Police said road marks indicated the car had been "hotrodding."

It was Hollywood's first traffic fatality of 1959, and the county's 15th.

Police said the car apparently was traveling at high speed. The accident happened at Longfellow Dr. and Roosevelt St., near Hollywood Hills Elementary school.

Sneak Thief Gets $50

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — About $50 was taken from a gift shop cash register Thursday night as the proprietor's wife was waiting on a room full of customers.

Police were looking for a white male, about 60, five-feet-six inches tall, said Policeman R. J. Szymanski.

There were about eight persons in the shop, at 103 SE Second St., when the sneak theft occurred at about 7 p.m.

Mrs. R. J. Dugan had been near the cash register and noticed a short man standing by it, Szymanski said.

Response Poor To Fund Drive

HOLLYWOOD — West Hollywood Fire Chief Charles Frey reported "slow progress" Thursday in the department's drive for $10,000 to meet operating expenses this year.

"We've only collected about $2,500. The drive will have to be extended," Frey said.

Short Hop From Flickers to Lottery

'The Racket? I Learned It in a Movie'

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Russell Raymond Trilck, 52, is in a peck of trouble — possibly because he went to the wrong movie.

Trilck, a friendly, 240-pound, five-foot-eight man who loves his garden, freely admitted he ran a numbers game in Wayne County, Mich., and said he learned how from watching a depression-time motion picture.

"It was in 1936," said Trilck, who surrendered to police here Wednesday to answer a warrant charging him with bribing Michigan police to leave his lottery operation alone.

"I was working for $4 a day, and only three days a week. Things were tough. One day I saw a movie that explained how numbers worked, and I went into business."

Numbers is similar to bolita, but the odds against a payoff are higher.

Trilck said his numbers game was local and that he was never connected with a national crime syndicate.

He denies that the income from the illegal lottery is as high as most people believe.

Albert A. Goldfarb, assistant Wayne County prosecutor, said the 1947 Kefauver Committee produced evidence that Trilck's earnings from numbers alone were $612,000 one year.

"I only kept three per cent," Trilck said Thursday. He said the rest was paid to employes and "a little graft."

Trilck owns two homes and three lots in Broward County and has an interest in acreage near Lakeland. All but one lot are mortgaged, he said.

His own home is in Lincoln Park, Mich., "a clean town, as clean as Fort Lauderdale and I think Fort Lauderdale is clean."

Clean means no graft.

There is no connection between Yankee numbers and Dixie bolita, he said.

Trilck said the charges against him are an outgrowth of his testimony before a 1957 Grand Jury for which he was promised immunity. The testimony concerned incidents that took place in 1953, he said.

One branch of the law is not honoring the immunity granted by another branch, he said. Trilck said the present warrant against him was issued the day before the Wayne County primary elections. He blames his troubles on politics.

He said it will be up to his attorneys whether he fights extradition to Michigan to answer three counts of bribery and one charge of obstructing justice.

Garbage Truck Backs, Crushes Woman to Death

Horrified Neighbors Helpless

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — A 56-year-old woman was crushed to death Thursday afternoon when a huge garbage truck backed over her.

Investigators said Mrs. John Bloom, 3121 SW 24th Ave., apparently was walking to a neighbor's home.

The accident occurrred at about 4:20 p.m. about 50 yards south of the victim's home.

Being held for investigation of manslaughter was Nathaniel Robinson, 19, of 621 NW Sixth St. He was charged with failing to have a driver's license.

Trooper W. S. Bateman of the Florida Highway Patrol said Robinson told him he forgot to pick up garbage at the Bloom home and was backing slowly toward the residence. He didn't see the woman, he said.

A neighbor, Mrs. Carolyn Scott, 4012 SW 24th Ave., saw the accident from her front yard. Mrs. Scott became hysterical and had to be hospitalized.

Bateman said Mrs. Bloom was walking south on the right side of the road. Five wheels on the right side of the truck (two sets of duals in rear) passed over her body. She was killed instantly.

Mrs. Scott ran to a neighbor's house screaming, "He hit her . . . He hit her."

The Blooms have lived in the area about 10 years. The husband is a real estate salesman.

"A nicer woman you'll never find," cried a neighbor, Mrs. R. C. Thoms. "We can't believe it's true."

"It's a dirty shame," sobbed John Ewing, to whose home Mrs. Bloom was walking.

"She called on us every afternoon. That's where she was going. I know it. She was a lovely woman . . . a good neighbor."

Trooper Bateman said the garbage truck was owned by the Pompano Carting Co. Trooper J. H. Cox assisted with the investigation.

The victim's body was taken to Hollywood Memorial Hospital for an autopsy.

Port Official Is Laid Off

DANIA — Port Commissioner Igor Dart is one member of the Port Authority who can use a raise in pay.

He lost his job with the Thorington Construction Co., which is building the Fort Lauderdale tunnel, Thursday because, he said, he has taken too much time off to attend Port Board meetings.

He was notified he was no longer needed when he reported for work Thursday following Wednesday's Port Board meeting. He was employed as a driller and layout man.

Members of the Port Authority have been criticized for considering seeking a pay raise for themselves.

May Not Be Tried

Freeman Changes Mind About Killing

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—Unpredictable tough guy John Freeman, who has lawmen all over the country howling for his scalp, may never be tried on a manslaughter charge here.

Sheriff J. A. Lloyd said Thursday that Freeman probably will be turned over to authorities in Kansas to be tried on a $19,000 armed robbery rap.

The 40-year-old Freeman agreed Wednesday to plead guilty to the manslaughter charge here. In the presence of harried investigators and reporters, he confessed to the September slaying of ex-convict Buddy Glenn Maynard.

"Now he's changed his mind," said Lloyd. "We put him in a cell with Buzzy Meade (under death sentence for murder) and Meade persuaded him not to plead guilty.

"That Meade's getting to be a real pest.

"If Freeman will plead guilty, we'll go ahead and try him for manslaughter. If not, we'll let Kansas have him. We've already told Kansas to send a warrant."

Lloyd said he understands the maximum sentence for armed robbery in Kansas is life imprisonment. Conviction of manslaughter here is punishable with a maximum sentence of 20 years.

Freeman was picked up in Maryland by the FBI last week and turned over to local authorities. He had just made the FBI's list of 10-most-wanted criminals in the country.

He has claimed that the slaying of Maynard last September was in self-defense. Maynard's body was found, bloody and beaten, near State Rd. 84. Investigators said Freeman and Maynard were criminal partners.

Sheriff Lloyd said he understood that the Kansas charge grew out of armed robbery of a loan company.

"They've got the evidence to convict him out there," he said.

County Solicitor Tom Coker said that from the information he has on Freeman, he thought prosecuting him would be impractical.

"I don't like his attitude," said Coker. "All I know about him is what I've read in the papers. The case hasn't been presented to me yet."

From the moment of his Maryland arrest, Freeman has waged cunning "bargaining sessions" with lawmen in an attempt to secure promises of lighter sentencing in return for a guilty plea.

Private Wells Blamed

Water Warning Issued As Disease Strikes 4

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH—Health Department nurses and sanitation workers went from house to house in the Cypress Creek area Thursday warning residents to boil their drinking water.

The warning followed an outbreak of four cases of infectious hepatitis, a lingering illness which usually results from contaminated drinking water, according to the county health director, Dr. Paul W. Hughes.

Dr. Hughes said families in the area get their drinking water from their own wells. He said some wells apparently had become contaminated from septic tanks.

All persons living in the section were urged to get gamma globulin shots to prevent infection. The shots will be given to persons from the area who are on the welfare rolls at the clinic in the Health Department's Pompano Beach office from 8 a.m. to noon today.

Recovery from the illness sometimes takes several months, Dr. Hughes said.

About 200 persons live in the section. It is bounded by Cypress Creek, the Seaboard Railroad, Airport Rd. and Old Dixie Hwy.

Stop Eating Your Heart To Death, Medics Warn

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Fat Americans were warned again to stop overeating and start exercising.

They were advised to take these steps, along with other "common sense" suggestions, by Dr. Irvine H. Page, director of research at the Cleveland Clinic. He, along with five other eminent scientists in the field of heart disease, presented a national report on "A Decade of Progress Against Cardiovascular Disease."

Dr. Page said that several factors seem to be involved in the formation of arteriosclerosis, the disease that hardens the arteries. In 1956, there were nearly 460,000 dieaths from this disease and related afflictions.

Heredity, elevated blood pressure, exercise, stress, sex, diet and indulgence seem to play some role in the hardening of arteries, Dr. Page said. If your cholesterol level is high, your doctor may recommend a change in dietary habits.

Long Hours Didn't Pay

DETROIT — (AP) — Ferd Clay worked seven days a week.

Mondays through Thursdays he went from door-to-door taking orders for bargain television sets, cameras, appliances and jewelry.

Friday through Sunday he spent filling the orders.

Detectives Alex Wierzbicki and Stanley Viciulius halted the routine. They arrested Clay and he was charged with burglary.

The detectives claimed Clay filled his orders by stealing the goods. They estimated the loot at $30,000 from 115 homes in northern Detroit and suburbs.

They said only about $2,000 in cash had been collected but that records showed Clay had another $8,000 in time payment coming.

The judgment was against Motorist Derek Fitness, whose car injured Miss McLaughlin to the extent, she testified, that she can't smell a rose or frying bacon and all food tastes the same.

Ex-Prime Minister on Lecture Tour of U.S.

Attlee's Wry Wit Leaves 'em Laughing and Glad He Came

By PAUL GAPP
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

VALPARAISO, Ind. — An Englishman with a bald head, a clipped accent and a wry sense of humor left 'em laughing.

Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee also left behind a load of political ideas for Valparaiso University students to debate.

Attlee dropped his quips on the campus while making a speech, eating lunch with local dignitaries and answering question at a press conference.

Sample (when asked how he likes American tea):

"We didn't care when you dumped it in Boston harbor but did you have to dredge it up and serve it back to us?"

That one got a big laugh.

Attlee, who's in the middle of a lecture tour, rattled off answers to questions with a clipped delivery so rapidly and choppily British that some people didn't understand him.

They were too polite to ask him to repeat.

These capsule comments came through loud and clear, however:

On diplomatic recognition of Red China: "If you expect a person to obey the rules of a club, you don't tell him he can't be a member, do you?"

On the Allies' lagging behind Russia in missile development: "If you already have something that can kill one million people, must you have something that can kill two million?"

On British and American methods of choosing political candidates: "We (the English) have no barefoot boys from Wall Street."

On Britain's race riots last fall: "We had a spot of them in a very bad part of London. It has passed over."

The students' reaction, was, as they say, mixed.

"He looks like my grandfather," said Mildred Anderson, 20, of Hyattsville, Md. "He's quite a showman, though, the way he used anecdotes and things."

"I think he's very human and warm," said Mary Ruprecht, 18, of Valparaiso. "He made me feel more secure about the strength of our government."

Trail of Theft Ring Leads to Prison

Guard Using Convict's Skill on Safes?

OCALA —(UPI)— A prison guard was accused Thursday of supplying his brother and another man with a convict to pull off safe-cracking jobs.

The trail of the safecracking ring led the investigators inside the walls of a new state prison at nearby Lowell.

Prison Supt. Harvey West said four men were picked up just outside the confines of the prison before dawn after he and Highway Patrol troopers stalked them in an unmarked car.

Arrested and charged with breaking and entering were the guard, Samuel Altman, 25, his brother, George, about 28, both of Oxford in Sumter County; and Clement A. Barnes, 43, of nearby Wildwood.

A prisoner, whose name was withheld, was charged with escape.

Conferring with West in the matter late Thursday were State Atty. Gordon Oldham of Leesburg and Asst. State Atty. James Kynes Jr., Ocala.

West said he had suspected the ring, which allegedly netted several thousand dollars in a series of recent safe breaks, originated in his prison after a tip from a prisoner.

After checking for more evidence, he called in the Highway Patrol.

The prison official parked in the unmarked car just outside the prison gates and waited until he saw Altman, who was hired as a guard last month, release a prisoner.

Thinking West's car was the one he was to meet, the prisoner virtually jumped into the arms of the law.

Moments later, George Altman and Barnes drove up in a 1959-model car and were surrounded by patrolmen.

Police Chief K. C. Alverez, who has custody of the men in his jail, said the men had planned two safe jobs at Gainesville in Alachua County.

Safe-cracking tools were found in George Altman's car and at a spot in some woods near Ocala.

Alverez said two safes had been cracked here, one at Inverness and other attempts were made throughout the area.

He said all the safes were robbed the same way — by "peeling" off the tops with crow-bars.

The prison was just recently opened across the road from the state women's prison and the safe-cracking jobs broke out after prisoners were transferred here from Raiford, West said.

$7 Milk Price Extended

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — Farmers will continue to receive $7 for each 100 pounds of class 1 milk delivered to distributors in southeast Florida through June 1960, the milk marketing administrator's office announced Thursday.

The same price has prevailed since the marketing order became effective in September 1957. Class I milk is fluid whole milk.

The milk marketing order established for southeast Florida provided that the class I price could be determined on the basis of a formula after first 18 months. The formula would take into account a producer's costs for feed and other factors.

However, Howard Eisaman, administrator for the southeast Florida area, said more time is needed for study until a public hearing prior to June 1960...

The Independent Dairy Farmers Association, whose members produce about 95 per cent of the milk for this area, has approved a continuance of the price and other features of the order.

In order for a producer to participate in the milk marketing order, he must supply milk to a plant serving the area at least eight days a month. Some producers in other states send their milk into southeast Florida when they have an excess.

The order was issued by Clarence L. Miller, assistant secretary of agriculture for marketing. The milk marketing order was issued to regulate the sale of milk in southeast Florida in July 1957.

Charter Outline Unveiled

Herald Bureau

WEST HOLLYWOOD — The Chamber of Commerce incorporation committee Thursday night unveiled a charter outline for the proposed city of West Hollywood before some 275 residents in the McArthur High School Auditorium.

Purpose of the session, moderated by West Hollywood insurance man Chan Cunningham, was to hear ojections and suggestions before a final charter is presented to the legislature. On hand were State Reps. A. J. Ryan and Emerson Allsworth.

The legislators and chamber committee answered questions from the audience, ranging from zoning to "how soon can we get rid of the cows after incorporation?"

The charter outline, patterned after Hollywood, suggested a city manager-commission government. The mayor would serve a two-year term, the commissioners four years.

Recommended salaries were $200 a month for commissioners and $250 for the mayor. The officials would serve the first two years without pay.

The city would operate on a balance budget of $273,500. The commission could not impose ad valorem taxes until 1962, at which time it could levy up to three mills without referendum.

Boundaries of the proposed city are Stirling Rd., North, Dade-Broward line, South Douglas Rd., West and unincorporated areas of 56th Ave. East.

Rep. Ryan told the audience that the incorporation committee recommends a charter referendum. If the measure passes, city officials would be elected and take office when West Hollywood official becomes a city.

Wilfred O. Cadotte, chamber manager, said the Thursday night hearing will be followed by distribution of 10,000 incorporation brochures to residents.

King and Queen of Fair Return to World of Reality

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

HALLANDALE — Two tots who soared to fame and fortune Wednesday night were back to the rigors of everyday childhood Thursday.

But King Randy and Queen Deborah weren't complaining.

Each was in possession of a title, a gold-plated cardboard crown, a handsome trophy and a $100 U.S. savings bond.

The youngsters won the awards Wednesday night when they were crowned king and queen of the Hallandale Industrial and Agricultural Fair.

Randy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Giunto, 108 SW Third Ave., is all of 15 months old.

His queen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Chiappa, 716 SW First St., has already passed her fifth birthday.

Taking his role seriously, Randy slept late and was still in bed when a Herald photographer visited him at noon Thursday.

But Deborah was way ahead of the lensman.

She already had seen Captain Kangaroo and had made the rounds of her neighborhood to herald her real title and show off her trophy.

"I've never seen her so happy," Deborah's mother said. "She was really surprised . . . and thrilled."

Randy took his victory in stride and showed more interest in the photographer's camera.

But he's in for another surprise — his first haircut.

"We've planned to cut it for some time, but decided to wait until after the contest," his mother said.

"Our little 'girl' should be a little boy in a few days."

Hopes Dim For College

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — Unless the Broward County School Board changes its mind by next Wednesday, a proposed junior college will not open here until September of 1960.

That opening date has won approval by a 3-2 vote of the board. The vote was taken to let a legislative committee know how to proceed in getting support of a bill to provide construction and operating funds for the college.

The board is expected to vote officially on the matter at its regular meeting next Wednesday.

School Supt. Raymond Maxwell Thursday saw some hope for an earlier opening.

"If the people make a strong enough demand for a college this September, they still might get it," he said.

Tax Claim Is Refuted

POMPANO BEACH — A claim by the Pompano Beach Taxpayers Association that the "beach area" of the city pays 73 per cent of the taxes, was refuted by William Gunn, assistant city manager.

Gunn said the designation beach area was erroneous, and that more correctly, the taxpayers group was referring to the area of Pompano contained in tax district two—all east of NE 13th Ave.

"It's true that approximately 73 per cent of the city's taxes come from this area," Gunn explained, "but it is also true that same area contains over 50 per cent of the total land area in the city and probably 60 per cent of the total population."

The taxpayers group had made the claim in a declaration of opposition to a two-mill tax levy to finance a sanitary sewer program.

Johns and Russell File to Keep Posts

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE—Mayor John V. Russell Thursday filed for reelection to the City Commission, warning that the next two years pose two basic problems, possibly costly to solve.

Sewers must be constructed for reasons of health, he said, and new arteries created to carry traffic.

Also filing Thursday was Commissioner Edward H. Johns who said he would "continue working for the best kind of government . . . curbing wasteful spending."

Russell said he wished to continue participating in the future of Fort Lauderdale "for I have found that it is a very rewarding task." He promised an active campaign.

Johns' and Russell's announcements bring the field of candidates to four. Previously, Robert Serge, a contractor and apartment owner, and Julian M. Goodwin Jr., a deputy sheriff and former city policeman, announced their candidacies.

Governor: Less Talk Of Mixing

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday called for less public talk about the emotion-packed integration problem, but two key legislators immediately took sharp issue with him on the point.

House Speaker-Designate Thomas D. Beasley said "the time has come for restraint in urging integration" and that he for one proposed to keep on speaking out on the subject.

And Sen. W. Randolph Hodges of Cedar Key said people of the South should not talk recklessly, but "should talk loud enough of their disapproval of integration so they finally will be heard in Washington."

Collins, following his own advice, declined comment on the legislative manifesto pledging a last-ditch fight to save segregated schools and states rights. He also was mum on talk by key North Florida senators that they would vote to close public schools rather than submit to integration.

"I have the feeling that this whole subject is so fraught with emotion and so subject to unsound interpretations, and it is so likely that any statement would be received in a different light than it was intended, that I think the time has come for the exercise of considerable restraint," he said.

"I think that applies to legislators. I think it applies to candidates. I think it applies to newspapers. And I think it applies to governors. So I think I will start out by saying that I don't feel I should make a comment on that proposition. I think the people can understand it for what it is."

On the subject of state finances Collins painted a rainbow across Florida's stormy financial skies.

But two other state leaders threw up black new rain clouds.

"I don't think it's a time for pessimism. It's a time for optimism and confidence," Collins said.

Thieves Pass Over Big Loot

Herald Bureau

HOLLYWOOD — Two hotel employes took $60 from a woman's purse last weekend and then discarded it, detectives reported Thursday.

Two hundred dollars was hidden in a secret compartment of the pocketbook, the victim told police.

Booked at City Jail on petty larceny charges were John William Deis, 20, of 6 SE 15th St., Dania, a doorman at Hollywood Beach hotel; and Donald Monas, 32, of 4473 SW 50th St., Fort Lauderdale, a bellhop.

The victim, Mrs. Jean Foster, 47, of Toronto, Canada, didn't get the rest of her money back, either, police said.

Deis and Monas met the widow at a bar and afterward took her to a restaurant. On the way she missed her purse, police said.

Detective F. G. Rohloff said Monas admitted taking the purse when it fell from the woman's coat pocket in their rented car. He later threw it off a U.S. 1 bridge in North Miami.

Detectives found indentification cards on a bank of Arch Creek, but no purse.

Someone had found the purse — and its secret compartment, they believe.

Balmy February Packing 'Em In on Beach

Airlines Hotels, Rushed

Month May Be The Hottest Yet

By GENE MILLER
And JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writers

You can't rent or beg a room at some of Miami Beach's top hotels.

You'd better eat early or very late if you want to avoid a long line at most eating places.

Rent a car? It's almost impossible now.

South Florida's do-or-die season is finally paying off.

Only a year ago goosebumped South Florida hotelmen were crying frozen tears.

But if this February stays warm just two more days, the month will go down as the warmest on record.

Specifically:

	1959	1958
Average Temp.	74.5	60

And with the sun, Miami Beach's fears of a 1958-like bankruptcy rash have bleached.

Hotel business is up strong, airlines are hauling in more customers, and the car rental gang is going great.

Not everyone, of course, has banished all thoughts of the poorhouse forever. But the key indicators show the 1959 season is generally far ahead of 1958 and within shouting distance of the lush 1957 days.

One clothier came up with a neat left-handed comment.

"More people are here than ever before. But the weather's too nice for shopping."

A Herald reporter telephoned 16 hotels and motels and asked for accommodations for two for Saturday through Tuesday.

Four — the Eden Roc, Fontainebleau, Diplomat and Deauville — politely said no soap, we're full.

The Americana, Carillon, Montmarte, Delano, Driftwood, Golden Gate, Dunes, Castaways, Thunderbird, Tangiers, Saxony and the Delano said they could oblige.

"The pressure is off temporarily," said Delano Owner John Goldberg. "We didn't have a room to sell last week and we probably won't again next week.

"The last couple of days in the month always have a psychological effect. People go home and new people come in."

But the thing to remember is that occupancy is running 70, 80 and 90 per cent — at top prices.

The Carillon, for example, is renting out its space at $33 a head a day.

Up-to-the-week figures from some airlines show this February has already flown passed its well-cooled counterpart last year.

Reported Delta: In-bound passengers in February, 1958, 11,832. In-bound this year with four days uncounted, 12,145.

Reported Pan American: February, 1958, 24,988. Twenty days this February showed 20,000.

National said its in-bound load was up 12 per cent.

Eastern estimates business is up "10 per cent or so" this month and figures to boost its 180 in-and-out flights a day to 200 this March.

The car renters came up with the most glowing words.

Examples:

Olin's: "We've had nothing available for two weeks. We are 53 per cent over last year."

Crouch: "Nothing since last Saturday. We are accepting only on a pot-luck basis."

Hertz: "Nothing whatsoever on a day-to-day basis for the last two weeks."

Tolls on the Sunshine State Parkway were $392,768 in January from $364,436 a year ago. Florida Turnpike Authority Chairman Thomas B. Manuel said, "We're doing even better in February."

While visitors played, a record number of Dade Countians were working the first month of this year. Some 302,000 were on the employment rolls compared with 297,650 last year and 289,250 in 1957. There were 23,000 unemployed this year compared with 16,900 in 1958 and 11,700 in 1957.

At the Beach, any skilled hotel worker can get a job, one employment agency reported. Unemployment among other levels of the beach economy is "practically nil," according to Joe Staton, partner in Miami Beach Employment Service.

Most of the Caribbean islands were in the same boat.

Former Legislator Is Convicted on Bribery Charges

BARTOW —(AP)— A criminal court jury Thursday night convicted former state legislator E. B. (Shorty) Jones of attempting to bribe Sheriff Hagan Parrish to permit a bolita syndicate to operate in Polk County.

The six-man jury reached its verdict after deliberating one hour and 20 minutes.

The stocky, wavy haired defendant wept and embraced his wife when the verdict was announced. His 13-year-old son broke into uncontrollable sobs and had to be helped from the court room.

Jones, after receiving the verdict, said he had nothing to say.

Defense Attorney Ellis Rubin asked for a poll of the jury. This was done and the verdict was affirmed.

Rubin then served notice he would seek a new trial. Judge Roy Amidon gave the attorney until March 9 to file formal papers. He set March 16 for a hearing on the motion. The judge deferred sentencing.

The jury received the case after three days of testimony. It deliberated 20 minutes, then returned to the courtroom and asked that portions of the testimony be read from the record.

This testimony concerned statements by Attorney J. Hardin Petersen Jr., about a meeting Jones had with Parrish and Petersen in Bartow, March 22, 1957.

Ths six jurors then returned to continue deliberating. They reached their verdict an hour later.

The defendant could receive up to five years in prison.

Jones denied from the witness stand that he offered the sheriff a bribe. The defendant, only state witness called in the case, said Parrish lied.

"The sheriff is mistaken," Jones testified. "He is not telling the truth, sir."

Parrish, star witness for the prosecution, testified Tuesday that Jones approached him several times in 1956 and 1957 and offered him $5,000 cash plus 10 per cent of the monthly bolita gross.

The sheriff said the offer first was made at a meeting in Winter Haven on Dec. 15, 1956. He said Jones offered him $3,000 at that time and $2,000 more "when the deal was cemented."

The defendant testified he once worked for Cecil Webb, wealthy Tampa miller and former head of the State Road Board. He said he knew of no connection between Webb and a lottery syndicate.

"Webb is one of the most honest men in Florida," Jones said. "He couldn't have had any interest in bolita."

Parrish and Petersen of Lakeland testified that Jones told them Webb was one of the "big men" behind the numbers racket.

Webb, reached at Thomasville, Ga., called the allegations ridiculous.

Bitter Chill Ends Talks In Russia

KIEV, U.S.S.R. — (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wound up their talks Thursday in an atmosphere of bitter chill. The British visitor warned Khrushchev of grave danger if anyone interferes with the Western powers' rights in Berlin.

"But Khrushchev is not budging an inch," a British spokesman said, "and Macmillan is not budging an inch, either. Make of that what you will."

Before flying here for a visit to the Ukraine, Macmillan told Khrushchev that interference without some alternative arrangement "would lead to a dangerous situation," the spokesman said.

Such alternative arrangements supposedly would meet the Soviet threat to turn over to East Germany the control of Allied lifelines to isolated Berlin. These would have to come through negotiations, in Macmillan's view.

But Khrushchev in his speech to a political rally in the Kremlin Tuesday heaped ridicule on the Western plan for negotiations at the foreign ministers' level. In that speech Khrushchev warned that any violations of East Germany's borders in a dispute over Berlin would be considered an act of aggression.

Despite the tenor of Khrushchev's remarks, the spokesman insisted in reply to a reporter's question that Macmillan does not believe the Soviet premier has shut the door on a foreign ministers' meeting.

"He left the door open," the spokesman said. "It was a small door, but the light is going through."

But the Kremlin speech, coming at the height of the British visit, so stung Macmillan that he thought of breaking off further talks and returning to London, British sources reported.

"But Mr. Macmillan came here to have talks with the Soviet leaders and to see the country," a British official said. "He had the talks and he decided he might as well see the country."

There will be a final meeting with Khrushchev Monday after Macmillan returns from visits to Kiev and Leningrad. But the British spokesman said there is nothing left to talk about except the wording of a final communique.

It had been expected that the Kiev trip would provide another opportunity for talks between the two leaders. But Khrushchev cancelled his plans to accompany Macmillan at the last moment and stayed in Moscow. There he received a delegation from Iraq.

Khrushchev told Macmillan at the meeting Thursday morning that "he had a tooth which required attention and he would have to give up the trip," the spokesman said.

The spokesman insisted that this was no breach of diplomatic courtesy, since Khrushchev had not originally planned to accompany Macmillan. But diplomats still wondered whether Khrushchev's toothache was real or diplomatic.

First Units Up Outside West Palm

Commissioners Will Tour Giant Home Development

More Palm Beach News, 11C, 1D

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Members of the City Commission here Thursday will get a first-hand glimpse of the giant Westward Expansion development west of the city they launched two years ago.

As guests of Perini Westward Developers who are turning several thousand acres into a modern city, they will tour the multimillion-dollar project by car and possibly air, will be guests at a luncheon and will attend a meeting with the contractors.

Expansion is taking place in over 7,0000 acres of onetime "watershed" land acquired by the city when it purchased the former privately owned West Palm Beach Water Co.

The first housing units already have been constructed. An area has been set aside to provide homes for Negro residents of the city and ease congestion in the sections in which they now reside.

But Westward expansion also will be a large city of homes, from medium to the best, embracing churches, schools, municipal facilities, parks, playgrounds, a golf course and a variety of other accommodations.

Louis Perini, one of the developers, is the owner of the Milwaukee Braves and has widespread construction interests throughout this country and Canada.

He was one of a number of New England developers and builders who successfully bid on the city's project for building a new city. In recent months Perini has taken a leading role in the project.

Meanwhile, two major housing developments were announced on the central east coast in Brevard County, destined to give that missile base area at least 46,000 new homes.

The Mackle Co., of Miami said it has purchased 48,000 acres three miles south of Melbourne for about $18,250,000. A 30,000-home community, called Port Malabar, will be constructed on the tract between Indian River and St. Johns River.

Another 16,000 homes will be developed on 4,000 acres north of Eau Gallie by Magnuson Properties of Miami. The community, in the Lake Washington area, will be called Palm Shores.

Carnation Vs. Rose

Senate's Debaters Battle Over Flowers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate debated Thursday whether the carnation or the rose should be designated as the national flower.

Sen. Gordon Allott (R., Colo.) said that while the rose is beautiful and looks good in a vase, the carnation can be worn by men because of "its ruggedness, its fertility, its virility, its courage."

Sen. Keneth B. Keating (R., N.Y.), a champion of the rose, retorted that "any flower looks better on a woman than in any other surroundings."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican floor leader, put in a calming word: "English history records the war of the roses between the House of York and the House of Lancaster. I hope, after this long interlude, the war of the roses will not be resumed."

American Sailors Investigate Break In Atlantic Cable

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The U.S. Navy put a boarding party on a Russian fishing trawler in the North Atlantic Thursday to find out if the vessel was responsible for damage to five U.S. transatlantic cables.

Acting under an 1884 treaty to which czarist Russia was a party, sailors from the destroyer escort Roy O. Hale boarded the Soviet ship Novorossisk which was lying about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland.

Early Thursday night the Defense Department announced that the boarding party had returned to the American vessel, which then headed for Argentia, Newfoundland. The Soviet ship started traveling on a northerly course at 10 knots.

The Defense Department said it had not yet received a detailed report from the Hale, commanded by Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. Korte.

The unusual action was ordered after the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Western Union reported that breaks had occurred in five cables along the course in which the Soviet ship has been operating.

All the breaks were within a 50-mile area at the edge of the continental shelf, about 195 miles east of Newfoundland, in about 1,000 feet of water, the companies said.

The department said the first report of damage to the cables was received last Saturday. By Wednesday four other reports had been received of additional cables being damaged or put out of service.

Offhand, there appeared to be no military advantage that would result from wilful breaking of the cables in peacetime. They carry commercial messages for the large part.

There was no report from any Soviet source or on Moscow Radio late Thursday night on the boarding of the trawler.

This boarding conceivable could stir up serious new trouble with Russia.

Experts said the most frequent cause of damage to cables in the area is from the boards used by trawlers to keep their nets open as they are dragged along the bottom to scoop up fish.

The Defense Department did not say who actually ordered the boarding, taken under a treaty known as "the convention for the protection of submarine cables of 1884."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower was advised before the official announcement that a warship had been sent to the area. But he said the President did not give the boarding order and had no further information.

A spokesman for the State Department said only that the department was fully informed and approved the boarding.

The Defense Department said the 1884 treaty "authorizes examination by naval ships of official documents of other ships suspected of damaging and interfering with cables under the high seas."

Under the treaty, any action against the Russian ship would be up to the Soviet Union after it has received the U.S. Navy's report.

Cuba Asks Extradition Of Eight

HAVANA — (AP) — Cuba formally asked the Dominican Republic Thursday to arrest eight high officials of the ousted Fulgencio Batista regime now in exile in that Caribbean country.

Cuba demanded their extradition on charges of robbery and misuse of public funds.

Cuba has already requested — thus far in vain — the extradition of Batista, who also is in exile in the Dominican Republic.

A note from Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte to Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican ambassador to Cuba, said the fully documented charges to supplement the request would be forthcoming in 60 days, as required under an extradition agreement between the two countries.

Ten ex-Batista soldiers were excuted Thursday, bringing to 343 the unofficial total shot by revolutionary firing squads after conviction on war crimes charges.

They were executed at Matanzas, Holguin and Pinar del Rio.

Medical History of a Child Ignored by Parents

Life Too Painful, Boy Became a Machine

CHICAGO — (AP) — Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed at night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran through the day and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "bam." The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancied machinery idle or broken down:

"For long periods of time . . . he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation . . . We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his "calamity could befall a child in any time and culture but our own."

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents. He gave this account:

The parents didn't mistreat Joey but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or non-eating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was nine years old. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Joey reverted to a partially human stage — but as an infant. He made drawings showing himself inside an auto with a group he named the Carr family. He was still inclosed, but was with others and could move around. Still later he pictured himself driving the car.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Whites Move to Head Off Surge of African Natives

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia —(AP)— White authorities threw up a legal roadblock Thursday to bar from this British territory the Nationalist unrest surging across much of Africa.

Prime Minister Sir Edgar Whitehead declared a state of emergency and outlawed Rhodesian branches of the African National Congress, spearhead of a native movement to break white political control.

Police raiding squads rounded up scores of Congress leaders and other Negroes under a tactical plan drawn up two months ago.

Whitehead announced that police arrested between 250 and 500 persons involved in what he called a vain attempt to undermine the loyalty of the government's African employes. He said he is confident the roundup will be completed soon.

Under the state of emergency, his government can detain anyone for a month. It bans gatherings of more than three persons, sets a curfew and prohibits publication of information about Southern Rhodesia's security forces.

Whitehead said many of the Congress officials are jobless youths with criminal records and bloodshed might result if they continued to carry on a campaign of intimidation. Appealing for the people to go about their business as usual, he said:

"The government believes that, with the removal of those responsible for stirring up strife, the emergency will be very brief."

Two of the prisoners, are James Chikerema, acting president of the Congress in Southern Rhodesia, and George Nyandoro, the general secretary.

Britain called off a projected visit of the Earl of Perth, minister of state in the London Colonial Office, to talk over a future constitution for self-governing territory and its partners in the sprawling Central African Federation, a rich, landlocked member of the British Commonwealth. The earl was to have flown from London Thursday.

Northern Rhodesia and the protectorate of Nyasaland are other components of the federation, made up of eight million Negroes and 257,000 white settlers.

Nyasaland disorders have threatened to develop into a head-on clash between Negroes and whites.

These are part of a series of riots and other incidents that have cast a menacing shadow this week across the French Congo, Belgian Congo, Italian-run Somalia, the Central African Federation and South Africa. Their only apparent link is a restless surge for independence.

A senior Rhodesian official said a strike of Africans employed on the huge Zambesi River hydroelectric project had assumed a definitely political aspect. About 7,000 men are involved. The strike was launched by African laborers for higher wages after a recent accident in which 14 Africans and three white men were killed.

The laborers, paid the equivalent of 4½ cents an hour, asked for 14 cents. They rejected the contracting company's offer of seven cents.

With work on the dam at a standstill, the strikers have stoned buildings and vehicles. Members of the Nyasaland African National Congress were reported directing the operations from a hideout in the bush.

Says Agriculture Department

American Farm Income Is Highest Since 1951

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Agriculture Department reported Thursday the average American farmer made more money last year than in any year since 1951.

The net income per person on farms from all sources rose 10 per cent in 1958 to a record $1,068. This was nine per cent above the previous high of $983 per capita in 1951.

Realized net farm income—the money left over after production expenses are paid—totaled $13,100,000,000 last year, up 21 per cent from 1957.

The department said total net income — which includes changes in inventory at the end of the year—rose 22 per cent to $14,200,000,000.

Larger cattle supplies and increased stocks of wheat and corn on farms at year's end resulted in a substantial increase in farm inventories for the second consecutive year.

Gross farm income in 1958 was up 10 per cent to a record 38 billion dollars, exceeding the peak set in 1951 when the Korean war boom sent prices received by farmers to record heights.

The realized net, however, was somewhat smaller than in 1951 because of higher production costs.

Zwillman Took Only Way Out?

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

Did Abner (Longie) Zwillman hang himself in his 20-room West Orange, N. J., mansion to keep from appearing before the Senate racket probe?

Miamians who heard that he had committed suicide Thursday recalled his many trips here in the late 1940s, believe that is the answer. The Senate group now is going into coin-machine rackets and protection. Zwillman headed a company handling cigaret vending machines.

One of his partners recently was questioned about Zwillman before the Senate group.

Zwillman was a familiar figure around Miami Beach for a time, but Daniel P. Sullivan, operating director of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami, doesn't believe he actually "operated here." His friends included Jack Friedlander, once credited with being the "Mr. Big" of Dade County gambling. Friedlander now has migrated to Havana gambling.

He was also a buddy of Nicky Delmore, who put a lot of his racket money in a big real estate enterprise at Fort Pierce, until The Herald identified him to his new neighbors there. Then he moved out.

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmen in New Jersey the 54-year-old prohibition era figure had been depressed since a Senate Rackets Committee began delving into the coin-machine industry.

Zwillman owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., which handled cigaret machines.

His wife, Mary, whose finishing school background contrasted with Zwillman's early life in Newark's slums, found the body in a basement storage room at their fashionable home.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide. He said Zwillman used a plastic-covered clothesline.

The rope was attached to a beam eight feet from the floor. Zwillman's knees were slightly buckled and his toes almost touched the floor.

Although linked with the rackets by various law enforcement agencies and officials for years, Zwillman served only a single prison sentence — six months for assault and battery in 1928.

Only last week a grand jury indicted several persons in connection with alleged bribing of jurors on the deadlocked panel that tried Zwillman for income tax evasion in 1956. He was accused of evading the payment of $38,911 in income taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Zwillman was particularly unhappy, Steinbach said, about any embarrassment publicity would cause his wife and daughter, Lynn.

Speed Trap Is Denied by Georgians

LUDOWICI, Ga. — (UPI) — Officials of Ludowici and Long County hotly denied Thursday allegations of a Cleveland Auto Club that speed traps, including a quick-changing traffic light, are operated in their areas.

Ludowici City Attorney Ralph L. Dawson, called charges by Harold T. Cantlin, manager of the Cleveland club "untrue."

Long County Sheriff W. M. Jones admitted that "we occasionally do operate speed devices" but added that not many tourists have been arrested in his county on speed charges.

The verbal tiff was touched off when the Cleveland Auto Club announced adoption of a "shun Eastern Georgia" policy because of the increasing number of arrests of Florida-bound motorists in speed traps.

Cantlin said some 12,000 members who ask each year for routings to Florida will be sent via a bypass route. The new route was not announced for fear that deputy sheriffs will learn of it and shift their speed trap activities.

He said members are warned of the "high enforcement area" in the 50-mile section of U. S. Route 301 from Sylvania, Ga., south to the Florida line at Folkston, Ga.

Dulles Talks With Aides On Berlin

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred at Walter Reed Army Hospital for an hour or more Thursday with three top State Department officials on the developing difficulties with Russia over Berlin.

A State Department spokesman said Dulles had a "general discussion" with the officials.

Presumably the discussion covered the virtual breakdown of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Moscow talks with Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the critical Berlin problem

Dulles requested the conference which brought to his hospital room Acting Secretary Christian Herter, Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy and Assistant Secretary Livingston T. Merchant. They are the three department officials most concerned with the Berlin problem.

It was the longest and largest meeting Dulles has participated in since he entered Walter Reed Hospital Feb. 10. He is undergoing x-ray treatments for cancer.

Dulles arranged the conference after the news broke that Macmillan and Khrushchev had come to the end of their talks without any agreement or more hopeful approach toward a solution of the East-West difficulties over Berlin.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

GENE MORI gave a party at Hialeah Park. 'Twas basically a breakfast for turf writers, but he included me in. The town's hummin' these days, with the Flamingo comin' up Saturday and baseball just down the road.

BELL

No place in Miami is so picturesque as Hialeah Park on a sunny morning. Prancing thoroughbreds come onto the track by the dozens, gallop as they tug at the bit, begging the exercise boys to turn them loose. Most of them wind up doing the full speed chore singly. But occasionally you'll see a real hoss race.

Exercise boys don't wear the flaming stable colors you see when the pari-mutuel windows open. But they sing and chatter and have lots more fun than the official jocks. The flamingos usually sit quietly, making a brilliant pink island in the lake. Swans, ducks, occasional wild bird visitors and big coveys of grackles keep the infield alive.

Up in the grandstand at the finish wire sit clockers, make believe clockers and just plain kibitzers. Some of of them, I'm told, know every horse in the barns. But I've a hunch they get a bit of workout inventory.

P.S. The breakfast was super—with the biggest strawberries I ever saw.

Teachers' Bane

'You Can't Spank Me, So--Boo!'

ALBANY, N.Y. — (AP) — Teachers are subjected to heckling, catcalls and boos — even in an all-girl school — because the pupils are immune from spankings in school, a 16-year-old girl reports.

Susan Stalcup, a junior at Julia Richman High School, in New York City, says that is the situation in her school. Despite objections of some adults, she wants teachers given the right to use corporal punishment.

She testified at a state legislative hearing.

New York state law authorizes teachers to use moderate force in disciplining pupils, but local school boards may restrict that privilege. A New York City regulation bars all corporal punishment. A bill before the Legislature would forbid localities to make such rules.

Rain and snow fell over portions of Illinois and southern Michigan with snow over parts of Wisconsin and northern Michigan.

Most of the southwest remained sunny. Rain lingered over Washington state. A cold front across the northern Rockies and trailing westward into Oregon marked the advance of Pacific air spreading a few patches of snow across the Rockies with rain and snow reaching the Dakotas.

Roads Program Outlined

20-Year Plan Has 15 Projects

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — At least 15 projects are proposed for Southern Palm Beach County in the State Road Department's 20-year road plan.

The proposed interstate highway is the backbone of the major thoroughfare system in Palm Beach County's coastal area. It is expected to carry the heaviest traffic volumes and many of the road projects proposed revolve around the interstate system.

SRD planners expect Lantana Rd. to handle most of Lantana's interstate traffic. It is designated as an arterial route and will have an interchange for the interstate highway.

Under the 20-year program, it is proposed that Lantana Rd. be four-laned from U.S. 1 to military Tr. From Military Tr. west to State Rd. 7, only a two-lane facility is anticipated.

Other projects in the southern end of the county include:

HYPOLUXO RD. — This is also tabbed as an arterial route and interstate feeder. It will have an interchange and will be four-laned from the interstate route to U.S. 1. Westward only two lanes.

MINOR RD. — The plan calls for a two-lane road between Military Tr. and U.S. 1 with a grade separation at the interstate.

NW 17TH ST. in Boynton Beach — An east-west street serving the area of Boynton Beach north of Boynton Beach Canal, it would be four-laned between U.S. 1 and Congress Rd.

BOYNTON WEST RD. — This would be another east-west arterial serving downtown Boynton Beach and areas to the west. A split interchange is proposed in this area.

GOLF RD. — Proposed as a two-lane feeder route between Seacrest Blvd. and Military Tr. with a grade separation at the interstate.

GULFSTREAM BLVD. — A four-lane arterial with interchange to serve southern area of Boynton and northern area of Delray Beach. Will run between U.S. 1 and Military Tr.

LAKE IDA RD. — A two-lane collector route between Military Tr. and U.S. 1 with a partial interchange to serve interstate traffic between Delray Beach and areas to the north.

DELRAY WEST RD. — Four lane arterial between A1A and Sunshine State Parkway.

GERMANTOWN RD. — Reccommended as arterial between U.S. 1 and Military Tr.

CLINT MOORE RD. — Proposed as a two-lane east-west feeder between U.S. 1 and State Rd. 7 with a grade separation at the interstate.

NW 51ST ST. in Boca Raton — Recommended as a feeder route between Military Tr. and State Rd. A1A with interchange to serve northern area of Boca Raton where traffic demand will warrant four lanes.

BOCA RATON RD. — Also an arterial between U.S. 1 and State Rd. 7 with an interchange to serve the new proposed state university.

PALMETTO PARK RD. — An east-west arterial serving Boca area. Four lanes between interstate route and A1A.

Hearing Set On SRD Road Plan

Herald Bureau

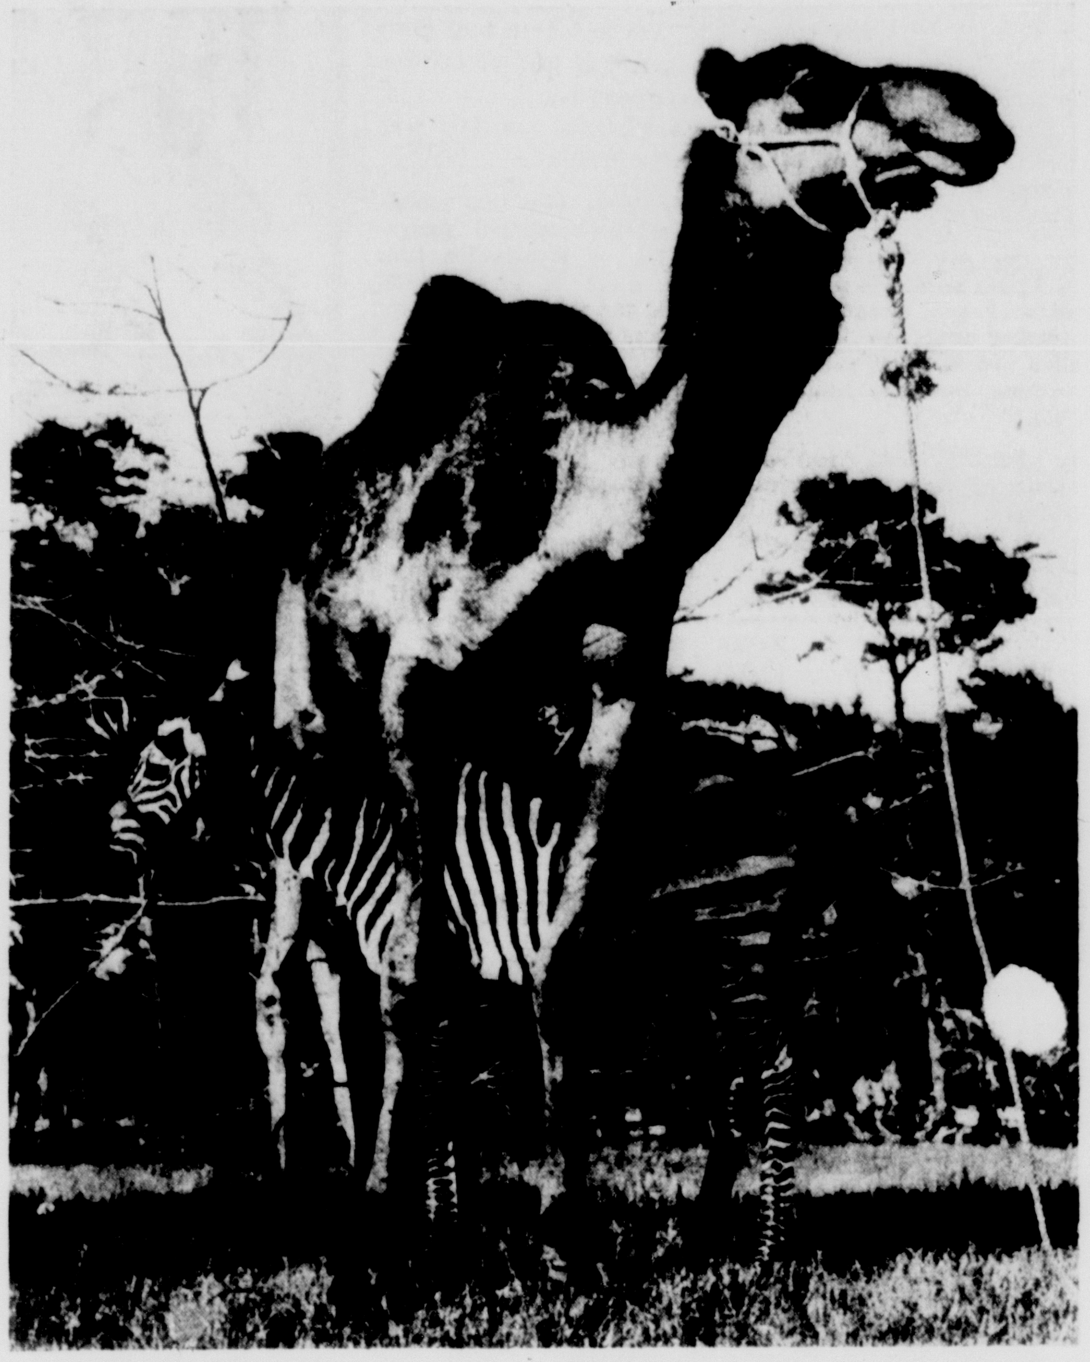
WEST PALM BEACH — Residents of Palm Beach County today will have an opportunity to voice their views on a 20-year program for development of both primary and secondary roads.

Plans for the program were drafted by the state road department in cooperation with the County Commission over a period of more than two years. Costs of the survey were divided between the agencies.

As a prelude to the public hearing which will begin in the County Agriculture Bldg. on Military Tr. at 10:30 a.m., details of the program have been illustrated since Wednesday in a series of maps.

Of primary interest is an outline of a proposal to extend State Rd. 9, the so-called "super duper" limited access highway, through Palm Beach County to tie in with the turnpike near Jupiter.

The maps have indicated how the primary and secondary road system would be outlined east of the turnpike, in the coastal area and also proposals for the highway network deeper in the county and west of the pike.



'Father' Love

A mother's instinct may not be restricted to mothers, or even females for that matter. Ambrose, the gentleman camel, is a case in point. Animal handlers at Africa USA near Boca Raton say Ambrose adopted a two-month-old zebra recently following Mama Zebra's death. The little striped fellow and Ambrose are inseparable now, they say.

Year-Long Boynton Study

$4,000 for Report Wasted, Planning Chairman Charges

By BILL BECK
Delray Bureau Chief

BOYNTON BEACH — The nearly $4,000 spent during the last year for a master city plan was "wasted," Walter Dutch, chairman of the Planning Board, charged Thursday.

"We're back where we started a year ago, less than $2,500 wasted to pay Consultant Anthony Pimentel and the cost of advertising," Dutch said.

The planning chief revealed that the board is scheduled to decide Saturday what to do with the results of the year-long study made by Pimentel and the now defunct Master Plan Commission.

"As I see it," Dutch said, "we have three choices: Forget about a master plan, start all over, or salvage what we can from Pimentel's plan. "If we choose the latter, we'll have darn little to start wtih."

Pimentel was given a $3,500 contract by the city Feb. 21 of last year. The contract called for a comprehensive study of 17 different aspects of city planning, including annexation, public works, schools, municipal buildings, land use, economics, parks and recreation, area treatment and budget improvements.

Dutch said that in one year — the time allotted for completion of the entire master plan — Pimentel completed his studies in only two of the 17 areas.

"All we have to show is a land use survey, which has never been turned over to the city, and a zoning ordinance, which the - city has invalidated," Dutch said.

The City Commission threw out the zoning ordinance Feb. 9 on the recommendation of the planning Board.

According to the board, the ordinance gave too many "discretionary powers" to the building inspector and the Master Plan Commission and was "unconstitutional" in the way it was advertised.

Pimentel resigned three days later rather than agree to revamp the ordinance as directed by the Planning Board.

Property Owners Vow: No Ramp

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Property owners in the Summa St. area — more than 100 of them — are up in arms over city plans to build a small boat ramp at the lakefront in that section.

They told The Herald Thursday they will submit petitions to the City Commission Monday opposing the installation, and if necessary, take their case to court.

The property owners first voiced opposition at a meeting of the commission last Monday which directed a committee to proceed with a study of plans for the construction of ramps at both the foot of Summa St. and the north side of Southern Blvd. Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Zeihmeyer, 140 Summa St. were among those who questioned the right of the city to build a boat ramp in an area where property owners are tightly restricted as to the type of homes they can build.

The Zeihmeyers and others contended the ramp would be detrimental to the rights of the property owners.

The opposition said Thursday circulation of the petitions opposing the ramp will continue through the week to show a solid front when they appear before the commission.

Opponents of the ramp also have a meeting slated Friday night at 134 Summa St. to further discuss plans for opposing the ramp.

City officials took the view that most public land along the lake has been gobbled up by private interests and that putting a ramp on city-owned property at Summa St. would be in the general public interest.

Employment Total Up

WEST PALM BEACH — Employment among non-farm workers showed an increase of 2.8 per cent in January over the preceding month, boosting the total to 53,550, the Florida State Employment Service reported Thursday.

More seasonal jobs was the reason given by the service for the increase in non-agricultural workers.

Unemployment compensation claims, the service said, skidded for the hotel industry, retail apparel and eating and drinking establishments, but claims against general contractors continued to rise in January.

City Publicity Bureau Proposal Is Endorsed By WPB, Ad Board

Chamber President Offers Plan

By ED PFISTER
Herald Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH — The City Advertising Commission Thursday proposed a plan for a "city publicity bureau" that would operate for the balance of the fiscal year, April 1-Oct. 1, for about $11,000.

BURNS

The idea won the immediate endorsement of present and former city commissioners and business and professional men who attended the joint city-Ad Board meeting in the George Washington Hotel.

It may also have the effect of repudiating long drawn out criticism of the Chamber of Commerce and the Ad Board by a local agency which apparently has tried to dictate the policies of both.

The proposal for the publicity bureau which would augment the city's tourist advertising program, was presented by C. Robert Burns, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

He offered the plan as a member of the Advertising Commission and proposed that the Ad Board and the chamber "match funds" to provide the $11,000 for the remaining six months of the fiscal year.

The publicity director would get about half, or $6,000 of the total appropriation, the balance going for clerical assistance and other expenses.

Burns suggested that a semi-retired ex-newspaperman or a former publicity man, who has been successful in his own field and "with a love and interest in the area" should be director.

He said a local man with such qualifications, whom he preferred not to name at the mement, would be available shortly before April 1, when the bureau could begin to operate.

He said he believed that on a trial basis for the balance of the fiscal year the man he had in mind would be willing to take on the job at the budget stated.

Present and former city officials concurred with opinions of Ad Board and chamber members that the bureau should be included in the Chamber of Commerce operation, rather than become a city department.

Dan Downey, first vice president of the C. of C. probably summed up the general attitude when he said that the reason he and other Chamber of Commerce representatives were present is because they do have a definite interest in the progress of the city.

He admitted to the link between the C. of C. and the AB Board, pointing out it had been sponsored by the chamber and had successfully carried out a program, and that "all of a sudden newspaper articles began to appear" critical of the two agencies.

He said, "We are tired of it."

Downey said the Chamber of Commerce has the facilities, the know how and the definite interest in carrying out a program promoting the city and would continue to accomplish it.

City Commissioner L. W. Kelloway said he had been in favor of the chamber-Ad Board program and his only criticism had been the lack of a publicity arm. He said the Burns proposal filled that need.

Averages 33 Points a Game

Basketball's a Ball For 5-Foot-4 Lass

By BILL BECK
Delray Bureau Chief

DELRAY BEACH — Luellyn Brown is well on her way today to making the girls' high school basketball records read like her personal diary.

The 15-year-old Carver High School star, who in her coach's opinion could "do pretty well on any boys' team in the state," finished the regular season Monday with a 53-point splurge against Pompano's Ely High School.

That's a good night, even for Luellyn. Good enough, in fact, to set a new school, conference and state record for points in a single game.

The worst she has done all season was 21 points against the same school earlier in the season.

Monday's 53 points brought her total for the 15-game regular season to 495, or an average of roughly 33 points a game—which is better than good in anybody's league.

"To really appreciate how good she is," said Coach Spencer Pompey, "you have to keep in mind how little she is, and that in every game she has at least two girls covering her."

According to Pompey, Luellyn handles a basketball "like she was born with one in her hand." And, she very nearly was. Her house is next door to the outdoor court and, said Pompey, "she has been playing just about every day since she was able to walk."

Luellyn weighs 104 pounds and at the height of five feet, four inches, reaches slightly better than half way to the basket.

To compensate for her size the youngster has "amazing speed," and "just about all the shots in the book," Pompey said.

Carver, which has a season record of 11 wins, three losses and one tie, plays Douglas High School of Key West today in the opening round of the Southeast Florida Conference Tournament at Vero Beach. Success at Vero Beach would send Carver into the state tourney at Fort Pierce.

Pompey is philosophical about the team's chances for a conference or state crown.

"If we don't make it this year, we'll have two more opportunities . . . you know, Luellyn is only a sophomore."

Stop Eating Your Heart To Death, Medics Warn

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Fat Americans were warned again to stop overeating and start exercising.

They were advised to take these steps, along with other "common sense" suggestions, by Dr. Irvine H. Page, director of research at the Cleveland Clinic. He, along with five other eminent scientists in the field of heart disease, presented a national report on "A Decade of Progress Against Cardiovascular Disease."

Dr. Page said that several factors seem to be involved in the formation of arteriosclerosis, the disease that hardens the arteries. In 1956, there were nearly 460,000 dieaths from this disease and related afflictions.

Heredity, elevated blood pressure, exercise, stress, sex, diet and indulgence seem to play some role in the hardening of arteries, Dr. Page said. If your cholesterol level is high, your doctor may recommend a change in dietary habits.

Long Hours Didn't Pay

DETROIT — (AP) — Ferd Clay worked seven days a week.

Mondays through Thursdays he went from door-to-door taking orders for bargain television sets, cameras, appliances and jewelry.

Friday through Sunday he spent filling the orders.

Detectives Alex Wierzbicki and Stanley Viciulius halted the routine. They arrested Clay and he was charged with burglary.

The detectives claimed Clay filled his orders by stealing the goods. They estimated the loot at $30,000 from 115 homes in northern Detroit and suburbs.

They said only about $2,000 in cash had been collected but that records showed Clay had another $8,000 in time payment coming.

Ex-Prime Minister on Lecture Tour of U.S.

Attlee's Wry Wit Leaves 'em Laughing and Glad He Came

By PAUL GAPP
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

VALPARAISO, Ind. — An Englishman with a bald head, a clipped accent and a wry sense of humor left 'em laughing.

Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee also left behind a load of political ideas for Valparaiso University students to debate.

Attlee dropped his quips on the campus while making a speech, eating lunch with local dignitaries and answering question at a press conference.

Sample (when asked how he likes American tea):

"We didn't care when you dumped it in Boston harbor but did you have to dredge it up and serve it back to us?"

That one got a big laugh.

Attlee, who's in the middle of a lecture tour, rattled off answers to questions with a clipped delivery so rapidly and choppily British that some people didn't understand him.

They were too polite to ask him to repeat.

These capsule comments came through loud and clear, however:

On diplomatic recognition of Red China: "If you expect a person to obey the rules of a club, you don't tell him he can't be a member, do you?"

On the Allies' lagging behind Russia in missile development: "If you already have something that can kill one million people, must you have something that can kill two million?"

On British and American methods of choosing political candidates: "We (the English) have no barefoot boys from Wall Street."

On Britain's race riots last fall: "We had a spot of them in a very bad part of London. It has passed over."

The students' reaction, was, as they say, mixed.

"He looks like my grandfather," said Mildred Anderson, 20, of Hyattsville, Md. "He's quite a showman, though, the way he used anecdotes and things."

"I think he's very human and warm," said Mary Ruprecht, 18, of Valparaiso. "He made me feel more secure about the strength of our government."

The former Laborite prime minister is now a member of the House of Lords.

3 Firms Reveal Projects

Plans Include 46,000 Houses

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — A housing boost of more than a half billion dollars for Brevard County's home-starved citizens was announced Thursday — a shot that will mean more than 46,000 new houses and apartments.

Three companies, spending a total of 675 million dollars, are supplying the impetus to put this guided missile base area's housing situation back in orbit.

The Mackle Co. of Miami, the William Seckendorff Corp. of New York and Magnuson Properties of Miami made almost simultaneous announcements of their huge projects.

Mackle is planning a 30,000 home development south of Melbourne that will cost 550 million dollars.

Magnuson has revealed plans for constructing 16,000 homes near Eau Gallie with a total development price tag of more than a hundred million dollars.

And Seckendorff's project calls for an undetermined number of garden apartments, homes and shopping centers on the Beach side of the Banana River south of Patrick Air Force Base.

Altogether, Brevard County will gain more than 52,000 acres of property for its tax rolls.

Mackle's development alone will cover 48,000 acres; Magnuson's will be laid out on 4,000 acres, and Seckendorff's apartments will start with a 427-acre tract.

Mackle's project will go up under the name of Port Malabar, and get underway this summer in the area between Palm Bay and Malabar.

It includes a half-mile frontage on U.S. Highway 1, running westward from Indian River for 13 miles to the St. John's River, and extending 12 miles north and south.

Port Malabar, according to the planners, will have recreation areas, an industrial park for light industry, community shopping areas and public bathing beaches, parks, yacht basins and yacht club.

Magnuson's development extends from Eau Gallie's northern limits to a point near Pineda, and will include homes on 20 miles of roadway. It, too, will have fishing facilities, boat docks and "a miniature Cypress Gardens."

Seckendorff's spokesmen said their project will be designed specifically to fill the need for more rental units in the area.

"There are many people coming here to work on missiles for short periods," the company said, "and they cannot find places to rent."

The apartments will be one and two bedroom affairs with their own shopping center, marina and golf course.

Hoffa Eyes Dearborn

DEARBORN, Mich. — (AP) — The Teamsters Union has made its first move in the Detroit area in a drive to organize millions of the nation's municipal workers.

The union's target is the suburban city of Dearborn. Teamsters Local 299 announced it would demand bargaining rights for 300 employes of the city.

Police and firemen are not among the workers the Teamsters are trying to organize. The union is restricting its drive to Dearborn's public works and sanitation departments employes.

Local 299 is Teamsters President James R. Hoffa's home local.

Former Legislator Is Convicted on Bribery Charges

BARTOW —(AP)— A criminal court jury Thursday night convicted former state legislator E. B. (Shorty) Jones of attempting to bribe Sheriff Hagan Parrish to permit a bolita syndicate to operate in Polk County.

The six-man jury reached its verdict after deliberating one hour and 20 minutes.

The stocky, wavy haired defendant wept and embraced his wife when the verdict was announced. His 13-year-old son broke into uncontrollable sobs and had to be helped from the court room.

Jones, after receiving the verdict, said he had nothing to say.

Defense Attorney Ellis Rubin asked for a poll of the jury. This was done and the verdict was affirmed.

Rubin then served notice he would seek a new trial. Judge Roy Amidon gave the attorney until March 9 to file formal papers. He set March 16 for a hearing on the motion. The judge deferred sentencing.

The jury received the case after three days of testimony. It deliberated 20 minutes, then returned to the courtroom and asked that portions of the testimony be read from the record.

This testimony concerned statements by Attorney J. Hardin Petersen Jr., about a meeting Jones had with Parrish and Petersen in Bartow, March 22, 1957.

Ths six jurors then returned to continue deliberating. They reached their verdict an hour later.

The defendant could receive up to five years in prison.

Jones denied from the witness stand that he offered the sheriff a bribe. The defendant, only state witness called in the case, said Parrish lied.

"The sheriff is mistaken," Jones testified. "He is not telling the truth, sir."

Parrish, star witness for the prosecution, testified Tuesday that Jones approached him several times in 1956 and 1957 and offered him $5,000 cash plus 10 per cent of the monthly bolita gross.

The sheriff said the offer first was made at a meeting in Winter Haven on Dec. 15, 1956. He said Jones offered him $3,000 at that time and $2,000 more "when the deal was cemented."

The defendant testified he once worked for Cecil Webb, wealthy Tampa miller and former head of the State Road Board. He said he knew of no connection between Webb and a lottery syndicate.

"Webb is one of the most honest men in Florida," Jones said. "He couldn't have had any interest in bolita."

Parrish and Petersen of Lakeland testified that Jones told them Webb was one of the "big men" behind the numbers racket.

Webb, reached at Thomasville, Ga., called the allegations ridiculous.

Bitter Chill Ends Talks In Russia

KIEV, U.S.S.R. — (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wound up their talks Thursday in an atmosphere of bitter chill. The British visitor warned Khrushchev of grave danger if anyone interferes with the Western powers' rights in Berlin.

"But Khrushchev is not budging an inch," a British spokesman said, "and Macmillan is not budging an inch, either. Make of that what you will."

Before flying here for a visit to the Ukraine, Macmillan told Khrushchev that interference without some alternative arrangement "would lead to a dangerous situation," the spokesman said.

Such alternative arrangements supposedly would meet the Soviet threat to turn over to East Germany the control of Allied lifelines to isolated Berlin. These would have to come through negotiations, in Macmillan's view.

But Khrushchev in his speech to a political rally in the Kremlin Tuesday heaped ridicule on the Western plan for negotiations at the foreign ministers' level. In that speech Khrushchev warned that any violations of East Germany's borders in a dispute over Berlin would be considered an act of aggression.

Despite the tenor of Khrushchev's remarks, the spokesman insisted in reply to a reporter's question that Macmillan does not believe the Soviet premier has shut the door on a foreign ministers' meeting.

"He left the door open," the spokesman said. "It was a small door, but the light is going through."

But the Kremlin speech, coming at the height of the British visit, so stung Macmillan that he thought of breaking off further talks and returning to London, British sources reported.

"But Mr. Macmillan came here to have talks with the Soviet leaders and to see the country," a British official said. "He had the talks and he decided he might as well see the country."

There will be a final meeting with Khrushchev Monday after Macmillan returns from visits to Kiev and Leningrad. But the British spokesman said there is nothing left to talk about except the wording of a final communique.

It had been expected that the Kiev trip would provide another opportunity for talks between the two leaders. But Khrushchev cancelled his plans to accompany Macmillan at the last moment and stayed in Moscow. There he received a delegation from Iraq.

Khrushchev told Macmillan at the meeting Thursday morning that "he had a tooth which required attention and he would have to give up the trip," the spokesman said.

The spokesman insisted that this was no breach of diplomatic courtesy, since Khrushchev had not originally planned to accompany Macmillan. But diplomats still wondered whether Khrushchev's toothache was real or diplomatic.

Balmy February Drawing Tourists Here in Droves

By GENE MILLER
And JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writers

You can't rent or beg a room at some of Miami Beach's top hotels.

You'd better eat early or very late if you want to avoid a long line at most eating places.

Rent a car? It's almost impossible now.

South Florida's do-or-die season is finally paying off.

Only a year ago goosebumped South Florida hotelmen were crying frozen tears.

But if this February stays warm just two more days, the month will go down as the warmest on record.

Specifically:

	1959	1958
Average Temp.	74.5	60

And with the sun, Miami Beach's fears of a 1958-like bankruptcy rash have bleached.

Hotel business is up strong, airlines are hauling in more customers, and the car rental gang is going great.

Not everyone, of course, has banished all thoughts of the poorhouse forever. But the key indicators show the 1959 season is generally far ahead of 1958 and within shouting distance of the lush 1957 days.

One clothier came up with a neat left-handed comment.

"More people are here than ever before. But the weather's too nice for shopping."

A Herald reporter telephoned 16 hotels and motels and asked for accommodations for two for Saturday through Tuesday.

Four — the Eden Roc, Fontainebleau, Diplomat and Deauville — politely said no soap, we're full.

The Americana, Carillon, Montmarte, Delano, Driftwood, Golden Gate, Dunes, Castaways, Thunderbird, Tangiers, Saxony and the Delano said they could oblige.

"The pressure is off temporarily," said Delano Owner John Goldberg. "We didn't have a room to sell last week and we probably won't again next week.

"The last couple of days in the month always have a psychological effect. People go home and new people come in."

But the thing to remember is that occupancy is running 70, 80 and 90 per cent — at top prices.

The Carillon, for example, is renting out its space at $33 a head a day.

Up-to-the-week figures from some airlines show this February has already flown passed its well-cooled counterpart last year.

Reported Delta: In-bound passengers in February, 1958, 11,832. In-bound this year with four days uncounted, 12,145.

Reported Pan American: February, 1958, 24,988. Twenty days this February showed 20,000.

National said its in-bound load was up 12 per cent.

Eastern estimates business is up "10 per cent or so" this month and figures to boost its 180 in-and-out flights a day to 200 this March.

New Herald Edition To Expand Coverage

The Miami Herald is taking another step to keep pace with the rapidly-growing Middle East Coast of Florida. Effective today, The Herald will publish two separate editions daily instead of one for the area covering Brevard, Indian River, St. Lucie and Martin counties.

One edition will be devoted to Brevard County, perhaps the fastest growing area in the state. The other edition will cover Indian River, St. Lucie and Martin counties.

The two editions will make it possible to provide readers in the four counties with greatly expanded news and picture coverage of their area.

The Herald now has two local news bureaus, with full-time reporters, and four correspondents in the four-county area.

American Sailors Investigate Break In Atlantic Cable

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The U.S. Navy put a boarding party on a Russian fishing trawler in the North Atlantic Thursday to find out if the vessel was responsible for damage to five U.S. transatlantic cables.

Acting under an 1884 treaty to which czarist Russia was a party, sailors from the destroyer escort Roy O. Hale boarded the Soviet ship Novorossisk which was lying about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland.

Early Thursday night the Defense Department announced that the boarding party had returned to the American vessel, which then headed for Argentia, Newfoundland. The Soviet ship started traveling on a northerly course at 10 knots.

The Defense Department said it had not yet received a detailed report from the Hale, commanded by Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. Korte.

The unusual action was ordered after the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Western Union reported that breaks had occurred in five cables along the course in which the Soviet ship has been operating.

All the breaks were within a 50-mile area at the edge of the continental shelf, about 195 miles east of Newfoundland, in about 1,000 feet of water, the companies said.

The department said the first report of damage to the cables was received last Saturday. By Wednesday four other reports had been received of additional cables being damaged or put out of service.

Offhand, there appeared to be no military advantage that would result from wilful breaking of the cables in peacetime. They carry commercial messages for the large part.

There was no report from any Soviet source or on Moscow Radio late Thursday night on the boarding of the trawler.

This boarding conceivable could stir up serious new trouble with Russia.

Experts said the most frequent cause of damage to cables in the area is from the boards used by trawlers to keep their nets open as they are dragged along the bottom to scoop up fish.

The Defense Department did not say who actually ordered the boarding, taken under a treaty known as "the convention for the protection of submarine cables of 1884."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower was advised before the official announcement that a warship had been sent to the area. But he said the President did not give the boarding order and had no further information.

A spokesman for the State Department said only that the department was fully informed and approved the boarding.

The Defense Department said the 1884 treaty "authorizes examination by naval ships of official documents of other ships suspected of damaging and interfering with cables under the high seas."

Under the treaty, any action against the Russian ship would be up to the Soviet Union after it has received the U.S. Navy's report.

Cuba Asks Extradition Of Eight

HAVANA — (AP) — Cuba formally asked the Dominican Republic Thursday to arrest eight high officials of the ousted Fulgencio Batista regime now in exile in that Caribbean country.

Cuba demanded their extradition on charges of robbery and misuse of public funds.

Cuba has already requested — thus far in vain — the extradition of Batista, who also is in exile in the Dominican Republic.

A note from Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte to Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican ambassador to Cuba, said the fully documented charges to supplement the request would be forthcoming in 60 days, as required under an extradition agreement between the two countries.

Ten ex-Batista soldiers were excuted Thursday, bringing to 343 the unofficial total shot by revolutionary firing squads after conviction on war crimes charges.

They were executed at Matanzas, Holguin and Pinar del Rio.

Medical History of a Child Ignored by Parents

Life Too Painful, Boy Became a Machine

CHICAGO — (AP) — Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed at night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran through the day and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "bam!" The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancied machinery idle or broken down:

"For long periods of time . . . he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation . . . We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his "calamity could befall a child in any time and culture but our own."

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents. He gave this account:

The parents didn't mistreat Joey but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or non-eating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was nine years old. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Joey reverted to a partially human stage — but as an infant. He made drawings showing himself inside an auto with a group he named the Carr family. He was still inclosed, but was with others and could move around. Still later he pictured himself driving the car.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Southern Rhodesia Acts

Whites Move to Head Off Surge of African Natives

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia —(AP)— White authorities threw up a legal roadblock Thursday to bar from this British territory the Nationalist unrest surging across much of Africa.

Prime Minister Sir Edgar Whitehead declared a state of emergency and outlawed Rhodesian branches of the African National Congress, spearhead of a native movement to break white political control.

Police raiding squads rounded up scores of Congress leaders and other Negroes under a tactical plan drawn up two months ago.

Whitehead announced that police arrested between 250 and 500 persons involved in what he called a vain attempt to undermine the loyalty of the government's African employes. He said he is confident the roundup will be completed soon.

Under the state of emergency, his government can detain anyone for a month. It bans gatherings of more than three persons, sets a curfew and prohibits publication of information about Southern Rhodesia's security forces.

Whitehead said many of the Congress officials are jobless youths with criminal records and bloodshed might result if they continued to carry on a campaign of intimidation. Appealing for the people to go about their business as usual, he said:

"The government believes that, with the removal of those responsible for stirring up strife, the emergency will be very brief."

Two of the prisoners, are James Chikerema, acting president of the Congress in Southern Rhodesia, and George Nyandoro, the general secretary.

Britain called off a projected visit of the Earl of Perth, minister of state in the London Colonial Office, to talk over a future constitution for self-governing territory and its partners in the sprawling Central African Federation, a rich, landlocked member of the British Commonwealth. The earl was to have flown from London Thursday.

Northern Rhodesia and the protectorate of Nyasaland are other components of the federation, made up of eight million Negroes and 257,000 white settlers.

Nyasaland disorders have threatened to develop into a head-on clash between Negroes and whites.

These are part of a series of riots and other incidents that have cast a menacing shadow this week across the French Congo, Belgian Congo, Italian-run Somalia, the Central African Federation and South Africa. Their only apparent link is a restless surge for independence.

A senior Rhodesian official said a strike of Africans employed on the huge Zambesi River hydroelectric project had assumed a definitely political aspect. About 7,000 men are involved. The strike was launched by African laborers for higher wages after a recent accident in which 14 Africans and three white men were killed.

The laborers, paid the equivalent of 4½ cents an hour, asked for 14 cents. They rejected the contracting company's offer of seven cents.

With work on the dam at a standstill, the strikers have stoned buildings and vehicles. Members of the Nyasaland African National Congress were reported directing the operations from a hideout in the bush.

Zwillman Took Only Way Out?

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

Did Abner (Longie) Zwillman hang himself in his 20-room West Orange, N. J., mansion to keep from appearing before the Senate racket probe?

Miamians who heard that he had committed suicide Thursday recalled his many trips here in the late 1940s, believe that is the answer. The Senate group now is going into coin-machine rackets and protection. Zwillman headed a company handling cigaret vending machines.

One of his partners recently was questioned about Zwillman before the Senate group.

Zwillman was a familiar figure around Miami Beach for a time, but Daniel P. Sullivan, operating director of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami, doesn't believe he actually "operated here." His friends included Jack Friedlander, once credited with being the "Mr. Big" of Dade County gambling. Friedlander now has migrated to Havana gambling.

He was also a buddy of Nicky Delmore, who put a lot of his racket money in a big real estate enterprise at Fort Pierce, until The Herald identified him to his new neighbors there. Then he moved out.

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmen in New Jersey the 54-year-old prohibition era figure had been depressed since a Senate Rackets Committee began delving into the coin-machine industry.

Zwillman owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., which handled cigaret machines.

His wife, Mary, whose finishing school background contrasted with Zwillman's early life in Newark's slums, found the body in a basement storage room at their fashionable home.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide. He said Zwillman used a plastic-covered clothesline.

The rope was attached to a beam eight feet from the floor. Zwillman's knees were slightly buckled and his toes almost touched the floor.

Although linked with the rackets by various law enforcement agencies and officials for years, Zwillman served only a single prison sentence — six months for assault and battery in 1928.

Only last week a grand jury indicted several persons in connection with alleged bribing of jurors on the deadlocked panel that tried Zwillman for income tax evasion in 1956. He was accused of evading the payment of $38,911 in income taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Zwillman was particularly unhappy, Steinbach said, about any embarrassment publicity would cause his wife and daughter, Lynn.

Speed Trap Is Denied by Georgians

LUDOWICI, Ga. — (UPI) — Officials of Ludowici and Long County hotly denied Thursday allegations of a Cleveland Auto Club that speed traps, including a quick-changing traffic light, are operated in their areas.

Ludowici City Attorney Ralph L. Dawson, called charges by Harold T. Cantlin, manager of the Cleveland club "untrue."

Long County Sheriff W. M. Jones admitted that "we occasionally do operate speed devices" but added that not many tourists have been arrested in his county on speed charges.

The verbal tiff was touched off when the Cleveland Auto Club announced adoption of a "shun Eastern Georgia" policy because of the increasing number of arrests of Florida-bound motorists in speed traps.

Cantlin said some 12,000 members who ask each year for routings to Florida will be sent via a bypass route. The new route was not announced for fear that deputy sheriffs will learn of it and shift their speed trap activities.

He said members are warned of the "high enforcement area" in the 50-mile section of U. S. Route 301 from Sylvania, Ga., south to the Florida line at Folkston, Ga.

Dulles Talks With Aides On Berlin

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred at Walter Reed Army Hospital for an hour or more Thursday with three top State Department officials on the developing difficulties with Russia over Berlin.

A State Department spokesman said Dulles had a "general discussion" with the officials.

Presumably the discussion covered the virtual breakdown of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Moscow talks with Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the critical Berlin problem

Dulles requested the conference which brought to his hospital room Acting Secretary Christian Herter, Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy and Assistant Secretary Livingston T. Merchant. They are the three department officials most concerned with the Berlin problem.

It was the longest and largest meeting Dulles has participated in since he entered Walter Reed Hospital Feb. 10. He is undergoing x-ray treatments for cancer.

Dulles arranged the conference after the news broke that Macmillan and Khrushchev had come to the end of their talks without any agreement or more hopeful approach toward a solution of the East-West difficulties over Berlin.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

GENE MORI gave a party at Hialeah Park. 'Twas basically a breakfast for turf writers, but he included me in. The town's hummin' these days, with the Flamingo comin' up Saturday and baseball just down the road.

BELL

No place in Miami is so picturesque as Hialeah Park on a sunny morning. Prancing thoroughbreds come onto the track by the dozens, gallop as they tug at the bit, begging the exercise boys to turn them loose. Most of them wind up doing the full speed chore singly. But occasionally you'll see a real hoss race.

Exercise boys don't wear the flaming stable colors you see when the pari-mutuel windows open. But they sing and chatter and have lots more fun than the official jocks. The flamingos usually sit quietly, making a brilliant pink island in the lake. Swans, ducks, occasional wild bird visitors and big coveys of grackles keep the infield alive.

Up in the grandstand at the finish wire sit clockers, make believe clockers and just plain kibitzers. Some of of them, I'm told, know every horse in the barns. But I've a hunch they get a bit of workout inventory.

P.S. The breakfast was super—with the biggest strawberries I ever saw.

Teachers' Bane

'You Can't Spank Me, So--Boo!'

ALBANY, N.Y. — (AP) — Teachers are subjected to heckling, catcalls and boos — even in an all-girl school — because the pupils are immune from spankings in school, a 16-year-old girl reports.

Susan Stalcup, a junior at Julia Richman High School, in New York City, says that is the situation in her school. Despite objections of some adults, she wants teachers given the right to use corporal punishment.

She testified at a state legislative hearing.

New York state law authorizes teachers to use moderate force in disciplining pupils, but local school boards may restrict that privilege. A New York City regulation bars all corporal punishment. A bill before the Legislature would forbid localities to make such rules.

But a low pressure circulation off the Carolina Coast maintained a few patches of rain from South Carolina to the southern Virginia coast. Temperatures: mid 30s under sunny skies over much of New England ranging to the mid 80s in Florida.

Sunny skies stretched from the central Appalachians into the central plains with temperatures warming into the 50s before mid day. But moisture spreading inland from the western Gulf of Mexico contributed rains over much of Texas with quarter inch hail accompanying a thunderstorm over midland Texas. Rain and snow fell over portions of Illinois and southern Michigan with snow over parts of Wisconsin and northern Michigan.

Most of the southwest remained sunny. Rain lingered over Washington state. A cold front across the northern Rockies and trailing westward into Oregon marked the advance of Pacific air spreading a few patches of snow across the Rockies with rain and snow reaching the Dakotas.

2 Dredges Busy; Deepen, Widen Inland Waterway

VERO BEACH—Two dredges now are expanding the intracoastal waterway through Indian River County.

The waterway is being enlarged to a depth of at least 12 feet and a width of 125 feet, according to D. P. Jackson, project manager for Western Contracting Corp., Sioux City, Iowa. They are contractors for the work under the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

One of their subcontractors is Norfolk Dredging Co., which began its part of the project about a mile north of the Wabasso Bridge and is working southward.

Western began dredging Indian River about two miles north of the Merrill P. Barber Bridge at Vero Beach and now is working east of Vero Isles.

The projects will enlarge the waterway to about four and one-half miles south of Vero Beach.

Another subcontractor, Arundel Corp., is expected to take up the work there in April, Jackson said.

5,300 Acres of Oranges

Climate Swung Grove to County

By ANNE WILDER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE—Climate and quality were the factors which led to the selection of St. Lucie County as the site of the new 5,300 acre Valencia grove to be planted by the Minute Maid Corporation, 15 miles west of Fort Pierce, according to William J. Jones, who manages the corporation's grove holdings.

Jones, and key production men, were here this week for a session which included a look at the land which will be the site of the world's largest Valencia grove.

"We looked over two or three hundred thousand acres of land before selecting the site," Jones said. "There were two basic reasons for the selection. First, for the past 50 to 75 years the area has been free of freeze damage. We operate in 21 counties and last year, for instances, in some spots there was 30 to 70% damage to trees.

Also, Jones said, the corporation's research convinced them that the Indian River area fruit was not only premium fruit as far as external quality is concerned, but was the finest for internal quality.

"We have 1,000 acres of grove in St. Lucie County already," Jones said. "And we know that the Indian River area produces the finest fruit. Because our entire operation is geared to produce the finest quality concentrate we are looking for the finest quality fruit."

For Fort Pierce and St. Lucie county, the planting of a big grove to the west, outside the established drainage districts, is considered of special significance by citrus growers.

County Agent Charles Kime predicted several years ago that one day citrus was going to burst the bounds of the established drainage districts and move west.

While some citrus has been planted outside the two districts, this is the first big for the grove are being worked this far to the west.

Jones said that the drainage and water conservation plans for the grove are being worked out in cooperation with the Central and South Florida Flood Control District, and the army engineers.

The Valencia stock to be planted is being raised by Minute Maid in its own nurseries. Jones commented that the corporation is working closely with the USDA on rootstock trials, and is conducting some of these trials in the groves it owns in St. Lucie County.

Work on clearing the land and installing the necessary drainage is due to start in three weeks, and the corporation's target is to have the entire grove planted in two years.

The group in Fort Pierce for the meeting included Cecil Henderson of Orlando, assistant manager; Harold Garrett, of Winter Haven, manager of the southeastern division; R. H. Freeman, of Orlando, manager of the north central division; H. S. Walcott of Lake Alfred, manager of the east central division; Ross V. Swartsel of Mt. Dora, manager of the northern division.

Also, Wayne Bryant, of Lakeland, manager of the west central division; William Jewell of Avon Park, who will be manager of the Fort Pierce division; M. S. White of Ft. Meade, head of building and equipment; E. R. Johnston of Dr. Phillips, head of the fertilizer division; and Dr. A. E. Wilson of Orlando, manager of the soils and horticulture division.

City Sets Deal for Water

Herald Service

STUART—Water for Hutchinson Island came a bit nearer reality this week when the Stuart city commission agreed to enter into negotiations with the Florida Water and Utilities Co. to sell water at wholesale.

The commission, within 45 days, will present a proposal to the water company setting forth minimum and maximum costs of wholesale water and other conditions.

Black & Associates of Gainesville are working with the commission on the proposal. The city was granted a water franchise from the county several years ago.

At the time the new bridges were constructed water pipe hangars were placed on the bridge.

A new subdivision regulations and plat law was finally passed by the commission, after years of study and requests that such an ordinance be passed.

The commission repealed all setback regulations in commerical one and two zoning areas, and adopted one ordinance covering C-1 and C-2.

The commission will also continue negotiations with Kenneth Harris, owner of the Commodore Hotel, to purchase a lot for offstreet parking.

Most of the hotel was destroyed by fire in January. The city offered Harris $30,000 for the lot. City coffers now contain $13,000 in the parking meter fund to be used for offstreet parking facilities.

But Spread Cost, Report Urges

Erosion Controls Found Essential

Loan Held Too Great For District

Entire County To Reap Benefits

By ANNE WILDER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — The Fort Pierce Beach Erosion District supervisors were told Thursday that beach erosion control is economically feasible — and of great economic importance to the area — but that the present small Beach erosion district cannot possibly shoulder the annual financial burden of $85,000 to $95,000 which the program will require.

The recommendation came in a report presented by W. Turner Wallis of Tallahassee, who has been retained to study the tax structure of the district.

Turner recommended that efforts to enlarge the scope of the district, now confined to the Fort Pierce South Beach Island, be started immediately. His appraisal study showed that benefits from erosion control would be of great financial importance to the entire county.

Wallis said that, without erosion control, the Beach can expect to lose as much as 130 acres of ocean frontage in the next 40 years. He said the shoreline will recede 350 feet at some points, and set the property loss at over four million based on conservative figures. In addition, he pointed to other indirect losses which would result.

In discussing possible expansion of the erosion taxing district, Wallis commented that the expansion might include the eastern part of the county, as the area getting the most mainland benefit from erosion control.

M. A. Ramsey, chairman of the erosion district, said he felt the Wallis report gave the supervisors the necessary ammunition to start working for a larger erosion district. He also recommended that supervisors institute some interim anti-erosion measures, while efforts to enlarge the district are made. He commented that enlarging the district is something that will take a lot of time.

Fort Pierce Beach residents have long held that erosion is a countywide problem, and that its cost should not be borne by Beach residentsa lone.

Supervisors will outline specific action at their regular meeting next Monday.

At the meeting held Thursday, Earl MacGrath was elected a supervisor to fill the position of Judge Leo Hegarty, who resigned earlier this month.

Judge Reports

Get Tough Policy With Juveniles Is Paying Off

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Correspondent

STUART—A "get tough" policy on juvenile delinquents is paying off, according to Juvenile Court Judge Evans Crary Jr.

Formerly, youthful offenders got a "slap on the wrist," and were told to "go and sin no more."

Judge Crary told The Herald that first offenders will be dealt with firmly but with consideration. However, he added, if a juvenile persists in breaking laws immediate corrective action will be taken.

"Members of the press are always welcome in my court, and have my full permission to publish names of offenders," Judge Crary said.

"I believe in strong discipline, backed up by the power of public opinion," Judge Crary added. He said that he would request that the press omit names of first offenders.

If, said the judge, the juveniles become habitual offenders or are involved in serious crimes their names and the names of their parents should appear in the paper.

A wave of breaking and entering and thefts occurred here during October and November. Sheriff Roy C. Baker said many cases involved Martin County youths.

This week Judge Crary sentenced Clyde Sarver, 17, to Marianna for possession of an automobile while intoxicated and other charges. The youth had been making his home in Stuart with step-grandparents.

"Skipping school," once a popular pastime, no longer enjoys the same popularity. Judge Crary deals with truancy very firmly.

Judge Crary rapped delinquent parents who leave discipline up to the school officials and the court.

40-Ft. Boat Burns To the Water Line

JUPITER ISLAND — A 40-foot yacht owned by Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Edwards of Georgetown, S. C. caught fire Wednesday and burned to the water line.

The Edwardses and J. E. Alderman, also of Georgetown, were heading north on the inland waterway when fire broke out in the hatch.

They beached the boat, the Tomarlee, on the east side of the river and jumped overboard.

The three were rescued by Cliff Fox of Jupiter Island.

The Jupiter Island Fire Department was called but couldn't reach the boat until it drifted toward the drawbridge. The boat was a total loss.

The owners and their guest lost all their personal belongings.

Hospital Funds Drive to Start

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Correspondent

STUART — On March 8, 1939, the "new" building of the Martin County Hospital, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. William Barstow and Mrs. Verner Z. Reed of Jupiter Island, was dedicated.

The new high school band made its debut at the ceremony. The director was absent and Ralph W. Hartman Jr., then 15, wielded the baton.

On the 20th anniversary of the hospital dedication volunteers in a drive to raise a million-dollar hospital expansion fund, will hold a kickoff dinner at the Stuart Women's Club building.

On hand will be the substitute band director of 1939, now a real estate broker, civic leader, and a member of the hospital board of directors.

D. S. Hudson and Edwin A. Menninger are the only two members of the original board who are still serving. Judge A. O. Kanner, the first attorney for the hospital, is now a board member.

The "then and now" story of the hospital, officers said, clearly demonstrates the needs for more space and equipment.

In its first year the operating budget was $18,700, revenue was $11,700, and the payroll was about $805 per month. Last year the budget was $118,609, revenue was $215,807, and the payroll was $11,000 a month.

In 1939 a private room cost $10 a day, an X-ray technician received $80 a month, the director of nurses got $100 and the cost of a "hospital day" was figured at $7.84.

Now a private room is $18 per day, an X-ray technician gets $300, the director of nurses from $400 to $600 and a hospital day cost has risen to $25.74.

There were 33 births during the first year of the hospital's operation. The name of Dr. V. W. Bruns was the only one appearing on the records.

Last year, in the same facilities, there were 332 births. The hospital now has six physicians and two surgeons on its medical staff.

Get More Exercise

Stop Eating Your Heart To Death, Medics Warn

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Fat Americans were warned again to stop overeating and start exercising.

They were advised to take these steps, along with other "common sense" suggestions, by Dr. Irvine H. Page, director of research at the Cleveland Clinic. He, along with five other eminent scientists in the field of heart disease, presented a national report on "A Decade of Progress Against Cardiovascular Disease."

Dr. Page said that several factors seem to be involved in the formation of arteriosclerosis, the disease that hardens the arteries. In 1956, there were nearly 460,000 dieaths from this disease and related afflictions.

Heredity, elevated blood pressure, exercise, stress, sex, diet and indulgence seem to play some role in the hardening of arteries, Dr. Page said. If your cholesterol level is high, your doctor may recommend a change in dietary habits.

Long Hours Didn't Pay

DETROIT — (AP) — Ferd Clay worked seven days a week.

Mondays through Thursdays he went from door-to-door taking orders for bargain television sets, cameras, appliances and jewelry.

Friday through Sunday he spent filling the orders.

Detectives Alex Wierzbicki and Stanley Viciulius halted the routine. They arrested Clay and he was charged with burglary.

The detectives claimed Clay filled his orders by stealing the goods. They estimated the loot at $30,000 from 115 homes in northern Detroit and suburbs.

They said only about $2,000 in cash had been collected but that records showed Clay had another $8,000 in time payment coming.

Can't Smell; Wins $9,800

LONDON —(AP)— A high court judge has ruled that losses of the senses of smell and taste are worth 3,500 pounds ($9,800) to 50-year-old Eileen McLaughlin.

The judgment was against Motorist Derek Fitness, whose car injured Miss McLaughlin to the extent, she testified, that she can't smell a rose or frying bacon and all food tastes the same.

Ex-Prime Minister on Lecture Tour of U.S.

Attlee's Wry Wit Leaves 'em Laughing and Glad He Came

By PAUL GAPP

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

VALPARAISO, Ind. — An Englishman with a bald head, a clipped accent and a wry sense of humor left 'em laughing.

Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee also left behind a load of political ideas for Valparaiso University students to debate.

Attlee dropped his quips on the campus while making a speech, eating lunch with local dignitaries and answering question at a press conference.

Sample (when asked how he likes American tea):

"We didn't care when you dumped it in Boston harbor but did you have to dredge it up and serve it back to us?"

That one got a big laugh.

Attlee, who's in the middle of a lecture tour, rattled off answers to questions with a clipped delivery so rapidly and choppily British that some people didn't understand him.

They were too polite to ask him to repeat.

These capsule comments came through loud and clear, however:

On diplomatic recognition of Red China: "If you expect a person to obey the rules of a club, you don't tell him he can't be a member, do you?"

On the Allies' lagging behind Russia in missile development: "If you already have something that can kill one million people, must you have something that can kill two million?"

On British and American methods of choosing political candidates: "We (the English) have no barefoot boys from Wall Street."

On Britain's race riots last fall: "We had a spot of them in a very bad part of London. It has passed over."

The students' reaction, was, as they say, mixed.
